Crown Attorney Jordon based his contention as to the rightness of the charge on the blood test cases results, pointing out that in other cases a concentration of 1.5 part alcohol per thousand in the blood was considered enough for intoxication. Magistrate Gee accepted the theory that fatigue and whiskey were equal factors in causing the damage. The accused was fined $100 and $17.50 costs or three months on the charge.

Defence Spending Essential For Time

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Chamber of Commerce has predicted that "reasonable" defence spending will be essential for some time to come.

The chamber, in its annual submission to the cabinet, warned Monday against a "too easy optimism" that would lead to weakening of defences on "slight evidence of real improvement in the international situation."

A spokesman for the delegation said Prime Minister St. Laurent had commented favorably on this view and had declared the peace and security of Canada must be the government's prime consideration.

Fox Bites Woman

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP)—A fox was tracked down and killed near here after it "took a running start and jumped three feet high" to bite a woman. Mrs. Lua Carnes was bitten savagely Monday on the arm by the fox. She was treated with rabies vaccine.

High Blood Pressure

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC radio commentator Elmer Davis, former chief of the office of war information, is leaving the air for several weeks because of high blood pressure. Davis announced this during his news program Monday night, saying "I am not leaving on account of political pressure or economic pressure—only on account of blood pressure."

Von Paulus Returns To E. Germany

BERLIN (AP)—The East German government radio announced tonight the return from Soviet captivity of former German field marshal Friedrich von Paulus. He has been a man of mystery since he surrendered to the Russians at Stalingrad in February, 1943.

The radio said von Paulus will take up residence in the Soviet occupation zone of Germany.

There has been speculation that the 63-year-old general may take over command of East Germany's armed forces, the people's police, once it is set up as a national army. This is expected if the Western European nations complete ratification of the European defence treaty.

Von Paulus was commander of the German 6th Army in the battle for Stalingrad. The surrender of the German forces was one of the turning points in favor of the Allies in the Second World War.

German war prisoners released recently from the Soviet Union said von Paulus has been a teacher of military tactics in Russia. Today's broadcast scotched reports that he had been sentenced to 25 years in prison for failure to convert Germans to communism.

Rotary Club Hears Inspector

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — Public School Inspector for Northumberland, Charles W. Young, B. A., was guest speaker at the Monday luncheon of the Rotary Club. Mr. Young was introduced by Rotarian Arnold Bright.

Mr. Young, who formally was principal of Petrolia and Welland schools, discussed the Niagara Penninsula, with special emphasis on its history and beauty.

The old stockade was built at Fort Erie in 1764 by the British. It was formerly the site of a fur trading post. In the war of 1812-14, it was captured by the Americans, who were stopped at Lundy's Lane.

Fort George at the mouth of the river was built in 1797 and restored in 1939. The first parliament of Upper Canada met here. The nearby village of Niagara-on-the-Lake was founded by a group of U.E. Loyalist soldiers known as Butler's Rangers. About 40 soldiers received grants of 200 to 3000 acres each according to rank.

The elevation of Lake Erie is 572 feet above sea level and Lake Ontario 246 feet. This drop is largely accomplished by the falls, which is 162 feet high on the Canadian side. The Horseshoe Falls has a flow of about 114 million gallons of water per minute. The Canadian falls can develop five million horse power of electric energy.

Rotarion W. A. Kingston thanked the speaker for his interesting talk.

Shop Broken Into Petty Cash Taken

LINDSAY (ENS) — Lindsay police are investigating a break-in at a welding shop situated behind the station house of Cambridge street. The offense apparently occurred sometime on Sunday or Sunday night, according to chief John Hunter.

The police report states that Rudolf Zehethofer, the owner of the shop reported Monday that the shop had been entered and some $3 to $4 in petty cash taken. Entry to the shop was through a window that had been previously broken. The jagged pieces of glass had been removed from the frame, according to chief of police, but no finger prints were visible. Nothing else had been taken from the shop.

Third Charge Of Rioting May Be Laid

A further charge of rioting may be laid in connection with last Friday night's brawl at Curve Lake, Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, said in magistrate's court Monday.

He was speaking on a charge of creating a disturbance against Isaac Taylor and Grant Shilling, of Curve Lake, who were arrested by OPP officers at the scene of the donnybrook. It was reported that between 20 and 30 took part in the fight.

Taylor and Shilling were remanded to Thursday.

Two carloads of OPP officers were needed to disperse the battlers. When the first cruiser appeared, the brawlers seemed to be ready to turn on the police and forget personal differences. Arrival of the second car changed their minds.

Only two, Taylor and Shilling, were arrested. Police described them as the ringleaders. Reason for the fight was not known.

26 Final Death Toll In Mine Explosion

SERAING, Belgium (AP)—The final death toll from an explosion and fire in the Charbonnages du Many coal mine here has been set at 26 killed.

Of the 40 Belgian and Italian miners trapped by the blast Friday, only 14 escaped. All but one of these were treated in hospital for burns.

TRIO EXECUTED — In Tehran, Iran, blindfolds are tied on two of three sailors executed at Khorramshar Naval barracks for attempting to set fire to their warship. Hooshang Noosheh (background) refused the blindfold. The three naval enlisted men were accused of tossing oil-soaked rags onto the ammunition lockers of the Babr, but the sabotage was discovered in time to prevent much damage.

Town On Edge As Baby-Sitter Disappears

LACROSSE, Wis. (AP) — Lacrosse was an uneasy town Monday night, a town where parents of 'teen-age girls stirred restlessly at strange noises, where everyone stayed home because there were no baby-sitters.

This was the town of 50,000 where 15-year-old Evelyn Hartley, daughter of a college professor, disappeared Saturday night while baby-sitting so a family could attend a football game.

Rewards totalling $450 have been posted for information leading to the arrest of Miss Hartley's abductor. All law-enforcement agencies in this county joined forces in the search for the man who apparently forced a basement window at the Viggo Rasmusen home and spirited her away.

NO TANGIBLE CLUES

There were no tangible clues.

Bloodstains on the outside of the Rasmusen home and on other houses in the vicinity were analyzed.

"We have a few things," said laboratory director Charles Wilson. "Perhaps we have some fingerprints. We will check over what we have and make a detailed report later."

Lacrosse police checked known sex offenders most of the night. Each had an alibi. Three other men picked up for questioning were released. All officers admitted clues "were very slim."

Personal Pictures Of European Trip Shown To Rotary

Harland Keefer, recently returned from a journey abroad, including the 1953 Rotary International Conference in Paris, addressed Rotarians at their luncheon Monday, and showed color stills of various European views.

In his repertoire of pictures were shots of the Coronation, as well as scenic views of northern England, Scotland, Paris, Switzerland, and Italy.

More than 10,000 Rotarians from 76 countries were present in Paris for the convention. All forms of race, creed and color were united amiably, befitting the slogan of Rotarian World Unity. Some of the main speakers at the convention spoke in as many as 12 languages, and the problem of the language barrier was eased by the installation of numerous interpreters throughout the conference buildings.

VISIT TO VERSAILLES

Of special note, said Keefer, was a visit made to the Formal Gardens in Versailles where a night program of ballet and fire-dancing was witnessed beneath the open sky. Another highpoint was the presentation of the "Little Children of the Wooden Cross," a choir composed of 300 child singers.

Two new members were introduced to Rotary at the luncheon. They were William H. Lattau, manager of the Bell Telephone office here, and Malcolm Campbell, of Martin Hewitt Co.

ATTACK ON THE SOUTH OF FRANCE — BALKAN CONVULSIONS—THE PROBLEM IN GREECE

Liberating Normandy was a supreme event in the European Campaign of 1914, but it was only one of several concentric strokes upon Nazi Germany. In the east the Russians were flooding into Poland and the Balkans, and in the south Alexander's armies in Italy were pressing towards the river Po. Decisions had now to be taken about our next move in the Mediterranean, and it must be recorded with regret that these occasioned the first important divergence on high strategy between ourselves and our American friends.

The design for final victory in Europe had been outlined in prolonged discussion at the Teheran Conference in November 1943. First and foremost we had promised to carry out Overlord. Here was the dominating task, and no one disputed that here lay our prime duty. But we still wielded powerful forces in the Mediterranean, and the question had remained, "What should they do?" We had resolved that they should capture Rome, whose near-by airfields were needed for bombing Southern Germany. This accomplished, we planned to advance up the peninsula as far as the Pisa-Rimini line, and there hold as many enemy divisions as possible in Northern Italy. This however was not all. A third operation was also agreed upon, namely, an amphibious landing in the south of France, and it was on this project that controversy was about to descend. It was originally conceived as a feint or threat to keep German troops on the Riviera and stop them joining the battles in Normandy, but at Teheran the Americans had pressed for a real attack by ten divisions and Stalin had supported them. I accepted the change, largely to prevent undue diversions to Burma, although I contemplated other ways of exploiting success in Italy, and the plan had been given the code-name Anvil.

One thing was plain: it was no use landing in the south of France unless we did so at the right time. Once we joined battle in Normandy Anvil's value was much reduced, because Hitler was not likely to detach troops from the main struggle in the north for the sake of keeping his hold on Provence. If we invaded the Riviera at all, we must do so at the same time as or just before we landed in Normandy, and this was what we intended to do when we made our plans at Teheran.

A second condition also governed Anvil's usefulness. Many of the forces needed for the operation—that is to say, for the full-scale invasion as opposed to a feint or threat—would have to come from our armies in Italy. But these had first to accomplish the arduous and important task of seizing Rome and the airfields.

At Teheran we had confidently expected to reach Rome early in the spring, but this had proved impossible. The important descent at Anzio to accelerate the capture of Rome had drawn eight or ten German divisions away from the vital theatre, or more than was expected to be attracted to the Riviera by Anvil. This in effect superseded it by achieving its object. Nevertheless, the Riviera project went forward as if nothing had happened.

Apart from Anvil hanging somewhat vaguely in the future, some of the finest divisions of the Armies in Italy had rightly been assigned to the main operation of Overlord and had sailed for England before the end of 1943. Alexander had thus been weakened and Kesselring had been strengthened. The Germans had sent reinforcements to Italy, had parried the Anzio swoop, and had stopped us entering Rome until just before D-day.

When Rome fell on June 4 the problem had to be reviewed. should we make a new plan? shoudl we make a new plan?

General Eisenhower naturally wanted to strengthen his attack in North-West Europe by all available means. The American Chiefs of Staff agreed with Eisenhower, holding rigidly to the maxim of concentration at the decisive point, which in their eyes meant only North-West Europe. They were supported by the President, who was mindful of the agreements made with Stalin many months before at Teheran. Yet all was changed by the delay in Italy.

Soon after D-day General Marshall came to England and expressed his concern about yet another problem. Enormous forces were accumulating in the United States, and should join the battle as soon as possible. The solution which General Marshall proposed was to capture entirely new bases in either the west or the south of France, and preferably in the west because this was the more quickly reached from America.

I was fully alive to all this, and had for some time contemplated a descent on the Biscay coast from North Africa, even though this could not be achieved before the end of July or early in August. But I was equally anxious not to wreck Alexander's victory in Italy. I considered that the options might still remain open and all preparations should be made to move in whatever direction seemed best.

On June 14 the Combined Chiefs of Staff decided to prepare an amphibious operation in the Mediterranean which might strike either in the south of France or in the Bay of Biscay or at the head of the Adriatic. General Wilson on June 19 told the Combined Chiefs of Staff that he still thought his best contribution to the common end would be to press forward with all his resources into the Po valley. Thereafter, with the help of an amphibious operation against the Istrian peninsula, there would be attractive prospects of advancing through the Ljubljana Gap into Austria and Hungary and striking at the heart of Germany from another direction. Alexander agreed.

On June 23 General Eisenhower advised the Combined Chiefs of Staff to concentrate our forces in direct support of the decsive battle in Northern France. As for a descent in the Bay of Biscay, he agreed that Bordeaux was closer to the United States than Marseilles, but maintained that the latter could be captured more quickly by forces already in he Mediterranean, and would furnish a direct route northwards to join in the battle for the Rhur. He therefore urged that Anvil should be undertaken, at the expense of course of our armies in Italy, since "in my view the resources of Great Britain and the United States will not permit us to maintain two major theatres in the European war, with decisive missions."

We were all agreed of course that Overlord took priority; the point was how the armies in the secondary theatre, Italy, could best help to overthrow Germany. The American Chiefs of Staff strongly supported Eisenhower. They condemned what they called the "commitment of Mediterranean resources to large-scale operations in Northern Italy and into the Balkans." Our own Chiefs of Staff took the opposite view. On June 26 they declared that the Allied forces in the Mediterranean could best help Overlord by destroying the Germans who faced them. With much prescience they remarked: "We think that the mounting of Anvil on a scale likely to achieve success would hamstring General Alexander's remaining forces to such an extent that any further activity would be limited to something very modest."

This direct conflict of opinions, honestly held and warmly argued by either side, could only be settled, if at all, between the President and myself, and an interchange of telegrams now took place.

"The deadlock," I said on June 28, "between our Chiefs of Staff raises most serious issues. Our first wish is to help General Eisenhower in the most speedy and effective manner. But we do not think this necessarily involves the complete ruin of all our great affairs in the Mediterranean, and we take it hard that this should be demanded of us."

The President's reply was prompt and adverse. He was resolved to carry out what he called "the grand strategy" of Teheran, namely, exploiting Overlord to the full, "victorious advances in Italy," and an early assault on Southern France. Political objects might be important, but military operations to achieve them must be subordinated to striking at the heart of Germany by a campaign in Europe.

Mr. Roosevelt contended that a landing in the Bay of Biscay would be a waste of shipping. If Eisenhower wanted more troops they were ready in the United States and he had only to ask for them. But it was his objections to a descent on the Istrian peninsula and a thrust against Vienna through the Ljubljana Gap that revealed both the rigidity of the American military plans and his own suspicion of what he called a campaign "in the Balkans."

"I cannot agree," he wrote, "to the employment of United States troops against Istria and into the Balkans, nor can I see the French agreeing to such use of French troops * * *

For purely political reasons over here, I should never survive even a slight setback in Overlord if it were known that fairly large forces had been diverted to the Balkans."

No one involved in these discussions had ever thought of moving armies into the Balkans; but Istria and Trieste were strategic and political positions, which, as he saw very clearly, might exercise profound and widespread reactions, especially after the Russian advances.

On July 2 the President declared that he and his Chiefs of Staff were still convinced that Anvil should be launched at the earliest possible date, and he asked us to direct General Wilson accordingly.

"I honestly believe that God will be with us as He has in Overlord and in Italy and in North Africa. I always think of my early geometry—'a straight line is the shortest distance between two points."

For the time being I resigned myself, and the same day General Wilson was ordered to attack the south of France on August 15. Preparations began at once, but the reader should note that henceforward Anvil was called Dragoon. This was done in case the enemy had learnt the meaning of its original code-name.

By early August however a marked change had come over the battlefield in Normandy and great developments impended. On the 4th I reopened with the President the question of switching Dragoon to the west.

I visited Eisenhower at his headquarters near Portsmouth and unfolded to him my last hope of stopping the Dragoon operation. After an agreeable luncheon we had a long serious conversation. Eisenhower had with him Bedell Smith and Admiral Ramsay. Briefly, what I proposed was to continue loading the Dragoon expedition, but when the troops were in the ships to send them through the Straits of Gibralter and enter France at Bordeaux. Admiral Ramsay argued against any change of plan. Bedell Smith, on the contrary, declared himself strongly in favour of this sudden deflection of the attack, which would have all the surprise that sea-power can bestow. Eisenhower in no way resented the views of his Chief of Staff. He always encouraged free expression of opinion in council at the summit, though of course whatever was settled would receive every loyalty in execution.

However, I was quite unable to move him, and next day I received the President's reply.

President Roosevelt to Prime Minister,

8 Aug. 44

I have consulted by telegraph with my Chiefs of Staff, and am unable to agree that the resources allocated to Dragoon should be considered available for a move into France via ports on the coast of Brittany.

There was more to be done about it. It is worth noting that we had now passed the day in July when for the first time in the war the movement of the great American armies into Europe and their growth in the Far East made their numbers in action for the first time greater than our own. Influence on Allied operations is usually increased by large reinforcements. It must also be remembered that had the British views on this strategic issue been accepted, the tactical preparations might well have caused some delay, which again would have reacted on the general argument.

Prime Minister to President Roosevelt:

8 Aug. 44

I pray God that you may be right. We shall of course do everything in our power to help you achieve success.

The advance of the Soviet armies into Central and Eastern Europe in the summer of 1944 made it urgent to come to a political arrangement with the Russians about those regions. Post-war Europe seemed to be taking shape. Difficulties in Italy had already begun owing to Russian intrigues. We were striving to reach a balanced result in Yugoslav affairs by direct negotiation with Tito. But no progress had as yet been made with Moscow about Poland, Hungary, Roumania, and Bulgaria. The whole subject had been surveyed at the meeting of the Imperial Conference in London in May, and I had then minuted to the Foreign Secretary:

. . . Broadly speaking the issue is: are we going to acquiesce in the Communisation of the Balkans and perhaps of Italy? . . . I am of opinion on the whole that we ought to come to a definite conclusion about it, and that if our conclusion is that we resist the Communist infusion and invasion we should put it to them pretty plainly at the best moment that military events permit. We should of course have to consult the United States first.

On May 18 the Soviet Ambassador in London called at the Foreign Office to discuss a general suggestion which Mr. Eden had made that the U.S.S.R. should temporarily regard Roumanian affairs as mainly their concern under war conditions while leaving Greece to us. The Russians were prepared to accept this but wished to know if we had consulted the United States. If so they would agree.

On May 31 I accordingly sent a personal telegram to Mr. Roosevelt.

Prime Minister to President Roosevelt:

31 May 44

. . . I hope you may feel able to give this proposal your blessing. We do not of course wish to carve up the Balkans into spheres of influence, and in agreeing to the arrangement we should make it clear that it applied only to war conditions and did not affect the rights and responsibilities which each of the three Great Powers will have to exercise at the peace settlement and afterwards in regard to the whole of Europe. . . .

The first reactions of the State Department were cool. Mr. Hull was nervous of any suggestion that "might appear to savour of the creation or acceptance of the idea of spheres of influence."

On June 11 Mr. Roosevelt cabled:

. . . Briefly, we acknowledge that the military responsible Government in any given territory will inevitably make decisions required by military developments, but are convinced that the natural tendency for such decisions to extend to other than military fields would be strengthened by an agreement of the type suggested. In our opinion, this would certainly result in the persistence of differences between you and the Soviets and in the division of the Balkan region into spheres of influence despite the declared intention to limit the arrangement to military matters.

We believe efforts should preferably be made to establish consultative machinery to dispel misunderstandings and restrain the tendency toward the development of exclusive spheres.

Prime Minister to President Roosevelt:

11 June 44

I am much concerned to receive your message. Action is paralysed if everybody is to consult everybody else about everything before it is taken. Events will always outstrip the changing situation in these Balkan regions. Somebody must have the power to plan and act. A Consultative Committee would be a mere obstruction, always overriden in any case of emergency by direct interchanges between you and me, or either of us and Stalin. . . .

4. It seems to me, considering the Russians are about to invade Roumania in great force and are going to help Roumania recapture part of Transylvania from Hungary, provided the Roumanians play, which they may, considering all that, it would be a good thing to follow the Soviet leadership, considering that neither you nor we have any troops there at all and that they will probably do what they like anyhow. . . .

5. Similarly with us in Greece. We are an old ally of Greece. We had 40,000 casualties in trying to defend Greece against Hitler, not counting Crete. The Greek King and the Greek Government have placed themselves under our protection. . . . Why is all this effective direction to be broken up into a committee of mediocre officials such as we are littering about the world? Why can you and I not keep this in our hands, considering how we see eye to eye about so much of it?

6. To sum up, I propose that we agree that the arrangements I set forth in my message of May 31 may have a trial of three months, after which it must be reviewed by the three Powers.

On June 13 the President agreed to this proposal, but added: "We must be careful to make it clear that we are not establishing any post-war spheres of influence."

I shared his view, and replied the next day:

I am deeply grateful to you for your telegram. I have asked the Foreign Secretary to convey the information to Molotov and to make it clear that the reason for the three months' limit it in order that we should not prejudge the question of establishing post-war spheres of influence.

The President however was not happy about the way we had acted, and I received a pained message saying "we were disturbed that your people took this matter up with us only after it had been put up to the Russians." On June 23 accordingly I outlined to the President, in reply to his rebuke, the situation as I saw it from London.

Prime Minister to President

23 June 44

Roosevelt

. . . I cannot admit that I have done anything wrong in this matter. It would not be possible for three people in different parts of the world to work together effectively if no one of them may make any suggestion to either of the others without simultaneously keeping the third informed. A recent example of this is the message you have sent quite properly to Uncle Joe about your conversations with the Poles, of which as yet I have heard nothing from you. I am not complaining at all of this, because I know we are working for the general theme and purposes, and I hope you will feel that has been so in my conduct of the Grek affair. . . .

The President's reply of June 27 settled this argument between friends. "It appears," he said, "that both of us have inadvertently taken unilateral action in a direction that we both now agree to have been expedient for the time being. It is essential that we should always be in agreement in matters bearing on our Allied war effort."

I replied the same day. "You may be sure I shall always be looking to our agreeemnt in all matters before, during, and after."

The difficulties however continued on a Governmental level. The Russian insisted on consulting the Americans direct.

Accused's Action Not Criminal Magistrate Finds

Magistrate R. I. Moore today acquitted Thomas O'Donohoe, 33-year-old Port Hope salesman, of a charge of dangerous driving.

The magistrate found that there was insufficient evidence to show what had actually happened in the accident on May 21, and at the same time to show that any action of O'Donohoe's was criminal.

"While I sympathize with Mrs. Cochran about her painful injuries, I cannot take those into consideration when giving judgment. There is not enough evidence to presume any criminality on O'Donhoe's part," said the magistrate.

ASK TO AMEND

On a charge of careless driving also facing O'Donohoe, Crown Attorney John Bradshaw asked that the information be amended in accord with the recent ruling of Mr. Justice Gale, which held that the charge as normally laid was really two charges in one.

Defence counsel Donald Bark asked for time to prepare argument concerning the amendment of a charge so long after it was originally laid.

He said it was his opinion there was a limitation on such amendments, but that he would need time to ready his argument. The lesser charge was adjourned to next Monday. Magistrate Moore said he believed that had the charge been read to O'Donohoe before, it could not now be amended. But as this was the first reading, it was possible to amend it.

O'Donohoe was charged after the accident in which Mrs. Edward Cochran, 35, of Bridgenorth, suffered a multiple fracture of the right leg, and a simple fracture of the left leg.

Cuts in her scalp required 57 stitches to close.

O'Donohoe, who suffered lacerations, a broken nose and concussion in the crash, remembered nothing about the accident. He said he had a drink of rum in Peterborough that evening, but couldn't swear to what happened afterward.

Magistrate Moor commended the accused for his honesty in giving evidence.

Mrs. Cochrane said she was

SAW HEADLIGHTS

driving to Peterborough on Highway 7 from Bridgenorth about 8.15 p.m. She had just come over a steep rise when she saw a pair of headlights in front of her.

She had only time to put her foot on the brake and turn off the ignition when the cars collided.

Witnesses told of gusts of wind which made it difficult to control cars, and Mr. Bark suggested that the wind might have caused O'Donohoe's car to be on the wrong side of the road. However, he said at the time of the original hearing, that was merely conjecture.

At the original hearing, a week ago, Magistrate Moore said "that's the sad part of it. The accused admits he was confused. But what caused his confusion? We don't ordinarily associate confusion with concussion.I agree to a great extent with the argument that there was a lack of criminality on the part of the accused."

Crown Attorney Bradshaw had submitted last Monday that Mrs. Cochran had testified the accused was on the wrong side of the road.

The onus was therefore on the accused to explain it.

Old Lakefield Boy Anniversary Preacher

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—Capacity congregations greeted the Rev. Gordon W. Porter, MA, BD, when he returned Sunday to the community of his boyhood as guest speaker at the anniversary services of the Lakefield United Church. Mr. Porter is minister of St. Paul's Avenue Road United Church, Toronto, and is the son of J. A. Porter of the village and the late Mrs. Porter.

"What Think Ye of Christ?" was the topic of the morning address, and in this Mr. Porter compared the ways in which this question might be answered by three great men of the Bible, Peter, the common man; Paul, the man of great privileges, and John, of Patmos, the troubled man.

In the evening he chose as his topic, "Give Ye Them to Eat." Here he discussed the needs of the world and pointed out to the congregation that if we surrender what we have, God will supply all our needs.

Special music by the choir included three anthems, with Mrs. Raymond Jackman as soloist and a duet by Elmer Trethewey and Harry Wannamaker. Mrs. T. E. Rath was at the organ and Mrs. G. Warren Payne at the piano.

The service was in charge of the minister, the Rev. H. C. Wolfraim.

Ask Commission Investigate Crisis

MONTREAL (CP)—Rene Gosselin, president of the Textile Federation of National Syndicates, called Sunday for a thorough investigation of the textile "crisis" by a federal commission.

Mr. Gosselin also proposed that the textile unions hold a joint conference, on the subject.

He said a number of textile mills are operating on only part-time schedules. He suggested the federal government provide tariff protection to help textile owners sell their output.

Farmers Face Most Competitive Wheat Market Since War

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's farmers will be selling wheat this year in a market which "promises to be more competitive than in any time in the post-war period," the current Bank of Montreal business review says.

Bumper crops are reported in Canada and other wheat-growing countries and world wheat stocks are "at a peacetime peak."

In Canada "nature's bounty has in some respects been disconcerting," the review says.

Farmers have harvested their third successive bumper crop, the number of cattle is up, and other crop reports are good. Only fruit and tobacco growers have found the weather not to their liking.

PROBLEM OF PLENTY

"The problems of the present are the problems of plenty," the bank reports.

"Though relatively less important than it used to be, wheat is still king in Canadian agriculture."

If present forecasts prove right, Canada will have on hand 950,000,000 bushels of wheat—594,000,000 being this year's growth and 363,000,000 what is left over from other seasons, it says.

The problem is to market it. Canadians themselves will only eat about 160,000,000 bushels, leaving close to 800,000,000 available to be sold abroad.

Canada has already felt one effect of this abundance in Britain's withdrawal from the international wheat agreement.

QUANTITY CUT

With Britain, one of the world's biggest importers, bowing out, the quantity of Canadian wheat which can be sold in this guaranteed world market will probably be cut, the review says.

The balance of Canada's surplus wheat will have to be sold in the open market or carried over until next year.

Canada's livestock and dairying industry also face problems of plenty the bank reports.

BEEF PRICES DOWN

The livestock industry, hit by the embargo imposed by the United States following outbreaks of foot-and-mouth disease, has not managed to rebuild its exports to 1951 levels since the U.S. ban was lifted last March. Beef prices have fallen and "there has been very little export trade in beef this year."

The introduction of margarine, sharp declines in purchases of Canadian cheese by Britain and new U.S. restrictions on cheese imports from Canada have reduced cheese production from 117,000,000 pounds in 1949 to 67,000,000 last year. Recently, however, output has picked up, the review says.

In addition more milk is going into butter and butter sales are increasing.

WELCOMED BY CONSUMERS

But the review says "if the decline in farm prices from the high levels of 1951 has been a matter of continuing concern to the farmers, it has at least been welcomed by the consumers."

"If conditions in the livestock and dairying industries are less buoyant than had been hoped, they are more stable than they were."

"And if grain growers are for the moment long on inventory, the asset they hold is likely to be realized eventually in a world that has power for very long produced more cereals than it consumes," the review concludes.

Churchill Keeps World Guessing

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Winston Churchill apparently intends to keep the world guessing about his reported plans for a trip to Moscow to confer with Premier Malenkov—at least until he knows whether Russia is willing to attend a Big Four foreign ministers' conference, diplomatic sources said.

There was no confirmation in London of a report that the 79-year-old prime minister had abandoned his reported intention of making a personal approach to Malenkov, if he could not arrange a conference of world leaders.

Only last week Churchill declined in the House of Commons to confirm or deny widespread reports that he would fly to Moscow in an attempt to sound out the Kremlin on its foreign policy.

Policeman Changes Mind, Will Testify

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Louis Shoulders, St. Louis police lieutenant who cracked the Greenlease kidnapping only to resign under fire, has changed his mind and will testify Wednesday before a federal grand jury investigating the case.

The jury, convening today, probably will remain in session two days. Witnesses are expected to pinpoint in detail all aspects of the case.

Shoulders, who first told reporters he would stand on his constitutional rights and refuse to testify before the jury, modified his statement Monday night.

WILL TESTIFY

The 55-year-old veteran police officer said he and his landlady, June Marie George who also was subpoenaed, would testify.

But he hadn't decided whether to give the jury names of other informants he said tipped him that Carl Austin Hall, confessed kidnap-slayer, was in St. Louis and spending money on a lavish scale.

The only acceptable legal excuse for refusing to testify before a federal grand jury is on the contention the witness might incriminate himself.

NO INCRIMINATION

But Shoulders, who angrily claimed his reputation as an officer had been destroyed by a top-level police inquiry into his handling of the case, said he was not afraid he would incriminate himself.

The husky officer, veteran of 27 years on the force, said earlier "I've always kept confidences and I don't intend to change now."

Shoulders indicated he had other informants beside cab driver John Hager, whose tip resulted in Hall's arrest. Hall's partner in crime, Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, was arrested the same night, Oct. 6.

The police inquiry, which is nearing an end, was started following reports that the FBI had found discrepancies in officers' accounts of the arrest of the kidnapper-slayers of Bobby Greenlease, 6, of Kansas City.

Many Devices Used To Get Infants Breathing Lethal

QUEBEC—(CP) —A Toronto obstetrician said today many methods and devices used in getting infants to breath at birth are "dangerous and even lethal".

"Children have survived, in many cases, in spite of the treatment they received and not because of it," Dr. John Mann said in a paper prepared for the 28th meeting of the International Anaesthesia Research Society.

"Because they managed to survive the ordeal of slaps and bangs, hot baths and cold ones, the treatment was given the credit," he said.

"Doubtless some have succumbed to the ill-advised use of some of the methods that might have survived if only nature had been given a chance."

HAS BREATH STARTER

Dr. Mann, a trained engineer who later took up medicine, was demonstrating his "infant resuscitator" machine designed to introduce oxygen in a new born baby's lungs and start respiration.

He said the machine, invented three years ago, now is used in hospitals in a half-dozen Canadian cities. It was first tested for two years at Toronto General Hospital.

The fundamental problem in starting new-born babies breathing was to get the first gasp going to start the lungs expanding.

"Too many people get impatient about obtaining the inspiratory gasp and often resort to over-zealous and sometimes disastrous methods," he said.

Objection to mechanical resuscitators was a result of their being applied to infants without any investigation of the air-way, he said. Delivery of oxygen by mask to an infant with an obstructed air-way was dangerous.

"You've got to pull out the plug before you let oxygen in," he said.

His resuscitator sucks clogging mucus into a transparent drainage trap. Oxygen is then let in through the tube. Oxygen pressure is regulated by a safety valve and cannot change.

Dr. Mann said each case of resuscitation requires individual treatment which cannot be accomplished by automatic mechanical devices.

"The sooner this fact is realized and accepted, the sooner disasters will be avoided," he said.

Soldier Breaks Leg When Hit By Car

COBOURG (ENS) — Joseph Zeszotek, 23, Toronto, received a broken leg when struck by a car briven by Romeo Leblanc of Toronto. The soldier, Zeszotek, was hurrying across King street to the waiting bus just as the car was passing. The steel plates on his shoes caused him to slide when he tried to halt, and he slid under the car, sustaining a fractured left leg. He was taken to Cobourg General Hospital and later was transferred to Sunnybrook.

Ontario Fire Losses Down

TORONTO (CP)—Fire loss in Ontario during July, August and September this year was down more than 50 per cent compared with the same period last year.

The Ontario fire marshal's office Monday reported that losses suffered in those months amounted to $2,786,206 against $6,670,983 for the corresponding period in 1952.

Total loss of $16,361,670 was caused by 13,499 fires in the first nine months of this year, compared with 13,321 fires and damage of $22,236,247 for the same period last year.

In July, August and September, 1953, 25 persons, including nine children, lost their lives in fires.

File New Suit For Water Damage

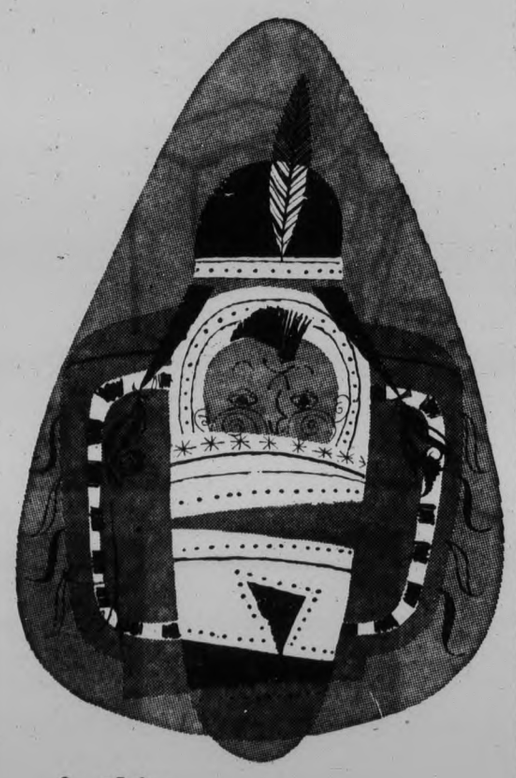
UTICA, N. Y. (AP)—The Canadian government and the Queen Monday were named defendants in another $25,000 high-water damage suit filed by owners of island property in the St. Lawrence river.

The action was filed in federal district court here by Arthur and Anne Shaughnessy, owners of property on Canary island in the St. Lawrence.

The couple alleged that Gut dam, which Canada demolished last year, caused high water in the river and that the overflow damaged their property.

They also asked an injunction forbidding the Canadian government to repair or renovate the dam between Les Galops island in the United States and Adams island in Canada.

Drunken Sailors



GRAYS, England (Reuters)—Eight British merchant seamen were fined a total equivalent to $380 Monday for their part in a wild party aboard a freighter off Bombay last August. The men pleaded guilty to 32 charges arising during a night aboard the 6,219-ton Lord Church in which the crew members ran wild aboard the ship in a drunken spree and attacked officers. They had broken into the ship's liquor cargo.

Invalids Beloved

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (CP) Pope Pius told a group of American invalids here Monday that they are especially beloved by Christ and the Virgin Mary because "the grace that has been granted to you is that of suffering for Christ's sake, not merely believing in him." The American group, on stretchers and wheelchairs, attended the audience at the Pope's summer residence as the first national pilgrimage of invalids to the shrines of Europe.

How much does a wildcat cost?

A "wildcat" is a well drilled in an area where oil has never been found. Drilling costs vary, but the average wildcat in western Canada runs to more than $100,000. One well cost $1,600,000—and found no oil!

Oil is making an increasingly important contribution to our standard of living. How many of these questions about it can you answer?

How many wildcat wells find a new oil field—
1 in 3? 1 in 7? 1 in 23?
→ The long-term average in western Canada is 1 in 23. Only 1 in 87 has found a field capable of producing as much as 2,000 barrels a day.

Since 1939 the cost of living index has risen by 85%. During that time has the price you pay for gasoline gone up by—44%? 79%? 103%?
→ The average retail price of gasoline is only 44% higher than prewar, even with higher road taxes in all provinces.

A lot of oil has been discovered in the west since 1946. In that time have Canada's oil reserves increased—4 times? 23 times? 37 times?
→ Reserves have increased 23-fold in the past six years. Canadian fields now supply all the prairies and part of B.C. and Ontario.

How many companies, would you say, are engaged in the oil business in Canada—23? 174? 750?
→ About 750 companies in which the public has an investment interest, as well as several hundred private firms and partnerships. And this doesn't include the thousands of privately operated service stations and other retail and wholesale outlets for oil products.

Canada's growing oil industry means orders for many businesses, jobs for many Canadians. Last year Imperial's purchasing department bought equipment and supplies from Canadian firms amounting to—$12 millions? $56 millions? $110 millions?
→ $56 millions. About 4,500 Canadian companies sold Imperial supplies ranging from heavy steel plates to paper clips.

Following Canadian Practice In Choosing Speaker–St. Laurent

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent says he is following Canadian practice in choosing speaker for the House of Commons. He outlined his position in a letter to the Ottawa Journal Monday.

In an editorial Oct. 17, the Journal said the prime minister announced after a cabinet meeting that Rene Beaudoin "will be the next speaker of the House of Commons."

Mr. Beaudoin is Liberal member for Vaudreiul-Soulanges and was deputy speaker in the last Parliament.

The paper asked if it were not "a disregard or denial" of what Parliament means "for the prime minister to inform the country that he has chosen a speaker for the Commons just as though he were choosing an ordinary civil servant."

It was "customary" in the British House of Commons "for the speaker to be looked upon as the choice of the House." The mover and seconder of the motion for his appointment were always private members.

PM SAYS MISTAKEN

Mr. St. Laurent replied:

"Your article . . . is based upon an incorrect representation of what actually took place about the speakership. . . ."

He said that after a cabinet meeting Oct. 14 he was asked by reporters to announce what decisions had been reached.

"I said that I intended to move that Mr. Rene Beaudoin be the next speaker . . . I was very careful to point out that this election was one that had to be made by the House itself."

Mr. St. Laurent said that the leader of the Opposition, Hon. George Drew, told him he would be happy to second the motion for the appointment.

The prime minister said that ever since Confederation, the Canadian practice has been for the government leader to move the motion for the appointment of a speaker.

Judge Restores Case Penalty

TORONTO (CP)—Hugh Lennox, who was fined $20 or 21 days for selling gasoline after hours at his Hamilton service station and then had the conviction quashed, Monday had the penalty re-imposed by the Ontario Court of Appeal.

Mr. Justice F. G. MacKay, who restored the conviction, ruled that the Lennox service station and parking lot was a "shop" within the meaning of the Industrial Standards Act.

John J. Robinette, recently appointed to the appeal court, argued that his client's principal business was parking. But Mr. Justice MacKay said that although it would have been within the law for the parking lot to remain open, under the subsection of the act the gasoline pumps should have been closed.

Cheque Artist Jailed 3 Months

LINDSAY —(ENS)— James O'Neill, Lindsay, who was remanded for a week for sentence after pleading guilty a week ago to a charge of uttering a forged cheque for $25 in Lindsay, was sentenced to three months definite and three months indeterminate in reformatory when he appeared in police court Monday and pleaded guilty to four more charges of false pretences.

O'Neill heard three additional charges from Ottawa and one from Sault Ste. Marie read against him and pleaded guilty to all four.

The first charge was that he obtained board and lodging from the Chateau Laurier Hotel there, vauled at $108 under false pretences. The second charge was that he had obtained $30 by false pretences and the third that he had obtained another $57 by means of a worthless cheque. The charge from Sault Ste. Marie police read that O'Neill had obtained $350 cash from a man there by means of a worthless cheque.

After O'Neill's attorney, A. T. Lacey, had explained the nature of the offences to the court, Magistrate Gee handed down the sentence.

Rubber Highways Tested For Future

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario highways department is testing the possibility of rubber highways for the future.

The experiment is being carried out on a 10-mile section of highway 11 just north of Toronto. Motorists drive over a two-mile strip of rubber road and for four miles, both north and south of this strip, a carefully constructed control road has been built for comparison.

Engineers selected this section of highway three years ago because they felt it would approximate the conditions under which Ontario highways must be built.

The middle section was built with a natural rubber additive in the asphalt mix. The usual materials went into the construction of the control sections.

At present no difference can be detected.

Invented Compressors C. H. Taylor Dies

TORONTO (CP)—Charles Havelock Taylor, 94, noted for his invention of hydraulic air compressors used in mining, died at his home Monday. He was the oldest member of the Canadian Mining Institute.

Born in Chatham, N.B. he installed his hydraulic air compressors at the Victoria copper mines in Michigan in 1906 and three years later put them into the silver mines at Cobalt.

UN Effective Tool For Peace: College Chaplain

The United Nations has done and is doing a job as the only effective tool in the world to halt aggression and work toward a lasting peace, the Rev. A. Marshall Laverty, chaplain of Queen's University told members of the Peterborough branch of the United Nations Association in the Public Library Monday night.

The United Nations is criticized as an ineffectual debating society. But "What's wrong with debate?" asked Mr. Laverty.

By their part in debates, the Russians have revealed to all the world their own "cruel preoccupation with their own ends". Many people in the world were not prepared, said Mr. Laverty, to believe the worst about the Russians. "Quite a few wouldn't have believed about the Russians what they heard from Russians' own lips."

The UN had been successful in checking fighting since its very inception. While it was still being organized, it had brought about peace, at least for a short time, in Israel.

Through the work of the UN India and Pakistan have resolved their differences to some degree. There has been a moderation of attitude that may hold some hope for a peaceful solution to the young nations' problems, in spite of the fact that Indians and Pakistani still simply do not like each other.

SETTLED DISPUTE

A dispute involving six million people of Holland and Indonesia was settled through mediation. Mr. Laverty said he did not believe for a moment that the Dutch were completely satisfied with the solution any more than were the Indonesians. But why do people insist that the UN provide pure and immaculate solutions to problems when individual men must compromise and organizations even on the small municipal level must be content with incomplete solutions to their problems, he asked.

The success of the United Nations has got to be good enough

Horticulture Society Holds Annual Prize Presentation

Annual prize-giving of the Peterborough Horticultural Society was held at the YWCA Monday night, with 120 members and friends of the society present. Top three trophies awarded annually are the G. K. Fraser Challenge Cup for the best lawn and garden in Class A, the Braund Trophy for the best industrial lawn and flower beds, and the G. K. Fraser Trophy for the rural school with the best-kept grounds.

Winner of the lawn and garden trophy was Leonard Dunstan, 740 Hurley St. The DeLaval Co. won the industrial award, which was accepted by a veteran society member and company employee J. S. Mason. Winner of the rural school contest was SS 12, Belmont township, and its teacher, Glen Watson, accepted the trophy on behalf of the school.

PLACES FIFTH

The Belmont school placed fifth in this year's provincial rural school grounds contest.

The award for the best schoolgrounds this year went to Prince of Wales public school for maintenance of its lawns and flower beds.

As a special Coronation year feature, the society held a rose show, and winner of the H. L. Beal Challenge Cup in this show was Mrs. A. H. Heideman, Chemong Park. Mrs. Heideman also received a silver medal for the most outstanding rose on display from the Rose Society of Ontario.

Mrs. Heideman also won a membership in the Rose Society, as did Stanley Bucknell, 47 Jackson Ave., for his entry in the show.

One of the interesting classes at the society's annual flower show is that for children. The Mrs. S. O. Shields Cup, offered for annual competition, was won this year by John Dimma, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dimma, 1248 Clonsilla Ave. John's sister, Mary won the trophy in 1952.

John was awarded the prize for an outstanding exhibit of a terrarium—a miniature flower garden planted in a large glass jar.

SHOWS THANKS

Mrs. Gordon K. Fraser, society president, remarked that the meeting was a means of showing the society's thanks to those whose work in the summer had brought them success in the competitions.

"Through these contests, we offer leadership in the beautification of your homes and encouragement in the beautification of the city as a whole," she added.

Other prize winners were:

Lawn and gardens, Class A: 2 Miss Catharine Millard, 424 Stewart St; 3 Mrs. E. A. Kettle, Gillespie St. Class B: 1 Mrs. F. O'Grady, King George St.; 2 Mrs. J. Meehan, Lock St.; 3 Roy Feeley, McKellar St.

Garden Pools: 1 Mrs. Meehan; 2 Mrs. Len Titterington, King George St.; 3 Mrs. George Benton, Water St.

Vegetable gardens: 1 Mrs. William Merritt, Canal Rd.; 2 Harry Gabbutt, Chamberlain St.

Window box display: 1 Mr. Gabbutt, 2 Mrs. M. Mahood, Shelbourne St.

At the close of the prize-giving, the Peterborough Camera Club showed slides of flowers and shrubbery. Chairman's duties were shared by Mrs. Fraser, and Vice-president Don Emery.

Hatton Land To Yield 98 Building Lots Soon

Survey of the land that has been cleared of wartime houses at the west end of Charlotte Street indicates that Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation will have 98 building lots to offer the public within the next month or six weeks.

Most of these lots will be of 60-feet frontage, others 70 feet. They appear to be the last property available in the city and within easy distance of schools, churches, hospital and other features of the community.

Presumably the sewers that were laid in the property for the wartime housing may still be utilized. However, this is a detail which will be clarified in the final information when Central Mortgage has the subdivision ready for the market.

Forums Provide Meeting Place For Rural Folk

The Farm Forum should take the place of the old corner store, which, as an institution was a great factor in the building of this country. The forum serves the purpose of bringing the people together to talk, as did the store, but has the additional advantage of co-ordinating and directing their thoughts toward the building of a better world, said the Rev. A. E. Larke, Springville, at the Farm Forum Rally held Monday night in the Peterborough Teachers' College.

"Every farmer should be an enthusiastic member of Farm Forum for the reason that it relates him, as an individual and as a member of a group having common interests and aims, to the facts of a changing rural community, a changing Canada and a changing world".

Mr. Larke pointed out that the number of non-farming families in rural districts now out-number rural farm families and a great many changes have occurred because of this.

"At the present time the divergence of outlook and dominant interests between the rural farm and rural non-farm is so marked as may lead to the break-up of community life centred around village or church or community centre. If community life is seen to be a goal worth achieving—and I think it is—then we will need to do some real spade work in solving differences, creating goodwill and working toward common goals. The topics for discussion in Farm Forum do present to us some of the problems relevent to this changing community and provide common ground for discussion, understanding and action for the good of all.

RURAL LIFE CHANGES

"Life has been changed by the increase of mechanization on increasingly large farms. Neighbours still work together for silo filling, but changing methods have led to less dependence of one farmer upon the help of another.

Factory Site Annexation Gets Approval

Company Expects To Move In Early In December

The Ontario Municipal Board, sitting at the city hall today, approved annexation by the city from Otonabee township of the site of the new H. B. McGinness Ltd. trailer manufacturing plant.

The annexation will become effective December 1 but the township will collect all 1953 taxes on the property. The land, previously unoccupied, was assessed in 1952 as farm land at $1,000 but will be re-assessed as industrial property.

Construction of the new trailer plant is almost complete. The company expects to move some of its stock in next week and hopes to take complete occupation early in December, a company official told the Examiner today.

Otonabee Reeve R. R. Stewart told the municipal board today the question of annexation had been thoroughly discussed by township council in June and had been approved by a 4-1 vote. His statement was corroborated by Township Clerk J. M. McCarthy.

REQUIRE SERVICES

City Clerk E. A. Outram said the application for annexation was made by McGinness Holding Ltd. The company required water supply, fire protection and other municipal services. A water main is now being laid which will serve a section of the city in the Downers Corners area not previously served, as well as the property to be annexed.

The McGinness property consists of the west half of lot 26 in Otonabee township and annexation will extend the city's eastern boundary by that distance on the south side of Highway 7. On the north side of the highway the city embraces the property of the Moldaver Bros. Lumber Co. Ltd.

City Solicitor W. F. Huycke presented the case for annexation to the municipal board, which consisted of C. W. Yates, QC, and W. Greenwood, both of Toronto. J. L. Ireland represented McGinness Holdings Ltd.

Board Approves $14,000 For Road

The board of works Monday night approved payment to the county of $14,000 as the city's share in the cost of paving the Buckhorn road and instructed the city solicitor to prepare a bylaw authorizing a debenture issue to cover the amount.

Total cost of the job is in the neighborhood of $70,000. Of this, the province is to pay $28,000 and the city and county $14,000 each. The remaining $14,000 has already been included in the appropriation of the suburban roads commission.

Mayor Hugh Waddell explained to the board that the commission had planned to go ahead with resurfacing about 3½ miles of the road this year regardless of whether the province approved a grant for the whole road. Consequently, their share of the cost had already been appropriated.

The summary of paving costs was submitted to the board in a letter from the county as follows:

Preparation of the road came to $4,039.37, of which $562.58 was for payroll, $1,389.84 for materials and $2,086.95 for machinery.

Actual mulch cost $7,646.96 of which $2,018.91 was for payrolls, $5,205.75 for county trucks tnd machinery and $422.30 for the mixer.

The county provided 8,690 yards of gravel at 80 cent a yard, totalling $6,952. R. A. Blyth provided 6,032 yards at 65 cents a yard, totalling $3,920.80 plus $4,452.88 for trucking.

Cost of 143,545 gallons of asphalt at 19.3 cents a gallon was $27,704.19 and 25,079 gallons of primer at 19.3 cents a gallon was $4,839.25.

Cost of spraying and rolling by Beamish Construction was $9,946.23, making the total cost of the road, exclusive of painting centre stripes, $69,501.68.

Mayor Waddell explained that the painting of centre stripes had recently been completed but the bill had not been submitted. It was not expected to be much more than $400, he said.

Good Old Dog Days

A dog seated on the sidewalk in front of the Water St. liquor store today recalled to a city lawyer the days of the open saloons. Then, he remembered, dogs would park themselves outside the swinging doors to wait long and patiently for their masters. At times, he said, the dogs acted more as guides than companions for the homeward trip.

MOH Promises Clean Up Pollution Issue

Speaking to a meeting of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association on Monday evening medical officer of health Dr. J. P. Wells outlined progress being made with his department on the problem of water pollution.

He gave a brief survey of the conditions that brought about pollution to all communities from the earliest days of settlement to the present time.

"The use of waterways has always been the means of getting rid of waste," Dr. Wells pointed out, "and the problem of pollution affects every level from the individual to municipalities and governments." The cause of present neglect may generally be traced to the matter of cost."

Dr. Wells said he was spending a great deal of time on the problem in Peterborough and he was able to report slow but satisfactory progress with industry.

WILL NOT BE DETERRED

During a question period some association members pointed out the obvious situations that existed in both Jackson Park Creek and in Little Lake. They were advised by Dr. Wells that everything was being studied and that he had no intention of being deterred in his research on the matter.

He said he would be glad to receive information at all times from members of the fish and game club and hoped that he would get it in the form of a committee report rather than from individuals. Dr. Wells was introduced by Campbell Rowatt and thanked by president Hugh Plowman.

Club business was brief. Vice-president Norm. Bradley brought up the matter of prosecution against the hunters that shot the turkey vultures in this district recently. Through the department of Lands and Forests it was found that these birds were not protected and the hunters could not be convicted.

The meeting next Monday will be devoted to the election of a new slate of officers for the coming year. The evening program was concluded with the showing of two outdoor films.

SET COMMENCEMENT DATE

Commencement exercises at PCVS this term will be held Friday, November 20, C. S. Browne, principal, announced today. Although the speaker hasn't been officially named, Mr. Browne said the practice of having a successful graduate speak would be followed again.

Picton Site For Ore Shipments

See Marmora Iron Moving By Rail By Fall Of 1954

PICTON—Pelletted iron ore from Marmora will be delivered to ships in one of Canada's oddest ore moving operations.

At the top of a tall bluff by the Long Reach, a mile north of here, a huge hole has been dug, through which a tunnel will lead. Conveyor machinery will deliver once dumped in the top to ships lying alongside the bluff.

The hole is 800 feet long, 80 feet wide and 60 deep, torn through the clay and limestone of the cliff. The tunnel is 120 feet long. At the edge of the bluff, dredging operations are in progress to ensure sufficiently deep water for Great Lakes ore boats.

TUNNEL READY SOON

It is expected the tunnel will be complete before the end of the month. Then the immense pit will be roofed with concrete trestles on which railway tracks will be laid.

Ore cars will dump directly into the pit, and a conveyor belt will move the ore to the tunnel. More conveyor machinery will carry the ore to the waiting ships.

The H. J. McFarland Co. of Picton has nearly completed its contract for excavation of 100,000 cubic yards of clay and stone. Contracts for the concrete work have not yet been awarded, but in the meantime, a spur line of the CNR is being laid across the northern outskirts of Picton.

Initial operations from Marmora to Picton are based on two ore trains daily. It is expected that ore movements will begin early in the fall of 1954.

William Graff Heads E. Ontario Film Council

William Graff, head librarian of the Peterborough public library, was re-elected president of the Eastern Ontario Film Council at the group's annual meeting in Belleville. Other delegates from the city were W. L. McNeil, principal of Armour Heights school, L. Bird and Mrs. Quirt McKinney.

At the meeting it was disclosed that Peterborough had the highest circulation of films in the eastern division. From September, 1952 to August, 1953, 132,895 Peterborough people attended 1,273 film showings. Kingston attendance was 94,838 at 1,086 showings for the same period of time. Ottawa had 69,017 at 785 showings and Oshawa had 48,214, at 537 showings.

All films refer to phases of education.

Double Parkers Beware!

Board Acts On Traffic Safety Measures

The board of works Monday night considered a number of traffic safety measures and took the following action:

Instructed the parks committee to have a survey made of shrubs and trees blocking the view of motorists at street intersections.

Approved a recommendation of the special traffic committee that double-parking be penalized under the Highway Traffic Act rather than the city bylaw.

Asked the traffic committee to have a traffic count made at the Aylmer and Sherbrooke Sts. intersection preliminary to installing a traffic light there.

The board, with the exception of Ald. H. T. Rehill, endorsed the traffic committee's recommendation not to have traffic lights operated as warning flashes in the early morning hours.

Most of these actions were the result of a report by the traffic committee and some were the result of a general discussion of the report. But the decision to have a survey of tree and shrub obstructions was the result of a letter from W. J. Arthur Fair, QC.

Mr. Fair said shrubs and fences should be strictly confined to the street line and existing ones removed.

He cited one situation which had come within his particular notice at the Hunter and Reid Sts. intersection.

Motorists proceeding on Hunter St. were forced almost into the line of Reid St. traffic in order to see whether or not there were any vehicles approaching from the north or south.

Reid St. was a provincial highway connecting link and traffic on it often exceeded 40 miles an hour, according to Mr. Fair. This made the intersection particularly hazardous.

Ald. W. J. Beggs moved that the letter be referred to the traffic committee for their consideration but City Clerk E. A. Outram suggested that there were some cases where trees and shrubs on city property obstructed the view.

Consequently, Ald. T. D. Miller amended the motion, referring the matter to both traffic and parks committees with instructions to the latter to make a general survey of all properties in the city, publicly or privately owned, where trees and shrubs constitute a traffic hazard.

In regard to the drive on double-parking, the city clerk said the police department had been attacking the problem by attempting to enforce the city bylaw. The most difficul situation arose when a couple went shopping and the husband remained behind the wheel while the wife went into a store. When a policeman came along the husband drove around the block and returned to pick his wife up later.

Under the Highway Traffic Act, he said, the policeman could take the licence number of the offender and a summons could be issued.

Mayor Hugh Waddel said in regard to the question of operating the traffic lights as flashers during the early morning hours that the chief objection of the traffic committee was the question of the city's legal position in case of an accident.

Ald. Rehill disagreed. He had first proposed the change in city council. His argument was that the purpose of traffic lights was to move the flow of traffic through the city in an orderly fashion and there was no need for them in the early hours.

He said it was frustrating to come home to the city late at night and be held up by a stop light when there was no other traffic around.

"Maybe Ald. Rehill should come home earlier," suggested Ald. A. B. Burrows.

Mayor Waddell said the chief constable had always recommended full use of the traffic lights 24 hours a day. Motorists tended to be confused by warning flashers and the tendency in other centres was to leave the lights on or turn them out altogether in the early hours.

"It's a great inconvenience, I admit," he acknowledged to Ald. Rehill. "But I think it's better to protect the driver going through the green light than to save a little time."

It was Ald. T. D. Miller's suggestion to have a traffic light installed at the Aylmer and Sherbrooke Sts. intersection. The city clerk explained that the usual practice was to make a traffic count before installing a light. Other bad corners cited were Parkhill and McDonnel Sts. and Parkhill and Reid Sts.

Bringing Royal Opera To Canada Will Be Most Costly Operation

By GLENNE CURRIE

LONDON (Reuters)—The presence of the Sadler's Wells Ballet in North America for a third time has raised the question: "When will the Wells' sister company, the Covent Garden Opera, cross the Atlantic?"

The answer is: "Not for some time," though such a trip definitely is included in the long-range plans of the Royal Opera House Covent Garden, home of the two companies.

The reasons for the delay are both financial and artistic.

Taking the opera overseas would involve an operation three or four times as big and costly as moving the ballet around. Even so, impresario Sol Hurok, who is backing the ballet, is interested in the idea.

Even more important is the fact that the opera company is still young. It started its eighth season this week and has not reached a standard where it can compete directly with New York's Metropolitan Opera.

The first Covent Garden Theatre was built in 1732.

During the Second world War the theatre was used as a public dance hall. The enforced lay-off gave the management a chance to draw up an ambitious program which it put into operation in 1946.

The new policy of the board of directors, as voiced by general administrator David L. Webster, was to "found a national lyric theatre giving the finest performances of both opera and ballet." Implicit in this was the development of an English company presenting classics and the best British works.

The theatre now is open 11 months a year. The two resident companies appear for nine months and visiting companies play short seasons for the other two months.

The ballet company was taken over ready-made from the Sadlers' Wells Theatre, with 16 years of development behind it.

The opera company presented greater problems. There was little tradition of operatic singing in Britain. Nation-wide auditions had to be held to recruit singers. A resident orchestra had to be found, designers and technicians trained, foreign operas translated—all operas in the repertory are sung in English except Wagner's "Ring" cycle—and British operas found or commissioned.

Most of all, a ticket-buying public had to be found. It soon was forthcoming, due largely to the policy of using great stars. But the public now accepts British singers on a par with the others.

Scientists Plan Atomic Heating System

SEATTLE (AP)—Scientists have perfected a revolutionary new "cheap" atomic heating system for the billion - dollar Hanford atomic works.

Senator Henry M. Jackson (Dem. Wash.) reported Monday night that General Electric Co., which operates the Hanford works for the government, needs only the approval of the United States Atomic Energy Commission to begin work on the heating plant.

He said he understands that GE will make application "very shortly" to the AEC for such authority. He placed the cost "at less than $1,000,000."

The senator, a former member of the joint congressional committee on atomic energy, said the secret process would utilize the heated waters of the Columbia river now diverted to cool the atomic piles at Hanford.

TESTED BY BRITISH

The system never has been used on a large scale, but has been pilot-tested by British scneitsts at their Harwell atomic installation.

Jackson estimated that the heating system would save the Hanford project 1,500,000 gallons of fuel oil a year, and pay for itself in 7½ years.

The process would heat all buildings on the hundreds of square miles of the Hanford reservation, in central Washington state, but would not provide a surplus for other areas.

SUPPORTS BID

The senator made the disclosure in a statement supporting GE's bid for authority to build a dual-purpose atomic electric power plant at Hanford. He declined to disclose the source of his information, but said it was "completely reliable."

An AEC spokesman indicated late last week that present policy does not favor the dual-type reactor proposed by GE. A contract was given Westinghouse Electric Corp. at the same time for a single-purpose reactor to produce industrial power only.

HITS AEC REJECTION

Jackson criticized the AEC's apparent rejection of the GE plan.

"No one knows yet which is the most economical method," he said. "Competition between the two big companies—giants in their field—should quickly determine the most efficient way to proceed."

The Westinghouse-built reactor would use uranium and produce power only. The type proposed by GE for Hanford would make plutonium and generate power simultaneously.

The atomic heating system, which would have no connection with GE's proposed atomic power plant, was perfected by scientists at Hanford and AEC laboratories elsewhere, the senator said.

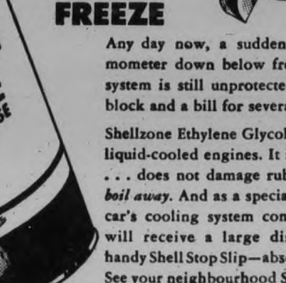
How Do You Get Cat Down From Pole? Forest Hill Resident Has $64 Question

TORONTO (CP)—What do you have to do to get a cat down from a hydro pole?

Last Sunday a cat climbed to the top of a hydro pole in suburban Forest Hill. It has remained there two days; it shows no inclination to come down and officials of two municipalities show no inclination to fetch it.

A resident in the vicinity of the cat's roost notified the humane society Monday. The society said it couldn't act in this case.

The concerned person next tried the city hall. She was told to try the Toronto hydro commission.



The hydro sent a truck and it appeared that results would be obtained. Not so. . . .

The occupants of the truck pulled out a tape rule, and after careful measurement reported that the cat was six feet outside the city limits—horizontally. The hydro truck departed.

Maybe the Forest Hill hydro commission would help? No, it had a strike on its hands, and was far too busy to help a cat.

The resident tried the Forest Hill police department. The department sent a policeman. The policeman surveyed the pole with his flashlight and then left.

The cat remained.

Vagrant Jailed

John Hawkins, 72, no fixed address, was sentenced to three months in jail Monday by Magistrate R. I. Moore when he pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy. He was remanded a week on a charge of stealing an alarm clock.

Visitors Increase

LONDON (Reuters)—More than 72,000 overseas visitors entered Britain last month — 17,300 of them from the United States. September arrivals brought the total of visitors for the first nine months of the year to 687,000, an increase of 11 per cent over the same period last year.

Sees Improved Relations With Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential secretary James Hagerty contended Monday night that the Eisenhower administration has improved relations with the press and that a news "leak" on its appointment of Chief Justice Earl Warren was no payoff to friendly newspapers.

Raymond P. Brandt, chief of the Washington bureau of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, took an opposite position during a televised discussion. Brandt said he thinks press relations have worsened "because of the attitude of the Eisenhower administration."

And Brandt said that when Attorney-General Herbert Brownell leaked word of the forthcoming appointment of California's Governor Warren to be chief justice, it was to a few pro-Eisenhower newspapers and "looked like a payoff."

"Wait a minute," Hagerty broke in. "Wait a minute . . . that last statement just isn't true."

THINGS IMPROVED

Hagerty and Brandt appeared on a television program, "The Big Issue—The Administration and the Press."

Hagerty said he believes reporters in Washington "do get the news and get it more fairly and more accurately than they did in the past administration." He said he believes the administration "is honestly trying to see that the newspaper men in Washington get the news."

Hagerty said the administration expects to put into effect within two weeks a proposed information order which will deprive 29 government agencies of the right to put a secrecy label on documents. In 16 other departments, he said, the right to "classify" papers will be limited to the head of the agency.

10 Polio Cases

WINNIPEG (CP) — Ten more polio cases and the death of a baby from the disease were reported Monday by Manitoba health authorities. The baby was Helene Gauthier, eight days old, of St. Boniface. Provincial case total for the year now stands at 2,164. There have been 79 deaths.

Ex-Princess Robbed

TOKYO (Reuters) — A burglar broke into the home of former Princess Yori and her farmer husband, Takamasa Ikeda, today, a few hours before Emperor Hirohito and Empress Nagako arrived for a visit. The burglar alarm at the farm brought armed police from nearby Okayama city rushing to the house. They arrested a suspect with a silver jewel box.

Mrs. Basha, a stateless White Russian, was ordered deported on the expiration of her Italian passport, issued during the lifetime of her second husband, an Italian citizen. In 1950 she married an American citizen in Brazil.

Man Jailed 7 Days For Drunk Driving

Gordon A. Meredith, 24, of R.R. 5, was Monday sentenced to seven days in jail when he was convicted by Magistrate R. I. Moore of drunk driving.

The charge was laid after Meredith was arrested the night of October 9. Constable Harold Andrew testified that Meredith had to be lifted out of his car, parked with the motor running "in the middle of King St.," and carried to the police cruiser.

The officer said Meredith didn't come to until just before he was taken to the cells.

Defence counsel W. J. Arthur Fair submitted there was no evidence the car was in operating condition, although the engine was running.

Magistrate Moore ordered the car impounded for three months.

Cattlemen See Little Hope Of Gov't Help

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders in a cattle men's "caravan" hold little hope that Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson will yield to their pleas for immediate government guarantees on American livestock prices.

Looking beyond their face-to-face encounters with Benson, however, they foresee a heated fight over the issue when Congress reconvenes in January, and possibly growing support for their stand.

Many congressmen, facing an election in 1954, already have taken note of signs of general dissatisfaction among farmers.

CONVERGE ON WASHINGTON

About 350 cattle raisers from 30 states, declaring they face disaster from falling prices, converged on Washington by bus and car. At a mass meeting with Benson Monday, they talked of severe economic losses and predicted depression and distress in the cattle lands unless further action is taken promptly.

Benson told them his mind is open—but he also voiced misgivings about the workability of a program of cattle price supports.

Hold 2 Boys In School Fire

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Two 'teen-aged boys were held by police today for questioning about a two-alarm fire that roared through a three-storey abandoned school building Monday night.

Police said the boys, one 16 and the other 15, were among a group of youths who fled from the building after the blaze started. The others escaped.

Acting fire commissioner Harold G. Rainey said it would be impossible to make an immediate estimate of the damage to the building because of its age and the fact that it was not in use. The brick structure was built in 1888.

Police quoted the boys as saying they were rigging a club house in the old building. They said they tried to extinguish the fire before they fled.

Hospital Quarantined

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Metropolitan hospital in downtown Philadelphia has been closed by quarantine because of an outbreak of typhoid fever. The quarantine action was taken Saturday by the city health department's division of communicable diseases, it was disclosed Monday. There are three typhoid cases there.

No Noise Hallowe'en

VANCOUVER (CP)—City council took the bang out of Hallowe'en Monday, for all the minors in town. Council voted to bring down a by-law banning the sale of fireworks to all minors and restricting their general sale to three days before Hallowe'en. The by-law will also prohibit the use of fireworks on city streets.

Campbellford Boy Wins Scholarship

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — John Mull, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Mull of Campbellford has been awarded the William Edward Corlett Memorial scholarship which will provide him with an annual income with which to pursue the study of medicine at the University of Toronto for four years.

The scholarship is awarded by the University of Toronto.

John, who is a graduate of the Campbellford High School, won several scholarships while attending school here.

Costa Rica, most southern state of Central America, abolished its army in 1948.

Dulles Refuses Lift Aid Ban

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary John Foster Dulles is reported determined to maintain an almost-complete ban on American economic aid to Israel despite mounting public pressure for reconsideration of his move.

Dulles, supported by President Eisenhower, is said to be spurning appeals to change his stand. The state department has withheld major aid funds until Israel abides by a United Nations commission ruling that it stop building a hydro-electric project along the Jordan river frontier with Syria.

Hundreds of American Jews have written the state department urging it at least to modify the embargo on American aid money.

Dulles ordered a halt in remitting some $60,000,000 in American aid scheduled to go to Israel for development purposes late last month. He disclosed the decision last week, saying he made it because Israel was defying a UN commission order that it stop trying to divert Jordan waters.

Period Furs Shown At Fur Show

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Period furs rubbed sleek shoulders with modern Canadian mink and sable garments at a West End fashion parade covering 75 years of fur styles.

To celebrate its 75th birthday a British company (National Fur) reconstructed styles they had sold through the years.

So, for photographic purposes, a mannequin wearing a £3,500 wild mink coat strolled down Park lane linking arms with a period model in egg-plant satin gown topped by a sealskin jacket bound with skunk and trimmed with jet.

ELEGANT MINK

The elegant Canadian mink, with its full swing back, deep Magyar sleeves tapering to small turn-back cuff and "sunray" treatment across shoulders and back, is typical of the high-priced Commonwealth furs now sold by most ranking British furriers.

Back in 1878, however, it was a different story. In those days founder Arnold Barder opened a small shop in Kensington's Brompton road. He started production of fur jackets in sealskin, skunk and Persian lamb at prices acceptable to a wide market, at a time when furs of ermine and sable were worn mostly by queens and princesses.

CANADIAN SABLE—A new favorite among London fashions is Canadian sable in wide stoles of around six skins, priced at 30 guineas (about $90) a skin. They are elegant day or evening wear.

By 1901, the year of the Boer war and the death of Queen Victoria, the firm produced chinchilla coats for day wear and Russian sable lined with ermine for evening capes in the expensive bracket.

The Edwardian lovely of 1907 fancied ermine capes and coatees. In 1911, coronation year of George V, fur taste reverted to moleskin, seal and coney. Post-war year 1919 saw coats of antelope in loose-fitting styles and by 1928, when women first got the vote, favorite furs were Persian lamb and skunk.

MUSKRAT POPULAR

By 1933 the trend towards Commonwealth skins was evident in the popularity of muskrat, known here as musquash. It remained a first favorite for many years. Just before the Second World War, women tired of muskrat might purchase black-and-white African kid coats. Then, with the 1947 new look, the trend turned to soft skins like natural otter.

Now, from the Queen downwards elegant women with money to indulge their fancy choose Canadian wild mink, ranch mink, sable and dyed ermine. Muskrat and Canadian squirrel have lost ground to the lesser-priced brushed beaver lamb and baby beaver skins.

Fur preference and styles have changed little since last year. Coat backs are straighter with side fullness, important sleeves have wide or narrow cuffs and collars range from small roll to deep capes that can be drawn around the ears.

Stoles still hold favor and a new favorite is Canadian sable in wide stoles of around six skins. Priced at £30 a skin, they are elegant choice for day or evening wear.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Elliott Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Elliott, 595 Chamberlain St., were joined by their entire family on Sunday to celebrate their Golden Wedding anniversary.

Mr. Elliott was born in Yorkshire, England, and his bride, the former Ann C. Gray, in Sunderland, England. They were married in St. John's Church, Sunderland, on October 25, 1907.

After the birth of their first son, Norman, the couple came to Canada and settled in Collingwood in 1920. Mr. Elliott began working in the shipyards there and later joined the Great Lakes shipping fleet, which he served for a number of years. During this time, the couple moved from Collingwood to Port Dover, to Parry Sound and finally to Peterborough. Of their six children, two of whom are deceased, all but two were born in a different town.

Until recently Mr. Elliott was engaged as a salesman for an engineering company, and to keep active after his retirement he is now employed at the Raybestos Co.

STILL YOUNG

Both are in their early seventies and are quite active. Their conversations and actions still maintain the sparkle of youth.

Joining them for the weekend celebration were sons Norman, of Brantford, Ernest, of Detroit, Kenneth, who is at present attending Western University in London where he is taking post-graduate studies, and daughter Mrs. Mel Elliott (Kathleen), 125 Clonsilla Ave., Peterborough, with their respective families. There are seven grandsons and one granddaughter.

At the dinner on Sunday, the couple were presented with a gift of $200, artistically packaged in a handworked paper wallet. The wallet was made by son Kenneth.

After the dinner, family and friends were entertained at the home.

Garrett-Edwards

The marriage took place Saturday in the parsonage of George Street United Church, of Evelyn Mae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Edwards of Halls Glen, to Stanley Ernest Garrett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Garrett of Hastings. The Rev. A. A. Mathews officiated.

The bride was gowned in ivory satin fashioned with moulded bodice of lace and long lace sleeves coming to a point over her hands, with full satin skirt, a beaded crown headdress held her full length embroidred silk veil. She carried a bouquet of Bettertime red roses.

Miss Mary Edwards was bridesmaid wearing a gown of pale green satin and lace with hat to match. She carried a nosegay of pink and white carnations. Mr. Isaac Garrett brother of the groom, was best man.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents where a buffet lunch was served. The bride's mother received in a navy suit dress with a corsage of pink carnations, assisted by the groom's mother wearing black with a corsage of white 'mums. Guests were present from Hastings, Trenton, Kingston, Peterborough and Young's Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Garrett will live in Hastings.

POPULAR FLOWER

Chrysanthemums of various forms are grown in every country of the world except Australia.

As the sun goes down tonight...

...it will be the signal for a great spectacle to spread westward across this broad land of ours. Millions of people will see it, yet scarcely one of them will think it worthy of comment. It is the forgotten wonder, lost among so many newer wonders. It is electric light.

From myriad city windows it will shine forth, creating its own beautiful patterns in the night, as in the view of the Vancouver waterfront above. It will stream from the open doorways of farm buildings in remote communities ... poke probing fingers of light into the sky from airport beacons ... and, everywhere, set about its task of adding pleasant hours to the day for well-earned recreation.

Today we have moved far beyond the point where we light our homes solely for the purpose of being able to see comfortably; we now devise interior lighting schemes for each room to add to the decorative effect of furniture and drapes. We have increased the intensity of outdoor lighting until there is hardly an activity of the daytime that cannot be successfully carried on "under the lights"—from playing baseball and tennis to loading freight cars and landing airliners. In our stores, we use lighting to present the goods in a sales-compelling setting. Schoolrooms have a high level of uniform light so that every pupil can study without fatigue.

Modern street lighting, not only adds to the safety and convenience of pedestrians and motorists but provides a reassuring sense of security to householders as well.

Canadian General Electric has been in the business of making electric lamps for over sixty years. It has pioneered a long succession of improvements that have resulted in better illumination—including the inside-frosted bulb, the new White Bulb with even higher efficiency and softly-diffused light, and the remarkably economical, long-life, fluorescent lamp that has revolutionized the lighting of industrial plants, stores, and offices. In no small measure, its work has resulted in the cost of good lighting falling consistently over the years. Not so many years ago a 60-watt bulb cost close to a dollar. Today you can buy one for about a fifth of that and yet it will give you much more light.

As a public service, the Company maintains a Lighting Institute where people from industry, hospitals, hotels, municipalities—wherever good lighting is needed—may learn all that is newest and best in lighting practice.

Long a leader in lighting research, Canadian General Electric can be depended upon to head the steady march of progress towards better, more efficient and more abundant light to serve Canada's needs.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT C. SPENCE of Toronto, the bride formerly Miss Dorcas Edwards, were married Saturday at George Street United Church. —(Roy Studio Photo)

Dorcas Edwards Wed Here

George Street United Church, decorated with mauve and yellow 'mums, on Saturday afternoon was the setting for the wedding of Dorcas Wilhelmina, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Edwards of Peterborough, to Mr. Robert Coutts Spence, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Spence of Toronto.

The Rev. A. A. Mathews officiated in the ceremony. Organist Mr. Charles Allen played the wedding march and during the signing of the register played organ music.

A beautiful gown of white brocaded satin with slight train was the bride's choice. The bodice had an off-the-shoulder neckline finished with shirred folds of satin and covered button trim and had long lilly point sleeves. Her waist length veil of net fell from a small saint cap of matching brocade and she carried a crescent bouquet of gardenias. She was given in marriage by her father.

Mrs. Clifford Scott of Peterborough was matron of honor for her sister and bridesmaids were the groom's sisters, Misses Patricia and Mary Spence of Toronto. Mrs. Scott wore a gown of bronze silk shantung and a feather bandeau in matching shade and carried a bouquet of mauve pom poms with demure Sweetheart roses. The Misses Spence were gowned in turquoise and mauve brocaded satin and also wore matching bands of feathers. Their bouquets were of bronze and yellow pom poms with buff Pinocchio roses.

The groom was attended by his brother Mr. Stewart Spence and the ushers were Clifford Scott and William Spence, also a brother of the groom.

The reception was at the Club Aragon where the bride's mother received, wearing purple wool crepe with a hat in lemon shade velour and a corsage of gold Sweetheart roses. The groom's mother chose dusty pink and corsage of pink Demure roses.

For their trip to Florida where Mr. and Mrs. Spence will spend their honeymoon, the bride donned a charcoal grey suit and white blouse, a black velvet hat with coral trim, white kid gloves and black accessories, and was wearing a white orchid corsage.

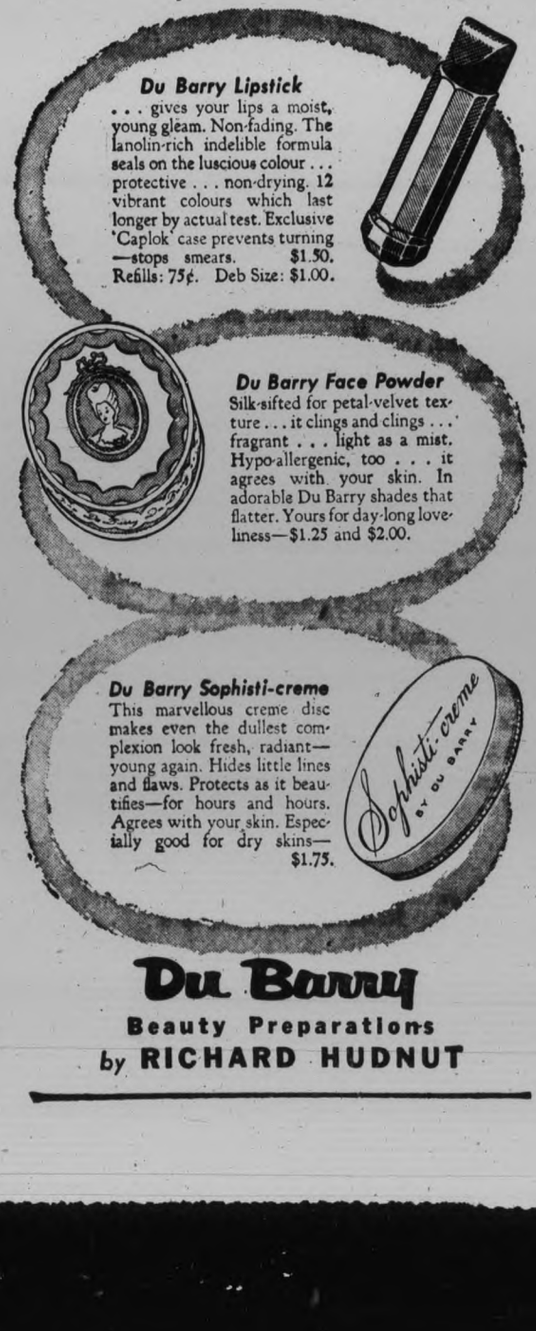
Their home will be on Yonge Street in Toronto.

Hammell-McMahon Rites

Golden chrysanthemums and roses decorated Immaculate Conception church for the marriage of Margaret Elizabeth McMahon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mathew McMahon of Peterborough to Mr. Wm. I. Hammell of Glasgow, Scotland. The Rev. G. J. O'Sullivan performed the ceremony and said the nuptial mass.

Mrs. C. O'Donnell played the organ while Mr. Anthony DeNoble sang "On This Day O Beautiful Mother", Panis Anglicus and Ave Maria, and also played the wedding march.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an effective gown of aqua irridescent taffetta in ballerina length, with jacket to match enhanced with beautiful beading in jewell tones. Her finger-tip veil of aqua was caught to an Elizabethan design crown with dainty mittens beaded to match. She carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses.



Miss Madeline Allen of Lakefield attended the bride wearing an autumn copper taffetta gown, with standing collar, buttoned bodice and ballerina length skirt with unpressed pleats. Her brown velvet hat sparkled with gold sequins and she had accessories to match. She carried a cascade of gold and bronze chrysanthemums. Mr. Bernard McMahon was best man and the ushers were John Daly of Peterborough and Robert Clegg of Toronto.

A dinner served at 11.30 a.m. at the home of the bride's parents was followed by a reception from two to four in the afternoon. The bride's mother received in navy with velvet hat to match and wore Talisman roses. The groom's sister Mrs. William Leslie from Pittsfield, Mass., received in black with rhinestone trimming and wore red roses. Musical entertainment was provided by members of the Scottish Club during the afternoon.

After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Hammell left for Toronto and Buffalo, the bride wearing a black peau-de-soie two piece suit, with powder blue feather hat and fur jacket, with corsage of roses and gardenias.

They will live in Peterborough.

Tap Dancing Music Recital

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — A tap dancing and music recital staged by pupils of Miss Donna Sharp was held at the High school on Thursday and Friday evenings of last week. The hall was filled to capacity on both nights. This was the first recital by the young teacher, and the program consisted of 65 numbers. The clever little dancers and piano players each drew much applause from the audience.

Following the program, Miss Sharp was presented with a silver necklace and bracelet from the I.O.D.E., under whose sponsorship the recital was held. She also received a bouquet of flowers and coffee table from her pupils. She replied, thanking the children for their kindness, and the parents for the co-operation she received in teaching the children.

Floris Campbell Bride Of Bruce Armstrong

A double ring marriage ceremony took place quietly on Saturday at the home of the Rev. P. F. Gardiner of Canton uniting Floris Jean, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Campbell of Campbellcroft, and Bruce David Armstrong, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Armstrong of Millbrook.

The bride wore a strapless ballerina gown with bodice of french lace joining a billowing skirt of alternate panels of tulle and appliqued french lace. Her headpiece was of matching tulle forming an Artan cap and her veil of tulle had matching french appliques at the corners. She carried a cascade of pink shaded roses and white 'mums.

Maid of honor Miss Edith Walker wore a strapless ballerina gown of blue with a matching feathered headband and carried a cascade of yellow and white shasta 'mums. Miss Bonnie Campbell, niece of the bride, wore yellow nylon over taffeta with trim of white lace and carried pink roses and white 'mums in a nosegay. Mr. Earl Armstrong was groomsman for his brother.

A reception was held in the Campbellcroft Institute Hall. The bride's mother received, wearing Copenhagen blue with wine accessories and a corsage of white and yellow 'mums. The groom's mother assisted, wearing a two piece grey ensemble with black hat and corsage of pink roses.

Later the couple left for points west, the bride travelling in a medium grey suit and wearing black and white accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong will live at Millbrook.

Silver Cross Hear Of Illumination Of Chapel Window

The Silver Cross Chapter of Peterborough met Monday evening in the YMCA Green Room. Vice-president Mrs. F. C. Paterson presided in the absence of president Mrs. A. S. Williams.

Mrs. B. D. Hall gave a glowing description of the beauty at night of the stained glass windows in the chapel at Civic Hospital which was provided by the chapter. Excellent new automatic illumination of the window, so thoughtfully donated by Dr. H. G. Carleton, greatly enhances it, she said.

Arrangements were made for a wreath to placed on the war memorial in the Armistice Day service. Reports were read by recording secretary Mrs. N. Fee, treasurer Mrs. John J. Allen and by Mrs. J. H. Coons for flowers and cards.

Mrs. T. Hendry reported a large dressed doll will be exhibited in the W. J. Hamilton store window, 186 Charlotte Street, during the first week in November. Tickets on it are being sold and the winning ticket will be drawn at the November 23rd meeting. It was planned to have the Chapter's Christmas party the same evening.

Mrs. E. Pruner was requested to send boxes to men in Korea.

Mrs. Paterson closed the meeting by reverently reading the Gladstone prayer, which was much appreciated by the ladies.

Marjory James Becomes Bride Of Maurice Lafave

At the Knox United Church Saturday afternoon at two o'clock the Rev. H. G. Douglas performed the marriage of Marjory Dorthy Aileen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morley James, to Maurice Alfred Lafave, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lafave, all of Peterborough.

The church was decorated with bronze 'mums. Mr. Wm. Potter played wedding music and Mrs. F. J. Hughes sang "O Perfect Love", and during the signing of the register "O Promise Me."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was in a gown of white bridal satin with cathedral train, made with a strapless bodice and worn with a long lace tunic which buttoned to the waist and had long sleeves pointed over the hands, which was designed and made by her mother. She wore a long veil of nylon net caught to a Juliet cap with gardenias and her bouquet was of white 'mums.

Matrons of honor were the groom's sister Mrs. Norman Fenemore and the bride's sister, Mrs. Muriel Sonier. Bridesmaids were Miss Mary James, also a sister of the bride, and Miss Marlin Abbott of Lakefield. Junior bridesmaid was Jane Anne Pilling and the flower girl a niece of the bride, Yalda Marie Sonier.

All the attendants' gowns, except the junior bridesmaid's, were designed and made by the bride's mother. They were of organdy over taffeta in the pastel shades, blue, green, pink, yellow and white over rose for the flower girl with the junior bridesmaid in white. Each wore a bolero of matching shade lace over organdy and their Juliet caps were of satin and lace. They carried bouquets of bronze 'mums with streamers.

The bride's gifts to her attendants were rhinestone crosses with the Lord's Prayer inscribed.

Groomsman was Mr. Harold Kenny. Ushers were the bride's four brothers, Morley Jr., Robert, Donald and Milton James.

The reception was held at The Maples in Omemee where 125 guests were present for a buffet luncheon. They were from Ottawa, Paris, Reaboro, Downeyville, Peterborough, Port Arthur and Omemee.

The bride's mother received, wearing a grey gabardine suit with black velvet hat and corsage of white 'mums. The groom's mother, assisting, was in a dusty rose gabardine suit and wore a small blue suede hat and corsage of white 'mums.

Leaving later on a wedding trip to Algonquin park and points north, also United States, the bride wore a navy suit with a red velvet hat trimmed with rhinestones and red accessories and a three-quarter length fur coat.

They will live in Peterborough on return.

Woman, 27, Inherits 25 Titles

MADRID (Reuters)—A chic, 27-year-old woman soon will inherit 25 titles. She is Cayetana, Duchess of Montoro, only child and heir to all the titles and property of her father, the Duke of Alba, Spanish aristocrat who died recently in Switzerland.

"Tana," as she is known to her friends, is married and has two small sons. She will become six times a duchess and 14 times a grandee; this latter being a rank which, if she were a male, would permit her to keep on her hat in the presence of the king—if there were a king of Spain.

She is named Cayetana after that Cayetana, Duchess of Alba, who died in 1802 and who, according to tradition, posed for the turbulent Spanish painter Francisco de Goya for his portraits now hung in the Prado museum in Madrid.

NUDE PORTRAIT

One picture, La Maja Vestida, shows a beautiful woman clothed in what seems to have been the 18th-century equivalent of slacks. The other picture shows her without clothes at all: La Maja Desnuda.

The Alba family has always insisted the duchess did not pose for the two pictures. The late Duke of Alba had her body raised from the tomb where it had lain for 143 years.

One doctor deduced from her bone structure that it was unlikely she was the woman who posed for the paintings.

As soon as the legal formalities have been completed, "Tana" will set aside her present title of Montoro and become Cayetana, Duchess of Alba. Her husband, Luis, will be duke-consort of Alba.

Progress Reports Given YW Board

The YWCA Board of Directors met Monday afternoon in the Blue Room, president Mrs. H. T. Rehill presiding.

As this is designated as a week of World Fellowship and Prayer in the Y, Mrs. T. J. Carley led in appropriate devotions.

It was announced that Miss Marion Foster, former program director at the Y, is to be honored by the National Board at a tea in Toronto on Thursday, and a number of her Peterborough friends are making plans to attend. Miss Foster will leave on October 29th for her new position in Surinam, Dutch Guiana.

Mrs. W. G. Ovens reported for world service and members were interested to hear that the YW in Greece was one of the first groups to be caled on for aid in the reecnt disaster.

The food service report by Mrs. Heber Rogers showed a considerable increase in catering during the month.

Mrs. C. G. Collins stated in her health education department report that there are 120 new members in the swimming groups and that gym classes are rapidly filling. Basketball is getting underway with registration of teams this Thursday night at the Y, she said.

The program department report by Mrs. T. Cook foretold busy weeks to come in the Y. Also, that the halls will ring with merriment this week as all clubs and classes hold Hallowe'en parties. A new group formed is of grade 10 girls from Kenner Collegiate, calling themselves the Kappa Y Club.

Measuring Women Aimed At Standard Sizing

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Association of Consumers' Toronto branch is lining up women volunteers to be measured in a survey aimed at standardization of women's styles.

An expert from the Ontario research foundation will take the measurements, which the association says will provide a spot check of body measurements of a cross section of Canadian women.

DOROTHY DIX

Wife Wishes For More Community Life

DEAR MISS DIX: Why don't more people live by the practice of minding their own business? I frequently encounter the attitude that if one person doesn't do things exactly the way her neighbors do, she's an outcast. Not that I think I'm perfect, but I do conduct myself in the way that I think makes for good neighborliness. I mind my own business, am on hand to help anyone who needs me, don't give advice on how to run personal affairs, nor do I run to the folks next door with tales of everything that goes wrong in my own home. I'm friendly with those around me, visit them on occasion, but don't make a practice of running in and out all the time holding up their work and neglecting my own. Ours would be a pleasant block if a few people on it acted likewise.

DORCAS E.

ANSWER: Since I live in a community singularly free of the neighborhood wrangles that beset so many of my readers, this is a problem which does not bother me—for which I am eternally grateful. Since it is so much more pleasant to live with graciousness than to exist with strife, I shall never know why so many people prefer the latter. We all need friends and none are more welcome than those who live close enough to be called upon in an emergency, or even in moments of mental depression. The cheerful response of a neighbor at a time of need is one of the blessings God has given us. Those who have never taken the trouble to earn it or — much worse—have actually repulsed it, are sorry losers.

ESTABLISHING NEIGHBORLY RELATIONS

When a family buys a house, the fact should be apparent that the home will be occupied by them for many years, that the neighbors are the background of their future living, and that establishing neighborliness will henceforth be a fundamental of family life. Perhaps, Dorcas, your example will spread your own fine philosophy of a good - neighbor policy.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: A girl friend of mine has been going with a man whose wife is a hopeless inmate of a mental institution. He won't divorce his wife, so my friend's love seems quite hopeless. Should she try to forget him?

C. R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: This a a pathetic situation for which there is little that can be done. Probably, in accordance with strict ethics, the man shouldn't be "going out" at all, but adding utter lonelness to his already burdened life isn't an easy solution. Whether your friend continues to see him or not is a matter of personal desire, and no one can tell her what to do. If the friendship means enough to her to compensate for a lack of other male companionship, that's up to her. Naturally, the practical thing would be for her to forget the man.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm concerned about two young friends. The girl is 15, the boy 16. They've been friends for some time, but recently broke up. The girl tried to patch things up, but the boy refused to accept her overtures. Now he's trying to mend the breach, and she refuses to listen.

A. F.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: At this point, it's up to the girl. She can keep the boy dangling for a while, but, eventually, she will either have to talk to him or lose him. Don't worry too much about the romance; they are both much too young to be serious, and will doubtless have many such experiences before they settle down to earnest dating.

Home and School Association News

KING GEORGE SCHOOL

King George Home and School Association members were hosts to parents and friends for square dancing and euchre at the school Friday evening. Mr. C. D. Munro, principal of the school, presented prizes to the following card game winners, Mrs. C. J. McInroy, Mr. A. G. Reynolds, Mrs. P. McFadden, Mrs. A. Scriver.

Door prizes of theatre tickets were won by Miss Pearl Mullen, Mrs. J. A. Nornabell, Mrs. George McLay, Messrs. Ross Greenly, Peter Tuck, Donald Warboy and Ernie Harding.

Room mothers and members of the executive arranged the program and served refreshments.

QUEEN MARY SCHOOL

Queen Mary Home and School Association's "Country Fair" on Friday evening attracted more than 900 parents, children and friends.

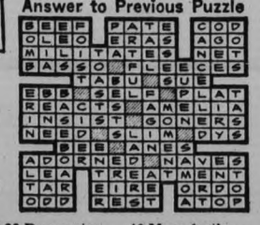
Harvest theme in the school colors, red, gold and green, decorated the classrooms and rotunda. Bright costumes, and "hard time" ones, added to the picture.

A booth sold hot dogs, cold drinks, coffee and cake, Mrs. R. Cole was in charge of a plentiful supply of pumpkins that sold quickly for Jack-o-lantern making. Home cooking in charge of Mrs. A. Legon and committee was a sell-out.

One of the most attractive tables displayed the cakes entered in the cake-decorating contest. First prize went to Mrs. J. L. Maxwell and second to Mrs. Doug. Vaisey.

Movies were shown in the auditorium and a classroom several times to accommodate the large crowd. Bingo was played in other rooms with conveners Mrs. R. Hope, Mrs. R. Shaw, Mrs. S. Johnston and Dr. R. C. Honey.

General conveners of this affair were Mrs. J. G. Wharry, Mrs. R. C. Honey and Mr. Doug. Vaisey.



In charge of soft drinks were Mrs. J. Stewart, Mrs. W. B. Brown, Mrs. S. C. Howard and Mrs. L. H. Whiteside. The coffee table was attended by Mrs. D. Aitkins, Mrs. F. McGovarin, Mrs. D. McGregor and Mrs. W. Henderson. In charge of the hot dogs were Mrs. G. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. E. Henwood, Mr. and Mrs. M. Middleton and Mr. and Mrs. G. Whiteside.

A nursery was looked after by Mrs. J. Baird.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Bridge Party For 240 Persons

Every year when our press club holds its bridge party in October I like to tell you what refreshments we served and how the quantities turned out for such a large crowd.

Last night the big event took place. It was a beautiful Fall evening and everybody that had bought tickets came—two hundred and forty strong.

We thought they had turned out so well because it was a Dessert Bridge, but the fine weather had a lot to do with the size of the attendance.

Each press clubber was to bring a homemade dessert that would serve at least eight people. We supplemented this — for safety's sake—with five gallons of ice cream and about a bushel of five different fruits—pears, grapes, apples, peaches and bananas.

One of the girls had the brilliant idea of making two superb apple pies and they were gone in the first ten minutes. (If you throw a dessert party don't go so fancy that you forget the appeal of well-made apple pies.) Another experienced hand made a very large and beautiful mould of jellied fruit which the dedicated reducers and epicures appreciated and demolished.

There were homemade eclairs and cream puffs, a seven-inch high angel food, a handsomely decorated Bavarian, chiffon pies, a Viennese Torte with eighteen eggs in it. I made an icebox dessert that would cut into any number of pieces—and I did cut it into thirty-two. The point is it was expendable and because of that virtue, and because it is relatively easy to make and the flavor is so good, I am giving you the recipe.

Icebox dessert recipes are good ones to have tucked away in your file. Nothing takes the confusion out of entertaining a crowd faster than the comfort of knowing the dessert is made and in the refrigerator.

MOCHA AMBROSIA

(a chocolate icebox dessert)

If humanly possible try to beg, borrow or steal one of those old-fashioned loaf pans that are the size of one and one-half loaves of bread—about 13x5x3 inches. If you cannot locate one use 2 average-sized loaf pans.

Three squares (ounces) bitter chocolate, ¼ lb. (½ cup) sweet butter (unsalted), 1 cup unsifted icing sugar, 2 eggs, 3 dozen lady fingers, about 2 cups cold strong coffee. Split the lady fingers in halves lengthwise. Line the loaf pan with double wax paper. Beat the butter until it is smooth and light (your electric beater is ideal for this—if you do not have one use rotary beater), and slowly add the sugar while beating. Melt the chocolate in double boiler, then let it cool somewhat. Add the eggs one at a time, beating well between each addition. Slowly add the melted chocolate while beating. Have ready—production-line style—the split lady fingers, then a shallow bowl containing the coffee, then the lined pan, then the chocolate cream mixture. Pick up a lady finger, lower it quickly into the coffee, let it drain for a moment, then place in bottom of mould crosswise. Continue until you have a closely-touching layer of lady fingers in bottom of pan, then cover them with a layer of the chocolate cream ¼-inch thick. Repeat this layering until all lady fingers and chocolate cream are used, finishing with top layer of lady fingers. Cover with double thickness of wax paper, and then weight down—I used a boxful of eggs as a weight. Chill overnight or 24 hours. Turn out on long serving dish. (I used an oblong mirror plaque.) Frost top and sides with whipped cream and garnish with "flowers" of quartered maraschinos and balanced almonds. Slice in ½-inch slices.

Church Marks Anniversary

WESTWOOD (ENS)—Anniversary services were held in the Presbyterian church on Sunday.

Large congregations attended both services. 'Mums and ferns were arranged around the altar.

The Rev. C. G. Boyd of St. Paul's church, Peterborough, preached at the morning service. In the evening the service was conducted by the Rev. Gilbert Smith of St. Gile's church, Peterborough.

Guest soloist for the day was John Rutherford of Toronto.

Two anthems were rendered by the choir, "Praise My Soul" and "Sun of my Soul."

The organist Leslie Cameron accompanied for both services.

New! LANOLINE FACE PACK tonic for tired faces FABULOUS NEW LANOLINE FACE PACK BY CHRISTY makes tired complexions glow with dew-like freshness

It's so easy! Just tear the end off Christy's revolutionary Face Pack and squeeze. This fabulous new formula can't dry out before you are ready to use it . . . its moist freshness is sealed right in the package.
First, wash with soap and water. Then apply Face Pack lavishly, leaving space around the eyes. Don't rub in—spread like butter. It takes less than a minute to cover neck and face completely.
Now, relax for 15 minutes. Feel your skin tingle as your Lanoline Face Pack goes to work, stimulating circulation, erasing tired lines, smoothing and tightening your skin. As you rest, it will dry to a chalk-like consistency.
Next, rinse off with luke warm water and apply your favorite face cream. Lanoline Face Pack has a deep-cleaning action—lifts out deep-seated grime which soap and water can't reach. It stimulates your skin—leaves it feeling petal soft.
Now, let your mirror show you the difference a single treatment can make. Your skin glows with radiant new life, sparkles with youthful colour. It feels soft, looks smooth. Tired lines have vanished like magic.
Here it is—the fabulous new beauty formula in the revolutionary package. You can even slip it in your purse and be ready for after-office dates looking fresher than springtime. It's so easy! It makes you look and feel so wonderfully fresh and radiant. Use it as often as you like. Its lanoline base is kind to your skin. At all drug and cosmetic counters. Package 35c or 3 for $1.00.

OBITUARY

MRS. JAMES H. HESS

HASTINGS (ENS)—Mrs. James H. Hess, wife of Dr. Hess of Hastings, died at the Civic Hospital Monday after a short illness. She was 64 years old.

Born at Trent Bridge, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Davidson, the former Wealthy Blanche Davidson lived in the Trent Bridge and Havelock district 41 years before moving to Hastings.

A member of Hastings Trinity United Church and the WA of that church, she leaves two sons, Greville and Alton Thompson, both of Hastings, two stepsons, Clifford Hess of St. Catharines and Everett Hess of Hastings, her husband, and three sisters, Mrs. Clifford Knox (Annie) of London, Mrs. Philip O'Brien, (Rose) of Kenora and Mrs. Gertrude Fisk of Washington, D.C.

Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday at two o'clock from her late residence to Trinity United Church. Rev. H. Cole and Rev. J. E. Glover will officiate.

Burial will be in Maple Grove cemetery, Havelock.

UN Effective

for the time being, said Mr. Laverty. It is imperfect but the organization is having some success.

NEED PUBLIC OPINION

The often suggested alternative to the United Nations is world government, said Mr. Laverty. But at the moment world government governing by world law is an impossibility. Any law to be enforced and obeyed by citizens must have public opinion to back it up. Otherwise it is useless. Prohibition laws failed in the United States because they did not have the support of the people. Part of the United States constitution guaranteeing equal rights was ignored in the southern United States. The law had no effect and was ignored because it did not have public opinion to support it and could not be enforced.

Yet advocates of the world government suggest that the world could be governede by law. They forgot that one-third of the world holds different views of government and jjustice. Government was described by Stalin as a machine in the hands of the ruling class for suppressing the opposition of its enemies.

It was the UN, Mr. Laverty reminded his audience, which halted aggression in Korea. It was quite true that the United States was the dominate power, "but there had to be someone". What was important, said Mr. Laverty, was that, for the first time in the history of the world on any large scale, there was an effective international body to check aggression on a smaller nation.

Canada should continue to give UN as much support as possible. He said Canadians should let their government know that they are not impressed by claims of economies in Canada's contributions to UN. He said Canada should not be interested in a cheap peace but should be concerned with how good a peace it could buy with its contributions.

He said the people and government should be concerned mostly with that on some tragic day we should not discover that "we spent too little and spent it too late."

Mr. Laverty was introduced by James Fraser, and thanked by Mrs. A. A. Mathews.

At the close of the program Mrs. Elmer Hagg thanked the visiting musicians and G. T. MacPherson for lending the furnishings for the stage.

Chiang Checks His New Army—

Here's the latest picture of Chiang-Kai-shek, looking very much the generalissimo, as he reviews troops of his rejuvenated Nationalist army in Taiper, Formosa. The parade was in honor of China's National Flag Day. Marooned on Formosa since Dec. 6, 1949, when Chinese Communist armies drove him off the mainland, Chiang still hopes some day to lead his armies back for the reconquest of their homeland. Troops seen in picture below seem snappy in dress, equipment and marching spirit, but Chiang will need considerably more help before his dream can be realized.

Westclox Union Meets Company On New Contract

Production workers of the Western Clock Co. meet at 10 a.m. Wednesday with management to begin negotiations on a new union contract. The union proposals include more money, fewer working hours and improved union security.

At present there are about 550 production workers in the collective bargaining unit, Local 570 of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (CIO-CCL). The one-year contract ends Dec. 1.

Chief union proposals are:

1. A union shop as a condition of employment. Present employees would automatically become members and new employees would have 15 days to join.
2. A substantial wage increase (the amount not disclosed).
3. A reduction of the present 42½-hour work week to 40 hours with no loss of take-home pay.
4. An improved vacation plan. Two weeks after three years instead of after five years; three weeks after 10 years instead of after 20; and four weeks after 20 years.
4. The company to make up the pay loss when the union member is absent from work because of jury duty or because of a family death.
5. Settlement of job inequities.
6. Increased benefits under the Blue Cross and PSI.
7. An improved seniority clause.
8. An extra statutory holiday, Remembrance Day, making nine paid statutory holidays altogether.

Members of the Local 570's negotiating committee are Gerald Dolan, chairman and president of the local, and Lionel Batten, John Bolderson, Garnet Davis and Ken Nesbitt. They are being assisted by Joe Wirtz, IUE Canadian co-ordinator.

Meeting Endorses IUE Resolution

A resolution backing two locals of CGE salaried workers—one in Peterborough and one in Toronto—was endorsed over the weekend at the annual meeting of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (CIO-CCL), in Toronto.

The two locals—599 representing 540 Peterborough workers, and 567 representing 200 Toronto Davenport workers—meet with a conciliation board Friday to try and settle a contract dispute.

The resolution was introduced by another Peterborough local, Local 570, bargaining agents for 550 production workers at the Western Clock Co.

Attending the annual meeting from Peterborough were:

Local 599—President Eric May, Ken Sutter, Gloria Lang and Len Wall.

Local 570—President Gerald Dolan, George Stewart, Bea McMahon, Bessie Smith and John Bolderson.

Local 524—Cy O'Donnell, Keith Chiles, Gordon Grant, Jack Cartwright and Cecil Viscoff.

Joe Wirtz, IUE Canadian co-ordinator, and Orville Martin, IUE organizer, were also present.

NEW BANK MANAGER

R. E. McDonald, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia in Peterborough for the past five years, has been transferred and will leave shortly to take up duties in the general office in Toronto. Mr. McDonald served a previous five years here, 1939-1946, as accountant. He will be replaced by C. I. Archibald, coming from Toronto.

BYRON JANIS TO COME

The Samson Francios concert scheduled for Wednesday evening has been cancelled, and the Community Concerts Association has secured in place of the French pianist the remarkable young American pianist Byron Janis, only pupil of Horowitz, and widely considered to be the most brilliant pianist of his age. The Byron Janis concert will be held January 13. He is now concert touring in the Netherlands.

PLAYED CHIMES

G. Fred Kingsmill of London, a visitor in Peterborough, was heard playing the chimes in St. John's Anglican Church tower this morning. Mr. Kingsmill has been interested in bells for many years and asked to play the People's Chimes here. Mr. Kingsmill was in Peterborough to address the meeting of the Lodge of Perfection Scottish Rite Masons which was held on Monday evening in the Masonic Temple.

BELT SLIPS, SMOKES

A refrigerator belt slipped at the home of Nora Butler, 271 Simcoe St., on Monday night, causing heavy smoke. Firemen were called but no extinguisher was required. Earlier rubbish fires and burning leaves were reported outside 590 and 498 Elm St., and a vacant lot at Rogers and Hazlitt Sts. Booster and handpumps were used on these.

Seeking Job Girl 18, Beaten

TORONTO (CP)—An 18-year-old Kitchener girl was beaten and left unconscious in a lane early today by an assailant police said was "old enough to be her grandfather."

Patricia Buckle told police she arrived here Monday looking for work. While waiting for a girl friend on a downtown street she said she was approached by a short, stout man of about 60. He said he owned a factory and would give her a job.

Miss Buckle said he drove her to the lane where she was beaten. She was taken to hospital and was to be released today.

Area Lt.-Governor Visits Optimist Club

Tom Kendall, lieutenant-governr of Optimists in this area, was present at a dinner held Monday night in the Colonial Room and addressed prospective members of the club.

He mentioned the ample amount of work to be done in Peterborough and the great deal of self-satisfaction to be gained from a job well done in boys' work. The international scope of Optimism embraces more than 50,000 members, he said, who last year contacted over 600,000 boys and spent more than $1,000,000 on boys, in camps, clubs, scouts and smaller endeavors.

Mr. Kendall had previously been a member of clubs in Windsor, London, Calgary, Winnipeg and now in Toronto. He was introduced by Clare Galvin, and thanked by Dr. Al McDougall.

Church Group Backs Hawaiian Echoes

CAVAN (ENS) — The North group of the W.A. of St. Andrew's United Church sponsored "Hawaiian Echoes," a program of Hawaiian music directed by Mrs. Ethel G. Cochrane of Peterborough on Friday night in the town hall, Millbrook.

After being introduced by Mrs. H. C. Argue, Mrs. Cochrane and her pupils put on a very fine program.

At the close of the program Mrs. Elmer Hagg thanked the visiting musicians and G. T. MacPherson for lending the furnishings for the stage.

Forums Provide

The individual farmer becomes self-sufficient.

"And even within the family itself, changes have revoluntionized family life and activity—especially social life. Good roads and good cars take the family to the nearby city for entertainment, instead of to the home of the neighbour."

The Farm Forum, he pointed out, makes provision for the social needs of the rural community. It brings the husband and wife together at least one night a week to discuss problems of mutual interest and concern. The conversation is orderly and centres upon definite topics to arrive at ordered conclusion, clearly stated and discussed.

"There is something thrilling to know that similar groups are meeting to deal with the same issues all across the country and that from the discussions may—and does more often than we realize—come formulated common action giving voice to the issues vital to agriculture and bringing pressure for effective legislation in parliament.

HUGE CONTRIBUTIONS

"The Farm Forum is making tremendous contributions toward the creation of 'oneness' in aim and purpose and in removing sources of friction and misunderstanding not only within agricultural interests themselves, but as between farmers and industry and retail merchants. Only what is good and helpful to the common good can be the oucome of the broadcast (Farm Forum) and group discussions."

Following Mr. Larke's address, Eleanor Syracuse, first girl president of Jr. Farmers in this district, and presently engaged as a fieldman for Folkschool Council, was introduced.

She stressed the fact that "we are part of the sum of the total", and that each can aid in the easing of frustration and strife prevalent today.

"There are three means at present by which farm people can aid their organization, (1) Farm Forum, (2) Leadership Workshops and (3) World Leadership Forum."

Miss Syracuse invited the group to consider the possibility of establishing a leadership school for this area.

Four Cars Derailed On Freight Train

SUDBURY (CP)—Four cars on a Canadian Pacific Railway freight train were derailed early today 35 miles south of here. No one was hurt.

Traffic was delayed several hours while the track was cleared. Cause of the derailment of No. 5 freight, travelling from Toronto to Sudbury, was unknown.

Board To Hear IUE Dispute Toronto Friday

First meeting of a three-man conciliation board to try and settle the contract dispute between 740 CGE salaried workers and management will be Friday morning in Toronto.

Chairman of the board is Judge J. C. Reynolds of Kingston. The other two members are Pat Tirrell of Toronto, union nominee; and C. B. C. Scott, also of Toronto, management's nominee.

The International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (CIO-CCL) are the bargaining agents for 540 salaried workers in Peterborough, and another 200 at the Davenport CGE works in Toronto.

Among the union demands are:

1. A reduction of the work week from 40 to 37½ hours, with no loss of take-home pay. (The 37½-hour week is already in effect in Toronto.)
2. A general wage increase of $5 a week.
3. An inequities pool of five cents an hour, based on the number of employees, to raise salaries of workers the union feels have too low pay.
4. The cost-of-living bonus, the equivalent of nine cents an hour, to be incorporated into the pay.
5. A health and welfare plan, the costs which would be shared 50-50 by the parties to the agreement.
6. Three weeks' vacation after 10 years instead of after 20 years.

The two-year contract ended April 2, 1953.

Union Paying $100,000 Week

TORONTO (CP) — A spokesman for the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) Monday night said the union is spending $100,000 a week in its fight with the mine operators in northern Ontario and Quebec.

William Sefton, chairman of the USWA's strike fund committee in Toronto, told the Toronto Labor Council (CIO-CCL) that with 7,000 gold and copper miners on strike the union is supporting about 18,000 persons.

The speaker was appealing for funds from affiliated unions. He asked each member of the TLC to contribute $1 a month to the strike fund and to set aside additional contributions to buy Christmas toys for the children of the miners.

Mr. Sefton also asked for clothing because he said the strikers were in "a fight to the finish and a fight to the death." He said that even "if we have to beg, borrow or steal, we're going to win the strike."

New Floods Batter Italy

ROME (Reuters)—Violent rain storms brought new floods to Italy today as the cabinet met to decide on immediate and long-term aid for people already hit, particularly in the backward and desperately-poor Calabria province in the extreme south.

The new floods swept through low-lying ground in northern Italy, in the south, in east Sicily, and in northern Sardinia.

In the north, the Po, Italy's longest river, rose hourly under the lash of heavy rain. Meteorologists predicted more rain in the next 24 hours. In Sicily, rain has been falling continuously for 72 hours.

Damage to public property in Italy already totals about $5,000,000. It is still impossible to calculate damage to crops and private property.

Some 100 people are believed to have died.

Two Enter Contest For Lindsay Mayor

LINDSAY (ENS)—The Mayorality contest has shaped up as a contest between former Alderman Lloyd Burrows and Deputy Reeve Bert Hick.

Mr. Burrows, a Lindsay funeral director, was five years on council when, last year he contested the mayorality against Mayor Charles Lamb. He lost by three votes, after a recount.

Deputy Reeve Hick has been a member of council for several years, holding his present position for the last two terms.

Mayor Lamb announced over a month ago that he would not seek re-election after he received the appointment as harness racing director of the Ontario Commission. He said at the time that his new job would take too much of his time for him to maintain his seat on the council.

Nightclub Singer Punched In Face

TORONTO (CP)—A pretty night-club singer was punched in the face Monday night when she told a customer she didn't have time to sing "Richochet Love."

Police booked Raymond Davie, 28, of Toronto with assault and beating a woman, as well as being drunk.

Catherine Johnson, 22, said she told Davie she didn't have time to sing his request. She said he flicked a cigaret butt in her face and slugged her.

La Rosa Sparks New Uproar Hopes To Wed Singer On Show

NEW YORK (AP)—Singer Julius La Rosa says he hopes to marry attractive Dorothy McGuire, but her father insists the whole affair is "just publicity—just lies."

Efforts to obtain comment from Miss McGuire—a member of the cast of the Arthur Godfrey radio and television programs from which La Rosa was fired last week—were unavailing.

The matter of a La Rosa-McGuire romance was brought up anew Monday by La Rosa, who said in an interview that Miss McGuire is the only girl he has ever wanted to marry. However, the crooner said, there are religious and legal problems to be worked out.

La Rosa, 23, is a Roman Catholic; Miss McGuire, 22, is not. Moreover, she is still married to a service man, Sgt. John Brown, now in Korea. Her mother is a minister, Rev. Lillie McGuire, of Miamisburg, Ohio.

The Brooklyn-born La Rosa said he has been conferring with a priest on his problem, but declined to say whether he will wed without approval of his church.

LIES, LIES, LIES

In Miamisburg Monday night, Miss McGuire's parents said reports of a marriage for their daughter and La Rosa are lies. They added that they are sure "she is just as aggravated . . . as we are."

Asa B. McGuire, the entertainer's father, said Dorothy and her soldier husband are "happily married."

Mrs. McGuire resigned as pastor of Miamisburg's First Church of God last year after her daughter went to New York.

FIRST HINT

La Rosa's relationship with Miss McGuire first came out in the furor over La Rosa's ouster by Godfrey a week ago. There were reports that it might have had something to do with the firing.

Reporters who sought to reach Miss McGuire were barred Monday from the CBS studios where the Godfrey morning program originates.

On the program, Godfrey made an oblique reference to the case: "Oh, I've still got a few friends. I seemed to have been singularly devoid of them in the past week."

Stirling Boys Win

STIRLING (ENS) — Stirling High School rugby team defeated Tweed by a score of 11-6 in a game last Wednesday.

In the first quarter Tweed scored a single on a kick. In the second, Stirling player Chambers went over on a plunge. The convert was missed.

In the last quarter Hermiston scored standing up through the right side of the line. The convert was successful and the score ended 11-6.

Semi-Finals To Be Rough Filchock Says

By WILF CHISLETT

REGINA (CP) — Playing-coach Frank Filchock isn't exactly moanin' the blues when he says the Western Interprovincial Football Union semi - final between his Saskatchewan Roughriders and Winnipeg Blue Bombers "is gonna be awful rough—we're gonna be lucky to get past Winnipeg."

"They have lots of material—lots of good Canadians," said Filchock who has watched 20 years of football slip by since he first donned a uniform for Indiana University. Filchock herds his team onto the train tonight for Winnipeg. Riders meet Bombers Wednesday night in the first game of the two-game total - point series, then head home for the second game Saturday afternoon. Frank established himself as a star-gazer last year when he piloted Edmonton Eskimos into the Grey Cup game where Eskimos lost 21-11 to Toronto Argos.

NOT SAYING

He predicted a win right along. But he isn't saying anything now.

"We're going to play these games one at a time," he says.

The reason is Roughriders are down to six imports compared to the eight allowed and haven't got too many experienced Canadians for relief.

Ruby, Wozniak, Cassidy, Marlow—they have to go almost the full 60 minutes," Filchock says.

He'll probably have to do the quarterbacking chores himself. Import Glenn Dobbs, Saskatchewan's big gun in the passing department, has been on the shelf most of the time since he injured a knee Oct. 3. Dobbs isn't expected to be ready for the semi-final. Neither are import Stan Williams, an outstanding two-way man at offensive end or defensive half, and Art McEewan, Canadian-born guard, out half the season with a dislocated shoulder.

Havelock News

Mrs. W. Stevenson and granddaughter, Evelyn and Margaret Ann Stevenson, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Allison, Peterborough.

A family reunion, which took the for mof a social evening, was held Friday at the home of Mrs. John Thompson in honor of her brother, Mr. David Menzies, of Beatty, Sask., who is spending a vacation with relatives in Havelock and district and Peterborough. Among the relatives present was Mrs. John Allison of Seymour township a sister.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hall, Leonard and Lloyd of Orillia were weekend guests of the former's sister, Mrs. Wesley Sawyer and Mr. Sawyer.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Farr, spent the weekend in Picton with the latter's brother, Mr. Grant Maidens.

Mrs. H. Washburn and Wayne of Toronto, spent the weekend with her daughter, Mrs. Eric Bedore and Mr. Bedore.

Pte. David Menzies of the DVA hospital, Kingston, spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Menzies.

Commits Suicide

BOURNEMOUTH, Eng. (Reuters)—A 15-year-old schoolboy committed suicide over a theft of four pence, it was stated at his inquest here Monday. Police had questioned Peter Harrison and another boy about money stolen from a church offertory box, and they were scheduled for an appearance in juvenile court. Last Friday Harrison was found hanging from a tree.

Gold Restrictions Lifted

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — The South African government Monday announced it has abandoned a self-imposed restriction of selling only processed gold on the free market. It now will sell gold in bars and not in strips and plate as formerly. The government said this change will give this gold-producing country a greater scope for sales and probably more profits to mines.

A CROWD of 1,500 fans of the body bemuscled saw Montrealer Billy Hill crowned Mr. Canada for 1954. Hill placed second in the event last year which has entrants from all over the dominion. Hill faced five judges who award points for muscular development, poise, posture, skin tone and personality.

Three New Directors Named At Annual Co-Op Meeting

Directors elected at the annual meeting of Peterborough Co-operative Services Monday night were: Willard G. Waterman, Harold Millen and Harry Lockington. They were nominated for three-year terms.

The other directors comprising the board are: W. Clarence Mann, Vern Campbell, Stewart Nelson and Clifford Johnston.

Mr. Waterman told the meeting of around 150 men and women that after 13 years on the board he felt that he should retire. However, he was pressed to leave his name on the ballot.

Vern Campbell, president, was chairman of the dinner meeting at the Empress Hotel at which Dr. H. L. Patterson, economist of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, was the guest speaker.

The financial statement for the Co-op year ending June 30, showed net savings of $7,610. Against that sum was a loss at Havelock for eight months of some $2,000, leaving a net profit of more than $5,000.

Mr. Campbell emphasized that essence of the financial position as compared with a previous deficit of $20,000.

INTEREST TOO MUCH

Recalling a statement of policy at the annual meeting last year, Vern Campbell in his presidential review said the directors and management had kept two things before them since then, service to the members and protection of the members' equity. In a further recollection, Mr. Campbell said that at a meeting in April, 1950, "we took stock of our financial position and decided to do something about our financial structure. We realized that we were paying too much interest, and that was money going outside our membership."

Bank interest at that time was $16,000 in one year. The financial statement for this year showed no bank overdraft nor loan. A $40,000 mortgage taken by the Ontario government has been reduced to $21,200 by payment of the current instalment of $5,400.

"The bank loan has been wiped out," Mr. Campbell said. "To improve our position we undertook a retrenchment program. We sold the Sunderland branch to its members at full book value. We believed that the Havelock branch could generate more enthusiasm by having their business in their own hands."

Mr. Campbell mentioned a remark which had impressed him at a zone meeting in the local office of the Department of Agriculture. Hugh Bailey, of United Co-operatives, spoke of a new service which had been undertaken to assist co-operatives.

Mr. Campbell said he enquired into that proposal, discussing it with the bank and Queen's Park, and finally "we went to the United Co-operatives, and the rest of the story you know. We owe them a great deal for the assistance we have received from them."

MANAGEMENT GOOD

The agreement with UCO brought about a change in management. "We had good managers but they lack the necessary experience. All that has taken place in the last 18 months. I'd like to point out that our manager came into office when business volume had declined. He has put our house in good order, and has shown us a profit at the end of our financial year. We placed our confidence in him (Gordon W. Hern), and he placed his confidence in you as our members. Now, from here on what will you do about it?

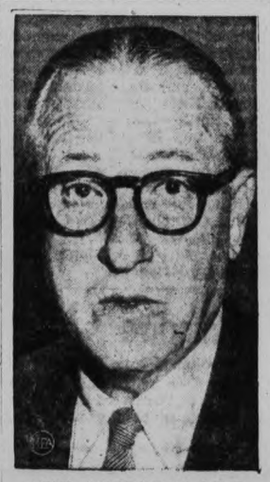
"We have have done better than break even, but your board and management are far from satisfied yet. We know that with your support we will be able to pay a dividend next year, and that then you will have something to take home with you."

Mr. Campbell expressed the members' appreciation of the staff for the important work they had done this last year. Of the board he said that not one of the directors had been absent whenever any serious questions were to be discussed.

"I also wish to thank our members for their loyalty. Without them and their spirit we simply would not be here. We greatly appreciate the work of our manager. No one knows better than your directors how he has tried to give us a statement that would be in the black ink this year."

In his report as general manager, Gordon W. Hern thanks the directors and members for their support during the year since he had come to Peterborough a stranger.

JUSTIFIED PREDICTION



"I said at our last meeting that with your support we were hoping to convert a loss of $20,000 into an even break or better in one year. That was really sticking my neck out. I am happy to say tonight that our faith and prediction have been justified with the help of our board and our staff."

Mr. Hern mentioned the retrenchments, the reduction in overhead, inventories, staff, interest payment and other costs to bring about savings for the year of $7,610, or a net of more than $5,000 after closing out the Havelock branch.

"Part of our success has been due to three groups: Toronto (UCO) who listen to us and try to find the answers we need; our board of directors and my staff, loyal and conscientious. We feel assured that we are now in a position so that with the same volume of business as last year you can make a little money. But, we are are really hoping that our business will expand in volume. So, the rest is up to you, our members. For the year ahead all we ask is your best support."

Clinton Crosswell, representing G. H. Ward, auditor, told the members that at the end of June the Peterborough assets were 2½ times the liabilities. "Your financial position at the present time is excellent. Your business for the first three months of your present financial year is showing a profit on operations."

At the head table with Mr. Campbell were: Dr. Patterson, Claude Brillinger, Toronto, field supervisor for the United Co-operatives of Ontario, Clint Croswell, Toronto, of the auditing firm of G. H. Ward and Co.; Bert Doherty, Toronto, manager of the electric department of UCO; Gordon Hern, Clifford Johnston, secretary of the Peterborough Co-op; and others.

Bethany Pastor Native Of Newfoundland

BETHANY (ENS) — The Rev. Lawrence Norman, the new United Church minister, took his first service here on Sunday.

"Mastering Our Difficulties" was his theme. "If we have faith in a loving heavenly Father who has supreme control over all our destinies, all the chaos in the world will eventually come out right," he said. "There are international, national, church and individual mountains or difficulties to overcome, but faith can remove all mountains."

Mr. Norman was born in Pacquet, Newfoundland and immigrated to Canada six years ago, two years before Newfoundland became the junior province. Asked his opinion of Newfoundland coming into Confederation, Mr. Norman believes that Canada acquired an added strength while Newfoundland acquired added security.

THRIFTY FOLK

"Newfoundlanders are thrifty folk," he said. "There are now great possibilities for development of natural resources with Canadian financial backing."

Mr. Norman received his preliminary education in Newfoundland and taught school there for 14 years. He has two brothers in the ministy, both of whom were his pupils during his teaching terms.

He took his first year in theology at Pine Hill, Halifax, and during that summer was the student minister at Sambo, N.S. Next year saw him enter McGill University in Montreal. A year off from studies took him to North Portal, Sask., back to McGill for a second term, again as a student minister at Kinnears Mill, Que., and later at Aultsville, Ont.

He was ordained at Ottawa in May, 1952, and since July of that year had been serving in Thomasburg. Through the Peterborough Presbytery he was then transferred to Bethany to fill the vacancy created by the sudden death of the Rev. Clifford Grant.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman have two children, Teddy, 12, and Barry, 2, both of whom are entered as pupils at Bethany school. Sharing their home is Mrs. Norman's mother, Mrs. Batstone, and their niece, Miss Verna Batstone, who arrived from Greenbank, Newfoundland last Saturday.

The Crow and the Pitcher

A THIRSTY CROW found a Pitcher with some water in it, but so little was there that, try as she might, she could not reach it with her beak, and it seemed as though she would die of thirst within sight of the remedy. At last she hit upon a clever plan. She began dropping pebbles into the Pitcher, and with each pebble the water rose a little higher until at last it reached the brim, and the knowing bird was enabled to quench her thirst.

Cross Country Cargo Service Called Vital To Country

OTTAWA (CP)—C. H. (Punch) Dickins, president of the Air Industries and Transport Association, said Monday the pending cabinet decision on Canadian Pacific Airline's application for a cross-Canada cargo service is "vital" to the future of the country's air development.

Mr. Dickins, a former northern bush pilot and one of aviation's most colorful pioneers, recalled in his presidential address that Transport Minister Chevrier at last year's annual meeting of AITA "announced his intention to permet limited competition in certain areas."

CPA has applied for a licence to run a Montreal-Vancouver cargo service in competition with Trans-Canada Air Lines' combined passenger-cargo service, which has been given exclusive cross-country rights. The federal cabinet has discussed the question at length, but Prime Minister St. Laurent said recently there is still a difference of opinion.

VITAL DECISION

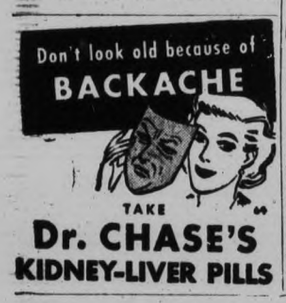
In a speech prepared for the AITA annual convention, Mr. Dickins said that on the cabinet decision "hinges a very vital policy for the future." The AITA has 176 flying and aircraft manufacturing companies on its membership, including CPA and TCA.

The question was: can Canada now support more than one air service in certain areas, or air services of different types between our larger centres of population?

"We hope for a favorable answer soon."

While Mr. Dickins did not say what he considered to be a "favorable decision, his remarks were prefaced and followed by an enthusiastic review of aviation development. He began by noting that December will mark the 50th anniversary of the first flight by the Wright brothers.

Turning to aircraft manufacturing, he said it appeared the industry has passed a peak, and is faced with a "levelling-off" period until a new program can be established. Employment would decline.



NO PESSIMISM

"Just what level of employment will be maintained is the problem of the immediate future. . . . There does not appear to be any reason for pessimism in the general outlook.

"There are some developments on the horizon. The RCAF is studying the possibility of production in Canada of a large four-engined aircraft for maritime anti-submarine reconaissance to replace the Lancaster. The RCN also is studying the Canadian production of the Grumman S2F patrol plane to replace the obsolete Grumman Avenger on the new aircraft carrier Bonaventure.

"Aside from these two projects there will be the eventual replacement fighter for the Sabre, and the CF-100, but these are developments that will take several years. Therefore it seems inevitable that there will be a levelling-off in manufacturing until a replacement program is definitely decided.

"It is essential to maintain sufficient facilities and personnel to protect ourselves—and never let the industry lapse to the almost zero level of 1945-46."

The Movie Column

2 Old Timers Expert Scene Stealers

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — If newcomer Tony Curtis was sweating through his movie scene, there was good reason. He was playing with two actors who had a mere 88 years of film experience between them.

Eager young Tony was holding his own. But he couldn't hope to beat out a couple of scene stealers like Paul Kelly and Sidney Blackmer. These boys have been around.

"I think I go back farther than anyone around here," said Blackmer confidently. "I was with Pearl White in 'The Perils of Pauline.'"

"Hold on," Kelly corrected. "Can you go back as far as 1907? I do."

"That beats me," Blackmer shrugged.

JUST WATCHING

Kelly explained that he lived near the old Vitagraph studio in New York when he was a boy. He was doing stage roles at the time, and he would drop into the studio to ask about jobs. He became "the Vitagraph Boy" and starred in the first one- and two-reelers ever made.

Blackmer broke into pictures even more accidentally.

"In 1911, I was up in New York on a vacation from studying law at the University of North Carolina," he said. "I happened to be watching them make some movies in Union square when I was picked out of the crowd.

"I was told to report the next day in a dress suit. I didn't have one, so I hocked a prep school graduation present. I was there and ready for work the next day."

Both men went on to do hundreds of movies; Kelly figures he has appeared in more than 500. Both have combined stage and screen work throughout their careers. Strangely enough, although they were stars as leading men, they found their greatest success in later life.

BROADWAY HIT

Kelly went back to Broadway after the last war and was a hit in "Command Decision." He repeated a couple of years ago with "The Country Girl." Blackmer walked off with nearly all the acting awards when he played "Come Back, Little Seba" with Shirley Booth in New York and on the road.

Their stage hits brought them new prosperity in films. "My best period," reported Kelly, "was after 'Command Decision.' I came back to Hollywood and made more for doing less than I ever have in my life."

Although they have known each other since 1920, they have never appeared together until now.

Eden Defends Declaration

LONDON (Reuters) — Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden Monday defended 16-nation declaration of last August which said that if the Korean armistice were breached it would be impossible to confine hostilities to Korea.

Socialist Douglas Jay asked him in the House of Commons to admit the declaration was "a serious mistake."

"No," Eden replied, "I don't think it was a mistake, nor do I think it says anything specifically new. As a warning I think it might well have been useful but it did not add to our existing commitments."

(When the declaration was published the British government was widely criticized by Socialists and others for joining in the implied threat to Communist China. Critics claimed it committed Britain to further military action in Korea.)

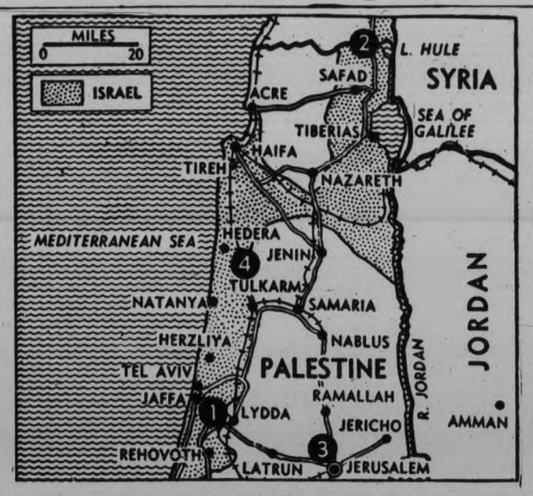
Anti-Red PoW Tortured Allies Told

SEOUL (AP)—The second Republic of Korea soldier to renounce communism said Monday he was tortured by Red-influenced RoK prisoners because he had torn down anti-American posters in a PoW compound.

Cpl. Jo Kyu Mun, 21, told his story after he was turned over to the Allies at Panmunjom today by the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission.

Jo said in an interview that the Communists have been sneaking propaganda newspapers into neutral zone prisoner compounds where 333 RoK prisoners are held for "explanations."

Jo said his hands were tied behind his back and a rope was tied around the bonds and thrown over the limb of a tree. Then he was hoisted and left hanging for 30 minutes.



Jailed Two Years On Additional Charges

WALKERTON (CP) — Thomas William Boyd Monday was convicted on two additional charges of breaking and entering and theft of Sten guns from Wolseley barracks at London and sentenced to two years in Kingston Penitentiary.

Last week Boyd was sentenced to two years in Kingston on 12 charges of breaking, entering and theft. He was sentenced to one year for the theft of a truck at Teeswater.

For breaking and entering and theft at Pettmens garage at Nile, in Huron county, Boyd was sentenced to two years.

The sentences will run concurrently.

ISRAEL AND ARABS FIGHT—The Arabs have charged that Israeli forces attacked a Jordanian village in which 54 persons were killed. Attacks were also reported to have been made on Lydda (1) and other villages in that area. Syria has asked the UN Security Council to hear her complaint that Israel's diversion of waters from the Jordan River (2) violated the 1949 armistice agreement and was a threat to the Middle East. There are reports that Iraqi and Syrian troops are moving into the city of Jerusalem to reinforce the troops in the Jordan-held area (3). An Israeli train was wrecked by land mines (4) and an Israeli spokesman said it was an act of Arab sabotage.

Beat Woman Every Weekend Man Fined $10

"He beat me up every weekend," Gladys Johnston, Charlotte St., told court today in a charge of assault against William McIntosh, of the same address.

McIntosh, charged with assaulting her on Saturday afternoon, "kicked me, punched me in the chest and face. Then he quieted down for a while and offered me some wine. I refused and he barred my way when I wanted to go out shopping.

"He poured a glass of wine all over my clean clothes. I threw the glass at him and cut his head. Then he held me and let the blood from his face go all over me."

"Is that all?" asked Crown Attorney John Bradshaw, QC.

"Isn't that enough?" rejoined Miss Johnston.

Miss Johnston testified that McIntosh had beaten her up every weekend for the last three months.

"Why did you lay a charge at this late date?" asked Magistrate R. I. Moore. "Was your dignity injured?"

"I couldn't take it any more," she said, "it's been going on for three months."

McIntosh denied he had beaten her up every weekend. He said he had struck her on other occasions, but never, he thought, hard enough to hurt her. "I wouldn't hit a woman hard enough to hurt her," he declared.

He asked Miss Johnston, who is his landlady, whether it wasn't her practice when drinking to throw things at him.

"Only to defend myself," she replied.

McIntosh was fined $10 and $8.75 costs.

Israel To Get Aid When Quarrel Settled

WASHINGTON (AP)—A visitor quoted State Secretary John Foster Dulles as saying that full U.S. economic aid will be restored to Israel after its quarrel with Jordan has been settled.

Harold Riegelman, Republican candidate for mayor of New York, made the statement after conferring with Dulles.

The United States suspended all economic aid to Israel—an estimated $60,000,000 for the year—after Israel ignored a UN truce commission order to halt work on a Jordan river hydro-electric project. Syria protested that Israel's plan to divert water from the river violated truce agreements. The dispute is pending before the UN Security Council.

64% Of Time Lost In Mine Strikes

OTTAWA (CP)—Strikes in the metal mines of northern Ontario and Quebec accounted for about 64 per cent of the working time lost through industrial disputes in Canada during September, the labor department estimated today.

Preliminary figures on its monthly survey of strikes and lockouts showed these walkouts were responsible for a loss of 80,400 days involving 5,167 workers during the month.

In all, strikes in September involved 16,445 workers with a loss of 126,131 days. There were 37 tie-ups during the month.

Crowd Spoils Visit Of Royal Children

LONDON (AP)—Slipping in by a side gate, Prince Charles took his little sister, Princess Anne, on her first visit to the London zoo the other day.

But they got no further than the parrot house before they were recognized and a crowd collected. Their two nurses and a detective reluctantly decided thet Royal youngsters would have to go back to Buckingham Palace.

They'll try again some other day soon—when the crowds are not so big.

Canada Has Surplus Over 7 Years

OTTAWA (CP) — Exchange of goods and services between Canada and other countries totalled more than $60,000,000,000 in the seven years from 1946 to 1952, the bureau of statistics reported Monday.

For the period as a whole, Canada chalked up a surplus of $340,000,000. While there were large outflows and inflows of capital at different times, the net movement of capital resulted in an inflow of only $86,000,000.

These statistics are contained in a new study by the bureau of the balance of payments in post-war years. The 113-page report presents, for the first time, quarterly statistics of the current account for 1946-52 and of the capital account for 1950-52.

SURPLUS OFFSET

Canadian exports in the seven years were worth $30,816,000,000 and imports $30,476,000,000. There was a $1,040,000,0 ssurplus in the 1946-49 period but a $70,000,000 deficit in 1950-52. While Canada had a current account surplus of more than $5,000,000,000 with overseas countries in the seven years, this was almost offset by the deficit with the United States.

Net movement of capital was outward in the years immediately after the war but this gave way to net inflows in 1950 and 1951. Net inflow of $86,000,000 for the seven years is made up of an inflow of $1,457,000,000 from the U.S. and an outflow of $1,371,000,000 to overseas countries.

Largest capital inflow was for direct investment in Canadian industry and commerce: $1,129,000,000 in seven years. Largest outflow arose from net post-war loans and advances of $1,506,000,000 by the Canadian government.

Charles Askwith 75, Newspaperman Dies

OTTAWA (CP) — Charles Askwith, 75, newspaper man who had worked on a number of papers across Canada, died Sunday night.

Born in Ottawa and educated here and at McGill University, Mr. Askwith was associated at one time or another with each of the capital's English-language newspapers. Other reporting or editing jobs took him to the Yukon, Winnipeg, Brandon and Montreal.

Man In Cobourg Winner Of $70,000 In U.K. Race

WORK ON GANNON'S NARROWS new causeway got away to a slow start today when one of the contractor's 17-ton trucks broke through the first span on the east shore Tuesday evening at dusk. Driver Frank Patterson of Brampton got out of the truck cab with little more than wet feet and a scare. The contractor's power shovel (above) was only able to raise the truck so far this morning; more equipment was added to complete the salvage job.

Find Body In Lane, Head Cut Off

Hands, Feet Also Chopped Off In Montreal Slaying

MONTREAL (CP)—A man's bullet-pierced body with head, hands and feet chopped off was found today in a lane in eastern Montreal. It was clad only in underclothing and tied in a green blanket with butcher's twine. The victim had been shot in the chest.

Montreal police said the discovery by an early-rising Bourbonniere street householder indicated a gruesome murder and an "expert job" of trying to conceal identity of the victim.

They said the heavily-built victim was aged between 25 and 40 and the killing was recent.

Sidney Phinn, a factory foreman whose wife looked out a rear window of their home to see the bundle, reported the case to police.

The 37-year-old foreman told police the blanketed bundle containing the body was not in the lane behind the Phinn residence at 10 o'clock Tuesday night.

GUESS WAS ACCURATE

Mrs. Phinn, glancing out of her kitchen window at 3414 Bourbonniere while making breakfast at 6:45 a. m., saw the green bundle.

She said half-jokingly to her husband:

"I think there's a body out there."

Phinn looked out. He told police the bundle looked to him as though it contained a body and when he investigated he found it did.

Police, on the scene in five minutes, found the head of the unidentified man had been cut off and the neck had been tied with the same kind of twine wrapped around the blanket.

Hands and feet also were off.

They said the man had been killed recently and probably the body had been dropped into the lane during the night.

Police said the victim weighed from 180 to 200 pounds.

GRUESOME, SAY POLICE

Police described the case as one of the most gruesome in Montreal crime records.

They recalled that a murderer, hanged about 27 years ago, had killed several persons, dismembered their bodies and tossed the bones to the roof of a neighbor's residence.

They sent a mobile laboratory to the lane behind Bourbonniere street today for preliminary investigation before the body was moved to the police morgue.

ON LOOKOUT

Orders went out to police in all parts of the city to be on the lookout for clues to disposal of missing parts of the victim's body.

Police also questioned nearby residents hoping to find someone who could fix the time the bundled body was dropped in the lane.

Albert Vignault, a truck driver, declared that he saw the bundle when he set out his garbage can at about 5 a. m. before going to work.

Being Neighborly

AYLMER, Que. (CP)— A bear got in on farmer Harry Loomis' paint job. Loomis was painting the upper storey of his home when he had to leave. When he got back, a cub was at the top of his ladder daubing the paint around. The bear got away.

Richards Rides Jupiter To Victory

NEWMARKET, England (AP)—Sir Gordon Richards rode Jupiter, a three-year-old chestnut colt, to victory in the 111th running of the mile-and-a-furlong Cambridgeshire handicap stakes at Newmarket today.

Top-weight King of the Tudors, ridden by Ken Gethin, was second and Fair Colleen, ridden by J. Sime, was third.

Jupiter started at odds of 100 to 6. King of the Tudors was 20 to 1 and Fair Colleen 22 to 1.

Jupiter took prize money of £3,106 ($8,696). King of the Tudors won £342 and Fair Colleen £171.

Times for the race, in which 29 thoroughbreds took part, will be announced at the end of the day.

Red Wine, a three-year-old colt owned by Mrs. Lionel Montagu, did not start. Trainer H. Jelliss said the colt was lame.

EARLY FAVORITE

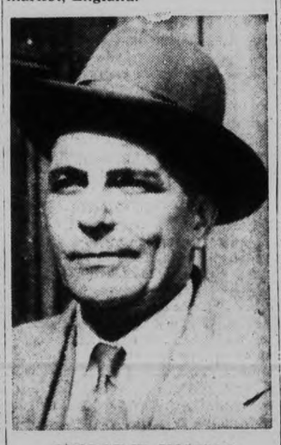
Jupiter, by The Phoenix out of Whitewash, defeated King of the Tudors by three-quarters of a length. Fair Colleen was edged into third place by a head in a photo finish.

Jupiter, trained by Pat Beasley and owned by Lord Lambton, was one of the early favorites for the race but Sailing Light, a four-year-old chestnut, started favorite at 13 to 2. He finished sixth.

Dumbarnie was fourth and Coalition last.

At the half-way stage, Sailing Light was slightly ahead of Black Light, Prince Charlemagne, Choir Boy and Dumbarnie. Sailing Light still held the lead with only three furlongs to go.

King of the Tudors challenged 1½ furlongs from the post. With 200 yards to go, King of the Tudors headed Sailing Light, with Jupiter, Wyach au Poor, Dumbarnie and Fair Colleen hot on their heels.



Jupiter made a well-timed run 100 yards from the post and mastered King of the Tudors. He forged on to win by three quarters of a length with King of the Tudors second and Fair Colleen third.

Wyach au Poor was fifth, Sailing Light sixth, Durante seventh, Caerlaverock eighth and Prince Charlemagne ninth.

G. W. Holman Has Ticket On 2nd Horse

Got Lucky Ticket When Opponent Lost In Cribbage Game

COBOURG (ENS)— George W. Holman of Cobourg maintained his reputation for good luck today when King of the Tudors, the horse on which he held a ticket in the Irish sweepstakes, ran second in the Cambridgeshire handicap at Newmarket, England.

GEORGE W. HOLMAN

Early reports said Mr. Holman would win between $55,000 and $56,00, but Mr. Holman thinks his winnings will be closer to $70,000. Odds quoted on King of the Tudors before the race were 25 to 1.

Mr. Holman obtained the ticket as a result of a cribbage game with a friend in Toronto. His opponent lost $7 to Mr. Holman who, in compensation, said he would buy a ticket from him. The ticket was the lucky one. Mr. Holman recently won 10 consecutive hockey pools.

A travellor for Frank B. Ham, Toronto grain broker, Mr. Holman's employees told him to take the rest of the week off when he heard of his tremendous luck. He has no immediate plans for spending the money.

Mrs. Holman told The Examiner over the telephone today she was so excited she couldn't think of anything to say.

Bridge Collapses Under Truck, Delays Polio Victim

A 17-ton truck broke through the floating bridge at Gannon's Narrows early Tuesday evening and forced a car behind on a mercy trip to detour around by way of Buckhorn. In the car was an 11-year-old Pigeon Lake boy suffering from polio. He was taken to Civic Hospital, where his condition is said to be satisfactory. Driver of the truck, Frank Patterson of Brampton, was unhurt. He took a wrong turn on the way to a construction camp and wound up at the bridge.

Efforts to mave the truck by noon today had all ben unsuccessful. A 65-ton diesel power shovel was brought to the scene but because of the soft footing and the weight of the truck could not lift the vehicle clear.

Both the shovel and the truck were to have started work today on the fill for the Gannon's Narrows causeway, on which tenders were called this summer. Estimated cost of the causeway and bridge is $206,000.

ONE HEADLIGHT OUT

Patterson, the driver, took a sideroad that would have brought him to the camp of the Peel Construction Co., of Brampton if he had turned right instead of left. He turned left and, since one headlight had burned out in the trip from Brampton, his vision was limited.

Approaching the bridge from the northeast end, he had barely reached the wooden planking when he felt the truck sinking.

Patterson stopped, jumped clear of the cab, and got his feet wet running back to the approach to the bridge. In a short time, the truck—a heavy diesel dump-body vehicle—had forced its section of the bridge well below the water.

The shovel operator first tried a straight pull, but his effort failed when the cable snapped. No one was near enough to be injured when the inch-thick cable gave way.

Fresh cable was brought for an attempt to lift the truck by the crane's boom. This bid was vain when the power shovel heavy as it is, came within an ace of toppling into the narrows itself.

Plans for this afternoon called for the cab of a heavy float, designed to carry disabled trucks, to try and winch the bulky dump truck out of the water.

Damage to the truck is expected to be low, although one or two fuel lines were broken. Patterson left for Brampton today to pick up a new truck.

Mother Saves 3 Children In House Fire

CANNINGTON, Ont. (CP)— A tiny woman swung a chair to smash a bedroom window, then climbed into the smoke-filled room and carried out her three young children.

The fire Tuesday in this Lindsay district community left Mrs. William Mulholland, 27, and her soldier-husband in Korea without a home for their family, without clothing and without household effects.

"I don't know what wakened me," said the four-foot, 11-inch, 100-pound Mrs. Mulholland. "All I could see were flames. As I rushed to the window, all I thought about was getting the children out."

She is credited with saving the lives of her daughter Leslie, 7, and sons Mike, 5, and Pat, 2.

Mrs. Mulholland dashed through the back door and around to the front of the house. The front door was locked. Hurrying to the garage, she seized a small chair and smashed the window leading to her children.

She crawled into the room and lifted her daughter Leslie out of the window. Pat was rescued next. In his sleep, Mike had crawled to the foot of the bed and his mother had difficulty locating him.

Mrs. Mulholland and her children escaped in night attire. They lost even their shoes.

Neighbors provided temporary shelter and donated clothes and comforts.

Dean To Offer Reds New Parley Formula

PANMUNJOM (AP)— Arthur Dean, United States special envoy, Thursday will offer the Communists a new formula for setting up a Korean peace conference. Today he voiced confidence "we are going to work something out."

Dean's opptimistic prediction followed the third session of preliminary talks to plan a Korean political conference. There was no noticeable progress at the two-hour, 40-minute meeting. The Communist delegate insisted in a 2,500-word statement that Russia be seated at the peace conference as a neutral.

Dean replied that Russia logically should attend the conference—and sit with Red China and North Korea — since Communist armies in Korea "were equipped with planes, tanks, guns and munitions sent from the Soviet Union."

PLAYED DIRECT ROLE

"The Soviet Union has openly supported your side by word and deed," Dean declared. "The U. S. S. R. has thus played a direct role in the Korean hostilities."

The U. S. envoy, who represents the United Nations, also reiterated that he had no authority under the UN resolution approving the preliminary talks to negotiate on composition of the top-level conference. Dean is authorized only to set a time and place, and after the meeting he was outwardly confident of eventual agreement.

"I still think these are only preliminary skirmishes and there is still a possibility we are going to work something out of these preliminary talks," he told reporters.

SEES RED INTEREST

"It seems to me I can detect an attitude of interest on their part and that they really want to come to some conclusion on this matter."

Of his new offer to the Reds, Dean said:

Israel Offers To Hold Up Work On Jordan Project

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Straining tensions over the hot Palestine dispute have eased since Israel suddenly offered Tuesday to hold up her Jordan river hydro-electric project while the United Nations Security Council debates the issue. The council postponed until Thursday its Palestine hearings to give the General Assembly's political committee a chance to resume debate on American charges that the Russians ran a torture centre to extort germ warfare "confessions" from captured American airmen.

Israel's chief UN delegate, Abba Eban, made the surprise offer to suspend work on the Jordan as the council debated Syria's complaint that the project deprived the Arabs of water for irrigation and breached the Arab-Jewish armistice.

PRAISE GESTURE

Lebanon's Dr. Charles Malik, sole Arab League delegate on the council, voted gratitude for Israel's "conciliatory gesture" and congratulated Eban for making it.

UN circles said the Israeli compromise gesture might serve to cool off the boiling Palestine dispute which had roused fear in Washington and London that an open Israeli-Arab break was near.

These circles said Lebanon's warm response to the offer indicated that the Arabs, too, are anxious to see things calm down.

Eban made his announcement after the UN truce superisor, Maj.-Gen. Vagn Bennike, warned the council that open war threatens in Palestine unless the armistice agreements are followed to the letter.

The U.S. recently imposed a ban on virtually all economic aid to Israel after that country defied the UN ruling that it stop work on the Jordan project.

It was doubtful whether Eban's offer to suspend work during the council session would bring about resumption of American aid. The U.S. undoubtedly will want more permanent guarantees that Israel will abide by the UN decision.

WILL RESUME AID

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the United States has decided to resume economic aid for Israel. He didn't specify when.

Eisenhower told a press conference he was delighted to learn of Israel's offer to go along with the United Nations and halt a controversial power project on the Jordan river while the UN considers the question.

As a result, he said the United States can proceed with plans for economic help for Israel. He said he expected Secretary of State Dulles to have something to announce on that line probably later today.

Greek King Visiting U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece arrived today for a month-long visit to the United States.

Purpose of the visit, said the monarch, is "to thank the American people for what they've done for us . . . all the help they've given us economically and morally."

The six-foot-three king and his tiny queen will fly to Washington where they will be guests of President and Mrs. Eisenhower in the White House.

In an interview aboard the liner United States, attractive Queen Frederika said she wanted an American ice cream soda. Asked what flavor, she said: "If I tell you now, I'll have to eat it on the whole trip."

Says Witnesses Intimidated

LONDON (Reuters) — Efforts to prosecute ousted leftist leaders in British Guiana have been hampered by intimidation of available witnesses, Colonial Scretary Oliver Lyttelton said today.

He told the House of Commons that Attorney-General Sir Lionel Heald is considering court action on leftist deeds both before and after Cheddi Jagan's regime was deposed Oct. 9.

The detention of five officials of Jagan's People's Progressive Party since last Saturday "in no way precludes proceedings against them for offences that can be tried by ordinary courts," Lyttelton said.

Blames Speed In Derailment

OTTAWA (CP)—A coroner's jury Tuesday night blamed "an unsafe rate of speed" for the Oct. 11 train derailment near Gracefield, Que., that took the lives of the engineer and fireman.

Richard McNally of Ottawa, 57-year-old Canadian Pacific Railway engineer, and fireman Kenneth Learmonth, 37, of Smiths Falls, died after the accident 50 miles north of Ottawa.

Several passengers were injured. The locomotive plunged into the bush and one of the two passenger coaches turned on its side.

New Bank Notes Being Manufactured

OTTAWA (CP)—New Canadian bank notes—new in design, not denomination—are being manufactured but won't get into circulation until late next year, officials of the Bank of Canada said Tuesday.

The notes will carry a portrait of the Queen, so far not used on Canadian bills. The portrait will be different than that used on postage stamps. The new design also is expected to include Canadian scenes instead of the present gods and goddesses surrounded by curlicues.

The new notes are being kept out of circulation until a good stock is built up.

Urges Canada Speed A-Plants

OTTAWA (CP) — A prominent British atomic scientist urges Canada to speed up the development of atomic power plants to prevent future shortages of hydro-electric power.

Sir James Chadwick, master of Gonville and Caius College at Cambridge University, said if Canadian industry continues to expand at its present rate Canada's water-power resources may prove inadequate in 20 to 30 years.

Discoverer of the neutron in 1932, Sir James spoke Tuesday night at a meeting at the national research council auditorium under auspices of the Ottawa Science Association.

Sir James said the cost of constructing an atomic power plant now is considered comparable with the cost of a conventional coal power plant. He estimated it takes five to six years to build an atomic power plant.

Vancouver Residents Grope Way In Fog

VANCOUVER (CP) — Residents of Canada's third largest city tumbled about in the middle of a 10,000-square-mile fog bank Tuesday night and early today. It was the worst smother to blow in from the sea so far this season. It began to lift shortly before daylight.

Outgoing plane flights were cancelled, inbound air traffic was diverted to Abbotsford RCAF base, and road and sea traffic was slowed to a crawl.

Londoners To Carry Gas Masks For Fog

LONDON (CP)—Londoners who carried gas masks during the Second World War soon may be toting a new type of mask—this time as protection against winter "killer fogs."

A London medical committee representing 6,000 general practitioners urged Londoners Tuesday to make themselves simple gauze masks for the oncoming smog season.

London Honors Queen Mother

LONDON (Reuters) — The rain-swept streets of London glowed with movement and color today as Queen Mother Elizabeth drove by to receive the freedom of the City.

Princess Margaret sat beside her in the closed state coach, drawn by four greys and escorted by Household Cavalry in gleaming breastplates and waving plumes.

A second carriage carried ladies-in-waiting who attended the Queen Mother as she received the honor from the square-mile City, the financial centre of the capital.

Throughout English history it has maintained a unique position under the crown. Even the ruling monarch must still receive special permission to enter.

Until less than 100 years ago only a freeman of the City could do business within its walls. Since 1856, however, the freedom has become honorary and is bestowed on special occasions. The Queen Mother received her freedom for service "to country and Empire."

He's Too Busy Think Of Money

TORONTO (CP) — "I'm too busy with my figures to think much about the money," Don MacKay, 45-year-old bachelor and office clerk, said today a few minutes after he won $137,500 on the Irish hospital sweepstakes.

"It's wonderful but my job comes first," he said in a telephone interview from his desk at a soft drink company here.

MacKay was one of four Canadians who won the first-prize fortune when Jupiter came first in the Cambridgeshire handicap stake at Newmarket, England. Five other Canadians won up to $55,000 on second- and third - place horses.

MacKay said:

"I didnt' get worked up very much over the race. I ate a good breakfast this morning and was at the office on time, as usual. A friend phoned me and told me the good news.

"If you don't mind, I'll go back to work now. I'm going out to lunch soon and I can't be late."

Officer Remanded To November 4

CORNWALL (CP)—Lieut. Peter Balcombe, 24, of London, Ont., was remanded today until Nov. 4 when he appeared before magistrate P. C. Bergeron on a murder charge.

Balcombe, father of two children, is charged with murdering Marie Anne Carrier, a 22-year-old reserve army sergeant from Bienville, Que. Her stabbed and nude body was found Oct. 15 beside a county road six miles north of Iroquois.

Balcombe was represented in court by J. M. P. Kelly, an Ottawa lawyer.

Pledges Viet Nam State Remain In French Union

SAIGON, Indo-China (Reuters)—Bao Dai, head of state for Viet Nam, pledged today that Viet Nam will remain within the French Union after gaining independence.

The ex-emperor made the pledge on his return by air from France to deal with a threatened political crisis here. Some Viet Namese leaders are demanding a complete break with France.

Bao Dai said in a formal statement that "nothing worth while" would be gained through impatient demands. He hinted that the withdrawl of French troops from Vietnam would enable Communist-led Vietminh forces to conquer the country in a short time.

France, he said, has shown willingness to give full satisfaction to Viet Nam's aspirations for independence on the basis of equality.

It is expected that he may reshuffle his cabinet to include nationalists whose cries for immediate independence have gained them a large following.

Viet Nam is the last Indo-Chinese state to negotiate independence terms, promised July 3 by Premier Joseph Laniel's government. Laos and Cambodia, the other two states, have completed negotiations.

Heavy Snowfall At Kirkland Lake

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP)—Winter came to Kirkland Lake today with a heavy fall of snow.

Sleet began before dawn and turned to snow by 8 a. m. It was still falling at noon and the district was shrouded in a mantle of white.

The temperature was 26 degrees at noon today.

Ready To Open Talks

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said today the federal government is ready to open negotiations with the Saskatchewan government for an agreement on the proposed South Saskatchewan river project. However, he said in an interview, such talks at this stage would be purely exploratory.

American Church Leaders Worried About UN Fate

CLEVELAND (AP) — American church leaders today made it plain that they're worried about the fate of the United Nations.

Speaker after speaker at an interdenominational conference rose to decry anti-UN activity and to declare their confidence in the world organization.

The UN, said Dr. Richard M. Fagley, New York Congregationalist, is "threatened by a jungle of dashing nationalism, social systems and power blocs."

Mrs. Edith Sampson, Chicago Episcopalian, said: "The future of the United Nations is at stake. . . . The UN deserved the full support of the churches we represent."

Such sentiments were echoed repeatedly as 400 clergymen and laymen, representing 30 Protestant and eastern Orthodox denominations, sought to put world questions to the test of Christian doctrine.

Tuesday night, 2,000 persons joined conference delegates in listening to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt praise the UN's achievements and defend its cost.

Because of the big share of UN cost paid by the United States it is a "natural feeling" to have misgivings, she said, but few people have taken the trouble to find out Americans are getting more than their money's worth.

2 By-Elections Being Held In Saskatchewan

REGINA (CP)—Two by-elections in strongholds of the Saskatchewan Liberal party are being held today in Rostern and Souris-Estevan ridings.

But the party which formed the first government in the province 48 years ago can only retain one.

The Liberals nominated two candidates. One if successful will give the 53-seat legislature its only Progressive Conservative member. Present standing is CCF 42, Liberals nine and two vacant.

The Liberals gave up their claim to Souris-Estevan by joining forces with the Progressive Conservatives to nominate 32-year-old Robert Kohaly, a lawyer and a Progressive Conservative.

If elected, Mr. Kohaly will be only the second representative of his party to sit in the Saskatchewan legislature in 19 years. The only other Progressive Conservative member since 1934, A. H. McDonald who won in Moosomin in 1948, ran successfully as a Liberal in the 1952 provincial general election.

BOTH RIDINGS LIBERAL

The by-elections were called to replace two top Liberal members. The death of J. E. McCormack, party whip, in an automobile accident last winter made a by-election in Souris-Estevan necessary. Liberal leader Walter Tucker resigned in Rosthern to contest successfully the federal election in that riding.

Mr. Kohaly is opposed in Souris-Estevan by CCF candidate William Schieman, 30-year-old teacher. Three candidates are contesting Rosthern: John Thiessen, 47-year-old farmer for the CCF; Liberal Samuel Carr, rural municipal secretary for Warman, and Social Crediter Martin Kelln, 34-year-old farmer and first vice-president of the provincial organization.

Main issues in both ridings has been the CCF candidates' request for election on the government's record and opposition contentions that the legislature has too many government supporters.

Report Prices Mixed On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were mixed in moderate early afternoon stock market trading today.

Industrials and golds were about a half-point higher and base metals and western oils about a half-point lower. Lower - priced uraniums were strong and active.

Industrials' strength came from liquors and refining oils. Utilities were down slightly.

Base metals were down as seniors suffered a few small losses. Juniors were mixed.

Uraniums were bolstered by lower-priced issues such as New Delhi, New Bidlamaque, New Mylamaque and Parbec, which traded actively. Although all gains were in pennies, they amounted to considerable for the cheaper issues. Few New Brunswick base metals drew interest.

Golds were up as seniors' forenoon losses were reduced. Holding companies and juniors were stronger.

Western oils were almost a half-point lower in their eighth consecutive falling session. Principal issues were quiet and losses slight.

Britain May Protest Withdrawal Of Ships

LONDON (AP) —Britain is considering what representations to make to the United States about the withdrawal of its weather ships from the Atlantic, George Ward, parliamentary undersecretary for air, told the House of Commons today.

He said the government will decide after the meteorological office has reported on the detailed investigation of the effects of the withdrawal.

When Labor member Geoffrey de Freitas said: "Surely the United States informed us before withdrawing the ships," Ward declined an immediate answer.

U.K. Denounces Germ WarfareCharges

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) Britain today denounced germ warfare charges against the United States and urged the UN to "give these most indecent charges a decent burial."

By thus clearing the decks, Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd told the 60-nation political committee, the UN can return to its task of "working out ways and means to achieve conditions for the peaceful co-existence between our two systems which the Soviet leaders now say is feasible."

Nationalist China's Dr. H. R. Wei said dropping of the matter might be interpreted by the Reds as a weakness.

The UN turned its attention to the germ warfare debate as tensions over Palestine eased after Israel offered to hold up her Jordan river hydro-electric project.

REDS FAIL TO LAUGH

Lloyd drew laughs from all except Soviet bloc delegates by detailing the alleged germ campaign as printed in Red propaganda.

"Never has so much been written by such confirmed fellow travellers to prove so little," he said. "The utter falsity of these allegations of bacterial warfare having now been proved, let us consign them to the oblivion which they properly deserve with a tribute in our hearts to the courage and endurance of the men who went through such terrible ordeals."

Lloyd labelled alleged American confessions "a tissue of lies extracted by all the refinements of totalitarian torture."

Sir Percy Spender of Australia said Russia's Jacob A. Malik should publicly admit the charges were lies.

OBITUARY

JOHN ABNER WINDSOR

The death occurred Monday of John A. Windsor, 86, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. J. Harrison, 594 George St., after a short illness.

Mr. Windsor was born in Plantagenet county, near Ottawa, son of Benjamin Windsor and Mary Spragge. He came to Peterborough four years ago, after spending most of his life in Lakefield as a carpenter. His wife, the former Sophia Peters, predeceased him.

Surviving are daughters: Mrs. L. Sabatino (Iva), Brantford, Mrs. W. R. Tucker (Sybil) and Mrs. A. J. Harrison (Ethel) of Peterborough. Also sisters: Mrs. C. Robson and Mrs. W. Wigg, Peterborough, Mrs. Evans of Hamilton and brothers, Walter of Omemee, Archie, Peterborough, James, Ottawa, Reginald, Fort William, and Darcy, Barrie. There are seven grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

Mr. Windsor was a member of the Presbyterian church.

His funeral will take place from the Kaye Funeral Home on Thursday for service in the Apsley United Church at 2.30 p.m., with the Rev. H. Kaye of Lakefield officiating. Burial will be in the Apsley cemetery.

Build Smaller Schools Board Decides

BARRIE, Ont. (CP)—The Barrie public school board Tuesday night decided to decentralize school facilities and build smaller schools instead of big ones, to take education closer to the students' homes.

The board is planning immediate construction of three six-room schools on the outskirts of this town 50 miles north of Toronto.

Russia Hints Malenkov Ready For Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials have turned a cold shoulder toward a new Russian hint that Premier Malenkov may be ready for peace talks with Western chiefs of state.

President Eisenhower, they said, will consider such a conference only after Russia has proved its sincerity on specific moves to ease East-West tension, such as German and Austrian peace settlements.

Britain's Prime Minister Churchill has been plugging the idea of an informal meeting with Malenkov, but informed officials Tuesday night said he has promised State Secretary Dulles to delay any move toward arranging one.

There had been speculation that Churchill was planning to go to Moscow by himself. He was said to have stuck to the view, during recent talks with Dulles in London, that some such meeting is needed if the West is to find out at first hand what Malenkov is like and what his views may be.

AWAIT MOSCOW REPLY

But officials said Dulles won an agreement from Churchill not to take any direct action at least until Moscow replies to the latest Western invitation for a Big Four foreign ministers' meeting, and France and the other signers have been given a chance to ratify the proposed European Defence Community treaty.

The new Russian hint that Malenkov might be willing to meet with his Western counterparts came from Russia's United Nations delegate, Andrei Vishinsky. Vishinsky told UN correspondents in New York Tuesday that "there is no special problem" in arranging face-to-face discussions between Malenkov and Western leaders.

He insisted such a meeting could be called "without a preliminary test of sincerity and good intentions of the Soviet Union"—the condition Eisenhower and Dulles have laid down.

State department experts on Russia carefully noted Vishinsky's remarks. Nearly all are convinced that the former Russian foreign policy chief chose this time to publicize Russian views for a specific reason.

NO PLAN FOR TALKS

Eisenhower said that no plan is now in being or under study for a meeting between him and Prime Minister Churchill.

The British leader said Tuesday there were few things he would like more than a quiet, informal chat with the U. S. president.

Eisenhower, voicing warm admiration for Churchill, said he thought there was a constant wish on both sides for a meeting but he emphasized that no plan exists for one at present.

Eisenhower noted that the president of the United States has more duties—ceremonial and other—than either Churchill or the Soviet premier. Nonetheless, Eisenhower said fervently, he will do anything in the world, including a meeting with Malenkov, if he feels it will advance the cause of world peace.

Eisenhower asserted also that Secretary of State Dulles is willing to meet, and has been meeting, with anyone in authority with a view to easing world tensions.

Wants Citizens Have More Say

TORONTO (CP)—The average citizen should have more to say about hospital development in Ontario, William M. Gray, newly-elected president of the Ontario Hospital Association, said Tuesday night.

A former industrial commissioner at Chatham and chairman of the Chatham public general hospital board, Mr. Gray said it was "John Citizen" who would build the hospital of the future.

"The people own the hospitals; the people use the hospitals and the people support the hospitals. That's why I will try to encourage their participation in hospital expansion."

Safety Campaigns Renwed In Lindsay

LINDSAY (ENS) — Children's safety programs are beginning again in Lindsay. The Rotary Club announced this week that a campaign to have all bicycles in town marked with a special tape that would glow in the dark had begun and would continue with the cooperation of the police department.

The Kinsmen club, meanwhile has revived the Elmer safety campaign for competition between the various public and separate schools. During the last such campaign, Lindsay school children went for an entire school year without a single traffic accident.

Will End Rationing On Butter In 1954

LONDON (AP)—Britain will end the rationing and price control of butter, margarine and all other milk products next year.

Food Minister Gwilym Lloyd hopes to decontrol condensed and dried milks in the early spring; to deration butter, margarine, cheese and cooking fats in the early summer and to finish off all controls by the fall.

Besides these foods only meat and bacon are still rationed. But it is expected that even they will be freed next year. Lloyd George has already announced that no new ration books will be printed after May 15.

Howe Opposed To Loans On Stored Grain

WINNIPEG (CP)—Trade Minister Howe has indicated he is opposed to the federal government "getting into the business of lending money on farm-stored grain" to western farmers faced with a glut of unsold wheat.

He said the producers received a greater measure of aid through the government's recently-announced decision to distribute $100,000,000 in wheat board payments for 1952 western grain crops.

In a speech at the annual meeting of the Manitoba Wheat Pool Tuesday night, the trade minister said that farmers' requests for loans on the security of grain stored on farms were receiving "most careful consideration."

"I shall not anticipate the final decision of the government and Parliament on these proposals," he said. "It does seem to me, however, that in the interests of all concerned, it would be better if we could avoid getting into the business of lending money on farm-stored grain."

Referring to the recent distribution of wheat board payments, Mr. Howe said:

"Nothing the government could have done to ease the farmers' immediate financial position could possibly compare in importance with this early distribution of $100,000,000 from the 1952 crop."

He recalled that the government two years ago provided for up to $20,000,000 in loans on Prairie crops which couldn't be harvested because of snow.

"In fact only $625,000 of loans were made, and I regret to say that some of those loans are still outstanding."

Canada Plans Not To Vote

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Canada told the United Nations Tuesday she will abstain from voting on a resolution asking South Africa to soften its treatment of people of Indian origin in that country.

Canada's position was made clear by G. B. Summers in a speech before a special committee considering the resolution, sponsored by India and a number of other members.

Summers said Canada stands for observance of human rights and fundamental freedom for all without distinction. She must be concerned at "serious allegations that human values are disregarded anywhere in the world."

But Canada believed that the provisions of the UN charter which exclude intervention in matters of domestic jurisdiction could not be ignored and she doubted the competence of the UN to deal with the resolution before the committee.

The resolution asks for continuance of the UN's good offices commission which unsuccessfully attempted to settle the dispute and calls on South Africa not to invoke the "group areas" act against people of Indian origin in South Africa.

Going To Take Long Rest In Florida

TORONTO (CP)—Walter Burley, 42-year-old welder who won $137,500, in the Irish hospital sweepstakes, said today: "I'm going to take a good long rest in Florida."

The win, he says, means a new car, the mortgage on his house paid off and new clothes for his wife and six-year-old daughter. He was one of four Canadians to hit the jackpot on the 111th running of the Cambridgehire stakes at Newmarket, England.

"I knew I married the right man," Mrs. Burley said. "And I took him for richer or poorer."

Renowned Artist V. H. Bailey Dies

NEW YORK (AP)—Vernon Howe Bailey, 79, renowned for his drawings of architectural subjects in the United States and Europe, died Monday.

Bailey executed 100 watercolors and drawings of the Vatican in 1928 at the invitation of Pope Pius XI. He completed a series of San Francisco scenes on a magazine assignment just before the earthquake and fire of 1906.

Mediator Reports Progress Milk Strike May End Soon

NEW YORK (AP)—A mediator's report of progress in wage talks spurred hopes today for a quick end to a strike cutting fresh milk supplies for 12,000,000 persons in the New York metropolitan area. There were rumors that an agreement might come today, a resumption of deliveries Thursday and a retail price increase the day after.

Chief basis for the settlement optimism was an announcement Tuesday by a city labor relations official that "some tangible progress" was being made in peace talks between 200 companies and the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL).

It was the first notice of headway in almost continuous bargaining sessions since the strike by 13,000 drivers and plant workers started Sunday.

Meanwhile, fresh milk has just about disappeared from most homes and stores in New York City, Long island, Westchester county in New York state and part of New Jersey. The area normally uses about 5,000,000 quarts daily.

New York City mothers lined up by the thousands Tuesday at distribution depots for rations of milk. Restaurants scratched the drink from their menus. Store sales of evaporated and powdered milk were 100 to 400 per cent above normal.

Some independent dairy companies not involved in the dispute managed to make a few store deliveries in New Jersey, where police protected the independent drivers from any renewal of occasional outbreaks of violence which occurred Monday.

A supply of milk flowed to hospitals, schools and other such institutions. Officials expressed fears that 400,000 quarts of raw milk worth $40,000 would have to be dumped for lack of sufficient pasteurization facilities. Dairy farmers face losses estimated at $250,000 a day.

Chief Justice Quashes Motion of Asphodel Council

Two Asphodel township residents have succeeded in preventing the township council from using a road bordering their property as a dump.

Chief Justice J. C. McRuer in Weekly Court, Toronto, has upheld a motion to quash the minutes of the May 4 council meeting turning the "old gravel pit", opposite the northwest corner of Lot 9, on the east side of the road allowance between Concessions 1 and 2, into a public dump.

CONTRARY TO STATUTE

Through their counsel, W. J. Arthur Fair, QC, the two complainants—Thomas Cardwell and Wilbert Graham—argued that the minutes should be invalidated because the dumping of garbage was contrary to statute. They claimed it violated the Municipal Act, the Health Act; it was a nuisance, and a danger—particularly because of fire.

Wrecked cars, tin cans, old weeds, mattresses, etc., were thrown by the roadside, just south of the Westwood Corner, they said.

On March 6, 1953, the township council passed a bylaw prohibiting the dumping of garbage of all kinds on highways in the township. But they added a rider: except where specifically designated.

Then on May 4, 1953, council amended the bylaw (taking advantage of the rider clause) making the "gravel pit" a dump. Messrs. Cardwell and Graham, incensed at the garbage being thrown on the roadway, took legal action.

Farmers Fighting Grasshopper Swarms

SYDNEY (Reuters)— Australian farmers have stopped work to fight huge swarms of grasshoppers threatening to destroy wheat crops worth nearly $7,000,000 in a belt stretching from Queensland to the Victorian border.

Reports from the plague zone today said that swarms of grasshoppers were taking to the air hourly moving down in relentless clouds on the wheat crops and the rich sheep-grazing pastures.

Newcomers Learn Sea Navigation

LUNENBURG, N.S. (CP)—Some newcomers to the Nova Scotia fishing industry are going to sea with as much knowledge of the finer points of navigation as their skippers.

The reason is the fishermen's navigation school here, operated by the provincial industry department with assistance from the federal labor department's vocational training section.

Established in May, 1951, the school is the only one of its kind in Canada and is aimed at teaching the basic principles of the fisherman's calling.

The teaching is varied to suit the needs of the particular student. Chief instructor is Capt. George Robinson of Newcastle-on-Tyne, a 25-year veteran with the British merchant marine.

"The aim of the school," he says, "is not to make every entrant a captain of a schooner or dragger but to give every one a better knowledge of seamanship and fishing equipment. In turn they may be better fishermen."

Meanwhile, the chairman of the Korean repatriation commission today said three Korean and Chinese prisoners have been slain by fellow PoWs in a camp for anti-Communists in Korea's neutral zone.

Fifteen other prisoners have died —10 of natural causes, it was announced. Three were shot to death by Indian guards during demonstrations, one apparently committed suicide and another died of starvation, the report said.

Eden Favors 5-Power Meet

LONDON (AP) — Foreign Secretary Eden said today the "most hopeful" way to solve the explosive Trieste situation would be a five-power conference between the Big Three Western powers and Italy and Yugoslavia.

He told the House of Commons that Britain will stick by the Anglo-American decision to withdraw troops from Trieste's zone "A" and hand the area over to Italy. He added:

"But the arrangements for the hand - over of the administration and the withdrawal of troops are complicated and must inevitably take a certain amount of time. A conference could well take place meanwhile."

Eden made his remarks in reply to Labor front - bencher Philip Noel-Baker who said Britain and the United States bungled the Trieste problem "until now there is actually a risk of war."

Eden, however, told the Commons that Britain and the United States had no other choice than to do what they did.

Ex-Brighton Teacher A. B. Cooper Dies

TORONTO (CP)—A teacher in Ontario schools for many years, Alexander Barrie Cooper, 91, died here Monday.

Born in Grey county, he graduated from Queen's University and taught in Huron county and later at Brighton, Galt and Parkhill. He was the principal of the high school at Waterdown for 10 years.

He is survived by a daughter and two sons.

Police Solve Cottage Thefts In Haliburton

LINDSAY (ENS)—Two Toronto men pleaded guilty in police court here today to charges of breaking entering and theft from two Haliburton county cottages during September.

Frank Grant, 32, was sentenced to three months definite and three months indeterminate for his part in the break-ins in which two outboard motors, a radio and a pair of binoculars were stolen from Paudash lake cottages, in Cardiff township.

His accomplice, Robert Jamieson 24, was sentenced to one month for acting as driver for Grant and for selling part of the loot.

According to Provincial Constable Jack McHendrie, of Apsley detachment, who made the arrests, the complaints of the entries came from Henry Hill, of Waniska ave., Toronto, who charged that his cottage had been entered and two outboard motors, valued at almost $500, and a radio had been taken, and Mrs. Hilda Keech of Oliver street, Toronto, who noticed police of the theft of a pair of binoculars from her cottages.

Contable McHendrie interviewed Grant in Peterborough county jail, where he had just received a term of six months definite and six months indeterminate on ten charges of cottage entries in Peterborough county, and the accused admitted the Haliburton thefts. He implicated Jamieson in the thefts as the driver of the car the pair used to travel to the cottage sites from Toronto.

Jamieson was arrested in Toronto and admitted the thefts informing police the location of the stolen goods which had been sold. All were recovered. Jamieson claimed he had no previous record and was given the lighter sentence by Magistrate E. A. Gee.

NINE WINNERS

Nine Canadians held Irish Sweepstake tickets on horses winning the Cambridgeshire Handicap.

Four Canadians held tickets on Jupiter, winner of the race, and may win as much as $140,000 each from the sweepstake. Two Canadians held tickets on King of the Tudors, second-place horse, and qualified for second prize money of $57,500 each.

Three Canadians had tickets on Fair Colleen which finished third. They qualified for prize money of $27,500 each.

All of the Canadians were not immediately identified. In a list of ticket holders issued Friday, they mostly were identified by Noms de plume.

Names and addresses of Canadian winners were to be cabled later from Dublin. Holders of tickets on horses that were scratched or did not run will qualify for approximately $1,200 each. A total of 176 Canadian tickets were drawn in the sweepstake draw.

Two of the Canadians with tickets on the winning Jupiter were from Toronto, a third from Windsor and a fourth from Victoria.

The Toronto ticket holders were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Walter Burley of North York, and Don MacKay, a 45-year-old bachelor and office clerk.

The Windsor winner used the name "Sweepit," and the Victoria ticket-holder "Ladymist."

Maurice Morin of Flin Flon, Man., held a ticket on King of the Tudors. A Toronto holder of a ticket on the same horse used the nom de plume "Peggy."

Holders of tickets on Fair Colleen were "Colin" of North Vancouver, B. C.; and Donat Toupin of Quebec; and Carl Hansen of Vancouver.

Labor MPs Reject Bevan As Leader

LONDON (Reuters) — Labor members of Parliament today turned down 181 to 76 a bid by left-winger Aneurin Bevan to take over deputy leadership of the party from Herbert Morrison.

The post is filled by a poll of Labor members. Last year they gave it to Morrison, a moderate, by a vote of 194 to 82.

Bevan, who presses for a more aggressive brand of socialism, thus failed again in his bid to obtain a louder voice in party policy. He and six of his followers are outnumbered on the 28-member party executive committee.

Gets 6 Months For Robbing Eight Cottages

Charged with breaking and entering eight cottages, Frank Grant, 32, of Toronto, was sentenced to six months definite and six months indefinite by Magistrate R. I. Moore Tuesday.

Grant pleaded guilty to the charges a week ago and was remanded for sentence until Tuesday, pending the arrival of a criminal record. His record showed a previous conviction at Toronto in July.

Introducing the accused's record, Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, said he was "afraid this doesn't help him any." Describing the eight break and entries, he said the damage sustained by the cottages this way, exceeded the value of the goods taken.

After the crown commented that Grant is also scheduled to appear in Lindsay on a charge of stealing outboard motors, Magistrate Moore said he felt it "unfair" to the accused to send him "travelling all around when nine times out of 10 his sentences will run concurrently.

"Then," he added, "there's the expense."

In passing sentence, the magistrate told Grant "I don't know what's gotten into you but evidently you can't stay out of other people's property."

Concluding he warned: "If you want to keep it up there's other places that can catch up with you."

Brampton Man Gave Chase Drunken Driver

Unfolding a story of a chase along Highway 7 and a township road in mid-August, a Brampton man, Michael Pickett supplied enough evidence to convict Stanley Fife, 29, of RR 1, Indian River, on drunk driving before Magistrate R. I. Moore, Tuesday.

Included in Pickett's evidence was a description of how the accused kept being helped from the ground repeatedly whereupon he fell again, all the time mumbling "the horses, the horses."

Fife offered no explanation for his behaviour but told the court he was a horse trainer.

Pickett had been driving west on Highway 7 when he saw Fife's eastbound car coming toward him. The oncoming vehicle forced him onto the north shoulder and Pickett turned his car around and gave chase.

Fife turned down a township road where Pickett observed the accused's car zig-zagging. It finally zagged a little too much and ended up in the ditch. Pickett helped the driver out. Fife fell.

Picket helped him up twice more and the defendant kept mumbling "the horses."

At this point, Magistrate Moore cut the witness off, deciding he had heard enough evidence on the charge. It had previously been given as hearsay by OPP Constable Fred Lunn after the accused pleaded guilty.

Fife was sentenced to seven days in jail and his ownership permit was suspended and his car impounded for three months.

Driver Requests Crown To Proceed In Spite Of Fact He Will Be Absent

Maybe he's a pessimist but W. G. Jones of Toronto wasn't taking any chances when he sent in a letter to the crown attorney, requesting him to proceed with a careless driving action without his presence.

As a precautionary measure, Jones also sent in his driver's licence to facilitate its cancelling in the event of a conviction. There was a conviction and the resident of 20 Elmer St., Toronto, was fined $15 and $2.50 on the charge Tuesday by Magistrate R. I. Moore.

The charge was laid as a result of a single car accident on the county line north of Fowlers Corners September 13, investigated by OPP Constable Wally Mohns.

The officer said he found Jones' car in a field with lengthy tire marks leading from it to the gravel road where they were seen to proceed along the wrong side of the road for some distance.

The driver had been charged on the "without due care and attention" section of careless driving; i.e., in a manner dangerous to himself.

Private Gets To Palace To See Colonel

LONDON (CP) — Pte. George Wood is a proud but anxious man.

He's worried about another meeting with Lt.-Col. James Carne, commanding officer of the famed Gloucester Regiment who received the Victoria Cross Tuesday at Buckingham Palace.

Wood, a member of B company and captured with Carne at the Imjin river battle during the Korean war, wanted to be the first to congratulate "the old man" following the palace ceremony. Police at the palace gate were sympathetic but firm: No admittance.

GETS A RIDE

Undaunted, Wood wandered around the corner and into a pub where he met a service car driver, due to enter the palace grounds in a few minutes. The driver was persuaded to take along a passenger and Wood sailed through the gates.

When Carne emerged from the ceremony, Wood was waiting with outstretched hand. Photographers took pictures.

Now, says Wood, comes the worry:

"There will be an awful chewing-up from the old man when I get back to camp."

Hint Concessions May Be Made

ROME (Reuters)—The pro-government newspaper Il Messaggero hinted today that the Italian government may be ready to make some concessions to Yugoslavia on the Trieste issue, though determined not to yield up the administration of zone A from which the United States and Britain recently decided to withdraw their troops.

The newspaper said Italy might propose "special facilities" for Yugoslavia in the port of Trieste, as well as slight changes in the frontier with zone B, administered by Yugoslavia. Italy might also consider some "exchange of population" in Trieste.

Il Messaggero said Italy is ready for a five-power conference involving the United States, Yugoslavia, Britain and France on the dispute, provided the Anglo-American zone is transferred to Italy first.

At this conference Italy would propose the holding of a plebiscite in the whole Trieste territory, including the Yugoslav zone, as suggested by Prime Minister Giuseppe Pella six weeks ago.

Yugoslavia so far has refused to attend a conference on Trieste if it takes place after the transfer of zone A to Italy.

Cut Allowance For Widow

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The $600 monthly family allowance from comedian W. C. Fields' estate to his widow has been cut off.

Judge William R. McKay, heeding a protest of other heirs that nothing would be left for them, Tuesday halted the allowance to the 74-year-old widow. Counsel John W. Preston told the court Mrs. Fields has received $239,000 of her $272,000 share of the film comic's estate, plus about $48,000 in family allowance since Fields died Dec. 25, 1946.

Preston estimated that there will be only $41,000 left from which to pay his clients' lifetime bequests totalling $160 weekly. He estimated that payments could be made for a little more than five years.

Fields' will provided weekly payments for his brother, Walter; his sister, Mrs. Adel C. Smith, and his long-time friend and confidante, Carlotta Monti, former screen actress.

St. Michael's Pupils Win Oratory Honors

COBOURG (ENS)—St. Michael's school pupils captured the bulk of the honors in the Cobourg oratory contest here.

First was Bobby Parsons, St. Michael's school. Second was Helen Godawa, St. Michael's school. Bonny Grosgrey, public school, third, and Rosemary Niles, St. Michael's school, fourth.

Chairman of the contest was Maurice Daignault. The winners compete later in the eliminations.

Passing The Hospital Buck

A sizable Peterborough delegation has been in Toronto these last three days attending the annual convention of the Ontario Hospital Association, whose sessions end today. This convention has a more direct interest to Peterborough ratepayers than most, and that is why the delegation representing the Civic Hospital is large. The Association is urging the Provincial Government to take a more helpful attitude towards hospital grants, particularly those for indigent patients.

* * *

Peterborough Civic Hospital and all other hospitals of its kind face a deficit immediately they admit an indigent patient as the Civic's treasurer, Mr. T. T. Rodger, pointed out the other day. The average Ontario cost to the hospital of a patient each day is $12.58. A patient arrives who can pay nothing. Who then pays? By statute of the Provincial Legislature, the municipality to which the indigent patient belongs must grant the hospital (if it is "Class B", like the Peterborough Civic) $3.50 a day. The Civic Hospital gets a grant from the Province of $1.61 a day for each public ward bed, and also a general grant calculated on the number of indigent patients and their stay at the hospital, which amounts this year to $1.82. The total of the municipal, statutory grant is $3.50; of the Provincial grants $3.42 —a sum total for indigent patients of $6.92 against the average cost of keeping a patient in hospital of $12.58. The deficit, which the hospital and through it the city treasury must face for each indigent patient is therefore $5.66 each day he is in hospital. This is the nature of the story that Peterborough Civic Hospital authorities took with them to Toronto, and which the Ontario Hospital Association placed before Premier Frost on Monday.

* * *

Premier Frost took a large view. He pointed with assurance to the undeniable fact that the Provincial Government has considerably increased its grants and capital allowances for hospitals. Only ten years ago Provincial government support of hospitals measured, in dollar terms, a million. This year $24,000,000 of Queen's Park money is going towards hospitals. He said that the new system of grants makes the money available now to hospitals for maintenance as well as extension and rebuilding. He remarked that if the Federal Government were to match the Provincial grants for the maintenance of hospitals, the hospitals would have no trouble about operating deficits. Here are his words:

"If, for instance, the provincial maintenance grants only, which totalled $10,000,000 of the $16,000,000 advanced this year for maintenance and rehabilitation, were augmented by a similar amount from federal sources, it would contribute greatly to the basic requirement of reducing the cost of hospitalization and placing our hospitals in a happier position in which to carry on their work. In the development of any health plan, this must be fundamental. To talk of one without the other is really getting nowhere."

* * *

This would be reassuring if it did not sound like the old game of passing the buck. Premier Frost might reason (privately) that the municipalities are trying to pass the same hospital buck to the Provincial Government. There is this difference: the municipal hospital authorities operate at a deficit, the municipalities just scrape by, even with the highest tax rates on property in municipal history. They have few ways of raising money and no surpluses. On the other hand, the Provincial Government has numerous ways of getting money and it has surpluses. So, of course, does the Federal Government. But health is primarily a Provincial matter; whatever grants Ottawa makes come through Queen's Park and it is the Province which dictates to hospitals their rules and regulations and assumes suzerainty over them. The National Health Scheme of the Federal Government works through the Province. Health is the direct concern of the Province, so are the hospitals.

We do not care what kind of deal Premier Frost may be able to work out with the Minister of National Health at Ottawa so long as the Provincial Government recognizes the financial predicament civic hospitals are in, and acts to get them out of it.

The Stiff Upper Lip

We were interested in the implications of a newspaper report by Walter Sullivan of the New York Times on the release of Field Marshal Friedrich von Paulus from imprisonment in Russia. The kind of misunderstanding which the article shows is one of the reasons why real international amity is likely to remain a rosy dream for some time. Consider this passage:

Von Paulus was almost a caricature of a Prussian general. As he stepped away from the ruins of his disastrous defeat, which left 330,000 of his soldiers dead and tens of thousands more in captivity—von Paulus was even in surrender haughty, elegant and monocled.

We wonder what Mr. Sullivan expected a Field Marshal to be like. Dishevelled? Drunk? Screaming and weeping? Great commanders maintain their self-possession under virtually all circumstances. Mr. Sullivan would not been surprised if General Eisenhower, or Montgomery, or Alexander, kept a stiff upper lip in defeat. Why should he assume that a German would show less self-possession?

We are amused that Sullivan insistently refers to the man as "von Paulus" and says that he "resents being called von Paulus and insists that his name is simply Paulus." Of course his name is simply Paulus! Does Sullivan assume that the man does not know his own name? A Frenchman whose name is, for example, Gerard de Noailles is called Noailles—not "de Noailles." Similarly a German called Friedrich von Paulus is called Paulus unless his full name is given.

It is a serious mistake to think that foreigners are less courageous than we; it is a mistake to think that we know more about their customs and their names than they do themselves. Mr. Sullivan's naive misunderstandings are symptoms of the walls of trifles which nevertheless keep nations apart.

Cows' Content

A cow is not merely a machine that gives milk. It is a personality, subject to moods and environment. Dairy farmers are recognizing this, and for the sake of their pockets, if not for the spiritual ease of their cattle, they are treating the critters with a kindness far beyond the requirements of the S.P.C.A.

We know of one Ontario farmer whose housekeeping arrangements for his cows would be the envy of a New York cliff-dweller. Not for him stanchions in the barn, electrical barn cleaners and similar old modern devices. He has a "loafing barn" for his cattle. He has a "milking parlour".

The loafing barn has no stalls to hem in the cattle. They are free to loaf in its spacious area, in the centre of which is a buffet—a central feeding trough. The cows come and go as they please, winter and summer, for the door is left open. Outside is a paved area, 7,500 feet square, for the herd's additional comfort. Straw is liberally strewn in the loafing barn freshly each day and the place is cleaned out a couple of times a year. The loafing barn, the farmer feels, helps the cattle adjust themselves and provides release for a cow's curiosity, said to be a predominant trait of that dumb animal.

The farmer does not get his profit from cows loafing, but from cows giving milk. With no stanchions, how does he milk them? He has a milking parlour, as we have already remarked. When milking time comes near the cattle head for the loafing barn. Guided by an electrified wire, they start, one by one, up a ramp, and enter the milking parlour, an annex of the loafing barn. This has four stalls and two attendants (stalls and attendants in immaculate white). Each stall has two gates (something like the in-and-out store). As milady enters the parlour the attendant opens the near gate and the cow enters its milking stall. After it has been milked, the attendant pulls a rope at the opposite end of the stall. The cow then walks down a short corridor to a door leading back into the loafing barn—this time on the other side of the electrified wire. (The milk, incidentally, flows straight from the cow to the milk-can, without once being touched by human hands.

The whole process—one might call it a Way of Life—is decorous and even dainty. It suggests a big house party, with some of the movements in reverse; the guests being gently led to the parlour for cocktails (in the cattle world, they give, not take, liquid) and then after a suitable time—not long enough to get bored or hungry—the guests go two by two from that room into the salon for dinner.

We mention this elevating arrangement for contentment in cows in order to show that some people believe that cows have feelings and a nervous system which reacts to environment. Motorists who scorn the creatures because they never blink an eyelash when a car is driven past their noses at fifty m.p.h. may have to revise their opinions of bovine sensitivity.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A woman of 92 tells reporters that age is a mental condition. Yes, and we still tremble when people with 16 year minds and 65 year bodies run upstairs to show that they are as spry as ever.

Crossing In Comfort

By IVOR BROWN

I HAVE JUST been enjoying a short voyage on the new transatlantic liner "Olympia," built for the Greek Line by Alexander Stephen, of Govan, in Scotland. When it was inquired why the Greeks continued to employ Clydeside skill, it was properly replied that the firm of Stephen had built one of their veteran ships and made such a good job of it that they naturally wanted more.

✧ ✧ ✧

NO CLAIMS are made for the 23,000-ton "Olympia" that it is the finest or fastest or lushest vessel of its size crossing the Atlantic. The whole point of its construction is that it seeks to give the best possible bargain to those who pay a moderate price. Owing to the price-fixing arrangements of the Atlantic Conference, there can be no competition in prices. There are certain determined ranges of prices for the various classes on all lines and these are not allowed to be cut. But there can be, and is, competition in the amenities provided.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN VIEW OF THIS, the designers of "Olympia" resolved to make it an ideal ship for the tourist class. It sails from Bremerhaven, in Germany, to New York, calling and collecting passengers at Cherbourg, Southampton, Cobh (the port of Cork, in Eire) and Halifax, Nova Scotia. It carries a maximum of 138 first-class and 1,150 tourist-class passengers, with a proportion of interchangeable cabins; the first-class folk are therefore only one in ten and have no dominance over deck-space or public rooms. It is essentially a tourist ship.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE HANDICAP of tourist passengers elsewhere has been very often that while excellently fed, they lacked sufficiency of good public rooms and breathing-space on deck. In this case, nearly the whole vessel is their kingdom and they have some twenty public rooms at their disposal, all decorated with a gaiety, if not unity, of style, and sometimes with a hefty use of classical Greek forms.

✧ ✧ ✧

ON ITS pre-maiden trip, "Olympia" called at ports which it will not subsequently visit: Glasgow, Liverpool and Dublin. In these places it picked up a large number of emigrating families and individuals who were making the great adventure of settling in Canada or America. There were many young working-class men and women carrying small children with them; or relatives going out to visit or join sons and daughters who had already emigrated. I imagine that most of them must have been very thrifty for some time to acquire the £60 or so necessary for the passage.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE REMARKABLE THING about our modern distribution of wealth is that emigrants of this kind, who would previously have faced the close crowding and confined quarters of "steerage," are now able, with their own savings and with family and other help, to travel in a civilized way. In this the Welfare State is indeed creating welfare.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHAT ENORMOUS STRIDES in travel have been made in a single century must be obvious to any readers of Charles Dickens's 'Martin Chuzzlewit.' When his hero Martin and his ever-cheerful comrade Mark Tapley made their crossing in "that noble and fast-sailing line-of-packet ship The Screw," the passage took weeks. They were dumped in "a dark, low, stifling cabin, surrounded by berths all filled to overflowing with men, women and children in various stages of sickness and misery, so crowded that mattresses and beds were heaped upon the floor to the extinction of everything like comfort, cleanliness and decency." They carried their own victuals and there was a cooking-fire lighted on the deck "which seemed to menace the ship with certain annihilation by fire—in case the elements of air and water had already failed to compass her destruction." The more prosperous travellers shared "an after-cabin" which was rather less horrible, but would certainly not be tolerated by any class today. True, a passage on "The Screw" must have cost very little (prices were not stated), but then the passengers had very little with which to pay. And now it seems they have money in hand and can set forth in style.

✧ ✧ ✧

THEY HAVE, if sick, their hospital; if bored, their 300-seat cinema and concert-room; as well as handsome libraries, writing-rooms, card-rooms, winter gardens and children's playrooms. If needing exercise they can pursue it in concentrated form on all sorts of mechanical horses and even camels. And, of course, they can be busy pedestrians on the decks, open and covered.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE ABSURDITY of ocean travel in recent times has been its excessive luxury. People who never dress for dinner or expect gigantic meals at home get into "full fig" and feed and dance like millionaires when they are in the middle of the Atlantic. The whole function of the fashionable liner, greyhound in speed and elephantine in size, is to conceal the fact that one is at sea at all. In fact the voyager, opulently immured in a transportine Ritz, has great difficulty, while threading through Louis Seize drawing-rooms and Old English parlours, even to get a glimpse of the sea.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT "Olympia" is a ship and seems wisely content to be nothing more. It is comfortable and not "ritzy." It is furnished in a number of styles, all of them fresh and gay, but not oppressively luxurious. It establishes a sensible moderation of amenity. In short, those who book passages are going to sea in a ship, avoiding both the frowsty slum allotted in the old days to the "steerage" and the humiliating feeling, more recently imposed in certain places, that the first-class is all that matters.

✧ ✧ ✧

THAT, to my mind, makes good maritime sense. The curse of a cult of Fair Shares may be that high standards are debased in the attainment of an equality which turns out to be only shabby and dull. But if Fair Shares can be attained by raising the general standard of amenity, the political doctrine makes social sense. The century of the Common Man thus establishes a way of living and of travelling which has nothing tawdry about it. So this Fair Shares ship earns our wishes for fair weather and good support.

An American Opinion:

Raising Sheep In Greenland

(Miss M. C. Findlay in 'Arctic')

THERE ARE now 30 full-time and 250 part-time sheep farmers in the southernmost district of West Greenland. Many Greenlandic families are profiting by the addition of mutton to their diet, home-knitted sweaters have replaced sealskin anoraks among the most prosperous and in the innermost parts of the fjords real farms, with sheep stalls, homefields, and vegetable gardens, are to be seen.

By the turn of the century the seal hunting that had been the mainstay of Greenlandic life was so impoverished that the West Greenlanders were facing grave difficulties. A substitute occupation was becoming an urgent necessity, and in 1915 the Greenland Department sent one Dane and a flock of 175 Icelandic sheep to West Greenland as an experiment.

Work was undertaken along two lines: Hunters were encouraged to borrow from 10 to 20 sheep from the new sheep breeding station and to start keeping sheep as a side line—like Hebridean crofters, while young Greenlanders were taken on to the farm at the station and trained to take up farming as a full-time job.

It is among full-time sheep farmers that the striking successes are to be seen, and as all of these farms are built on the sites of medieval Viking homesteads, it is as though the very Norsemen had come back with their flocks and herds and taken up domestic life again.

This is an apt comparison for the best Greenlandic farms of the present-day remind one constantly of their Icelandic counterparts, and the latter have continued in unbroken lines since the same Vikings founded them in the tenth century.

The best Greenlandic farm (but there are only half a dozen such) stands on its fenced homefield with stalls and sheepfolds nearby. The farmhouse is of wood and may have four to eight rooms in two storeys. Inside in the kitchen bread is baked and even butter and cheese made on occasion.

The talk is of sheep; the number of lambs the flock has produced in the spring, for on this depends the number sold to the Royal Greenland Trading Company for slaughter in the autumn and their eventual cash income for the year, of round-ups, of hiring the station's tractor and driver to clear new ground for hay, and of the low prices paid for their mutton.

The farm dogs lie around the porch and the hens are scratching on the grass in front of the house. On the water of the fjord, a couple of hundred yards away, is the motor-boat that makes this connection with the trading store at the nearby settlement.

It is a dramatic change from the old seal hunting routine and it is rare to find a Greenlander who has gone straight, so to speak, from the kayak to the scythe. Sheep farming has taken the best of the young men and there is still room for more of them. Away from the coastline, inland, untenanted Viking sites are still waiting for the Greenlander who is brave enough to leave the outer coast with its seals and take to sheep.

Let Them Pay Tolls

(Sudbury Star)

There is some doubt that the United States Congress will approve the participation of that country in the St. Lawrence Seaway but Canada is strong in her determination to build it alone, if necessary.

Latest exponent of this view is Hon. Lester B. Pearson, Canada's secretary of state for external affairs, who met with State Secretary Dulles at Washington and gave expression to his thoughts at a press conference.

Canadians will not be in agreement with one statement made by Mr. Pearson—that if Canada does build the seaway there will be no discrimination in tolls against U.S. shipping.

Why shouldn't the U.S. expect to pay additional tolls for using a canal system constructed entirely in Canada by Canadian funds and labor? It can be taken for granted that U.S. shipping lines would expect to pay for the privilege of using the Canadian-built seaway.

We have been very generous to the United States in the way of bases for their armed forces, freedom of the air over Canada for aircraft engaging in war exercises, and the construction and use of the Alcan Highway.

Canadians will resent the toeholds becoming handholds in our country, or the Canadian-built St. Lawrence Seaway becoming ex officio a part of the United States.

Uroporphurins

(Ottawa Journal)

Under the authority of Trade Minister Howe, the National Research Council has published its annual report for 1952-53. The report says that new research buildings are either built or under construction, that many new projects are under study and that research in Canada is in a healthy state. Much time and study is being given by the National Research Council to practical problems confronting Canadian industry. This is all to the good. The report in parts is far beyond the comprehension of the layman. It abounds in such sentences as this:

"Kinetic studies of reactions in solutions on the hydrolysis of benzalanilines and diazoacetic ester have been completed and similar studies on the reactions of the benzenesulphonic esters are being published."

Another sentence runs:

"An investigation has been started into the structure and synthesis of the uroporphurins."

These bits taken haphazard from text are by no means the most complex sentences of the report, but represent a fair general average. Except for the scientist, the report might as well be published in Sanskrit.

Fast Mails

(St. Catharines Standard)

There is an interesting note from across the border to the effect that an experiment in three-cent air mail between three cities has proved a great success. The three cities are Washington, New York and Chicago and the time variance is three hours from the normal train service of 15 hours. Planes of four different air lines are carrying most of the ordinary first class mail at no extra cost to the senders. In the matter of despatch it is an advanced step. Having regard to the complaints in this country of so much delayed delivery—three days between Toronto and Ottawa for an ordinary letter—Canada it would seem is retrograding in its postal service while the United States in trying to step it up in every way possible. It was retrogression surely when the one delivery a day was instituted. The question is pertinent, should the Post Office Department of Canada be operated for surplus revenue, or for the national good and in a manner to speed up despatch of the nation's business?

"Come in, Smarty—but for those jets up there you'd be a rug."

WORLD'S BIGGE[illegible]ALL — This huge sphere, at Schenectady, N.Y., said to be the largest in the world (3,850 tons of steel), is ready to house the prototype of an atomic power plant for submarines. Inch thick steel plates are joined together by more than five miles of welding to make ball as high as an 18-storey building.

Reforms Institution Plants Not Getting Credit For Output

TORONTO (CP)—W. J. Stewart, member of the legislature for Toronto Parkdale, asked Tuesday for a report on the manufacturing plants of Ontario's reforms institutions. He said he doubts they get full credit for their industrial output.

Chairman of the legislature's select committee on reform institutions, Mr. Stewart told the committee he thinks that in some cases the department, which manufactures licence plates at Guelph, bricks and tile at Mimico and many other articles in other institutions, is not getting full value for its effort.

Deputy Reforms Minister Hedley Basher said plates made at the Guelph reformatory are sold to the Ontario highways department at 12 cents a pair. The issuer is paid 25 cents a pair by the highways department.

SILLY DECISION

Last year the licence-plate operation made a profit of $80,000 but it was said the figure did not allow for depreciation, insurance or any of the normal costs that must be met in private industry.

W. M. Nickle, Progressive Conservative member for Kingston, told the committee that closing a small cement tile factory at the Kingston county jail was "the silliest departmental decision I ever heard." Manufacture of the tile at the jail was stopped because a reforms department inspector said the tile could not be left in the jail yard for fear it would be used by prisoners to escape over the walls.

PROMISES INQUIRY

Mr. Nickle said nobody has escaped from the jail in more than 25 years and besides, it would take at least 20 men to make use of the tile for a jailbreak.

W. J. Grummett, CCF house leader, said he objected to the closing of the factory because he felt the Kingston jail was one place where an "honest effort" was being made to put men to work.

Col. Basher told the committee an investigation would be made with a view to re-opening the tile factory.

11,000 Enjoy Ballet At Gardens

TORONTO (CP)—More than 11,000 persons packed Map Leaf Gardens Tuesday night to applaud the Sadler's Wells Ballet Company of London in the first full-length presentation in Canada of "The Sleeping Beauty."

The company and its premier ballerina, Margot Fonteyn, gave a flawless performance of the Tschaikovsky ballet in the unfamiliar surroundings of a hockey arena.

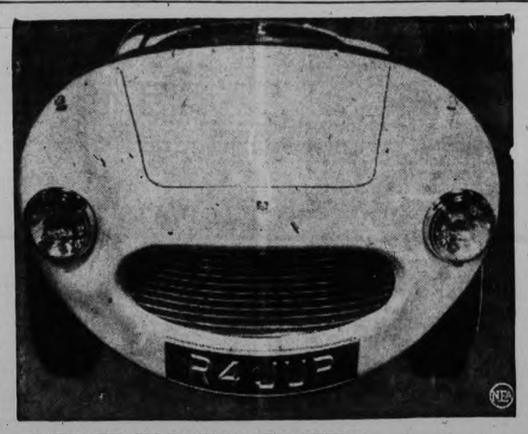
The ballet was produced by Nicholas Sergeyev after the original choreography by Marius Petipa. The elaborate costumes and scenery are the work of Oliver Messel.

Miss Fonteyn, who visited in 1949 and 1951, danced the old fairy story with the brilliance and grace that have won her acclaim as the world's greatest ballerina.

The program listed Arnott Mader formerly of Kitchener, as one of the dancers.

The stage, running almost the entire width of the arena, was extended over a third of the rink area and blocked off 2,500 of the Gardens' 12,586 seats. An extra 1,400 were arranged in tiers before the stage, first erected for Metropolitan Opera performances.

The company is in the eighth week of a 20-week tour which began in New York.



Pheasants Taking Advantage Of Bylaw

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — An 18-man delegation appeared before Riverside town council to complain that pheasants are taking advantage of a bylaw passed last week. The bylaw outlaws shooting within town limits.

The delegation said thousands of pheasants are roaming the fields of the nearby town.

They asked that the bylaw be amended to allow shooting during this week's four-day pheasant season.

Council decided in favor of the pheasants.

Says Writing Hampered By Censorship

OTTAWA (CP)—Wayne W. Parrish of Washington, editor of American Aviation Publications, Tuesday described as "the biggest barrier of all" to good aviation writing the pointless and unnecessary censorship by military and government officials.

He said "censorship by the military and the government" attempted to classify details of every development "even when such information has become fairly general knowledge and when, in any event, it does not affect the national security."

The Western world seemed to be overly obsessed with this form of censorship under the weird belief that the news was not leaking to Russia.

Mr. Parrish spoke to a meeting of the Air Industries and Transport Association at which awards for the association's 1953 aviation writing contest were presented.

DOUBLE WINNER

Top award winner this year was William Stevenson of the Toronto Star, who in addition to winning top prize of $150 and a plaque in the magazine and Sunday supplement class, won the $100 grand award for all classes.

Roy Kervin, editorial writer for the Montreal Gazette, took the prize in the daily newspaper section, with Jim Hornick, Toronto Globe and Mail, placing second.

Frank Lowe of the Montreal Star was second in the magazine and Sunday supplement class.

Mrs. Dorothy Rungeling of Fenwick won a special award for articles on flying as a sport, which appeared in the Welland Tribune.

12 Striking Truckers Received No Relief

HAMILTON (CP)—Twelve truck drivers whose names appeared on strike-pay lists during the recent southwestern Ontario trucking tie-up, have reported they received no relief during the six-week walkout.

Their statements came to light Tuesday as police investigated an alleged embezzlement of between $15,000 and $20,000 from strike-pay funds during the summer walkout.

Defer Any Action On Weather Stations

MONTREAL (CP)—The Internation's council deferred action Tuesday on the announced intention of the United States to quit the North Atlantic weather-stations program.

Canada's representative, Brig. C. S. Booth, said the U.S. declaration was a "complete surprise and raises policy and financial questions."

Tempest In Teapot

GUELPH (CP) — Guelph city council Tuesday turned down a resolution that asked the citizens of the city to remove locks and catches from discarded ice boxes to save the lives of playing children. Alderman Charles Pinch, a doctor, said the matter is a "tempest in a teapot." He said 24 children lost their lives in icebox accidents in North America but 7,000 have been killed in traffic accidents.

Investigate Suicide

WAUBAUSHENE (CP)—Provincial police Tuesday announced a "full scale" investigation into the reported suicide last Oct. 22 of 38-year-old Mrs. Bernice Barber. Mrs. Barber, described as a "nervous person," was found dead with a bullet in her chest after she had prepared breakfast for her three young children. Her husband, a 42-year-old dairy operator, was sleeping upstairs.

OEA Meeting Planned

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Education Association has announced that its primary school section will hold a conference on reading at Suddaby public school in Kitchener Saturday. Aimed at bringing the latest techniques in reading instruction to the attention of grades 1, 2, and 3 teachers, the conference will be led by expert demonstrators who will conduct sample classroom sessions.

Oshawa Man Injured

TORONTO (CP) — Melville L. Bush, 28, of Oshawa, suffered undetermined injuries Tuesday night when his light truck was hit by a railway locomotive in suburban Scarboro Junction. Police said the truck skidded on wet pavement into the path of the slow-moving locomotive.

Tried To Poison Husband-Woman

MERIDEN, Conn. (AP) — A mother of eight children sat before police investigators Tuesday and told how every few days for 18 months she sprinkled arsenic in her husband's milk, trying to kill him. It was a plot, she said, she learned from a television murder mystery.

Mrs. Louise B. Staszewski, 48, was charged with assault with intent to murder. She was unable to place $25,000 bail.

Her husband, Anthony, 53, is in hospital where his condition is fair, after suffering since April, 1952, the effects of arsenic poisoning and never knowing it.

Police arrested the woman after they said medical reports showed Staszewski, a silversmith in a factory here, had been poisoned.

Thomson Announces Board Of Directors

EDINBURGH (Reuters) — The Scotsman Publications, recently acquired by Canadian publisher Roy Thomson, announced its new board of directors Tuesday:

Roy Thomson, chairman; Peter Findlay, Colin MacKinnon, James Muir, James Whitton, Kenneth R. Thomson and Edgar Smith.

Muir, a native of Peebles, Scotland, is president of the Royal Bank of Canada and a director of several other corporations.

No Two-Year Terms

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto metropolitan council Tuesday voted to kill any application to enforce the two-year term for councils and boards of education within the metropolitan area. The metro executive committee last week recommended that council ask the province to amend Bill 80, forcing a two-year term in Toronto and 12 suburbs. The recommendation was withdrawn because four suburbs will vote on the question in December.

WORK-WEEK DECLINING

OTTAWA (CP)—More than 40 per cent of plant employees in Canadian manufacturing were on the 40-hour week at April this year, the labor department said Tuesday. Since October, 1949, proportion of plants on the five-day week increased from 60 to 80 per cent. Proportion of workers on the 48-hour week dropped to 10 per cent.

KILLED BY POWER PRESS

Knights Eliminate Panthers Meet Orfuns For ORFU Title

In their drive for their second successive intermediate "A" ORFU football title, the Peterborough Orfuns will meet Oakville Black Knights in a two-game series for the provincial honors. Orfuns' president, Dr. Don Aiken said today that he expects the series, points-to-count, will open in Oakville Saturday with the return game in Peterborough a week Saturday.

The Black Knights won the western group of the intermediate ORFU series Tuesday night when before some 600 fans who sat through driving rain to see the Knights score a 9-2 victory over Hamilton Panthers in a sudden-death game. Hamilton, coached by football's Golden Boy, Tony Golab, were the western group winners last year, later losing to the Orfuns for the Ontario title.

THREE SINGLES

Willy Rogers' talented toe kicked three singles and a field goal to give the Knights the victory. A second field goal was booted by John Roberts. Hamilton's two points came in the dying minutes of the game when Oakville conceded a safety touch.

Prior to leaving for Toronto early today where he will attend an intermediate ORFU executive meeting, Dr. Aiken said the Orfuns will definitely know tonight when the series actually begins.

"We'll very likely play in Oakville Saturday and back here the following Saturday," said Dr. Aiken. "It will be home-and-home, at least that's what we expect. Anyway, we'll go along with that."

Dr. Aiken said the Ontario winner this year will go east to play the Quebec champions. At present Verdun and Montreal Lakeshores whom the Orfuns edged last season for the Eastern Canada title are tied for first place.

Besides discussion of the Ontario series, Dr. Aiken said, the Eastern and Dominion title series would likely be discussed at the same time since they are only a few weeks away.

The disposal of Toronto Marauders bond, posted prior to the beginning of season play, will be another topic discussed by the executive. The Marauders, the eastern group's weak sisters, dropped out after several stunning defeats, therefore losing their bond.

Wilwyn Captures Limekiln Handicap

NEWMARKET, England (AP)—Wilwyn, Britain's crack five-year-old thoroughbred, won the 1¼-mile Limekiln handicap stakes Tuesday—his last race in England before flying to the United States Sunday.

Wilwyn and three-year-old Harwin are Britain's challengers in the $65,000 Washington, D.C., International Race at Laurel Park, Md., Nov. 7.

Wilwyn, owned by fruit farmer Robert Boucher, won the inaugural of the Maryland race last Oct. 18.

Manny Mercer, who will ride Wilwyn in the United States, sent his horse to a three-length victory over Star of the Forest in the Limekiln to win $3,192. Time for the race was not announced.

Crippled Marauders Reshuffling Team

HAMILTON (CP) — McMaster Marauders, crippled through injuries, will be reshuffled for Saturday's intercollegiate football game with Queen's in Kingston.

Latest additions to the injury list are Wimp Crawford, halfback, in hospital for removal of a knee cartilege, and end Dave Fraser, who suffered concussion during the Saturday game here against McGill.

Jackie Rome, a two-way half, may miss action due to a foot injury he picked up Saturday. Previously, the Macs had lost Max Woolley and Johnny McPhee, both first-stringers. Coach Al Smith will play end Ernie Darragh at offence as well as defence, and Denny Moffat will be shifted from end to flying wing.

Stanley Wood Wins Handicap Swim Meet

Stanley Hood, ten-year-old Queen Mary School swimmer, was the winner of the YMCA weekly handicap swim Tuesday night. The event, 40-yards backstroke, was keenly contested with Lorne Hale, David Ross and Ross Dobbin finishing in second, third and fourth.

Of the 21 swimmers taking part, 15 boys showed improvement in times for the distance. Barry Baker is the latest recruit for the club.

Montreal, Glasgow Battle To Tie

LONDON (CP)—Montreal and Glasgow curling rinks battled to a 12-12 tie Tuesday night in a Glasgow exhibition match which introduced curling to Britain's television audience.

In a half-hour appearance, skip Maj. H. H. Clark of Montreal guided his charges to a draw on the last end.

The Canadians wore tartan but the Scots didn't—a fact the TV announcer pointed out.

Most English viewers had never seen the game before.

Policeman To Coach Track, Field Team

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada's track and field team in the British Empire Games here next year may have a policeman as coach.

Wally Strang, city police officer and coach of the Western Sports Club here, was nominated for the job at the annual meeting of the Association.

The nomination will be sent to the Canadian Track Association. Strang directed B.C.'s track and field team in the interprovincial meet in Toronto this summer.

Wrestling Tonight

Mills Brothers In Team Match

Tiny Mills Al Mills

The team of Al "Murder" Mills and his brother Tiny Mills, also known as Murder Inc., will face the powerful combination of Timothy Geohagen, the Irish strongman, and Flying Pat Flanagan, the Toronto speedster, in the tag team wrestling headliner at the Brock Arena here tonight at 8:45. The rough-and-tumble Mills Bros. may get more than they reckon on in meeting the muscular Geohagen and slick-footed Flanagan. In the semi-final, Mr. Kato, Japanese judo expert, will oppose Alan Garfield, of London, Eng. Herb Larson, of Hamilton, will wrestle Reyes Nacho, Yaqui Indian athlete, in the first event.

Hamilton Tigers Bow To Quebec 4-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Tigers would like to know the strategy employed by Coach Phil Watson to strengthen his Quebec Citadelles.

Watson and his boys returned from an almost fruitless road campaign at the bottom of the nine-team Ontario Hockey Association Junior A loop with one victory in seven starts. One of their losses in Ontario was a 4-2 defeat at the hands of the Tigers.

Pulling up the drawbridge as soon as they reached home, the Cits have scored two successive 7-2 victories over the visiting Tigers to pull into a four-way third-place tie with Barrie Flyers, Galt Black Hawks and the Tabbies.

Guelph Biltmores' 5-1 decision over Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in the only other OHA Junior A action Tuesday night hoisted them into a three-way first-place deadlock with Toronto Marlboros and St. Catharines TeePees. But the Biltmores have played one game more than the TeePees and two more than Marlboros.

The Citadelles' victory over Hamilton in Quebec was watched by 4,000 fans. Tigers held their own in the first period and the rivals entered the wild second session deadlocked 1-1.

The middle stanza was marked by fighting which resulted in five misconduct penalties and five majors. Quebec carried a 5-2 edge into the final session. Two unanswered counters by the Citadelles in the last period made it a runaway.

Clermont Doyon fired three goals for Quebec. Mike Ratchford added a pair and Stan Parker and Gaston Pelletier notched the others. Val Mitchell and Marlin McAlendin shared the Hamilton output.

HILLMAN HURT

The Biltmores made themselves at home as they chalked up their 5-1 decision in Kitchener. It was a costly loss for the Greenshirts. Floyd Hillman, a pillar on their defence, suffered a broken arm when he fell into the boards in the last period.

Bill McCreary netted three goals for the winners. Bob Attersley counted once and assisted on the other four. Chick Chalmers fired the last marker with less than a minute to play. Ivan Tennant put the Shirts in the scoring.

The Biltmores entertain Barrie in tonight's only action.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Along about this time last year, the local football Orfuns were prepping for provincial final playoffs. They hurdled Hamilton to go into Eastern Canada finals against a potent pack from Montreal, and the Kotowski crew yanked out that decision. They lost later in Winnipeg in the east-west intermediate "A" finals. Just how far history in their case will repeat remains to be seen. At least, they're ready again for the Ontario finals, and hope to make eastern playoffs once more. Orfuns have some injuries, but also have a lot of bench strength, so are in fair shape for the stiff grid struggles ahead. More on the setup for this weekend on the morrow.

Port Hope scribe remarked the other day: "Race track habitues have a saying that class will tell, and it is as true in sport anywhere. Class told Saturday in Cobourg where the Galloping Ghosts ran into the classy Peterborough Orfuns with a shuddering smash. The smash sent the Gallopers into a stunning 19-0 defeat. The class-will-tell parallel was shown in the first few minutes when Ghosts couldn't stand prosperity on the Petes' 13-yard line with a six-point lead, and fumbled two placement chances. After that pitiful episode at the south end by the Ghosts, the game was gone. It took another 15 minutes to prove it but there was an air of desperation about the Gallopers after that faux pas."

Scribe High on Jim

He continues: "On the Peterborough side it was Jim Milligan. He brooked no interference, called the plays and gave his big three, Clive Naismith, Bus Jensen and Bill Huntley, an even-stephen break on the glory. He fooled the Ghosts regularly by calling on Naismith and Jensen when Ghosts looked for Huntley to carry the ball. In the final quarter Milligan showed his greatness by carrying the ball over on a quarterback sneak when Huntley was expected by everyone to carry the ball. He stood to be severely critized had he failed, but he wasn't in a failing mood, and gave the Gallopers the final slap in the face." The Port Hope scribe wishes Orfuns well in their quest for the Canadian crown. We agree with his remarks on Milligan and the other aces, but feel that Don Bark should be included in the stars of the game.

* * * * * *

Still speaking of Port Hope, but of hockey this time, we note where Coach Ned Vitarelli will have some Peterborough puckists in the Hopers' OHA lineup this winter. Those mentioned from around here are Dean Wasson, Red Wasson, Gord Fennell, Ab Buckton and Red Robinson. Maybe one or two more of this city or district, too. These chaps all saw OHA junior "B" service here, and some appeared at times in senior "B" action as well as in TVL competition in recent seasons. Along with the Port Hope talent available, Ned should come up with a contending club in the lakeshore loop. They're practising regularly now on artificial ice.

About Senior Squads

Orillia Pontiacs play the TPT Petes this Friday night here to open the local OHA senior "B" season. Following Petes' loss to Oshawa in Bowmanville last Saturday, the Motor City columnist comments: "It was a mighty good game for the first league fixture of the season. Some pre-season mistakes and rough edges noticeable but there were also a lot of smart moves made. The Petes will be tough to beat before the season is over. Penalties played a big part in the scoring. Many of the fans were from Oshawa—they had over 1,100 paid—and the fans who saw the Bowmanville arena for the first time were favorably impressed. Judging by the enthusiasm shown, the Truckmen are going to have good support there." Glad to hear it.

Entries for the Peterborough Minor Hockey Association close at a Nov. 1 meeting at eight p.m. in the King George Hotel. Only a couple of openings left now, we're told. They'll have four teams in the juvenile, midget and bantam sections, all having an "A" affiliation with th OMHA. Our bantam Shamrocks took provincial honors last spring over Guelph. The PMHA officers this season are: President, Dick Ouimet; vice-prexies, Phonse Brioux and Harley Carr; secretary, Bill Dawson; treasurer, Jack Miller; and the team manager. Booster and season ducats will be sold in advance to raise necessary do-re-mi. A night a week will be set aside shortly at Civic Arena for PMHA play.

N.Z. Team May Play In Canada

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (CP)—The New Zealand Rugby Union has decided to open negotiations for a New Zealand team to visit Canada, the United States and Argentina in 1955.

A New Zealand Rugby Union team—the All Blacks, as all such teams are known—is already on a British tour which will include two games in British Columbia early next year when the players are on the way home.

The latest proposal is for a more extensive visit.

New Zealand plays English-type rugby. It is hoped that the visit next year will stimulate interest, especially in British Columbia and California where rugger is already played.

Argentina has indicated that it would like a visit from the All Blacks.

OLD BOXER INJURED

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Old time fighter Al McCoy, 59, who held the world middleweight championship from 1914 to 1917, was seriously injured Tuesday when hit by an automobile.

McCoy knocked out George Chip in one round in Brooklyn to win the title.

TOM FOOL TO RETIRE

NEW YORK (AP)—The Greentree Stable has announced that the great handicap champion, Tom Fool, will be retired to the stud immediately and will not race in the $75,000-added Empire Gold Cup at Jamaica Saturday.

Tom Fool is unbeaten in 10 races this year and won the $50,000 Pimlico Special last Saturday in track record time.

✦ ✦ ✦

JOCKEY TURNS FARMER

NEWMARKET, England (AP)—Sir Gordon Richards, the world's leading jockey, plans to become farmer Richards when he retires from racing—"but that's not just yet," he said Tuesday.

Richards was replying to rumors that he is going to retire at the end of this season.

Richards, 49, has been jockey for 33 years. He has ridden more than 4,800 winners and has been Britain's champion jockey 25 times.

DRESSEN SIGNS

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Chuck Dressen, who couldn't get a three-year contract from Brooklyn after leading the Dodgers to two National League pennants, was signed for that period of time with Oakland of the Pacific Coast League.

Dressen said Tuesday he has no regret at leaving the major league.

"I will get just as much money here as I did back there and there will be a lot less grief," he said.

Clarence Laws, president of the Oaks said Dressen would become the general manager of the club as well as its field manager.

Dressen said his salary will be $32,500 a year, and he probably will be allowed to purchase stock in the club.

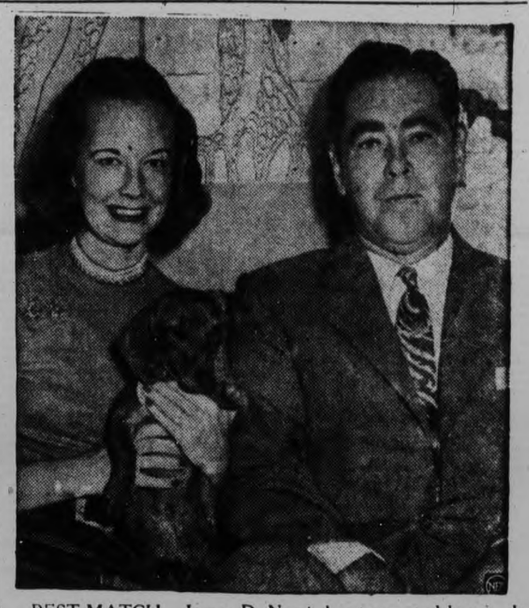
JOCKEY SETS RECORD



ALBANY, Calif. (AP) — Riding three winners for the fourth straight day at Golden Gate Fields, Wee Willie Shoemaker ran his record of season wins up to 410 Tuesday and broke a 46-year mark for winners in consecutive seasons.

Shoemaker scored aboard Sea Bazooka in the second race, Mr. Mustard in the third and Tedioso in the eighth to give him 725 wins in 1952 and 1953.

The old mark for two consecutive years was 722, set by Walter Miller in 1906 and 1907. Miller won 388 in 1906—which stood as a season's record until Tony Despirito scored 390 last year—and 334 in 1907.

Shoemaker had 315 in 1952 and broke Despirito's single year mark two weeks ago.

Shoemaker also scored one second and two thirds Tuesday, but was shut out of the money in the featured Loomis Handicap.

BEST MATCH—James D. Norris has promoted hundreds of fights, but the president of the International Boxing Club says he will make his best match in Chicago, November 6, when he marries Betty Betz, of that city.

One-Goal Jinx Haunting Chicago Black Hawks Hope To Click Tonight

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

If Chicago Black Hawks want to make their coach happy tonight they should either beat New York Rangers or lose by more than one goal. Sid Abel's National Hockey League last-placers haven't beaten anyone yet this season, but they have been coming close enough lately to make their coach wonder if he isn't living right.

In their last four games they have played everyone but New York, falling one goal short every time. That gives the Hawks a record of no wins, seven losses and a tie for the season—a far cry from their surprise start of last year when they were not beaten until their fifth game.

The Hawks' best hope of better things is their apparent liking for New York, where they won six games against a single defeat last year, when they were the only club to hold more than a one-game edge over the Rangers on their home ice.

RANGERS RATE HIGH

The fifth-place New Yorkers have broken even in their first two home appearances this autumn, but rated high marks from coach Dick Irvin after his league-leading Montreal Canadiens barely squeezed out a 2-1 victory in their first visit last Sunday.

Before taking his club home for a date against Toronto Maple Leafs Thursday night, Irvin called this year's edition of the Rangers the best since 1950's Stanley Cup finalists, the last New York club to make the playoffs.

"I think they'll make the playoffs for sure if they can stand the gaff," said Irvin, praising the goal-tending of rookie Johnny Bower and the club's aggressive style of play.

Left-winger Dean Prentice, out for six games with a shoulder separation, returns to the New York line-up tonight and will replace rookie Camille Henry on the second line with Don Raleigh and Nick Mickoski.

Ireland Wins Jumping Event At Horse Show

HARRISBURG, Pa. (CP)—Capts. Colm O'Shea and Michael Turbridy, riding side by side for Ireland, won the paired jumping event Tuesday night to crack England's string of three straight international victories at the Pennsylvania National Horse Show.

The United States team was second, Canada third and England fourth.

Canada's Lt.-Col. Charles Baker, on Starclift, and W. R. Ballard on Anchors Aweigh, knocked over a single fence on the nine-obstacle course. They were charged with four jumping faults and two pair faults, for imperfect alignment, and were clocked in 51 3-5 seconds.

SECOND ENTRY

A second Canadian entry of Ballard on Reject and Baker on Skipacross downed two obstacles and drew one pair fault for a total of nine. The best team performance counted for each country.

Canada's six faults for the event left her behind all three other countries in the race for the low-score trophy, most coveted of the show.

Ireland has a total of six, England seven, the United States eight and Canada nine at the two-thirds mark of the three-day competition, to be completed Friday.

Bisons Lead Hockey League

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Bisons swept into first place in the American Hockey League Tuesday night displacing Cleveland by downing the Barons 4-3.

In the only other game played, at Hershey, the Bears defeated Pittsburgh Hornets 4-2 to climb out of sole posession of the cellar and get into a three-way tie for last spot with Syracuse Warriors and Providence Reds.

At Cleveland, goals by Ed Slowinski, John McCormack, Pete Babando and Ken Hayden were enough to offset markers by Glen Sonmor, Jack Gordon and Fred Shero.

At Hershey, 15 penalties were meted out in a rough game during which Arnie Kullman gave the Bears a 1-0 lead. Pete MacDonald then tied the score. Norm Corcoran got the only goal of the second period while Dunc Fisher and Jack McIntyre further increased the margin. Willie Marshall got the count down to 4-2.

GOLF GATE DOWN

LONDON (AP)—The British Professional Golfers Association made a $12,600 profit on the Ryder Cup golf match between Britain and the United States.

The BPGA hoped to net $28,000 but the crowds were disappointing with only 15,800 paid admissions during the two-day tournament here earlier this month.

Money from the match goes toward sending a British team to the United States in 1955. Estimated cost of the trip is $168,800.

Defenceman Out, Breaks Two Legs

TORONTO (CP)—George Stoyan, defenceman for Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series last year, was put out of athletic competition for this winter at least when he suffered two broken legs and a dislocated shoulder Tuesday.

The athlete, who decided to return to his studies at the University of Toronto after trying out with Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League, was running for a street car and was struck by an automobile.

Kitchener Dutchmen Upset Niagara Falls Cataracts 13-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There wasn't any doubt about the winners in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A schedule Tuesday night.

Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, last year's Allan Cup champions, scored their 22nd goal in their second game of the new season when they lambasted Niagara Falls Cataracts 13-3 in Niagara Falls. In their opener Saturday they defeated Stratford Indians in Kitchener.

In the league's other game Windsor Bulldogs also showed no mercy as they put down the visiting Sarnia Sailors 11-2.

In a Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A game, Pembroke Lumber Kings moved into a second-place tie with Sudbury Wolves by defeating Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians 4-3 in overtime.

TWO GOALS EACH

Clare Martin, George Scholes and Johnny Muretich blasted two goals each for the Dutchmen. Charlie Brooker, Howie Lee, Jerry Theberge, Don Rope, Roy McKay, Jack McKenzie and Ken Laufman also scored. Connie Switzer and Bill Kodatsky tallied for Niagara Falls.

Gord Haidy led the Bulldogs to their second victory in four starts as he bagged three goals in Windsor's 11-2 routing of Sarnia. Alec Birukow and Lyle Wiseman fired two each with singles going to Hayes, Dick Kotanen, Gary Gordon and Fred Hildebrand. John McKennell notched both for the Sailors.

Ken Campbell's marker in overtime, his second of the game, gave Pembroke its 4-3 squeaker over Sault Ste. Marie. Other goals for the Lumber Kings went to Lionel Barber and Jack Carthy. Jackie Heon, Henry Backor and Hub Macy replied for the Indians.

A full schedule in the OHA Senior circuit tonight has Owen Sound at Hamilton, Stratford at Chatham, Niagara Falls at Kitchener, and Windsor at Sarnia.

Riders Meet Bombers In Semi-Final

WINNIPEG (CP)—To Winnipeg football fans, Flingin' Frankie Filchock, coach of Saskatchewan Roughriders, is also Fateful Frank Filchock, former coach of Edmonton Eskimos.

Filchock, who brings his club to town tonight for the first game of the two-game, total-point Western Interprovincial Football Union semi finals, seems to have a strange power over Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Last year, as freshman coach of the Eskimos, he helped his club knock off the heavily-favored Bombers and go on to lose to Toronto Argonauts in the Grey Cup final. The Filchock touch has carried over into this season and Winnipeg fans are jittery.

FOUR VICTORIES

In six starts against the Bombers this season, the Roughies have managed four wins, two of them with Filchock handling the ball at quarterback. In his last appearance in the new Winnipeg stadium, the old master called a flawless game and pitched a touchdown strike as his team won 18-13.

Two days later he masterminded a give-away game for a 14-13 win over the Bombers in Regina. With a five-point margin and time running out Filchock handed the Bombers two safety touches in a row to keep control of the ball and claim the one-point win.

Filchock was forced back to active duty when import quarter Glenn Dobbs was injured. Another key import—end Stan Williams—is also on the injury list but big Harry Lampman, a Hamilton boy who arrived at Regina via Queen's University, has proved a more-than-adequate replacement offensively and defensively.

Coming to the Panoramascope screen at the Centre Theatre today is the epic story, (The Royal African Rifles), which will be made more graphic and absorbing in the new wide-vision presentation now possible.

Makes Good Picture Better

Panoramascope Screen Adds Depth, Reality To Film

It can be safely said that the new wide screen, the Panoramascope, cannot make a poor picture good but it can make a good picture better. The Centre Theatre, under the enterprising management of Mr. Hilly Yudin, has just installed such a screen and it bids fair to enlarge the movie horizon both figuratively and literally.

Seen on the new wide screen, a film assumes proportions denied it before. There is a quality of depth to the screen, not in the horrific manner of 3-D, when a trapeze artist might have come flying out into the audience or a lion might have plunged from the screen. But a realistic dimensional view is obtained, much as the normal eye assures vision, in that the foreground looms importantly and the background assumes its normal place.

MASSIVE PICTURE

The Panoramascope screen measures roughly 22 feet by 12½ feet, as against 13 by 10½ on the old screen. This gives a square footage of 240 feet, over the old 135 feet. In a theatre the size of the Centre, comfortably small for pleasant viewing, the screen consumes most of the stage wall of the theatre and the picture thereon becomes massive.

But the new screen, large as it is, assures the viewer a normal view from all angles. There is no distortion from any angle, as there undoubtedly is with the old type screen. The figures remain true to life, with no long, thin affect.

The screen, of silver coated plastic, is mounted on a wooden frame and has a concave curve, with the centre being approximately nine inches in. It is, we are told, one half inch curve for each foot from the projection booth. Therefore the size of each individual theatre will determine the size and curve of its wide screen as it is installed.

Mr. Yudin has assured for himself an his Centre Theatre a veritable scoop in movie presentation for Peterborough, one that will be watched with interest in the weeks to come. This new medium of film presentation heightens the impact of the screen and adds in great measure to the facilities of the producer.

ADDS ENJOYMENT

The Panormascope screen adds greatly to film enjoyment and it will be doubly interesting to see a film made in the new wide technique, which entails a form of production verging on that of the stage.

CENTRE THEATRE BRINGS NEW SCREEN TECHNIQUE TO THE CITY

Centre's Wide-vision Screen First Of Its Kind In City

No Glasses Needed To View This Screen

Installation of the new wide-vision panoramic screen at the Centre Theatre, ready for public showing tonight, is the first of its kind in Peterborough. It permits a new form of movie-showing which is said to be taking the cinema public by storm.

Panoramascope, as the new screen is known, is about twice the size of the present screen and nearly twice as wide as it is high. There is a concave curve, which gives the pictures presented on it an illusion of the depth, the effect being almost three-dimensional, giving the picture a life-like quality.

Manager Hilly Yudin pointed out that almost all new pictures have been filmed with this type of presentation in mind. Older pictures can also be shown and the theatres in the States which have already been equipped with wide wide screens have claimed that the new screen makes a wonderful difference in the presentation of these older films.

SCREEN IS SEAMLESS

The screen which has been installed at the Centre is especially designed. This Centre screen is cast in one huge piece without a single seam which would show up on the projected picture. It is constructed of a silver - coated plastic material and has a very powerful light reflection which results in the clearest, sharpest possible picture. New lenses, the finest available, are required in the projection booth.

These lenses will also be used later on in conjunction with the Panamorphic type lenses in the projection of Cinemascope as well as three-dimensional movies. Mr. Yudin stated that at the present time, he has no plans for the showing of 3-D movies requiring polaroid glass, but should this type of movie remain popular in the months to come, the theatre will be equipped for it.

Another good feature about this type of screen is that the picture presented may be viewed in comfort from any seat in the theatre, from back to front and at the far sides, with the same good effect, due to the concave curve which gives the patron the same view from any angle. Persons with astigmatism or defective eyesight will be able to enjoy the movies equally as well as a person with good vision.

THE WAR MEMOIRS OF WINSTON CHURCHILL

ITALY AND THE RIVIERA LANDING—MEETING WITH TITO—ALEXANDER PREPARES TO ATTACK THE GOTHIC LINE—SOMBRE REFLECTIONS—ALEXANDER'S SUMMER OFFENSIVE BEGINS

After Rome fell on June 4 Kesselring's broken armies streamed northwards in disorder, harassed and disorganized by continuous air attacks and closely pursued on land. General Clark's Fifth U.S. Army took the coastal roads towards Pisa, while our Eighth Army followed up astride the Tiber, heading for Lake Trasimene. The pace was hot.

Alexander hoped greatly that the "Anvil" plan to land in the south of France would be put aside and that he would be allowed to keep intact his battle-trained troops, now flushed with victory. If so, he was confident of breaking through the Apennines into the valley of the Po and beyond within a few months. He failed by a very narrow margin, as this story will show, and it seems certain that but for the deprivations and demands of "Anvil" the campaign in Italy could have been over by Christmas.

In less than two months the Allied armies had advanced over 250 miles. After the first fortnight it had been hard going all the way, with many vexatious supply problems. The Germans had their share of these. All their rearward communications ran across the wide river Po on a score of road and rail bridges. Towards the end of July these were incessantly attacked by the Allied air forces, and every one of them was cut, although, thanks to the skill of Kesselring's engineers, some supplies still got through.

I now decided to go myself to Italy, where many questions could be more easily settled on the spot than by correspondence. It would be a great advantage to see the commanders and the troops from whom so much was being demanded, after so much had been taken. The Anvil operation was about to be launched. Alexander, though sorely weakened, was preparing his armies for a further offensive. I was anxious to meet Tito, who could easily come to Italy from the island of Vis, where we were still protecting him.

✦ ✦ ✦

On August 9 (1944) I telegraphed to Mr. Duff Cooper that I hoped to arrive at the Maison Blanche airfield, outside Algiers about 6:30 a.m. on Friday, August 1, and would stay there for about three hours on my way to Naples.

I reached Naples that afternoon, and was installed in the palatial though somewhat dilapidated Villa Rivalta, with a glorious view of Vesuvius and the bay.

On the morning of August 12 Marshal Tito came up to the villa. He wore a magnificent gold and blue uniform which was very tight under the collar and singularly unsuited to the blazing heat. The uniform had been given him by the Russians.

I suggested that the Marshal might first like to see General Wilson's War Room, and we moved inside. The Marshal, who was attended by two ferocious-looking bodyguards, each carrying automatic pistols, wanted to bring them with him in case of treachery on our part. He was dissuaded from this with some difficulty, and proposed to bring them to guard him at dinner instead.

I led the way into a large room, where maps of the battle-fronts covered the walls. I began by displaying the Allied front in Normandy and indicating our broad strategic moves against the German armies in the west.

We (then) moved into a small sitting-room, and I began to question him about his relations with the Royal Yugoslav Government. He said that violent fighting still continued between the Partisans and Mihailovic, whose power rested on German and Bulgar help. Reconciliation was unlikely. Tito said that he understood our obligation towards King Peter, but was not able to do anything about it until after the war, when the Yugoslav people themselves would decide.

I then turned to the future, and suggested that the right solution for Yugoslavia would be a democratic system based on the peasantry, and perhaps some gradual measure of agrarian reform where the holdings were too small. Tito assured me that, as he had stated publicly, he had no desire to introduce the Communist system into Yugoslavia, if only because most European countries after the war would probably be living under a democratic regime.

I asked Tito if he would reaffirm his statement about Communism in public, but he did not wish to do this as it might seem to have been forced upon him.

Early in the day Tito had met General Gammell, Chief of Staff to General Wilson, and been given an important memorandum on Allied projects in Istria and thereabouts.

Tito had grumbled at these proposals in a letter to me; and when we met again on the afternoon of August 13 Mr. Stevenson, our Ambassador to Yugoslavia, and Dr. Subasic being present, I said that it was an operational question which needed careful study, and also close consultation with the American President. The status of Istria, which still remained Italian, could not be prejudged. It might be a good thing to remove it from Italian sovereignty, but this must be decided at the Peace Conference, or if there were none, by a meeting of the principal Powers, at which Yugoslavia could state her claim.

Later I entertained Tito to dinners. He was still confined in his gold-lace strait-jacket and perspired profusely. I was so glad to be wearing only a white duck suit.

On all these days at Naples I mingled pleasure with toil. Admiral Morse, who commanded the naval forces, took me each day in his barge on an expedition, of which the prime feature was a bath. On the first we went to the island of Ischia, with its hot springs, and on the return we ran through an immense United States troop convoy sailing for the landing on the Riviera. All the ships were crowded with men, and as we passed along their lines they cheered enthusiastically. They did not know that if I had had my way they would be sailing in a different direction. However, I was proud to wave to these gallant soldiers. We also visited Capri. I had never seen the Blue Grotto before. It is indeed a miracle of transparent, sparkling water of a most intense, vivid blue. We bathed in a small, warm bay, and repaired to luncheon at a comfortable inn. I summoned up in my mind all I could remember about Emperor Tiberius. Certainly in Capri he had chosen an agreeable headquarters from which to rule the world.

These days, apart from business, were a sunshine holiday.

On the afternoon of August 14 I flew in General Wilson's Dakota to Corsica in order to see the landing at Anvil which I had tried so hard to stop, but to which I wished all success. We had a pleasant flight to Ajaccio, in the harbor of which General Wilson and Admiral John Cunnigham had posted themselves on board a British headquarters ship. The General and the Admiral brought me aboard, and we spent a long evening on our affairs. I was to start at daylight in the British destroyer Kimberley. We were five hours sailing before we reached the line of battleships bombarding at about fifteen thousand yards. We did not go nearer than about seven thousand yards. Here we saw the long rows of boats filled with American storm troops steaming in continuously to the Bay of St. Tropez. As far as I could see or hear not a shot was fired either at the approaching flotillas or on the beaches. We then returned to Ajaccio. I had at least done the civil to Anvil, and indeed I thought it was a good thing I was near the scene to show the interest I took in it. On the way back I found a lively novel, Grand Hotel, in the captain's cabin, and this kept me in good temper till I got back to the Supreme Commander and the Naval Commander-in-Chief, who had passed an equally dull day siting in the stern cabin.

To sum up the Anvil-Dragoon story, the original proposal at Teheran in November 1943, was for a descent on the South of France to help take the weight off Overlord (the landing in Normandy). The timing was to be either in the week before or the week after D-day. Delay in the capture of Rome and the despatch of landing craft from the Mediterranean to help Overlord caused the postponement of Anvil-Dragoon until mid-August or two months later than had been proposed. It therefore did not in any way affect Overlord. When it was belatedly launched, it drew no enemy down from the Normandy battle theatre. Therefore none of the reasons present in our minds at Teheran had any relation to what was done and Dragoon caused no diversion from the forces opposing General Eisenhower. In fact instead of helping him, he helped it by threatening the rear of the Germans retiring up the Rhine Valley. This is not to deny that the operations as carried out eventually brought important assistance to General Eisenhower by the arrival of another army on his right flank, and the opening of another line of communications thither. For this a heavy price was paid. The army of Italy was deprived of its opportunity to strike a most formidable blow at the Germans, and very possibly to reach Vienna before the Russians, with all that might have followed therefrom. But once the final decision was reached I of course gave Dragoon my full support, though I had done my best to constrain or deflect it.

During the early weeks of August Alexander was planning and regrouping his forces to attack the main Gothic Line, with whose outpost positions he was already in close contact. Skilfully sited to make full use of the natural difficulties of the country, the main defences frimly barred all likely lines of approach from the south, leaving enticingly weak only those sectors which were almost inaccessible.

The difficulties of launching the attack directly through the mountains from Florence to Bologna were obvious, and Alexander decided that the Eighth Army should make the first major stroke on the Adriatic side, where the succession of river valleys, difficult though they would be, offered less unfavorable ground provided heavy rain held off. Kesselring could not afford to have his eastern flank turned and Bologna captured behind his main front, so it was certain that if our attack made good progress he would have to reinforce the flank by troops from the centre. Alexander therefore planned to have ready a second attack, to be carried out by Mark Clark's Fifth Army, towards Bologna and Imola, which would be launched when enemy reserves had been committed and their centre weakened.

The preparatory troop and air movements, carried out in great secrecy during the third week of August, were skilfully accomplished. Leaving the XIIIth British Corps north of Florence to come under Fifth Army command, two whole corps of the Eight Army were transferred eastwards and concentrated near Pergola, on the left of the Polish Corps. When all was completed Alexander held ready for battle the equivalent of twenty-three divisions, of which rather more than half were with the Eighth Army. Opposing him Kesselring had twenty-six German divisions, in good shape, and two reconstituted Italian divisions; nineteen of them were disposed for the defence of his main positions.

On the morning of August 17 I set out by motor to meet General Alexander. I was delighted to see him for the first time since his victory and entry into Rome. We visited our battle-front on the Arno. We had the south bank of the river and the Germans the north. Considerable efforts were made by both sides to destroy as little as possible, and the historic bridge at Florence was at any rate preserved. We were lodged in a beautiful but dismantled chateau a few miles to the west of Siena, and here I passed a couple of days, mostly working in bed, reading, and dictating telegrams.

An August 19 I set off to visit General Mark Clark at Leghorn. This was a long drive, and everywhere we stopped to visit brigades and divisions. Mark Clark received me at his headquarters. We lunched in the open air by the sea. In our friendly and confidential talks I realized how painful the tearing to pieces of this fine army had been to those who controlled it.

All the time amid these diversions I talked with Mark Clark. The General seemed embittered that his army had been robbed of what he thought—and I could not disagree—was a great opportunity.

When one writes things on paper to decide or explain large questions affecting action there is

Early on August 24, after my short visit to Rome, I returned by air to Alexander's headquarters at Siena, living in the chateau a few miles away. The offensive was now fixed for the 26th.

We were to fly to General Leese's battle headquarters of the Eighth Army on the Adriatic side, on the afternoon of the 25th. Before starting I spent some hours with Alexander in his headquarters camp. While I was there General Devers and another high American general arrived unexpectedly. The much-disputed operation Anvil, now called Dragoon, was at present under General Patch, but Devers as Deputy to General Wilson had for many weeks been drawing units and key men ruthlessly from the Fifteenth Army Group, and particularly from the Fifth under Mark Clark. It was known that the troops of Dragoon were likely to be raised to an Army Group Command, and that Devers would be designated as its chief. Naturally he sought to gather all the forces he could for the great enterprise to be entrusted to him, and to magnify it in every way. I saw very soon, although no serious topic was broached, that there was a coolness between him and Alexander. Gay, smiling, debonair, Alexandmental stress. But all this bites much deper when you see and feel it on the spot. Here was this splendid army, equivalent to twenty-five divisions, of which a quarter were American, reduced till it was just not strong enough to produce decisive results against the immense power of the defensive. A very little more, half what had been taken from us, and we could have broken into the valley of the Po, with all the gleaming possibilities and prizes which lay open towards Vienna. As it was our forces, about a million strong, could play a mere secondary part in any commanding strategic conception. They could keep the enemy on their front busy at the cost and risk of a hard offensive. They could at least do their duty. Alexander maintained his soldierly cheerfulness, but it was in a sombre mood that I went to bed. In these great matters failing to gain one's way is no escape from the responsibility for an inferior solution.

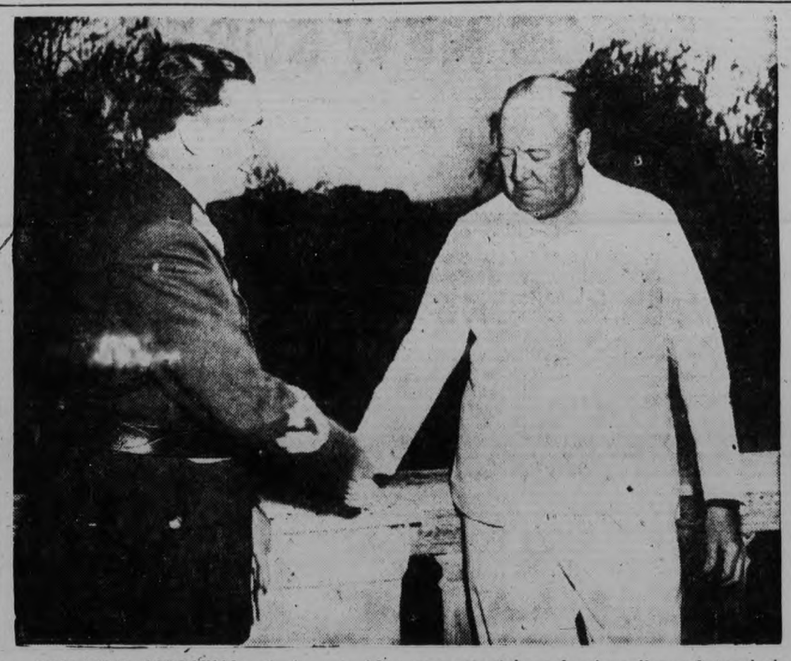
As Alexander's offensive could not start till the 26th I flew to Rome on the morning of the 21st.

I stayed in Rome at the Embassy, and our Ambassador, Sir Noel Charles, and his wife devoted themselves to my business and comfort. Guided by his advice, I met most of the principal figures in the debris of Italian politics produced by twenty years of dictatorship, a disastrous war, revolution, invasion, occupation, Allied control, and other evils. None had any electoral mandate, and their party names, revived from the past, had been chosen with an eye to the future. "What is your party?" I asked one group. "We are the Christian Communists," their chief replied. I could not help saying, "It must be very inspiring to your party, having the Catacombs so handy." They did not seem to see the point, and, looking back, I am afraid their minds must have turned to the cruel mass executions which the Germans had so recently perpetrated in these ancient sepulchres. One may however be pardoned for making historical references to Rome. The Eternal City, rising on every side, majestic and invulnerable, with its monuments and palaces, and with its splendour of ruins not produced by bombing, seemed to contrast markedly with the tiny and transient beings who fitted within its bounds.

On August 23 I was received in audience by the Pope. I had visited his predecessor when I came to Rome as Chancellor of the Exchequer with Randolph, then very young, in 1926, and I preserved most agreeable memories of the kindness with which we had been received. Those were the days of Mussolini. Now I was received by Pope Pius XII with the highest ceremony. Not only did the Papal Guard in all their stately array line the long series of anterooms and galleries through which we passed, but the Noble Guard, formed of representatives of the highest and most ancient families of Rome, with a magnificent mediaeval uniform I had never seen before, were present. The Pope received me in his study with the dignity and informality which he can so happily combine. We had no lack of topics for conversation. The one that bulked the largest at this audience, as it had done with his predecessor eighteen years before, was the danger of Communism. I have always had the greatest dislike for it; and should I ever have the honour of another audience with the Supreme Pontiff I should not hesitate to recur to the subject.

er excused himself after the first few minutes, and left me in the mess tent with our two American visitors. I was conscious of the tension between these high officers beneath an impeccable surface of politeness.



Presently Alexander came to tell me that we should now drive to the airfield. We took off in his plane and flew north-eastwards for half an hour to Loreto, whence we drove to Leese's camp behind Monte Maggiore. Here we had tents overlooking a magnificent panorama to the northward. General Leese told us that the barrage to cover the advance of his troops would begin at midnight. We were well placed to watch the long line of distant gun-flashes. The rapid, ceaseless thudding of the cannonade reminded me of the First World War. Artillery was certainly being used on a great scale. After an hour of this I was glad to go to bed, for Alexander had planned an early start and a long day on the front.

Alexander and I started together at about nine o'clock. The advance had now been in progress for six hours, and was said to be making headway. We first climbed by motor up a high outstanding rock pinnacle, upon the top of which a church and village were perched. It was at once plain that the place had just been bombarded. Masonry and wreckage littered the single street. "When did this stop?" Alexander asked the small crowd who gathered round us, grinning rather wryly. "About a quarter of an hour ago," they said.

News was now received that our troops had pushed on a mile or two beyond the river Metauro. Here Hasdrubal's defeat had sealed the fate of Carthage, so I suggested that we should go across too. We got into our cars accordingly, and in half an hour were across the river, where the road ran into undulating groves of olives, brightly patched with sunshine. Presently warning hands brought us to a standstill. It appeared there was a minefield, and it was only safe to go where other vehicles had already gone without mishap. Alexander and his aide-de-camp now went off to reconnoitre towards a grey stone building which our troops were holding, which was said to give a good close-up view. In a few minutes the aide-de-camp came back and brought me to his chief, who had found a very good place in the stone building, which was in fact an old chateau overlooking a rather sharp declivity. Here one certainly could see all that was possible. The Germans were firing with rifles and machine-guns from thick scrub on the farther side of the valley, about five hundred yards away. Our front line was beneath us. The firing was desultory and intermittent. But this was the nearest I got to the enemy and the time I heard most bullets in the Second World War.

Auto Shipments Down During August

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian factories shipped 22,640 motor vehicles in August, the first drop this year compared to last year's figures, the bureau of statistics reported Tuesday. Output in August, 1952, was 22,853 vehicles. However, the January-August total this year was 355,029, a 23-per-cent increase over the same period last year. The August drop was due to smaller shipments of commercial vehicles.

Continue Battle With P.M Over Election Of Speaker

OTTAWA (CP) — The Ottawa Journal fired a second round in its controversy with Prime Minister St. Laurent on the proprieties of electing a speaker in the House of Commons.

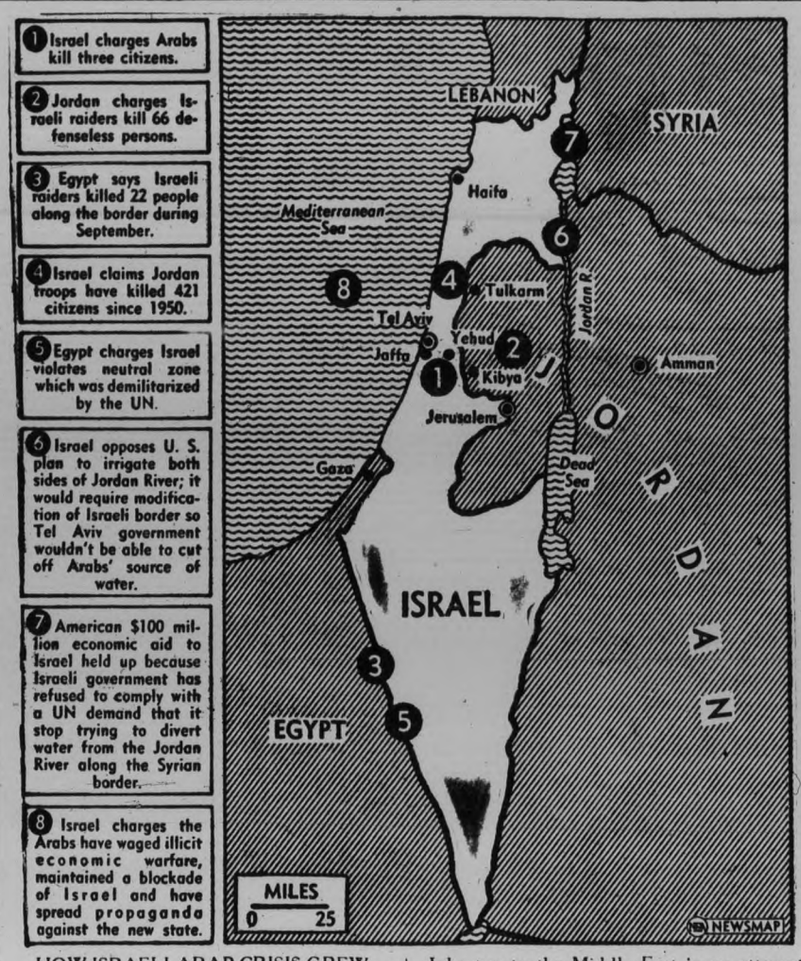
It said Tuesday the prime minister "seems to believe that 25 past wrongs make a right."

The matter started Oct. 17 when the Journal asked editorially if it were not "a disregard or denial" of what Parliament means "for the prime minister to inform the country that he has chosen a speaker for the Commons just as though he were choosing an ordinary civil servant." It was customary in the British House of Commons for the speaker to be looked upon as the choice of the House, and for his appointment to be moved and seconded by private members.

LETTER PUBLISHED

In a letter published in the journal Monday Mr. St. Laurent said the editorial was based on an "incorrect representation" of what had taken place. He had told reporters after a cabinet meeting Oct. 14 that he intended to move that Rene Beaudoin be the next speaker. He listed 25 occasions since Confederation when speakers have been nominated by the prime minister.

The paper said Tuesday:



"The Journal's real point was that the prime minister should not have been adding to or compounding a wrong practice by publicly announcing his choice of a speaker when such a choice belongs to the House of Commons, when nomination should be made there, and there alone. . . .

"The very most Mr. St. Laurent should have said to the press about the speakership would be this: 'I cannot discuss the speakership of the House of Commons; that is a matter for the House itself.' "

Malton Transfer Still At Negotiation Stage

OTTAWA (CP)—Transport Minister Chevrier said Tuesday night that talks with Toronto officials on the transfer of Malton airport to the federal government are "still in the negotiation stage."

The negotiations involve a proposal that Toronto transfer its equity of about $800,000 in Malton airport, 18 miles northwest of Toronto, in return for federal government development of Toronto's island airport, situated in the city harbor.

HOW ISRAELI-ARAB CRISIS GREW—Above newsmap shows the places along the Israel-Jordan border where raids back and forth provoked the crisis now confronting the UN. It also shows other developments in the mounting tension. The U.S. sent Eric Johnston to the Middle East in an attempt to arrive at a solution satisfactory to both Israel and the Arabs. At the same time, the UN Security Council summoned Maj.-Gen. Vagn Bennike, of Denmark, chief UN truce supervisor, to present his "blueprint for security" in the Holy Land.

Hydro Workers Strike Ended, Restore Power

TORONTO (CP)—A hydro workers' strike ended late Tuesday in adjacent Forest Hill Village. Several of the 10 striking workers immediately repaired a transformer fuse whose failure had cut off power and in some cases heat to 16 homes Monday.

Reeve Charles Bick announced that the major issue of the strike, the union shop, has been settled in favor of the village. In addition, the union gave up its demand that the hydro crew foreman be a union employee.

Natural Gas Search Planned

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's nationalized gas industry will soon launch a full-scale search for natural gas in an attempt to cut down its expensive annual coal bill.

The board will spend £1,000,000 on research and exploration in the next five years, Sir Harold Smith, chairman of the gas council, reported Tuesday.

At a press conference about the industry's fourth annual report, Smith pointed out that in the United States 93 per cent of the gas supplied to consumers is natural gas.

He said discovery of natural gas in Britain would pare down the huge sums spent annually on coal, which is burned to produce gas for cooking, heating and lighting.

The annual report disclosed that the industry had a net surplus of £2,272,631, sold four per cent more gas and gained 156,426 new customers during the year.

Find Whistling Helps Lung Treatment

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—A Boston doctor recommends "whistling at work or play" as a possible aid in treating a chronic lung ailment he says is highly prevalent in North America.

Dr. Maurice S. Segal of Tufts College medical school says the ailment is an over-distention of the lungs called "chronic pulmonary emphysema"—and that its present high incidence may be associated with an increase in industrial and other fumes in the atmosphere.

He says whistling might widen constricted breathing tubes in the body, relieving shortness of breath. In its worst stages, the ailment requires prolonged hospital care and a variety of complex treatments.

BLAMES FUMES

In a paper prepared for the annual meeting of the Southern Medical Association, Dr. Segal said that industrial irritants are capable of producing progressive narrowing of the bronchial airways and eventual over-distension of the lungs.

"This may be the price we have to pay for our advances in living and industry. The prevention of and care of the patients with this progressively-disabling lung disorder may soon require the assistance of the U. S. public health service."

Citadel of Liberalism

TORONTO (CP) — Senator W. Ross MacDonald said Tuesday the results of the last two federal elections have stamped Toronto as a "20th century citadel of Liberalism."

The former speaker of the Commons spoke to the Liberal Business Men's Club of Toronto.

No Teeth

BEDFORD England (CP)—A local committee ruled that a man who lost his artificial teeth during a spell of seasickness is not entitled to have them replaced under the "free" national health service.

The entire basin is enjoying a solid boom but it's no wild stampede.

NEW MANITOBA OILFIELD — Manitoba's first flowing oil well is on the outskirts of the farming town of Virden, 135 miles west of Winnipeg. The find is part of the Williston Basin underlying Canada and the United States. Early in 1951 a small oil discovery on the basin's northeast rim touched off extensive exploration which led to development of fields in North Dakota, Montana, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. This is a map of the basin which produces about 25,000 barrels a day. The new wells at Virden may become the best producers in the province, oil experts say.

Three-Way Scramble For Mayor's Job

By JAMES DEVLIN

NEW YORK (AP)—A three-way scramble is on for the glittering job of mayor of New York although history shows that more often than not it is a political dead end.

The job of governing 8,000,000 people often has been rated as second only to the presidency.

Yet no New York City mayor ever has gone on to the White House.

Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri can't even get on the ballot to run for re-election in the Nov. 3 balloting.

THREE MAYOR CANDIDATES

Three major candidates are bitterly fighting for the post that has led so many to disillusionment or obscurity. They are:

Democrat—Robert F. Wagner Jr., 43, son of the late senator for whom the Wagner Labor Relations Act was named.

Republican — Harold Riegelman, 61, long active in civic affairs but little in the public eye until the present campaign.

Liberal—Rudolph Halley, 40, who was in the public eye of millions as chief counsel of the Kefauver crime committee in its televised questioning of underworld characters.

A fourth candidate, Clifford T. McAvoy, backed by the extreme left-wing American Labor party, is conceded no chance of winning.

ODDS FAVOR WAGNER

The city normally votes Democratic, and betting odds at this point favor Wagner. But the citizens often cross party lines in a mayoral election and the experts are wary of making predictions.

The possibilities are further complicated by a small registration and the sudden elimination of Impellitteri as a fourth candidate.

Impellitteri, defeated in the primary by Wagner for the Democratic nomination, announced he would run for re-election as an Independent. But a court ruled he had an insufficient number of valid names on his Independent nominating petition. A majority of the names were declared invalid because the signers had not registered to vote.

That raised the question of which way the Impellitteri followers would turn. Most of his more prominent backers switched to Wagner out of party regularity.

But Impellitteri is regarded as a "conservative" Democrat. Riegelman's forces therefore hope to get some of the "Impy" vote.

Wagner's backers include such nationally known figures as former president Truman, Adlai E. Stevenson, Senator Herbert H. Lehman, representative Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., Averell Harriman and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Riegelman, a decorated veteran of two world wars, is a colonel in the army reserves. President Eisenhower, in his closest approach to an excursion into local politics, wished Riegelman well at the outset of the campaign.

Riegelman's campaign then is more efficiency and sound financing in city government.

Halley, as city council president, vigorously opposed increases in subway fares, rents and the city sales tax. He has fought for more public housing and better enforcement of housing laws. The Liberal party, backing him, is heavily supported by David Dubinsky's huge International Garment Workers Union.

Music Teachers Plan Convention

The East Central Zone convention of the Ontario Registered Music Teachers' Association will be held for the first time in Peterborough on November 9.

Sessions are open to the public. Parents, music-lovers and friends are invited to attend in Trinity church hall.

The programs, which are being presented by branches from Toronto, Bampton, Lindsay, Oshawa and Peterborough, are of special interest not only to music teachers but also to all those who take an interest in the growth of music in Canada. Among local performers to be heard at 7 p.m. are the Coventry Singers, the PCVS Double Trio and the two winners of the Gliddon Memorial scholarship, Betty Evans and George Jenkinson.

At the 12.30 dinner Mayor Hugh Waddell will welcome delegates on behalf of the city, and the Rev. Gordon Maxwell, minister of Trinity United Church will be the guest speaker.

Ban Broadcasts For Jurors In Seguin Trial

CORNWALL (CP)—Jurors in the murder trial of Henri Seguin are to be cut off from news broadcasts by a ruling of Mr. Justice F. H. Barlow of the Ontario Supreme Court.

The "radio-in-every-room" service of a Cornwall hotel became an issue Tuesday in the trial of Seguin, accused of the 1952 shooting of a district taxi driver, Leonard Z. Hurd, 40.

Seguin's lawyers protested that the jurors could hear news broadcasts in their hotel rooms. They complained particularly about a Monday night broadcast which mentioned Seguin's trial in British Columbia this year for shooting at a policeman and they asked that Mr. Justice Barlow order a retrial.

JURY EXCLUDED

The jury was excluded while Mr. Justice Barlow heard Constable James Cowhey, officer guarding the jurors, testify the jurors were not in their rooms during the broadcast about the British Columbia trial.

Mr. Justice Barlow then dismissed the motion for a retrial and ordered the trial continue with the same jury, provided the jurors be cut off from news broadcasts.

Police said they found in Hurd's taxi a pay book and other documents bearing the name of the 29-year-old Seguin. Dr. W. D. Hay, Kingston pathologist, said the position of the bullet wounds indicated Hurd was fatally shot as he sat in the front seat of the taxi.

Fine Cattle

CALGARY (CP)—Sixty head of purebred Aberdeen Angus yearling heifers were shipped by a stock firm at Pirmiz creek to a big cattle farm at Adair, Okla. It was believed the largest of purebreds from any farm in Alberta.

GOING TO KOREA—Archbishop Maurice Roy, chief Roman Catholic chaplain of the Canadian armed forces, chats at Quebec with Prime Minister St. Laurent before leaving for a four-week visit to Canadian forces in Korea. Mr. St. Laurent was visiting his home at Quebec.

W. J. Cottrell Named Bible Society Head

MARMORA (ENS) — W. J. Cottrell was re-elected president of the Marmora Branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society held in the town hall on Monday evening. It was found advisable to combine the offices of secretary and treasurer and Mrs. Roy Barker was elected to carry out such duties. The Rev. H. Egerton Young, field secretary for the Society was in attendance and spoke on the general activities of the Society besides showing a film "45 Trago Street."

The Rev. K. J. Crawford conducted the election of officers. In addition to the president and treasurer, the following ministers as honorary presidents, make up the exective: Canon J. M. Brownlee; the Rev. K. J. Crawford; the Rev. G. H. Bache and the Rev. D. Routly.

Accident Rate In Canada Not Too High

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's accident rate in civil and military flying "compares favorably with that of other countries known to us," says Defence Minister Claxton.

Canadian fliers have an "enviable record," the defence minister said in a speech Tuesday night at the annual convention of Air Industries and Transport Association.

Mr. Claxton presented the McKee trophy for outstanding contribution to Canadian aviation to Sqdn. Ldr. Keith R. Greenaway, 37, of Woodville, Ont., a navigation expert.

The minister paid tribute to Sqdn. Ldr. Greenaway, an RCAF officer working in the defence research board, for his outstanding contributions to Arctic navigation. He perfected the "twilight computor"—a device for aiding navigation near the Arctic Circle where long periods of twilight make astral navigation impossible.

ON BOARD OF DIRECTORS

John Hornal, superintendent of Civic Hospital, was named to the Board of Directors of the Ontario Hospital Association at its annual convention in Toronto Tuesday. Elected president was William M. Gray, Chatham.

LATE BERRIES

You couldn't call it June in January, but October 27 is a late enough date to be picking strawberries from a garden. Mrs. Ward Boyce picked a handful from her garden Tuesday morning.

FIREFIGHTING COURSE

Fire Chief William Sorrie will attend the three-day University of Toronto course in municipal fire prevention problems and administration, Nov. 4 to 6 in Toronto. The fire, water and light committee approved his attending the course Tuesday afternoon.

CORONATION MEDALS

Four district firemen have received the Queen's Coronation Medals. Three of the recipients are on the Peterborough fire department: Ex-Chief Ralph Leonard, Assistant Chief Stewart Foster and First Class Fireman Henry Nokes. The other recipient is Chief Allan H. Clark of Lakefield.

STILL GROWING TOMATOES

John Anderson of 195 Sherbrooke St. is still getting tomatoes from plants in his garden. He has been picking two or three a day regularly and reports that they are delicious. He covers them up at night, preventing any frost from reaching them, and then uncovers them during the day so the tomatoes can get the warm sun.

PARTY FORMER EMPLOYEES

Archie Henderson, former manager of the Trent Valley Bread Co. in Peterborough, Bob Kingdon, supervisor, and Gordon Henderson, office worker, were honored recently when their former fellow workers gave them a party at the Fireside. The present manager, Fred Stewart, presented the three with ashtrays and lighters on behalf of the employees.

TO ALTER GARAGE

The board of works has granted permission, subject to the city engineer's approval, to Canadion Oil Companies Ltd. to modernize and build an addition to Longhurst Bros. garage at Bellevue and Stewart Sts., including installation of a 5,000-gallon gasoline storage tank and surfacing of the driveway.

INTERSECTION DAMAGE MINOR

Two vehicles, a car and truck, colliding at the intersection of George St. and Barnardo Ave. Tuesday afternoon resulted in $135 damage. Neither of the drivers, Wilfred Frise, 57, of 172 Wolsley St., who was eastbound on Barnardo, nor Garnet Gunter, 23, of Hastings, northbound on George, were injured.

T. A. MacKAY

T. A. MacKay Chest Treasurer 14 Years, Resigns

T. A. MacKay has resigned as treasurer of the Red Cross and Community Chest fund, a post he has held since the fund was established about 14 years ago.

Mr. MacKay's resignation was accepted with regret by the fund executive, meeting Tuesday night, when T. H. Henry was appointed his successor.

J. G. Wharry has agreed to take over the chairmanship of the industrial committee. Sam Whitehouse will again head the special names committee, of which he was chairman last year.

The annual meeting of the fund will be held Thursday, Nov. 19, in the city hall.

Windsor Janitor Wins $137,500

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—"Mama mia," shouted Bortolo Calsavara, 62-year-old janitor at his job in the Ford Motor Company plant here today.

You'd shout too if you had just won $137,500 for holding a ticket on the winning horse in the Irish hospital sweepstakes.

Mr. Calsavara was working away with the cleanup crew, as he has for the past 31 years, when he was informed by a supervisor that his horse had come in.

One of four Canadians who held tickets on the first place Jupiter, who won the Cambridgeshire handicap today Mr. Calsavara used the nom de plume "Sweepit" on his winning ticket number PN 13288.

The lucky little man and Mrs. Calsavara are going to take a trip next spring back to Italy—a visit to the homeland which they have not seen since leaving it to come to Windsor 32 years ago.

First stop will be the little town of Castel Franco in the province of Treviso, in northern Italy, where Mr. Calsavara was born.

Membership Drive Nets YMCA 570

A membership drive for the 1953-54 senior division at the YMCA went over the top with an increase of 89 over that last year. A total of 570 memberships was secured.

A victory dinner was held on Tuesday night at the 'Y' and prizes were presented to the individual and team securing the most new and renewed memberships by 'Y' president, Stan Payne.

Gord Minty was high individual procurer with 25 new memberships and five renewals and received a clock for his efforts. The team, headed by Doug Ash, won the team contest, and was composed of Bob McKenny, Jack Boorman, Wilton Tranter and Jack Prest.

Each member of the team received coupons to be exchanged for merchandise from various stores in the city.

Judge McGibbon 20 Years On Bench

LINDSAY (ENS)—Judge J. A. McGibbon Tuesday celebrated his 20th anniversary as Victoria county judge and was the recipient of greetings and good wishes from the various court officers.

Crown Attorney Lorne W. Jordan brought the greetings of the Lindsay Bar Association. Judge McGibbon made a fitting reply.

Protest Made Over City's Paving Plans

City's Application Westend Paving Rejected By Board

The Ontario municipal board Tuesday dismissed an application by the city under the Local Improvement Act to pave portions of Albertus Ave. north of Charlotte St. and Hopkins Ave., west of Monaghan Rd.

Opposition to the paving proposal was led by Dr. G. R. Langley, 465 Albertus Ave., B. L. Barnes, 631 Gilmour St., and D. V. Ketcheson, 635 Weller St., spokesmen for the delegation of residents of the area. Alex Clark, 436 Gordon Ave., represented a group favoring the Gordon Ave. portion of the project, which was not opposed.

Total cost of asphalt paving for portions of the three streets was given as $60,094.66 by the city in its application.

Under the Local Improvement Act, 40 per cent of the cost would be borne by the city and the remainder by abutting property owners, except in the case of property flanking the street, in which case the cost to the owners would be halved, with the city paying the other 30 per cent.

7 OF 8 OPPOSED

On Hopkins Ave., seven of the eight abutting property owners signified opposition to the proposed paving. On Albertus Ave., seven of the 14 owners of flanking properties objected. The majority of the properties on Albertus Ave. are flanking, except on the west side of the block between Hopkins Ave. and Weller St., facing Queen Mary school.

Assistant City Engineer J. G. Hooper said the proposed paving was part of the city engineer's "five-year plan" on which work had begun seven or eight years ago and called for 3½ inches of asphalt on a 12-inch gravel base. He said in his opinion there was no better residential area in the city.

He said paved roads cost much less to maintain than the oiled gravel roads serving the area which need constant attention, especially in spring.

"There are so many of these gravel roads that it is practically impossible to maintain them without increasing the cost to the city," he said. "We find it difficult to give the roads the maintenance they deserve without increasing the cost to the city."

Asked by Dr. Langley if the cost of maintaining gravel roads would be two or three cents a foot, Mr. Hooper said this would be a "pretty good estimate."

BURDENS ON ALL

"Is paving not an increased burden on the whole body of taxpayers, which is vastly more than could result from maintenance?" Dr. Langley asked City Clerk E. A. Outram.

"Our records show that, on an economic basis, the city would prefer to have more paved streets," Mr. Outram replied.

"It is a well-established fact that once paving is paid for it is more economic than maintaining gravel roads, although the initial cost may be high," said W. Greenwood of the municipal board.

Mayor Hugh Waddell said the city had something over 120 miles of streets, of which 20 to 30 miles were paved. It was the policy of the engineer to recommend an annual paving program and it was council policy as a rule to support him in this plan.

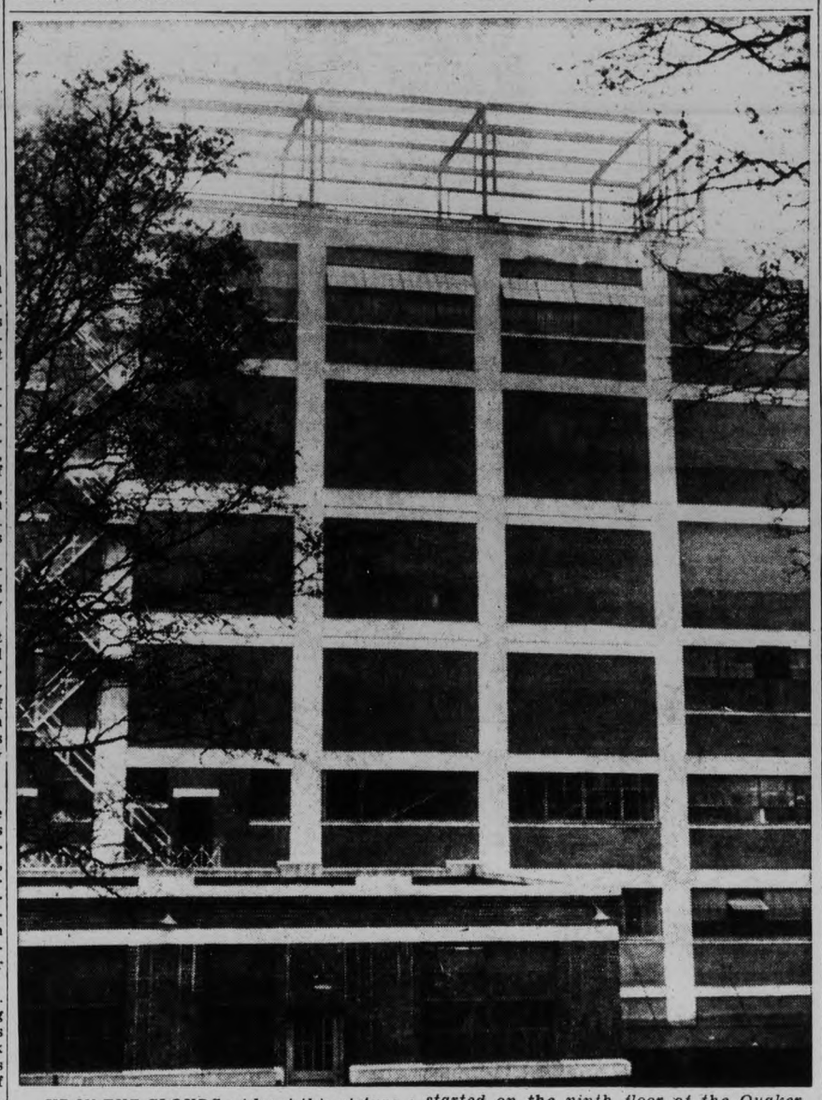
BAD SHAPE 2 YEARS

Mr. Barnes said Albertus Ave. had been in bad shape for two years while the Peterborough utilities commission was laying a water main and was not properly cared for until this summer.

He had made a traffic count between 7:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m. and found 151 vehicles used the road. Of these, two were trucks carrying building materials and the rest were cars and light delivery trucks. Thirty-four did not travel the whole distance from Charlotte St. to Gilmour St. He added that he did not use Albertus Ave. to gain access to Charlotte St. but crossed to Monaghan Rd. to take advantage of the traffic lights.

City Solicitor W. F. Huycke suggested the reason the road was in poor shape in the spring was because of springs in a ridge crossing the road and not by reason of any failure of the board of works to repair it.

FEW CARS USE STREET



Mr. Ketcheson said not more than a dozen cars a day used the north end of Albertus Ave. and that it would be a waste of money for the city to pave it.

Mr. Huycke based his argument on the evidence given. The council appreciated that proposals for paving usually received some objections. The city wanted to be fair to the people, he said, and had no desire to force pavements on people if they didn't want them.

But he said the proposal had been given some thought. The area was a high class residential one and realty companies developing subdivisions to the west and north would expect the area to have paved streets.

C. W. Yates, QC, speaking for the board said in reference to the proposed paving on Hopkins Ave. it was difficult for the board to approve any work under the Local Improvement Act when seven out of eight owners had gone to the trouble of expressing their opposition.

Hubert Kennedy Name Captain Fire Department

First-class Fireman Hubert Kennedy has been recommended as a fire department captain by the fire, water and light committee of city council.

This was one of several moves suggested Tuesday by Fire Chief William Sorrie with the purpose in view of making a more efficient department.

Captain Vic Barry, who has made a close study of fire prevention and has shown a flair for public relations, has been transferred to the inspection department. This automatically means a reduction in rank, but was done with the full concurrence of Capt. Barry, Chief Sorrie said.

Chief Sorrie also said that sometime in the future the committee might consider appointing a head of the inspection department. This would be a new rank and Capt. Barry would be eligible for it.

"We want more emphasis on precaution and education," said the chief. He added that Capt. Barry was adept at meeting the public.

The newest appointee, Capt. Kennedy, is 42 years of age. He has been with the fire department for 10 years. He was a signalman with the RCCS in the Second World War. And he is married and has three children.

Both appointments are on a six-month probationary basis.

At the same time Chief Sorrie asked for the hiring of an extra fireman. This would bring the strength up to an officer and seven men in each of the three groups that form, altogether, two platoons.

With the hiring of an extra fireman, the fire department will be 52 men — 48 officers and men, three fire prevention officers, and Chief Sorrie.

Will Consider Forbidding Citizens Abandon Ice-Boxes

The board of works has asked City Solicitor W. F. Huycke, QC, to advise city council as to the legality of passing a bylaw making it an offence to abandon ice-boxes and refrigerators where they might endanger the lives of children. At the same time the board endorsed a petition from Kitchener city council to the federal government asking an amendment to the Industrial Standards Act requiring all ice-boxes of more than four cubic feet capacity to have inside releases for their locking mechanisms.

The action was in line with similar moves in other centres following reports that several children had suffocated in recent months when they hid in abandoned ice-boxes.

Endorsement of the Kitchener resolution was moved by Ald Gordon Farquharson and seconded by Ald. J. A. Dewart but Ald. H. T. Rehill said the petition wasn't getting to the root of the problem at all.

TAKE LOCKS OFF

"This covers new refrigerators coming from the factory but the difficulty has been with abandoned ice-boxes," he said. "In the United States they're making people take the locks off."

Ald. Farquharson accordingly amended his original motion to include a request for advice on a bylaw from the city solicitor.

Ald T. D. Miller still had reservations about confining the bylaw to "abandoned" ice-boxes.

"I've seen stacks of ice-boxes outside dealers' premises," he said. "I think the bylaw should include all ice-boxes not in use."

Will Extend Storm Sewer In Exhibition

The city will pay the cost of extending the storm sewer in Exhibition park provided it does not exceed $1,200.

Approval was given by the board of works at the request of G. A. Gillespie, former Exhibition manager, who cited the Exhibition board's financial difficulties and said "if we can get that much done we may be able to find the money to carry on."

The work will involve extending the present storm sewer a distance of about 500 feet north from the present limit of the sewer to the drill shed and construction of two catch basins, one on either side of the drill shed door.

Digging will be paid for by the Exhibition board and the city will provide materials and do the necessary grading, provided the cost does not exceed $1,200 and gets the approval of the city engineer.

Mr. Gillespie said the project would take care of normal rainfall but he wasn't sure about the type of downpour which occurred on the Saturday night of the 1953 exhibition.

Works Superintendent James Burgess estimated the work would cost between $1,000 and $1,200.

Only Difference From Animals

Laughing Is Good For You, Says Professor

Laughter, like sleep, is one of the things that we really know little about, Professor Isabel Laird told Queen's alumni at their annual dinner meeting Tuesday evening, yet "it is about the only real difference between wild animals and us." Wild animals cannot laugh.

In Miss Laird's expert opinion, humans do not use this "complicated, compound" experience of laughter enough.

Professor Laird who came to Queen's University two years ago from Edinburgh, is an outstanding psychologist, specializing in education and mental health. She has headed the Royal Scottish Institution, served on numerous international and professional bodies concerned with her subjects, and has done work for British, Canadian and foreign governments, and for UN agencies.

The topic of her address to the Queen's graduates of this district was laughter. She approached it from a physiological and sociological rather than a philosophic point of view, and illustrated both laughter and its effects by her own amusingly entertaining references and jokes. Such a neat story as this to illustrate 'professional' types of jokes:

Two psychiatrists met on the way to their offices one morning. Said one briskly to the other: "Good morning. You're fine. How am I?"

Laughter is "as good a general all-round physical training as you can get," Professor Laird suggested. It calls many muscles and nerves into play, relieves tensions, blood pressure and effects even cellular units. One value of a certain kind of laughter is to give "a sudden sense of glory, a tremendous superiority;" for instance in a child who laughs at an adult who falls. This sort of laughter is "very good for us, because life sends us down so often to be underdogs" that it is good to have the fleeting experience of superiority.

NOT ABOUT GERMANY

One has to be careful with national types of jokes. It is all right to joke with and about the penny-pinching Scot, but "Germany is not a nation to be joked about in front of Germans; they do not see the joke and are hurt." However, they may like to joke about themselves among themselves, or to others. One should be canny with new Canadians, too. "Not every new Canadian can bear to be laughed at for his mistakes" (with the language or our customs).

Miss Laird advocated a "campaign of sharing jokes" and keeping notes on jokes heard, for relating them later.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The dinner at the Kawartha Country Club was presided over by C. M. Krug. Herbert Hamilton of the General Alumni Association, Kingston, spoke briefly about recent advances and changes in the Queen's scene in Kingston and introduced the speaker.

The annual election by acclamations, following nominations made by the committee head, Dr. T. E. Currier, resulted in the following officers being named: Hon. President, Rev. William McDonald; past president, C. M. Krug; president, F. B. Smitheram; vice-president, Dr. C. E. A. Cragg; secretary, Miss Rosemary Parker; treasurer, Eric Toller.

Others on the executive are: Mrs. James Lillico, Levana representative; Ronald Walsh, Arts representative; Edward Cotton Science representative; Dr. John Neville, Medical representative; A. J. Noftall, chairman of the endowment committee, Miss Helen McGregor, convener of the student advisory committee.

Past President C. M. Krug who has now removed to Toronto was thanked for his several years of alert and enthusiastic service to the Peterborough branch of the Queen's alumni association.

A Young Monster?

A Smith township farmer brought a lizard into The Examiner newsroom early today that had everybody guessing. The creature was about six inches long, with a flat head, and a tapering lizard's body. It was black and covered with bright yellow spots. It was discovered today on the cellar steps of William Martin's home in Smith township. Mr. Martin, who lives on the 7th line, said: "I've seen thousands of lizards before but nothing like this one. I'd like to know something about it. If it bit you, maybe it would poison you." None of the bemused newsroom naturalists tested the lizard to find out.

Improvements To Speed Fire Hall Service

Fire Chief William Sorrie on Tuesday suggested three changes in the fire hall layout that he feels will improve efficiency.

The fire, water and light committee approved these changes:

1. Transferring the watchroom from the second floor to the ground floor.

2. Installing the kitchen on the second floor instead of the third.

3. Putting the battery room in the basement instead of on the second floor.

"I don't think anybody can argue that the control room should be on a different floor to the equipment," said Chairman Alderman Harold Rehill, speaking in favor of the changes. "It's a move toward efficency."

SAVE TIME

Chief Sorrie pointed out that precious seconds will be shaved off the interval between getting a telephone alarm and dispatching the fire trucks. At one time—only a few years ago when George Gimblett Sr. was chief—the trucks could get away in about 35 seconds from the time a telephone alarm was sent in. But since the watchroom was shifted to the second floor the get-away time has been delayed to a minute or more.

(On a telephone alarm the officer in charge has to come to the watchroom and check on the call; he then uses his own judgment on what fire trucks and other equipment to dispatch. As everybody going to the fire has to come to the first floor, in any case, experience has shown that the least waste movement is to have the watchroom on that floor.)

The centre downstairs room will be partitioned off for the watch crew. Renovations will not cost more than $100, Chief Sorrie estimates.

Active use of the third floor—a creaking, hazardous structure—will be discontinued.

May Require Safety Valves For Tanks

Copper Water Tanks Need Protection Against Vacuums

The city has prepared an addition to the plumbing inspection bylaw requiring copper hot water tanks to be equipped with vacuum relief valves preventing collapse of the tanks when they are drained.

The matter came up in the board of works which received a letter from the Peterborough utilities commission concerning damage to a local user's tank when the water department shut off the main supplying the street where the tank was located.

The letter stated that the damage occurred during a routine repair job when the water service pipe into another building was opened up and the water was allowed to run from the main into the trench. This allowed the water to drain out of the house containing the copper water tank and the resulting vacuum in the tank caused it to collapse.

The user had been warned that the water would be off but neither the owner of the building nor the tenant of the apartment in which the damage occurred were aware that the tank would collapse if a vacuum was created within it.

WOULD CONTINUE

In spite of the fact that the commission had taken all warning precautions required by the Public Utilities Act, a consumer had lost his copper water tank. The letter warned that this situation would continue unless adequate bylaws were passed regulating installation of these tanks.

Such a bylaw would enable the plumbing inspector to protect citizens against units installed in such a way as to be subject to stresses not covered in the maker's guarantee, which stated that tanks must not be subject to vacuums nor must the water pressure within them exceed a certain limit.

City Clerk E. A. Outram told the board of works that plumbing inspector A. G. Metheral last May had asked for an amendment to the plumbing inspection bylaw requiring installation of vacuum relief valves in copper hot water tanks.

The matter had been referred by the welfare committee to the city solicitor who drafted the necessary amendment.

Find Wreckage Of Jet Fighter

NORTH BAY (CP)—The wreckage of a CF-100 jet fighter, missing since Tuesday night, was found early today seven miles northwest of Restoul. The pilot and navigator were killed.

A search party found the wreckage with the help of members of the ground observers corps in the area after a resident of the area reported seeing a flash and hearing an explosion Tuesday night.

Eyewitnesses said the plane was demolished. The mangled body of the pilot was identified by an identification tag. The body of the navigator has not yet been located.

Names of the two men are being withheld pending notification of next-of-kin.

Restoul is about 50 miles southwest of here.

New N.S. Coal Mine Closes Town Of 4,000 Doomed

By DAL WARRINGTON

WESTVILLE, N.S. (CP) — Another Nova Scotia coal town is in trouble. The now familiar news that a colliery would close came as the voice of doom this week to Westville's 4,000 citizens.

Mining has been this Pictou county town's bread and butter for more than a century. The pits will cut coal for the last time Thursday.

For Westville the shutdown is a calamity. For the rest of the Maritimes it is another outbreak of the creeping sickness that afflicts the entire coal industry.

This is the fifth colliery town hit by mine closings and layoffs. Close to 2,000 miners have been affected. In every case the operators blame the same twin evils: shrinking markets and rising costs.

LOSSES TOO GREAT

Westville's fate was sealed Saturday in Montreal. Inter-colonial Coal Co. directors said their two mines here could continue no longer. Losses were too great.

Even provincial government arrangements for a four-month speed up in railroad coal orders could not change their minds. The future was too uncertain.

Earlier this year abandonment of one mine and temporary closing of another jolted the Cape Breton towns of Dominion and Glace Bay. More than 1,500 men were made idle.

One colliery reopened after installing modern coal-cutting machinery. But machines replaced men and the working force is smaller.

MINING AT STANDSTILL

In Inverness, another Cape Breton town, mining has been almost at a standstill since the Nova Scotia government decided it could use no more taxpayers' money to prime an uneconomic colliery.

In Stellarton, adjoining Westville, Acadia Coal Co.'s Allan shaft, employing 400, closed after an underground fire. The company also abandoned one of three other coal seams in the area.

COAL OUTPUT CUT

The closings and slower production in other pits cut Nova Scotia's coal output by almost 1,000,000 tons a year. The current figure is a little over 5,000,000. They reduced the number of mine workers from more than 12,000 to 11,000. The Westville closure will cut it further.

However, the picture is not considered hopeless. The operators, headed by Dominion Coal Co., a DOSCO subsidiary producing more coal than all others combined, believe mechanical miners and streamlined hoisting methods can produce cheaper and better coal.

A multi-million dollar mechanization program is under way with federal aid. By cutting costs management hopes to hold and even enlarge coal markets in spite of growing competition from other fuels.

Machine Training Pilots To Fly Jet Planes Safely

By DENT HODGSON

OTTAWA (CP) — A group of Canadian scientists in Montreal are working on what they claim is the most complex flying machine ever developed. The machine will never get off the ground.

Details of the invention, designed to teach fledgling pilots to fly jet aircraft in the safety of a hangar, were given in an interview at the annual meeting here of the Air Industries and Transport Association.

It can take off and land exactly as the Canadian-developed CF-100. It can soar to 40,000 feet. It can develop engine trouble on take-off, icing on the wings, jamming of flaps or other controls or hydraulic failure.

It even duplicates the scream of jet engines.

Its cost, and some other details about it, are secret. But it could save Canadian taxpayers millions of dollars and perhaps many lives.

It is called the CF-100 Mark IV "Simulator." The development project for it began in 1952.

Nothing much to look at, the simulator consists of a centre section of a CF-100 with a big row of cabinets containing "electronic brains" alongside. An instructor controlling it from outside can put the pilot trainee through 20 types of aeronautical nightmare by turning a few dials.

The device is not new to Western aviation, but it is relatively new to Canada. Simulators have been developed in the United States and Britain, but the present development, by Canadian Aviation Electronics Limited, of Montreal, is unique in some ways.

The simulator being developed by CAE can train pilot and radar-navigator at the same time as a team. The navigator can be subjected to just about as many aerial hazards as the pilot. This doubles the work of the simulator's electronic brains.

Canada has a few simulators—none with the complexity of the CF-100—but had to buy them from the U.S. or Britain. The Montreal project is a step in making this country independent in its training.

It is estimated in aviation circles that one aircraft—and perhaps as many lives—have been saved for every simulator ever made. Top aircraft industry officials believe that before long, every new aircraft developed will have its own simulator.

Top Step, Phone To Be Added To Aerial Ladder

Two modifications to the fire department's aerial ladder—both of them long-ago advocated by Alderman Douglas Miller—have been approved by the fire, water and light committee.

One is a step or platform on top of the ladder so the ladderman can get a better foothold. The other is a telephone system so the ladderman and the operator can talk to each other.

"I think we should have a step on top of the aerial rather than have a fireman standing on the top rung," said Alderman Miller.

"Well," punned Chief William Sorrie, "we're one step ahead of you. We're having one made for it right now."

DANGEROUS TO TOES

Chief Sorrie said that at present the ladderman has to watch his toes if the aerial is being raised or lowered because of the telescopic nature of the ladder. A small steel platform on top would eliminate this hazard and permit the ladderman to give his undivided attention to his job.

The telephone system on the ladder will permit easy communication between the ladderman, close up to the fire, and the operator of the turntable below. Shouting is no substitute for a telephone line, the committee members all agreed.

Chief Sorrie is going to ask for some prices on a line permanently attached to the aerial ladder. The committee members also liked the idea of a mobile telephone unit that, say, could be used between an officer outside and a fireman in a smoke-filled basement; but they decided that both pieces of equipment would be too expensive right now.

Wants Russia Show Honesty

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today it would be perfectly hopeless for him to take part in a meeting with Soviet Premier Malenkov unless he knows Russia has an honest purpose for such a meeting.

He added that Russia could show such honesty in any of a hundred ways.

Eisenhower's press conference statement was in response to questions about a new Russian hint that Premier Malenkov may be ready for talks.

The president also repeated what he has said before—that regardless of handicaps or inconvenience he would do anything in the world he thought would advance the cause of peace.

He qualified that again by saying there must be an indication it would produce results in good faith.

Canadian, Child Killed In Collision

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—A Canadian woman and her five-year-old daughter were killed today when their automobile and a tractor-trailer collided in nearby Nassau. The woman's husband was injured critically.

Mrs. Beatrice Bolduc, 40, of Wellandport, Ont., and her daughter Gail were pronounced dead on arrival at Albany hospital.

Mrs. Bolduc's husband, Willie, 44, was reported in critical condition at the hospital.

State trooper C. L. Paulmbo said the accident occurred when the truck slid on the curved and wet surface of Route 20 and demolished the Bolduc car. The truck driver, identified by police as Anthony Mormile, 28, of West Dunkirk, was not injured.

Nurses Scarce For Hospital In Bancroft

BANCROFT —(ENS) —The local Red Cross committee have expressed concern over the shortage of nurses at the Red Cross hospital.

Lack of staff is seriously curtailing the amount of work done in the institution.

The committee considered the repainting of the building to be proceeding satisfactorily and felt that, although the contract figure of $2,565 exceeded a government grant by $365, the outstanding amount could be raised locally. Landscaping improvements are also progressing and the road at the rear of the building has been partially mulched.

Nurse in charge Miss Sigrid Laine would be happy to see more volunteers at the sewing bees held by the Ladies Auxiliary.

Admissions to thhe hospital for September totalled 89, with 27 births. Two major and 14 minor operations were performed and 101 patients were cared for during the period. Out-patients numbered 35 and 28 X-rays were taken.

Police Catch Four After Wild Chase

MONTMAGNY, Que. (CP)—Provincial police today identified four men caught here Tuesday, after a wild chase punctuated by revolver shots, as Robert Pelletier, Marcel Marcoux, Raymond Patenaude and Robert Martineau, all of Montreal.

Police said the four are wanted for questioning in connection with a series of St. Lawrence river south shore burglaries, including theft of 400 battles of liquor from the Quebec liquor commission store at Mont Joli Monday night.

3 Invalids Die In House Blaze

DETROIT (AP)—Two men and a woman, all bedfast from illness, were killed today in a rooming house fire. Nine other persons were injured.

The fire broke out on the third floor of a 19-room house near the downtown district and spread to two stores. Policemen in a passing patrol car helped rescue some occupants.

Killed were George Scott, 60; George Sefalis, 73, and Mrs. Minnie Jackson, 60.

Firemen said the fire may have started from an overheated coal stove.

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prince Sardar Mohammed Hashim Khan, 75, former prime minister of Afghanistan, died in Kabul, the Afghan embassy said Tuesday night. He served 17 years as premier.

French Gov't Approves Flexible Policy

PARIS (Reuters) — Premier Joseph Laniel's government early today won parliamentary support for a flexible policy in dealing with the Indo-China war, including the possibility of peace talks with the Communist-led Vietminh.

The assembly climaxed an all-night debate by approving by 315 votes to 251 a resolution urging the government to do everything possible to promote negotiations likely to end the war.

The resolution also called for developing the armies of the three associated states of Indo-China—Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia—so that they could gradually take over the anti-Communist defence duties of French Union forces.

WANT TO KEEP TIES

It said this defence effort should take place "within the framework of the French Union," underlining French reluctance to see the associated states sever all ties with France in their progress toward independence.

The motion expressed the widespread desire in France for the earliest possible ending of the Indo-China war, but its terms are sufficiently wide to leave the government free to act according to circumstances, both with regard to the future of the associated states and possible peace negotiations.

Communist and Socialist motions asking for immediate and direct peace negotiations with the Vietminh leader, Ho Chi Minh, were rejected.

Heavy Rain Floods New York Streets

NEW YORK (AP)—Heavy rain today ended a long dry spell and poured water into some apartments and subways. Some streets were flooded and automobile traffic halted for as long as half an hour.

The weather bureau reported that 1.70 inches of rain fell in the 24 hours ended at 7 a. m.—more than had fallen in the first 27 days of this month.

Remember When—

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Capt. George Eyston of England 16 years ago today raced his motorcar "Thunderbolt" over the Utah salt flats at 309 miles an hour, but the machine broke down on the return journey, leaving intact the record of 301 set by Sir Malcolm Campbell in 1935. A few days later however Eyston set a mark of 311. The present record of 394 was set by John Cobb in 1947.

May Delay Trial Two Months

OTTAWA (CP)—Trial of Raymond Arthur Davies, charged with passport falsification, may be delayed as long as two months, officials of the justice deparment said today.

The crown prosecutor at the Montreal writer's trial, John J. Robinette of Toronto, has been appointed a judge of the Ontario Supreme Court.

In such cases, it is usual for the justice department to appoint a new prosecutor, who would require some time to acquaint himself with the case.

Davies, a former newspaper man, was arrested at Whitby, Ont., June 26, 1952, and charged in magistrate's court in Ottawa with making false statements when applying for a passport in 1936. The alleged false statements were that his name was Raymond Arthur Davies, that he was born in Montreal and that his only nationality was Canadian.

The crown contends his name was Rudolf Shohan, that he was born in Russia and that he came to Canada via the United States in the early 1930s.

Davies was committed for trial Oct. 8 last year.

Smallest College In Canada Operates Without Teachers, No Examinations

BY DAVE McINTOSH

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—The smallest college in Canada, located here, has no campus, professors or football team and its students write no exams, though they all pass.

The college is concerned only with how to conduct total war. Its graduates are a "war brain trust."

Objective of the National Defence College is the education of senior officers of the armed forces and civil government departments in the principles of higher governmental administration.

BROAD TRAINING

The college's "prospectus" says students are trained to become "thoroughly versed" in inter-service and inter-departmental planning, including the political and economic aspects and the organization for the central direction of war . . . and so become qualified to take their places on the staff and inter-departmental committees which are an essential part of the machinery for planning and directing the national effort in modern war."

The content of the college courses is highly secret. In fact, Air Vice Marshal C. R. Dunlap, 45-year-old commandant, declined to give a reporter even an example of a theoretical problem in strategy the students might be asked to work out.

One course, for instance, is entitled "the nature of future warfare." Officials say existence of the atomic and hydrogen bombs probably will alter the nature of warfare.

The students have access to top-secret information on most aspects of Canada's ability to wage war: Production figures of an aircraft plant, how quickly army divisions could be mobilized. Secret documents from defence headquarters and other government departments are kept under guard.

27 STUDENTS

The college does not set defence policy. Its 27 students are told what that policy is and how it would be carried out. Occasionally, an outstanding idea or synopsis of a given situation is sent to defence headquarters.

The present course, seventh since the college opened in 1948, runs from Sept. 1 to July 24. There is a six-man staff, composed of the commandant, four directors and an adjutant. The lecturers are government officials, business leaders, university professors and senior officers of the armed forces of Canada, United States and Commonwealth. They come here individually to give possibly only one lecture or perhaps two or three.

The hand-picked students—some 150 men have been graduated by the college so far—are the cream of the crop in government and the three armed services. They are not taught so much as they learn from each other through discussion and from research.

Students are mostly men in their 30s—some are older—who in the event of war would play a major part in mobilization of manpower and industry, planning and co-ordination between the military and civil branches of government.

REPRESENTATIVE BODY

The present student body breaks down this way: Five from the Canadian Army, four RCAF, two Canadian Navy, two external affairs, one British Army, one Royal Navy, one U.S. Army, one U.S. Navy, one RCMP, one CBC, one British foreign service, one U.S. foreign service, and one each from the Canadian departments of transport, trade and commerce, resources and development, defence production, defence research and National Research Council.

The present course is studying Canadian government; foreign affairs, including Communist aims and policies; nature of future warfare; Canadian economy, Canadian foreign policy; joint planning; major war; organization of defence co-ordination; Canadian defence policy.

The students will make at least three tours: One week to the United Nations and National War College in Washington; three weeks in Canada and the U.S.; eight weeks in Europe and the Middle East, with emphasis on North Atlantic treaty nations. Abroad, the students study what contributions Canada's allies could make to total war and how Canada could help them. They hear talks from senior government and military officials in the countries they visit.

Recent lecturers here have been an economic expert from the Bank of Canada, the Australian high commissioner in Canada, the chairman of the Danish chiefs of staff and the vice-chiefs of the U.S. armed forces. What they said doesn't go outside the college.

The college works closely with the Imperial Defence College in Britain and the U.S. National War College. Air Vice Marshal Dunlap is a graduate of the National War College.

SPECIFIC PROBLEMS

Students are given specific problems to work out in "syndicates" of six or seven men. Their information is gleaned from various sources: The lectures; a 15,000-volume library on military and political science and economic and international affairs; 200 different daily, weekly or monthly periodicals; the secret library containing some 400 documents; and themselves, as each student is an expert in his particular field before he comes to the college.

Their thinking and talking are along these general lines: The historical, economic, social and political factors affecting Canadian defence and war potential; the international scene and Canada's part in it; the influence of scientific development on war; the inter-relation of the armed services with each other and with departments of government; and the principales of higher command and the techniques of joint service planning.

The students are on leave of absence from their regular jobs and draw regular service pay or civilian salaries. Fifteen live in barracks of the Canadian Army Staff College, which shares with the defence college walled Fort Frontenac, built in 1672. The others live out.

All students wear civilian clothes as does the staff. They work mostly in shirt-sleeved groups around paper-cluttered tables, dragging on pipes and cigarettes.

"We pick each other's brains all the time," one student said. "It's amazing what you learn."

BETTER BE GOOD, Mom and Pop are watching. The chance of a lifetime came to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pincombe, of Middleburg Heights, Ohio, when they had a chance to watch their daughter, Cheryl, in a kindergarten class without having the child, seated inside the circle, see them. The room, with one-way vision window is in a balcony between the two kindergarten rooms. It permits visitors to watch the five-year-olds and still remain invisible to the pupils and teachers. The teacher, Mrs. Marjorie Hughes, considers this peeping good training for the parents.

Labor Urges Reciprocal Trade Programs

WASHINGTON (AP)—The heads of the biggest labor and farm organizations in the United States urged the government today to push ahead with reciprocal trade programs in the interest of U. S. prosperity as well as that of friendly countries.

George Meany, president of the American Federation of Labor, said 3,000,000 Americans—2,000,000 in industry, transportation and trade and 1,000,000 in agriculture—"depend on exports for their livelihood." He termed "sheer nonsense" statements that some 5,000,000 American workers might have their jobs endangered by competitive imports.

Allan B. Kline, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, urged that the trade-easing agreements be sought as a means of combatting the fall of U. S. farm prices. The drop in agricultural exports, he said, "has already had serious consequences."

Both recommended that offers to cut tariffs be part of the U. S. bargaining, but that other hindrances to international trade be attacked also.

Their testimony was prepared for President Eisenhower's commission on foreign economic policy.

Meany said U. S. farmers and business men have been selling $15,000,000,000 worth of goods abroad annually, but "these exports have already begun to decline." If markets shrink further, "our business and employment activity will be hard hit."

Labor accepted "as inevitable" the decline of government-financed exports under foreign aid programs, but "our only plea . . . is that the curtailment be made gradually and with full awareness of the necessities of mutual defence."

KEEP SOME CONTROLS

The AFL president said some safeguards must be maintained for U. S. industry if imports are greatly increased, but contended that "the bulk of our imports comes in raw or unmanufactured form" and "possible hardshp is likely to be the exception."

Kline said the marked export decline has started "a spiral of developments including large surpluses, falling farm prices, reduced farm income and drastic production controls."

"This is certainly enough reason to seek sincerely to correct the conditions out of which this situation has arisen."

The commission, a 17-man group headed by Clarence B. Randall, opened two days of public hearings on foreign trade and tariff policies.

Soldier Jailed For 8 Years

SINGAPORE (Reuters) — Pte. Hammond Gillon, 24, today was sentenced to eight years imprisonment for manslaughter in the death of an Eurasian dance hostess.

The Scottish soldier admitted throttling the girl, Doreen Periera, 32, after she hurled obscene taunts at him and danced before him half-naked.

Defence counsel David Marshall Tuesday depicted Gillon as a lonely young soldier, his wife in Scotland, being "snared" by the wiles of a dance hostess and part-time prostitute who had made up her mind to marry him.

Justice Murray Buttrose told Gillon before sentencing him: "The jury has taken a very merciful view of your crime. I hope that in the years following your release from prison you will insure that the quality of mercy shown by the jury was not strained."

Millbrook Legion Plans Church Parade

MILLBROOK (ENS). — The annual church parade of Millbrook Branch 402 of the Canadian Legion will be held on Sunday at 2:30 p.m. to St. Thomas' Anglican Church. The Rev. L. R. Pocock, Legion padre, will give the address, and the Havelock pipe band will be in attendance.

On Nov. 7, the Poppy Day sale will be held. Members of the Legion are busy preparing for the zone rally to be held in Millbrook's new Legion hall on Nov. 22.

Mission Band Uses New Program Method

SPRINGVILLE (ENS)—Springville United Church Mission Band met at the home of Roeli Flowstra with 20 boys and girls in attendance. This group has made a new arrangement for presenting programs. The Band has been divided into groups of two, known as Work and Worship Twins.

Mrs. Gordon Darling, assistant leader and Joy Seymour, as Work and Worship Twins, arranged the program for this meeting.

The Scripture was read by Mrs. Darling and Mrs. Clifford Johnston, leader, led in prayer. Nancy Johnston received the offering and the band dedicated it.

The Junior Boys and girls of the group have started a handwork project of pictures that will be sent to Canadian ports to give to new children entering our country. The Primary Boys and Girls made cut-outs of wheel-barrows, loaded with Thanksgiving fruits and vegetables.

Nelson Northey gave a temperance report and Keith Johnston a peace report.

The meeting closed with lunch served by the committee: Debbie Darling, Karen Dunford and Roeli Flokstra.

WAR BRAIN TRUST — Air Vice-Marshal C. R. Dunlap, 45, of Sydney Mines, N.S., the smallest college in Canada, whose graduates are a "war brain trust." Objective of the National Defence College, Kingston, Ont., is the education of senior officers of the armed forces and civil government departments in the principles of higher government administration.

Hastings Church Marks Ninetieth Anniversary

HASTINGS (ENS) — Anniversary of Trinity United Church, Hastings, was observed Sunday. The Rev. N. Cole conducted the services with the Rev. N. J. Thomas of Parry Sound as guest speaker.

Special anthems were sung and the Junior Choir was heard in a special anthem. The male quartette sang at both services. Soloist for the anthem was Mrs. J. G. Thompson.

Mr. Thomas held his audience in rapt attention on the subject of "Avenues to God," in the morning and "Christ the Same Forever" in the evening. The church was filled at both services.

Blood-Stained Clothing Said Chief Clue

LACROSSE, Wis. (AP)—A 'teenager's lingerie—perhaps Evelyn Hartley's, maybe stained with her blood—is the chief clue in the disappearance of the youngster from a baby-sitting job Saturday night.

A white brassiere and panties, of a size worn by the 15-year-old daughter of college professor Richard Hartley "who never went out with boys because she thought she was too young," bore stains which district attorney John Bosshard told reporters last night "could be blood."

"They have not been identified conclusively as Evelyn's," Bosshard said, "but her parents tell us she 'wore things like that' and that they were the right size."

The underclothing was found Tuesday beneath a highway bridge two miles southeast of Lacrosse.

THROWN FROM CAR?

"They were discovered in a conspicuous place," said Bosshard. "It looked like they might have been thrown from a car and blown under the bridge."

Simultaneously, with word of the clothing discovery, Bosshard told of what he called "a large pool of blood" on a highway about 12 miles south of where the lingerie was found. Search was intensified in that area.

The district attorney admits there isn't a real clue to the abductor's identity. The car used for the getaway hasn't been turned up, either, despite many rumors of bloodstained vehicles.

Officials so far have declined to admit that the missing high school junior probably was murdered. There isn't much doubt, though in the minds of most residents of this city.

Admits Acquired Liquor Illegally, Man Fined

Pleading guilty to a charge of possessing liquor not acquired under the LCA, Arthur Henderson of Burleigh Falls, was fined $100 and costs by Magistrate Moore Tuesday in court. In addition, his home was declared a public place.

Under this section, the accused may be requested to disclose where he obtained the liquor. This question was dispensed with, however, as provincial police said in court "we know where he got it."

If an accused refuses to disclose the information, he is liable for a much heavier fine. The minimum in any event is $100.

The charge was laid October 17.

On another liquor charge, Robert J. Doherty, 27, of 272 Carlisle Ave., was fined $15 and $2.50 costs on a charge of having in a place other than his residence. The charge was laid May 9.

G. Stackhouse Heads Norwood Bible Group

NORWOOD (ENS) — The Rev. H. E. Young, field secretary for the Upper Canada Bible Society conducted services in Norwood and Cottesloe on Sunday. Following the evening service, Mr. Young addressed the meeting of the Norwood Branch of the Bible Society.

During the evening service Mr. Young presented a pulpit Bible to the Norwood United Church to replace the one destroyed by fire when they lost their church; this was received by G. A. Brethen, clerk of the session.

In his address, Mr. Young spoke of the Bible as today's "best seller," because it is the bond of unity, it provides the answer to our human needs, and it speaks the truth to men everywhere. The Bible Society, he continued, is still distributing Bibles even in areas of great tension such as Malaya, China and Indo-China.

At the Annual meeting of the Norwood Bible Society held in the Church Hall of St. Andrew's Church after the evening service Mr. Young showed a film entitled "45 Trago Street."

The officers of last year were re-elected: President, Gordon Stackhouse; Secretary, Mrs. Horace Brown.

The canvass this year will be made by the same canvassers as last year.

Sportsman Dies

SIMCOE (CP) — David Alfred Weaver, 38, well-known sportsman in the district, particularly in soft ball circles, died Tuesday.

Born in Niagara Falls, he supervised senior and junior minor leagues sponsored by the Simcoe Softball Association for several years.

DOROTHY DIX

Wife Still Rejects Olive Branch Offered

DEAR MISS DIX: Three years ago, when I was 15 and Paul 16, we ran away to be married. Because of our ages, we couldn't be married, but decided to tell everyone we were, anyway, and lived together. When I was about to become a mother, I tried to get Paul to marry me, but he wouldn't. Finally I pressed charges against him, and we were all set for the ceremony when his mother stepped in and said she'd have the marriage annulled if we went through with it. My baby was born in April, last year, and we were finally married just a year later. Now Paul wants to take the baby to see his folks, and they are always asking me to bring her down to see them. However, I'm still bitter over what his mother did. Am I wrong in my resentment?

D. R.

THEIR MISTAKES

ANSWER: For a couple of youngsters you two certainly have had your share of mistakes, and at this point you should be thankful that at least you are on the road to a happy life together. Why further complicate your lives by refusing the olive branch Paul's mother is extending?

Look ahead a few years, try to visualize your own children at 15 or 16. Would you like to see them involved in the sort of mess you and Paul made for yourselves? Can you, then, wholly blame your mother-in-law for her attitude? Trying to keep her son from marrying after he had become a father was wrong, but her error of judgment was certainly no worse than yours. Why not let bygones be bygones and see what you can do to establish and maintain a good family relationship with your people and Paul's. You'll have enough explaining to do to your daughter when she grows up; don't add the complication of a strained in-law relationshp to it.

DEAR MISS DIX: All my life I've been plagued by self-consciousness. I never have the fun at dances, parties, etc. that the other kids have. Can you offer any help.

Kitty.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The best cure for your trouble is to think of the other person rather than yourself. When you're going to an affair, brush up on a few things that you think will interest your friends. Keep tabs on their school activities, then be ready to show interest (and don't fake the interest). Ask questions, if you can't think of anything original to say. Only by forcing yourself to face people, to converse with them, and to show an interest in them, can you overcome that old bugaboo—timidity.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Our 17-year-old daughter has her own car, and her boy friend doesn't have one. Therefore, he feels she should pick him up at a designated place whenever they have a date. When returning home he takes her to the car, then lets her drive back alone.

Mrs. S.

ANSWER: Cars are apparently killing chivalry. I can easily see where this arrangement is convenient for the boy friend, and a "convenience" is probably all your daughter means to him.

A considerate young man, truly in love, would put his lady's welfare before his own. After all, something might go wrong with her car, and a gallant escort would prove much more useful than a guy patiently waiting to be picked up. I don't like the arrangement at all, and I think your daughter should discourage it.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Meat Balls In Tomato Sauce

Cecils (Meat Balls Baked in Tomato Sauce)

Barb's Scalloped Potatoes
Broccoli
Savoy Slaw
Holiday Pie Coffee

Cecils are an old-fashioned dish that may be varied according to your supplies, your appetite or your time.

Last night we were all tired. I did not leave my desk until nearly 6 o'clock. But I had planned to make Neapolitan Spaghetti, and found the package of noodles stored in a basement cupboard had become musty. (A fine admission for a dietitian!) So, we switched to Cecils and quick-cooked rice. But I want to suggest to you Cecils with Scalloped potatoes that do not curdle—the latter of which we had had the night before for dinner. So these were tested or tasted at one meal or another, so that you will not be led astray.

CECILS

To 1 lb. ground beef add 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, ¼ cup fine breadcrumbs, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon salt, and shape into 2- inch balls. Saute 1 finely chopped onion in 2 tablespoons fat in iron frying-pan or Dutch oven until limp, then add the meat balls and saute them on all sides until golden Add 3 cups cut up fresh tomatoes or tomato juice or canned tomatoes, sprinkle with some additional salt and pepper, cover and simmer or bake at low temperature 1 hour. (It was late and we were hungry so we simmered ours 30 minutes, but longer cooking would have made the sauce richer and thicker.)

BARB'S SCALLOPED POTATOES

To serve 6 hungry people you will need 10 medium-sized potatoes. These potatoes were dug on the day these were made. That may be why they did not curdle. Pare and slice potatoes thinly and arrange a 1-inch layer in greased baking dish. Over this spread some of the rings from 1 large Spanish onion, sprinkle with ½ tsp. salt, a little freshly ground black pepper and 2 teaspoons flour. Repeat this layering 3 times until all of the potatoes are used and all of the rings from the Spanish onion are added. Down the side pour enough skim milk that you can see it clearly under top layer of potatoes, but do not submerge all potatoes. Dot top with 3 tablespoons butter, Cover and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1¾ to 2 hours. Dish should be large or these will boil over. During first hour you may have to tilt the lid a little.

SAVOY SLAW

Cut a Savoy cabbage in halves, flood it with water to wash out any lurking worms, dry well. Sharpen your best knife and settle down to 10 or 15 minutes of fine shredding. To serve 6 you should have at least 4 well-packed cups shredded cabbage. Add 2 cut-up well-drained tomatoes, ¼ cup finely chopped parsley and about ½ cup mayonnaise.

HOLIDAY PIE

Some of the readers in this audience have heard me tell about this pie. It is not my creation but is an open secret now. It is simply mince pie and pumpkin pie. You spread a layer of mincemeat in an unbaked pastry shell. Over this you pour a half-rule of pumpkin pie filling and bake as you would a pumpkin pie until filling is set and golden.

LETTER: I am also a great follower of your recipes . . . someone asked for Sweet Pickled Peppers. I have used the enclosed recipe successfully. It is delicious.

SWEET PICKLED PEPPERS

(Contributed by Mrs. F. J. B.)

Wash small pimientoes or cut up large red or green sweet peppers in halves or quarters and take out seeds. Fill quart jars with them. Bring to boiling point 2 cups water, 2 cups brown sugar, 4 cups white vinegar. Pour this hot over peppers and seal tight.

ANSWER: I hope there are still a few peppers to be bought if there are readers who are still in the preserving business at this late date. Thank you, Mrs. F. J. B.

EGG-CITEMENT BY THE PECK—Some baseball players have been accused of being "chicken" when they get up to the plate, but here's a batter who really is chicken. It's one of the ball-playing hens that are drawing crowds at the Texas State Fair in Dallas. Fair visitor Ponda Jansen looks on as the hen pecks at fake worm at the end of the bat. "Worm" is connected to electric trigger, which releases bat. A good, firm peck produces a base hit. This sets off another trigger that releases a portion of chicken feed at the other end of the pen. Hen strolls to feed trough, has her snack and returns for another time at bat.

YWA Hold Hallowe'enParty

HAVELOCK (ENS) — Jack-o-lanterns, skeletons, and candles decorated the home of Mrs. Fred Bennett, Monday evening, for the Hallowe'en party of the Y.W.A. of Knox Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Bennett was the pianist for the grand march when the following prizes were awarded: fancy dress, Mrs. W. Copp and Mrs. H. Hitchins, who represented Pa and Ma Kettle; original costume, Mrs. B. A. Curtis as a scarecrow; best comic dress, Miss Maude Sexsmith. Judges were Mrs. Angus Graham, Mrs. Robert Melville and Mrs. William Woodbeck.

Prizes for identifying the costumes went to Mrs. Grenville Rutherford. Three contests were won by Mrs. G. Milliken, Mrs. Fred Rutherford and Mrs. F. McKenzie. The president, Mrs. Trevor Watson, conducted a short routine business session. The program committee were Mrs. W. M. Judd and Mrs. B. Nicholas. Lunch convenors were Mrs. R. Melville and Mrs. Grenville assisted by the hostess.

Bringing Up Baby

Hints Collected by Mrs. Dean Gerber (Mother of 5)

One of the most important things for the new mother to realize is that a baby likes to eat. The primary job is not to make baby eat, but to let him eat. No single food is worth a so-called "scene", and many foods are satisfactory substitutes for one another. Without pressure on mom's part, most tots will acquire a taste for the variety of foods instead of developing a distaste for certain foods.

• • •

A good start. New babies' first solid food is often cereal. And there's a sound reason why many doctors suggest Gerber's Cereals as a starter. Because Gerber's have the "good-feeling" texture and mild, pleasing flavors that appeal to the very young. Fortified with valuable minerals and vitamins they also supply baby with important nutritional elements. For your convenience: Gerber's Cereals are precooked and ready to serve! Just add milk or formula. For flavor variety rotate all five: Mixed, Rice, Barley, Oatmeal and Wheat.

• • •

Short sheet story. Regular, grown-up pillow cases make perfect basinette sheets. You'll find they fit just right.

• • •

Sweet story. Wee ones develop a sweet tooth all too quickly . . . should not be encouraged with concentrated sweets like candy or cake. Best treats are those that have a low sugar content, yet taste good, and provide nourishment too. Gerber's Strained Puddings offer interesting variety, with Fruit, Orange, Pineapple Custards, and Custard Pudding.

• • •

Cover-up stuff. By sewing tape markers on one side of Baby's blankets you make sure the clean side always goes next to baby.

NORWOOD

NORWOOD (ENS) — October meeting of the Norwood Home and School was held oMnday evening in the public school. The meeting opened with community singing led by the Rev. R. D. Duncanson, assisted by an impromtu male quartette consisting of Messers E. Clark, A. Pigden, D. Sinclair and William Goodswan.

Mrs. Max Scott read the School Creed and Mrs. H. K. Wright led in prayer. A report on the bicycle stands was given by Mr. Sinclair, but further information is to be brought to the November meeting. Mr. Sinclair's room was the winner of the attendance banner. The district convention is to be held in Peterborough on October 31.

Mr. William Goodswan as program convenor then had Mr. Duncanson introduce the guest speaker, Mr. William Graff of the Peterborough public library. Mr. Graff spoke on the value of films in school and community education, using two films for demonstrating his address. He gave information regarding the cost and value of making films and tape recordings for use in schools.

Mr. Edgar Clark thanked the speaker, then Mr. Goodswan had an interesting picture contest on neighboring towns.

PRINCE OF WALES

A meeting of considerable interest was held at Prince of Wales School Tuesday evening when reports from three directors of the Board of Education enlightened an appreciative audience on how the Board of Education works.

Mr. K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools, introduced in turn Mrs. Paige Rowell, vice-chairman of the Board of Education and chairman of supervision committee and health services; Mr. G. W. Craw, chairman of accommodation and finance committees, and Mr. C. H. Huffman, chairman of the property committees.

Functioning and purpose of each committee was fully clarified leaving the audience with a better understanding of the many problems and tasks which confront the board members and a realization of the excellent work being achieved through the work of these committees.

Mrs. A. Parker, president, held a brief business session and announced plans for a forthcoming "Ma and Pa's Syrus" (Welsh for circus), to be held at the school on November 25.

Mrs. M. Jude took the devotional period and parent attendance prize was awarded to Mrs. Grace Samson's class. Thoroughly enjoyed were a number of renditions by the "Note Wits" barber shop quartette, led by Mr. John Dinsmore.

Mr. James Fraser extended grateful thanks to guest speakers and entertainers.

Sandwiches and coffee were served at the close of the meeting.

MR. AND MRS. JACK FOUND of Peterborough, the bride formerly Miss Beulah Wall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wall, who were married Saturday in Park Street Baptist Church parsonage by the Rev. A. S. Roblin.

Girls, Here's Hallowe'en Lore To Help You Pick Your Man

In celebrating Hallowe'en these days we have not only become more subdued—certainly less destructive—but we have also, judging from a peek into older customs, forgotten some of the quaint and romantic aspects of this night of the hobgoblins and banshees.

The small fry do very well for themselves, what with organized parties and bags and bags of special Halowe'en candies in yellow and black wrappers being handed out by one and all. Fact is, they do much better than in the old days when they were fobbed off in many cases with whatever old candy, cake and apples the householder had kicking around. The candy-makers now put on a special efffort to get into the spirit of the spooky evening.

But how many of the bigger kids—girls, that is—know that Hallowe'en is the time to take steps to find out who their intended is going to be? Candy is dandy, bobbing for apples is all right and so is dancing in the dim light of a grinning pumpkin, but with the aid of a rhyme or two and the proper routine a girl can find out not only what HE is going to look like, but what kind of a job he's going to have.

One of the easier ways to get a look at this future meal-ticket is for a girl to look into her mirror on the bong of midnight, and, so the book says, she will see the man she is going to marry looking over her shoulder.

If that one seems too simple, she can try this one. She must walk into her bedroom backwards at midnight, undress without turning (even while getting out of a girdle?) and while removing her shoes, chant the following:

"I place my shoes in the form of a T
To dream of him who is to be
The color of his eyes
The color of his hair
His occupation
And the clothes he will wear."

Then, she gets into bed backwards and she will see her future husband in her dreams. Simple?

There's another one that involves stealing a cabbage. This one might be tricky for the average girl living in a large city, but it seems to have certain sure-fire angles to it. Anyway, she goes out and steals a cabbage at midnight on Hallowe'en. (Anybody can do that). If a man comes along and helps her, he's the one, the dope. Otherwise she puts the cabbage over the door and she'll wed the first man upon whose head it falls. The book didn't say, but there seems to be a slight suggestion here that she might be able to influence the fall of that head of cabbage on the cabbagehead of her choice. In which case, of course, he's had it.

In Scottish lore there's one where a girl goes out and sows hemp seed at night when no one is looking. This is pretty hard to do because a crowd always gathers when a girl goes out at night and sows hemp seed. Anyway, while she's doing it she has to chant this contender for the hit parade:

"Hempseed I sow thee
Hempseed I sow thee
And him who is my true love
Come after me and pull thee."

Pulling hemp is certainly less strenous than getting hit on the head with a cabbage, although in this frolic the end result is about the same.

In Pennsylvania (at one time anyway) if a girl wanted to dream of her future husband she walked backwards out the front door, picked up some grass, wrapped it in paper, then slept with it under her pillow. Result? Yep, she dreamed of the man she would marry.

In Maryland, a girl opens the door before putting eggs to fry on the stove. This is so her young man can come in and turn the eggs. Of course, if she prefers scrambled eggs and the poor oaf can't turn an egg anyway she winds up single.

This hardly likely, however, because any girl who is optimistic enough to fry eggs in order to catch a husband will undoubtedly dream up some other clever scheme that will work, come Hallowe'en or a rainy Thursday.

Sectional WMS Rally Told Of Need For World Church

HAVELOCK (ENS) — Miss B. M. Cairns of Toronto, a returned missionary, who, after having to leave China, spent three years in Japan to complete her term, was guest speaker at a sectional rally of the Women's Missionary Society Tuesday in Havelock United Church.

Representatives were present from Hastings, Norwood, Cottesloe, Westwood and Havelock.

There were two sessions. The worship service in the forenoon was conducted by Mrs. R. G. Newman with prayer by Mrs. R. Bonney and scripture reading by Mrs. H. Hoard, members of the Havelock W.M.S. Mrs. A. Anderson welcomed the visitors.

An invitation was extended from the Norwood W.M.S. to hold the next rally in Norwood, providing they have a church by that time. The invitation was accepted. In case of them not having a church, it will be held in Westwood.

Miss Helen Tedford of Cottesloe presided at both sessions with Mrs. Aubrey Wood of Westwood as secretary. Mrs. H. Hoard and Mrs. M. Blakely of Havelock W.M.S. received the guests. Mrs. R. Campney was organist and Mrs H Watson pianist

GIVE REPORTS

The following leaders gave short reports on special programs of work by their respective auxiliaries: Norwood, Mrs R. Ferguson; Norwood, Miss Pauline Weir; Hastings, Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe; Cottesloe, Mrs. Charles McMillan; Westwood, Mrs. C. Brackenridge.

Miss Jessie Davidson of Westwood gave a report of the school for ladies held recently in Toronto. Mrs. A. Olmstead of Peterborough spoke in connection with the literature she had on display.

Silent prayer was offered in memory of Mrs. J. H. Hess, a member of the Hastings W.M.S. who died Monday in Peterborough hospital.

Mrs. A. E. Metcalfs, president of the Peterborough Presbyterial W.M.S. gave a few remarks based on the words: "Build a house, I will be glorified by it." God is calling on people today to rebuild, she said and told of one Korean Christian who gave his only cow towards rebuilding his church. She closed the morning session with a poem and prayer.

Dinner was served by the Havelock Evening Auxiliary.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The afternoon worship service was conducted by Mrs. Clayton Brackenridge of Westwood with Miss J. Davidson of that auxiliary offering prayer.

Miss Cairns, the guest speaker, then outlined her work in Japan.

Because the missionaries have had to leave South China, we must not think our work there is finished, she said, for it is only waiting. She mentioned the work that is being carried on by Miss Margaret Brown at Hong Kong and by Miss Jean Moore at the mission to the lepers.

The great need is to know what the church is doing, Miss Cairns said. Our task is to strengthen the church of Christ in Japan and our aim to establish a fellowship of Christ in a world church.

The Church of Christ in Japan is a union church comprising eight denominations. This union of denominations, took place in 1940, partly through government pressure. All missionaries are responsible to the Church of Christ in Japan and it is this union we want to strengthen, she said, not individual work.

WAR YEARS

This church carried on during the war, although many of its buildings were demolished. Aid has been forthcoming from the West which is being used, if possible, in pioneer areas.

The Christian population of Japan is very small, she said. There are 200 nonchristians for every christian. The economic situation is such that there are many suicides. This fall there will be six million young men ready for employment. There is much hoplessness among them—fear for war and, if not war, unemployment.

Despite this, many fine buildings have gone up in the large centres and since 1951 many more articles are procurable. Even television sets were on display and became very popular before the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II.

Three great hindrances to the spread of the gospel were: 1. The religions of Japan; 2. The so-called scientific way of life; 3. Communism.

There are many ways to help. Possibly the greatest is by contributions. Other ways were, exchange of ideas, making friends with new Canadians, education. Always we can pray.

A missionary drama "None are too Hidden", which introduced the 1953-54 Christian mission theme, "The Life and Task of the Church Around the World," was presented by the Norwood Evening Auxiliary. It illustrated that Christ makes Himself known through music and art, sharing rice and bread with the starving, medicine for those in pain, fellowship, the printed page, the projector and the radio. The cast was as follows: Narrator, Miss Pauline Weir; African deaconess, Mrs. A. Weir; African village woman, Mrs. J. J. Stewart; Canadian teen-age girl, Mrs. John McConnell; East Indian women, Mrs. A. R. McNabb, Mrs. S. Flett; Japanese girl, Mrs. H. K. Wright; voice, Mrs. R. H. Gardner; pianist, Mrs. H. Gyde.

The offering, which was taken up by Mrs. Rae Williams and Mrs. H. Agnew, was dedicated by Mrs. John Stark of Norwood.

Miss Helen Telford brought the meeting to a close with a message based on Christ's words "Follow Thou Me."

Change Sew. Day At Red Cross, Urging Increase

Announcement that the time for sewing at the Peterborough rooms of the Canadian Red Cross Society has been changed to Monday afternoon, in the hope that more people will become interested in this vital work, was made at the monthly meeting of the board of Peterborough Branch on Tuesday evening.

Due to the floods in Europe and the needs of the people there, Ontario Division is urging that the sewing quota be doubled, convener Mrs. E. Whiteley reported.

The Blood Donor Service, in charge of Mrs. Charles Ray, reported an unusually busy summer and fall, with two regular clinics each week and a number of emergency call.

Mrs. Ray also reported on the Apsley Red Cross Hospital, mentioning the fact that Dr. Lehinant of Bancroft holds a clinic in the hospital every Wednesday afternoon for the benefit of the Apsley community.

An invitation has been extended by the Apsley committee for Peterborough board members to visit the Apsley hospital sometime in the near future. Arrangements are being made for transportation.

Mrs. W. R. L. Blackwell reported that the loan cupboard supplies are still in constant demand.

Mr. C. G. Collins asked that he be given a report of any happening within the Society's scope which might be of value to his publicity committee.

A report on the swimming and water safety was given by Mrs. Jack Watts and on visiting by Mrs. F. R. Pope.

It was decided to place a wreath on the war memorial on Remembrance Day as has previously been the custom.

President Mrs. Blackwell presided.

Hart-Ayotte Douro Nuptials

At St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church in Douro this morning at nine o'clock the marriage took place at Teresa Joanne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ayotte of Douro, to David Bedford Hart, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Hart of Toronto. The Rev. J. J. McCarthy performed the ceremony and said the nuptial mass.

White chrysanthemums decorated the church. Wedding music was played by Mrs. Victor Kennedy, and during the signing of the register she played "Ave Maria."

The bride was gowned in white nylon tulle over taffeta and wore a redingote of Chantilly lace with Queen Anne collar and lily point sleeves. Her veil of nylon tulle was caught in a coronet with seed pearls, and she carried a white prayer book with pink roses. She was given in marriage by her father.

Sisters of the bride were her attendants, Mrs. Harold Cain as matron of honor and Miss Marie Ayotte as bridesmaid, and the bride's niece Catherine Cain was flower girl. Their gowns were of nylon tulle over taffeta, the attendants in bell rose and romance pink and the flower girl in corsage pink. Their hats were of matching tulle and they carried bouquets of white 'mums.

Mr. Edward Hart attended the groom and the ushers were Frank Ayotte, Peter Hart, Michael Granger and Harold Cain.

The wedding reception was at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club. The bride's mother receiving wore navy crepe with grey accessories and her corsage was of red roses. The groom's mother was dressed in forest green taffeta and she wore brown accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Leaving afterward on their wedding trip to the United States, the bride wore a navy three-piece suit with white accessories and had a corsage of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Hart will live at 176 Antrim St., Peterborough.

Speakers Named For WI Convention

TORONTO (CP)—Health Minister Phillips will be the opening speaker at the central Ontario area Women's Institute 51st convention in the Royal York Hotel Nov. 4-6.

Agriculture Minister Thomas will address the luncheon meeting Thursday. S. G. Hazell of the Canadian Handicraft Guild of Ontario will speak in the evening.

Vellore Junior Institute and Junior Farmers (West York) will demonstrate square dancing and Beaverton Women's Institute will present an international pageant. Anna P. Lewis, institute director, will give an illustrated address Wednesday evening.

Hughey-Mayhew

A young Peterborough couple chose Holy Trinity Church, Maynooth, as the setting for their wedding last Friday. Audrey Mavies Mayhew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Edward Mayhew, was married to Laurence Roger Hughey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lawrence Hughey, all of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. Owen Johnston.

Miss Violet Hinze of Maynooth Station was bridesmaid and Milton Earl Mayhew of New Carlow was groomsman. Ushers were Hilton Mayhew, a younger brother of the bride, and Clark Mayhew of Maple Leaf, a cousin of the bride.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hinze of Maynooth Station, and guests enjoyed an evening dance at the Orange Hall, Maple Leaf.

Britain's Latest In Garments Will Precede Queen's Tour

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—As the Queen packs off-the-peg cottons as part of her round-the-world wardrobe, Britain's newest and sleekest materials, in gowns and suits of the latest cut, are on their way to Australia for show in towns the Queen will visit.

Australian officials requested that all garments shown at the recent fabric fair in London's Royal Festival Hall should be flown out to the big cities ahead of the Queen. This would give Australian women a chance to buy garden-party and formal clothes of British cut.

About 90 styles in top-notch materials, including new weaves straight from the mills, will give some indication of the wide variety of cloths. The Queen's six-month trip starts Nov. 23.

FOR INFORMAL WEAR

Like her aunt the Duchess of Kent, who picked some low-priced cottons for wear on her 1952 Far East tour, the Queen has chosen cottons for less formal events and dusty days of travel.

There is little doubt, however, that the clothes-conscious Queen will wear some of the latest moth-proof, non-absorbent composite materials that include such fibres as nylon, terylene, ardil, orlon and viscose.

The newest textiles cover a wide range of materials from light unshrinkable zephyrs to nylon and terylene furs. There are floating paper weight silks, pure silk crepe milanese, glazed strawcloth, cellulose acetate lustre rayons, machine-made laces as fine as hand-made valencienne, and many others.

Some nylon-mixture fabrics will have their world premiere in Australia. Most women will like nylon and lurex, a gold foil woven into a nylon sheer, also a silk and nylon mixture claimed to have the durability of nylon, the qualities of cotton and the gloss of silk.

ELEGANT GOWNS

Thirty light-weight nylon-mixture garments valued at £1,000 have already landed in Australia. Typical is a topaz nylon ball gown by Worth, delicately screen-printed in black. A sheath dress, it has side skirt fullness from a large over-panel tipped with stiff, crinoline net. Net also edges the boat neckline.

There are sheers for garden parties with schoolgirl coat-dresses or big skirts with tie-bow waist bands. Opaque nylons are styled into slick business suits and dresses with hug-me skirts, neck and sleeve interest.

The possibility of cotton is indicated in such as the strapless crinoline gown with tiered petal skirt and petal bra line. Called "heart of a rose," this formal gown in blush pink is made of crease- and shrink-resisting Egyptian cotton poplin.

GOWNS ON TOUR—As the Queen packs off-the-peg cottons as part of her round-the-world wardrobe, Britain's newest and sleekest materials in gowns and suits are on their way to Australia for show in towns the Queen will visit. Among the gowns to be shown is this ball dress of topaz nylon, screen-printed in black by Worth of London. An over-panel gives side fullness to the sheath skirt.

Millbrook Women's Guild Realizes $175 From Bazaar

MILLBROOK (ENS)—The Women's Guild of St. Thomas' Anglican Church held their annual bazaar, sale of home baking and afternoon tea in the waiting-room on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. L. R. Pocock, wife of the rector, and Mrs. Percy Hamilton, Guild president, received the guests at the door.

Mrs. H. A. Turner poured tea from a table covered with a cut-work embroidered cloth, centred with bronze 'mums and lighted candles. Serving the small tables were Mrs. Ronald Palmer, Mrs. Howard Lancashire, Mrs. Anna Fair and Miss Elsie Raikes. Mrs. T. A. Campbell, Mrs. James Godfrey and Mrs. Russell Smith replenished plates. In the kitchen Miss Ellen Kent made tea, assisted by Miss Jean Smith.

Mrs. George Harrington and Mrs. Douglas Sheppard were in charge of the sewing table where aprons, fancy work, children's wear and knitted goods were displayed in great variety. Mrs. Hugh Abbott and Mrs. Edward Penney sold candy and Mrs. William Hutchinson and Mrs. Charles Brokenridge were in charge of the home baking table.

In charge of the country store was Mrs. Fred Lowery, and of the fish pond, Mrs. D. R. Fowler. The sum of $175 was realized.

Dartford News

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Donnelly and friend, Toronto, spent the weekend with relatives and friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Nelson spent Saturday in Peterborough.

Mr. Willis McCracken spent the past week with Mr. and Mrs. Eric Seeney and David, Toronto.

Mrs. Frank Brown and Nelda, Roseneath and Miss Helen Atkinson, R.N., of Toronto were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Broadworth, Miss Muriel Darling, also Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Richardson.

Several from West Dartford Farm Forum attended the annual rally held in Warkworth town hall on Friday evening. Victor Morrow was chosen as chairman, Mrs. Raymond Richardson for secretary-treasurer and Mrs. Donald Pollock is press-secretary.

Messrs. Bill McCracken and Ralph Scarrow spent Friday evening in Port Hope.

Will Destroy $2,000,000 Carolina Shrine

CLEVELAND, Tenn. (AP) — Evangelist Homer Tomlinson says he will take a sledge hammer, a wrecking bar and other tools on a bus and hitch-hiking trip to North Carolina to destroy a Church of God shrine which he estimates cost $2,000,000.

The 61-year-old head of the Church of God, with New York headquarters, has announced plans to raze the Fields of the Wood shrine near Murphy, N.C., about 50 miles from here.

The shrine is on Burger mountain and is owned by the Church of God of Prophecy, headed by Tomlinson's younger brother, Milton. Set in the side of the mountain are the 10 Commandments in stone letters five feet high.

SAW VISION

This is the site where the brothers' father, A. J. Tomlinson, said he saw a vision leading him to found the original Church of God in 1903.

Homer Tomlinson says his father appointed him to lead all branches of the church and that in addition to destroying the shrine, he will unseat his brother, who he claims is "making idolatry of Fields of the Wood."

"I cannot let (him) do it any more than Moses could let his younger brother, Aaron, make a golden calf, even if I have to break the $2,000,000 shrine into powder," he said.

Finally Made U.S. Citizen

VIENNA (Reuters)—After eight years in Russian labor camps following conscription into Hitler's army, New York-born Frank Rohrbacher was officially recognized as a United States citizen today.

The United States embassy made the decision after verifying his claim that he had been forced into German uniform against his will.

Rohrbacher, 27, who was brought to Hungary five years after his birth and understands but does not speak English, was released to Austria by the Russians last month. He said he intends to join his parents in Stamford, Conn., as soon as he can arrange passage.

Captured by the advancing Russian army, he was shipped to a forced labor camp in Russian Georgia in 1945. Meanwhile, his parents reached the United States. A letter from them, relayed to him by a friend in 1947, brought Russian charges that he was a spy.

Rohrbacher said the guards locked him in a water-filled cellar for three days without food and tried unsuccessfully to trick him into talking with a stool pigeon.

Decide Old Stamp Nothing But Fake

VIENNA (Reuters)—A postage stamp from Ober Vellach, South Austria—claimed to be the oldest in the world—is a fake, Dr. August Nitsche, chief of the Vienna postal museum, announced today.

The stamp bore a cancellation dated 1838 but Nitsche said his tests showed the stamp contained coloring unknown in that year. Though the envelope was genuine paper from the first half of the 19th century, the writing on it was of a far later date.

The seal contained chemical substances also unknown in 1838.

National Truck Roadeo

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian national truck roadeo will be held here Nov. 21 to 23 when accident-free Canadian commercial truck drivers will compete for about $4,000 in cash and prizes. The contests consist of exacting tests based on everyday driving conditions.

VISITING THE UNITED STATES — King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece arrive today in the United States for a month's visit. They will fly to Washington where they will be guests of President and Mrs. Eisenhower.

City Encroachment Gives Twp. Assessment Problem

The official attitude of North Monaghan toward its encroaching neighbor has to accept with more are less grace of succession of annexations together with purchases by the city of land for municipal purposes, and thereby exempt from taxation.

Projections of the city westerly into the township were mentioned at the Monoghan Court of Revision meeting Monday. Reeve Willard Waterman presided with the following councillors present: Walter Brown, Lloyd Whittington, Fred Stenson and Roy Locke.

With them were S. G. Sparling, county assessor, and H. A. Metcalfe, assessor for the township.

The assessment of the south east one-quarter lot 5, concession 8, was confirmed, and was assessed in the name of William John MacLain. It has been in his father's name.

ASK EXEMPTION

City of Peterborough asked for exemption of the vacant land which it bought for industrial sites, south of Lansdowne St. and west of Erskine Ave.

The lots are: Numbers, 38, 39, 33, 34, 35; lots 36 and 37, all on registered plan 34; this property is owned by the city, but is within the township; but as municipal property of the city it is exempt from township taxation.

The appeal also asked for exemption of part of lot 11, con. 12, and lots 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, plan 73. This area has been bought by the Board of Education for future school needs to the north and west of the former Hugh Stewart acres, now known as Westmount Gardens. The city appears for exemption were granted.

Archie Patterson asked that the city be assessed for the south east half of lot 8, con. 11. This appeal was held over until Nov. 16.

The old sandpit on the north side of the C.P.R. is being acquired by the city for filling with garbage during the winter. It will also be for municipal purposes when it is eventually transferred in the records from M. Patterson to the city. Peterborough also owns the land to the south of the C.P.R. which used to be a dump, and finally was put to landfill use in the disposal of garbage.

Joseph P. Sharp and Sam Fama asked that their names be listed as Separate School supporters. Granted.

Frank Millard was granted a duction of $75 in the assessment of his cottage property near TAS park.

A concession was also made to Adam B. Sands and Eric Bills. They have built on the west side of the road obliquely extending from the vicinity of the former Robert Dobbin farm home, and at the south end of that road leading to the former town hall community. These appellants said they couldn't get improvement of their frontages, especially in the widening of that road. Huge boulders form fence lines, and will involve considerable expenditure to secure their removal. Council reduced assessment $200 for each of these owners.

Charles Ross, Wallis Dr. withdrew his appeal when it was pointed out to him that his assessment was in line with the others in his neighborhood.

Isard & Holden, layers, Oakville, were granted a reduction of $100 on their river front of three acres, from $400 to $300. They bought 30 acres of the former David Johnston farm; reserved three and sold 27 acres to Mrs. Mary Kelly.

COAL UP THE RIVER

Their plan was to bring coal up the Trent and Otonabee Rivers and dump it from boats on the Monaghan front. Their first site some years ago was upstream from the foot of Monaghan Rd. Objections from the owners nearby sent them down to the Johnston farm. Since then there has been no further development.

Fred Stenson's request for reassessment of his lots on St. Mary's St., laid out to the north of St. Alphonsus School was deferred to the sitting of the Court on Nov. 16.

Protest Made

Of the section of Albertus Ave. which it had been proposed to pave, it did not appear to be heavily travelled and the standard of paving seemed very high for the traffic it bore. Seven of the 14 owners objected to the proposal and many of the properties only flanked the street. Owners were free in the future to petition for paving or such improvements as they wished.

"It seems to the board we should not approve of the work because the city is more or less foisting it on the property owners against their wills and this is not a good thing," he said.

"The board is not unsympathetic towards the city in regard to its long-range plan. They have not been theoretically wrong. They have just misjudged the wishes of the people in this area. No criticism is implied of the work of city officials in their application to have this work done."

Makes Quick Start

SOUTHAMPTON (Reuters) — The liner Queen Mary sailed for New York today after the quickest turn-a-round in her 17 years of Atlantic service. The liner, held up by storms on arrival here Tuesday, left after only 24¾ hours in port.

Township To Improve Road Intersection

Improvement of the road intersection at the southeast corner of Dobbin's woods has been authorized by North Monaghan council, with the advice of E. F. Marsden, district engineer of the Department of Highways.

The hill is to be reduced in grade and the road on the west side of the corner will be widened.

The council and the Bell Telephone Co. have agreed to alter the telephone pole anchors at that corner, each party to this improvement paying half the cost.

The council Monday passed accounts: roads and streets $28.95; printing $13.15 and registry $30.50. John Clifford was appointed road superintendent, by bylaw, at 90 cents an hour plus eight cents a mile for use of car on road work.

Living Costs Climb In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States cost of living, pushed upward mainly by higher rents, clothing costs and medical expenses, set another record last month, the government reported today.

The labor department's bureau of labor statistics announced that its consumer price index reached 115.2 in mid-September, a rise of 2-10ths of one per cent over the record August level.

This was the seventh straight monthly increase.

The index is a composite average of retail prices paid by the household for basic goods and services as compared with 1947-1949.

The bureau said a decline in retail food prices between August and September was not enough to offset higher prices for all other types of consumer goods and services.

More Accommodation Needed By Schools

CHATHAM (CP) — George A. Pearson, superintendent of elementary education for Ontario, said today the provision of adequate accommodation for pupils and enough teachers to take charge of classrooms was the greatest task facing educational officials in Ontario.

Speaking at the official opening of the new Queen Elizabeth II public school here, he said elementary school attendance is up 50,000 this year. More than $30,000,000 was spent throughout the province last year on school construction.

He said the province needs 1,500 additional elementary school teachers without replacing those who get married or retire.

Driver Acquitted Of Charge In Fatal Crash

Facing a charge of driving without reasonable consideration for others, Ian Finlay, 23, of George St., was acquitted after a lengthy trial Tuesday arising out of the motorcycle death of John Bambrick, 19, of 29 Aberdeen Ave.

Bambrick was killed instantly when he was thrown from Finlay's motorcycle June 22 after it crashed into the side of a truck driven by Joseph Hartwick, 17, of RR 8, Peterborough.

Hartwick was passing a car on Highway 7 just east of Peterborough when the accident occurred, and, as a result, Finlay was hospitalized several weeks with a broken neck, broken ankle and concussion.

PC Jack Gray who investigated the crash, found, on his arrival at the scene, the motorcycle damaged and lying in the north ditch. Bambrick's body was lying on the road shoulder.

SAW ACCIDENT

Among four girls riding in the back of Hartwick's truck was Margaret Pamlett, 14. She had an unobstructed view of the road and described to the court how the motorcycle approached from the rear, and the accident.

As the pair on the motorcycle approached the truck, the passenger, Bambrick, appeared to be kicking and swinging his legs from the back seat of the machine. The rider and passenger seemed to be talking and laughing, the girl said.

After riding behind for about five minutes, the machine turned out to pass the truck, then "curved in," hit the truck and bounced away. Hartwick's truck was slowing at the time, the witness said.

Hartwick, taking the stand, told how he approached a slowing car, after seeing the motorcycle about 100 yards back in his rear-vision mirror and, upon pumping his brakes "three or four" times, pulled out to pass the car.

His front bumper was slightly ahead of the slowed car's front end when the motorcycle crashed into him, Hartwick told the court.

Photographs showed how the rear fender of the truck was bumped in from the side. Other damage sustained included a bent licence plate.

On the stand, Finlay told the court he remembered nothing of the crash or the events leading up to it but detailed an extensive motorcycling and driving background. In answer to Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, he said he wouldn't agree motorcycles should be considered "dangerous."

SAW FINLAY

Clarence Hughey, a resident of Highway 7, was watering his lawn nearby the scene when the fatal accident occurred. He had looked up from his job when he heard the motorcycle coming, noted it, turned away, and turned back when the crash took place, in time to see Finlay flying through the air.

He did not, however, actually witness the accident.

After reviewing the evidence, Magistrate R. I. Moore decided the motorcycle was already in the act of passing when Hartwick started to pass the car.

"I don't see anything he could have done to avoid hitting the truck," the magistrate concluded.

A similar charge of careless driving against Hartwick, the truck driver, was dismissed at the request of the crown attorney. Because Hughey didn't see the crash and Finlay couldn't remember, there was no evidence to support the charge, the crown pointed out.

Propaganda Campaign

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP) British bomber and fighter planes prepared today to drop 20,000,000 leaflets on 200 known Communist hide-outs in the jungles, calling on the Red guerrillas to surrender. Junior Communist leaders are offered a reward of 500 Straits dollars (about $165) for each guerrilla they bring out of the jungle with them.

Charges Libel

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Joseph S. Profaci, Brooklyn olive oil importer, filed a $3,000,000 libel suit Tuesday against the magazine Mr. America, charging that one of its articles tied him to the international dope traffic. The suit was filed against Weider Publications, Jersey City; Joseph Weider, the publisher; and Michael Knight, author of the allegedly-libellous article, Murder With a Needle.

St. John's WA Plan Tea And Bazaar

BANCROFT (ENS)—St. John's Anglican WA met in the parish hall. Opening prayers were led by Mrs. E. Schram. Mrs. E. Bruce gave the scripture reading.

It was decided to hold a tea and bazaar December 5. The rummage sale committee asked for help in arranging Saturday's sale.

The WA undertook to serve a meal in the parish hall after the service of witness October 27.

Closing prayers were read by the rector.

Janet Leah Ann, baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Kellar, was baptized Sunday morning at St. John's church by the rector, the Rev. E. Owen Johnston. Godparents were Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Kellar and Miss Muriel Kellar.

A hot dog and hamburg supper followed the meeting of the Junior WA. Eleven girls were present under the leadership of Mrs. F. Wiggins. The rector was a guest at the supper.

Churchill's Memoirs

The nex morning plenty of work arrived, both by telegram and pouch. I drafted a telegram to the President explaining the position as I had learned it from the generals on the spot and from my own knowledge. I wished to convey in an uncontroversial form our sense of frustration, and at the same time to indicate my hopes and ideas for the future. If only I could revive the President's interest in this sphere we might still keep alive our design of an ultimate advance to Vienna.

PRIME MINISTER TO PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

31 Aug. 44

* * * As to the future, continuous employment against the enemy will have to be found for the Eighth and Fifth Armies once the German armies in Italy have been destroyed or unluckily have made their escape. This employment can only take the form of a movement first to Istria and Trieste and ultimately upon Vienna. * * * Anyhow, we can talk this over fully at Quebec.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT TO PRIME MINISTER

4 Sept. 44

* * * As to the exact employment of our forces in Italy in the future, this is a matter we can discuss at Quebec. It seems to me that American forces should be used to the westward, but I am completely open-minded on this, and in any event this depends on the progress of the present battle in Italy, and also in France, where I strongly feel that we must not stint in any way the forces needed to break quickly through the western defences of Germany.

200 Attend Supper

BANCROFT (ENS) — A chicken supper sponsored by the Anglican Guild at the Orange hall, Maple Leaf, was attended by more than 200, the largest number ever catered to by the guild.

Question Zaisser About Beria

BERLIN (AP) — The United States high commission newspaper Neue Zeitung today said Soviet authorities in East Berlin are questioning Wilhelm Zaisser, ousted interior minister of East Germany, in connection with the Beria case.

Lavrenty Beria, the Soviet Union's dreaded secret police boss and interior minister, was charged last June with treason.

Neue Zeitung declared "it is known" in Communist circles of East Belin that the Russian justice minister thus far has lacked material on Beria's alleged ties with foreign agents to present at his impending trial.

A long-time friend of Zaisser, Beria once obtained his release from a Russian jail after the German had been made a scapegoat for the defeat of his international brigade in the Spanish civil war. Zaisser was known as "General Gomez" during that fighting.

Beria's 1953 directives to Zaisser were blamed by Communist leaders for the June 17 uprising by East German workers, a revolt that caught the Soviet zone regime by surprise.

Cartoonist Dies

SCARSDALE, N.Y. (AP) — Herb Roth, 66, who had carried on the cartoons of H. T. Webster since the latter's death a year ago, died Tuesday night. Roth had been associated with Webster for 30 years before death broke up the partnership Sept. 22, 1952. Since then he had continued to draw The Timid Soul and other cartoons which were syndicated in more than 100 newspapers.

Youth Strangled

CLEVELAND (AP) — Fourteen-year-old James Przelich was strangled Tuesday when his head was wedged between an oven door and a revolving belt at a bakery where he was employed cleaning pots and pans. The youth's neck was jammed into a 2½-inch space at the top of the oven door, and his feet were lifted more than a foot off the ground.

Ice Box Deaths

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Buffalo joined a number of other cities Tuesday in banning storage of old ice boxes and refrigerators without first removing the doors. The ordinance is designed to prevent the accidental suffocation of children. Violation calls for fines ranging from $5 to $250.

Cave Woman Gets Bashed On Head

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Julia Adams, portraying a cave woman, got bashed on the head Tuesday, but not by the traditional stone-age club.

A studio spokesman said she struck her head against a protruding rock while being carried by Ben Chapman, made up as a prehistoric creature, during filming of a scene at Universal-International studio. Her forehead was cut. Chapman was enacting a being who was half man, half fish.

U.S. Must Buy More Foreign Goods-Warning

MONTREAL (CP)—A prominent Canadian financial expert said Tuesday night the United States will have to buy more from foreign countries if she wants to sell more to them.

Bernard K. Sandwell, former editor of the Montreal Financial Times and the Toronto weekly, Saturday Night, said less wealthy countries cannot afford to buy much-needed goods from the U. S. unless America steps up her imports.

He told more than 500 Canadian and United States delegates to a conference of the technical association of the pulp and paper industry, that Canada and the U. S. could have "much more fun, and benefit, if they recognize the fact they shape this continent and develop its natural resources without being selfish."

Mr. Sandwell said American members of the organization "could do much" to persuade the U. S. government "that more goods must be accepted if they hope to sll more."

Pro-Red Soldiers Ousted From Army

WASHINGTON (AP)—Informed senators indicate that all United States military prisoners in Korea who co-operated with their Communist captors or gave false confessions will be quietly ousted from the services.

They said this assurance has been given by Defence Secretary Charles E. Wilson and the secretaries of the U. S. Army, Navy and Air Force. Legislators who asked not to be named said the ousters will be based on individual cases.

The reported promise that those who broke under Communist persuasion or tortures will be separated from the service may head off a potential investigation by the Senate armed services committee.

Arthur Flack

BETHANY (ENS)—The funeral was conducted Monday afternoon from St. Paul's Anglican Church by the Rev. T. S. Gault for the late Arthur Flack, who died at his home here Saturday following a brief illness at the age of 88.

The choir was in attendance, with Robert Sisson at the organ. Pallbearers were William Hannah, Harry Hannah, Alban Sisson, Fred Gray and Ross Carr. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Born in England, Mr. Flack came to Canada as a young boy and farmed in the Fleetwood district north of the village. He was a faithful member of St. Mary's Anglican church and a valued member of the choir for many years.

Since moving into the village some 25 years ago, he had attended St. Paul's Church. He was a member of Loyal Orange Lodge 1022 and of the Independent Order of Foresters.

There are no surviving immediate relatives except numerous nieces and nephews. His wife, the former Dorothy Sisson, predeceased him about 17 years ago.

Fire Damages Old Bell Tower Built For N.S. Multi-Millionaire

TENAFLY, N. J. (AP)—Fire this week damaged a long-silent bell tower built as a monument to a Nova Scotia-born multi-millionaire who at the age of 91 married his blonde 33-year-old nurse.

The monument was built by the nurse after John Samuel Lyle died two years after their marriage, leaving her $40,000,000 and cutting off the family of his first wife with a few thousand.

By the time the nurse, Julia Gertrude Hannon, died at the age of 63, the fortune was almost gone.

About all that remained to mark the union was the 50-foot Gothic bell tower, dedicated by Julia to her husband 40 years ago. Now it, too, has been weakened. The fire gutted its inside framework.

Lyle, born in Nova Scotia in 1819, began his career at the age of 10 as an errand boy in New York. When he retired in 1867 at 48 he was the chief stockholder in the big Lord and Taylor department store.

THEN CAME THE NURSE

He married Mary Kate Newcombe, who died in 1908. Her sister came to care for Lyle, then hale and hearty at 90. But the sister was ailing, so a young nurse was employed to care for her.

The nurse was Julia Gertrude Hannon, a blue-eyed blonde 58 years Lyle's junior. In September, 1910, much to the chagrin of the Newcombe family, John and Julia were married.

His estrangement from the Newcombes after the marriage resulted in a new will, signed in July, 1912, three days before his death. The Newcombe sister who had tried to care for him got nothing, one Newcombe brother got $50,000, friends and charities got $500,000 and the rest—more than $40,000,000—went to Julia.

The Newcombes contested the will time and again, but Julia came away with the fortune intact.

$30,000 MONUMENT

Then she built the John Samuel Lyle monument. It was dedicated 40 years ago last Friday, having cost $30,000 to build.

The tower had nine bells, the largest weighing two tons, played every quarter hour. When the neighbors complained, Julia was obliged to silence the bells at night, and soon she stopped them ringing altogether.

They finally were given to a Roman Catholic church in nearby Englewood, where they ring today.

Julia met and married Alexander Weynon Samuel, a handsome British barrister, and moved to England. In 1925 the marriage went on the rocks and Julia returned to the United States.

In 1934 she had a stroke which left her paralyzed. For most of her life after that she was bedridden.

She died in December, 1939, at the age of 62. Her assets then totalled only $224,000.

Her bell-tower memorial fell into disrepair. On Monday the 40-foot wooden staircase and most of the wooden framewood and trim were destroyed by fire.

Gold Kettle

TOKYO (AP) — A Tokyo department store today sold a gold tea kettle for about $7,800. But the store won't say who bought the seven-pound trinket. The buyer wants to keep his identity secret from the tax collector.

Trade Pact

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government today announced a new one-year trade agreement with Italy under which the Soviet Union will export grain, oil products, metals and other goods. Italy will send Russia oranges, lemons, fabrics, machinery and a number of small ships.

BRANDING FOR SAFETY—Specal license plates, to brand dangerous drivers is Martha Berglund's idea for reducing traffic fatalities. A worker in the governor's office in Minneapolis, Minn., she is shown examining a display poster of the red and white plates which would serve as a warning to safe drivers and, perhaps, make convicted dangerous drivers toe the mark.

Fenella News

Need Sound Rate Structure Hospitals Told

TORONTO (CP)—Hospitals must abandon the practice of charging "what the traffic will bear" and set up a sound rate structure based on actual costs incurred by the patient, Paul D. Shannon, controller of Montreal's Royal Victoria Hospital, told the Ontario Hospital Association Tuesday.

A recent survey of hospital billing methods showed a portion of the indigent patient's bill was loaded on the pay patient and part of the room and board charges were recovered through subordinate services, he said.

Also addressing the association, D. B. Strudley of the board of directors, Stratford General hospital, said "One of the most common causes of operating deficits is that the hospital is unable to collect from the municipality the real cost of caring for indigent patients."

Volcano Erupts

JAKARTA, Indonesia (Reuters) Karakatau volcano on an island between Java and Sumatra roared into action only 24 hours after a group of scientists had finished a survey trip into its crater, it was learned Tuesday. The volcano Sunday erupted a cloud of smoke 2½ miles high, followed by more than 100 explosions, the Bandung Volcanological Service announced.

TOUR MARITIMES—A touring British stock company is having a successful season in the Maritime Provinces. Oliver Gordon (left) and Leslie Yeo are directors of the London Theatre Company which has played in Maritime centres and plans to tour Ontario in February.

Peterborough On Itinerary Of London's Theatre Group

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP) — Some British firms have enough dollar troubles to lose their shirts, but this is about one that lost its customers' seats—temporarily, that is.

It's the story of a theatrical stock company playing the Atlantic provinces and aiming at the wider and greener fields of central Canada.

The London Theatre Company's troubles have been as diversified as its repertoire. It all started when the company was playing in Birmingham, England, and in the cast was the daughter of a wealthy Newfoundland merchant. He wanted to see his daughter act and sponsored its first trip to St. John's in 1947. They played 12 weeks in a school hall to a hardy audience who nightly packed the 550 straight backed chairs.

DOLLAR RESERVE

Leslie Yeo, who with Oliver Gordon is a director of the company, decided to leave his hard-won dollars behind as a reserve for a future Canadian tour. He returned in 1951 and his 14 players landed with $200 among them. They had the 1947 bank account to draw from, but in their packing cases they had enough sterling-bought scenery, costumes, lighting, play bills and even seat tickets to cover a six-month season.

They remembered the stiff-backed chairs and brought with them 550 seats, junked by a London theatre, which they offered the school hall as a present. To save costs they shipped the chairs uncrated, but when the packing cases were opened they contained a jumble of broken wood, steel and damaged upholstery.

"So," recalls Yeo, "the whole cast set to work with hammer and screw-driver and supervised by some local carpenters put most of 'em back together again."

At the end of the season they had paid all their bills, and salaries and had added to their dollar reserve. They risked a second date in 1952, extending their territory to Halifax. The company was so successful it stayed here an extra week. And it was decided that 1953 would see them go as far west as London, Ont.

POPULAR PI ··S

They've given Atlantic provinces audiences 50 plays and the current repertoire is concentrated on the most popular types.

Their four-week engagement in Halifax includes "School for Scandal," "Camille," "The Chiltern Hundreds" and "Queen Elizabeth Slept Here."

"The Canadian audience as we know it," says Oliver Gordon, "is the same as the English audience. They laugh in the same places and cry in the same places." He thought other English companies would tour Canada if it weren't for sterling restrictions. Perhaps some of them will take a tip from them and start in a modest way to build up a dollar reserve.

The players move to Saint John, N.B., for a week in November, followed by a two-night stand in Moncton, N.B., then cross to Newfoundland for an engagement ending Jan. 31. After a brief stop at Corner Brook, Nfld., the company starts its first central Canadian tour—at Hamilton, Feb. 8. It will then play London, St. Catharines, Kitchener, Ottawa, Peterborough and Toronto. It will return to Halifax March 29, go back to London, Ont., for a return engagement and then leave for England.

The chief experiment on this trip will be the presentation of a traditional British pantomime in Halifax and possibly, London. They've already found it successful in St. John's.

53 From Queen's Attend RCAMC Course

CAMP BORDEN (CP) — Fifty students and three faculty members of Queen's University attended a two-day indoctrination course given by the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps here.

Purpose of the course was to teach defence measures which would be taken in case of an atomic biological or chemical attack.

The faculty members who attended the sessions were Dr. W. A. Jones, professor of radiology and Kingston's director of civil defence, Dr. John Orr, professor of bacteriology, and Dr. J. A. Wyllie, professor of preventive medicine. The students are in their fifth year of medicine.

Escape Foiled

HAMILTON (CP)—A 33-year-old shopbreaking suspect broke both ankles Tuesday when he dropped from a building after inching hand-over-hand along hydro wires for nearly 100 feet in an attempt to escape police. Stanley Kadrowsky, 33, was charged with shopbreaking with intent.

Two Get U.S. Medal

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Two members of the RCAF's search and rescue unit, Sgt. J. Coutourier of Edmundston, N.B., and Sgt. R. W. S. Trent of Pathlow, Sask., have been awarded the United States Soldier's Medal for heroism. The pair made risky parachute jumps to search for survivors of a U.S. bomber crash at Trinity Bay, Nfld., last March.

Sex Exploitation

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's Press Council, a voluntary guardian of journalistic standards, Tuesday condemned the "unwholesome exploitation of sex" by some British papers. It said this treatment of sex was calculated to injure public morals and would be kept under review. The council, consisting of editorial and managerial representatives, was formed last July following recommendations of a government commission.

Extortion Charged

DETROIT (AP)—A Detroit contractor testified Tuesday that he gave an AFL Teamsters Union official $1,000 to keep peace with the union while he worked on a road contract. Louis A. Garavaglia Jr., said he gave the money to Daniel J. Keating, president of Pontiac, (Mich.) Local 614. He testified at the examination of six AFL Teamsters Union officials indicted by a grand jury on charges of conspiracy and extortion.

SHEER BEAUTY — Nancy Stevens, 20-year-old Texas Christian University baton twirler, didn't believe the weatherman's forecast of rain in Fort Worth and was caught with her shorts on. So a gallant photographer lent her this fetchingly transparent raincoat.

Britain Pushes Anti-Vice Drive

LONDON (Reuters)—An alarming rise in prostitution and sex crimes has shaken Britain into preparing the greatest anti-vice drive in her history.

The government has started a series of conferences with Scotland Yard and legal experts to pave the way for immediate measures as well as possible legislation.

Police estimate the number of prostitutes in London at 10,000.

Leading the preparations for the anti-vice drive is Home Secretary Sir David Maxwell Fyfe. The chief problem, demanding immediate action, is the increase in sex offences, including homosexuality. The number of persons convicted for these crimes has risen to 5,000 a year compared with just under half that number before the Second World War.

Recent convictions of prominent actors, politicians and others whose names are known to the public have provided a new impetus to Fyfe's campaign.

Gov't Won't Block Plane Competition Where Feasible

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent predicted Wednesday night that Canada's economic development will give more scope for competition among airlines and indicated his government will not block such a trend. He said the government is opposed to the "abuses" of competition where there is insufficient traffic for more than one operator, but added: "The government does not necessarily intend to guarantee every operator a permanent monopoly in his area."

In a speech to airline executives and aircraft manufacturers, the prime minister discussed an application by Canadian Pacific Airlines to run a cross-country air cargo service between Montreal and Vancouver. Existing government policy has given the government-owned Trans-Canada Air Lines a monopoly in east-west trunk services.

The cabinet this week will hear representations from both CPA and TCA on the issue.

TWO PRINCIPLES

Mr. St. Laurent said the cabinet decision will be based on two principles: what is best for the public, "not just for a short period but indefinitely," and what is best for the industry itself.

"We will endeavor to determine whether or not there is enough business in sight for two lines to serve the public at reasonable rates and with reasonable profit," he told members of the Air Industries and Transportation Association, at a dinner ending their three-day annual meeting.

PREFER COMPETITION

"Whichever way the decision goes now, it will not in the long run be a decision in favor of the perpetuation of monopoly conditions."

The government believed that as a general rule the public was best served under competitive conditions.

Police Unable To Identify Headless Body

MONTREAL (CP)—Police, faced with one of the city's most gruesome killings, today intensified a comb-out of missing-persons lists to identify the body of a headless man, found Wednesday wrapped in a canvas sheet in a deserted east-end alley.

They ruled out the possibility that the victim might be a longshoreman whose wife telephoned police her husband had been missing since late Tuesday night.

Although some 200 persons filed past the bullet-pierced remains in the morgue Wednesday, no one came forward who could say who the dead man was. Police said he may have been the victim of a "sadist" or a gangland slaying.

Police admitted they had several clues and that they hoped to get a break in the case soon. They would not discuss the matter further.

NO IDENTIFYING MARKS

They were hampered by lack of identifying marks. The body bore no scars, police said. Labels had been ripped from the green and black blanket in which the canvas-shrouded body was dumped. Hands and feet as well as he head had been chopped off, making identification more difficult.

Police said they hoped that an autopsy, started on the remains Wednesday night by Dr. Jean-Marie Roussel, medico-legal expert, might aid in solving the mystery. Preliminary checks showed the man was heavily-built, of average height and aged between 25 and 40.

He had been dead only a few hours, police said, when a call from a resident of Bourbonniere street led to finding of the bundle containing the body. It lay in a lane at the back of the houses.

Inquiries among residents failed to pin-point when it was dropped there. A truck driver reported seeing it at 5 a. m. Wednesday on his way to work. He did not examine it.

Nearby, a four-door sedan, its back seat stained with blood, and some newspapers, spotted with blood, were found.

1 Dead, 10 Hurt In Barge Blast

CHICAGO (AP)—One man was killed and 10 others of an 11-man crew were injured today when an oil barge carrying 500,000 gallons of gasoline exploded in Lake Michigan, three-quarters of a mile off Chicago's south side.

The boat, the Blue Comet, erupted into huge geysers of flames. Fireboats sped to the scene.

The injured crew members were reported in serious condition. Names were not immediately available.

The barge is owned by the James McWilliams Blue Line, Inc.

Canadian Exports Rise In September

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's exports edged ahead slightly during September to $338,200,000 from $337,000,000 last year, with increases showing in shipments to the United States, Britain and other Commonwealth countries.

Exports to Latin America and continental Europe declined, the bureau of statistics reported today. It attributed the sharp European drop to improved grain crops on the continent and greater supplies of goods in non-dollar countries.

Even with the small September increase, Canada's total exports in the first nine months of 19553 were down $83,000,000 to $3,067,500,000 from $3,150,600,000 last year.

Fashion Designer Sues Ex-King For Bill

PARIS (Reuters)—Top fashion designer Christian Dior today sued ex-king Farouk of Egypt for $15,000 alleging that he failed to pay for 11 dresses and coats he ordered before his abdication.

The articles were delivered to the Egyptian embassy in Paris for dispatch to Cairo.

Dior said the ex-king had advised him to claim payment from the new republican regime in Egypt. But they refused to meet the bill too, stating it was a purely private debt, Dior said.

The case is not expected to be heard for some months.

Milk Strike To Be Settled

NEW YORK (AP)—An end to the milk strike which began four days ago in the New York metropolitan area seemed imminent today when a mediator announced the "most troublesome issues" in the wage-hour dispute had been resolved.

The strike has cut off fresh milk from about 12,000,000 persons in the New York City area and northern New Jersey. Hospitals and schools have been supplied throughout the walkout.

An industry spokesman predicted a settlement would be reached this afternoon. He said pasteurizing and bottling will be resumed tonight and deliveries will be made Friday morning.

Thirteen thousand AFL teamsters went on strike at 200 milk plants last Sunday over a union demand for a $15 weekly wage raise and a 35-hour work week. Current wages range from $82 to $125 for a 40-hour week. The companies have offered boosts up to $2.10 a week.

Polio Disease Of Past In 10 Years–Doctor

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Poliomyelitis will become a disease of the past within the next 10 years, Dr. Morris Fishbein of Chicago predicted Wednesday.

Speaking to more than 100 doctors from southern Ontario and New York state, Dr. Fishbein, medical author and editor, said a vaccine discovered by Dr. Jonas Salk of Pittsburgh and the developing of the polio virus in monkey tissues by the Connaught laboratories in Toronto "will spell the doom of the disease."

Dr. Fishbein was guest lecturer at the Lincoln County Medical Association. He urged governments to allow a larger subsidy for medical research in the fight against polio, saying the money be repaid through eradication of crippling diseases.

Man Vanishes In Crowded Dept. Store

Holdup Takes Place In Bank Branch At Queen And Yonge

TORONTO (CP) — Police were on the lookout today for a short stocky man who held up a downtown branch of the Bank of Montreal Wednesday and made a clean getaway with $10,000 in a paper bag.

Police said the gunman slipped through their fingers by walking across an intersection and ducking into Eaton's department store at Queen and Yonge streets, a few yards from the bank.

Although a hundred officers and store detectives guarded the doors, the bandit is believed to have left the store by mingling with shoppers.

It was first reported that the man, described as short, dark and about 25, pulled off the robbery without a gun. However, police said this morning that bank teller Genevieve Andrews told them she saw him holding a revolver under his coat.

The man handed Miss Andrews a note shortly before the 3 p. m. closing time which said: "This is a holdup."

Miss Andrews stuffed the bag with bundles of currency—$100 bills, $50s and $20s. By the time she reached $10,000, the bag was full and there still was another $10,000 in the cage.

SOUNDS ALARM

As the bandit strolled out with his loot, Miss Andrews screamed "Holdup!" and teller Daisy McNeill in the next cage pressed an alarm bell.

Mrs. Grace McGrady, a customer who saw the man leave, told guard James Gibbons:

"I think that man has just held up the bank."

Mr. Gibbons reached the street in time to see the bandit walk into the department store.

By that time, a street-car with attached trailer blocked passage across the street.

Said Mr. Gibbons later:

"The street was too crowded for me to shoot. By the time I got into the store, he had disappeared into the crowd."

Within minutes the intersection was crowded with policemen.

At a late hour Wednesday night officers were still searching the department store.

Canada Ready To Boost Aid

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Canada is prepared to boost her contribution to the UN technical assistance program from the 1953 figure of $800,000 to a maximum of $1,500,000 in 1954 providing other countries make substantial contributions.

The contribution is subject to approval by Parliament.

Canada's readiness to increase her contribution was made known Tuesday by Senator Stanley McKeen of Vancouver in a statement to a closed meeting of a special UN committee considering technical assistance funds.

Report PoWs Now Reverse Stand, Will Hear Reds

PANMUNJOM (AP)—United States envoy Arthur Dean today proposed a fresh approach to the problem of arranging a Korean peace conference, but the Communists retorted with their angriest blast in four days of preliminary negotiations. Dean told the Reds to "stop the nonsense" of demanding seats for neutrals at a peace conference and get on with fixing a time and place for the political conference. When that job is completed, Dean said, he'll be willing to talk about who will attend.

Despite the tirade, Dean said the Communists showed a "good deal of interest" in his proposal to sidestep the agenda, cut off debate on the neutrals and discuss a time and place for the conference immediately.

NO DIRECT REPLY

The Reds did not reply directly to Dean's new formula, but the envoy said "we probably will hear from them tomorrow."

"We will give them a full opportunity to discuss the propositions I put up today," he added.

Meanwhile, the promise of a surprising announcement Friday touched off reports here today that balky anti-Communist Korean prisoners have agreed to abandon their stubborn refusal to attend interviews with Red "explainers."

Communist demands that the Koreans be forced to attend, at gunpoint if necessary, have all but wrecked the neutral nations repatriation commission.

Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the deadlocked commission, touched off the speculation with a cryptic statement that he would have a "surprising" announcement Friday.

NO AMPLIFICATION

Neither Thimayya nor other Indian officers would amplify Thimayya's remarks.

A reliable source said the announcement would conern the reluctant 7,800 North Korean prisoners.

The agreement to attend Red efforts to persuade them to return would be a major victory for Thimayya. The Indian general has fought to prevent a blow-up of the NNRC while striving to convince North Korean PoW leaders that they should attend.

Dean opened the two-hour, 20-minute peace conference session with his appeal.

When he finished, the North Korean foreign ministry representative, Ki Sok Bok, levelled a stinging attack at him.

Sight Wreckage As Plane ReportedMissing

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP)—A Commonwealth Pacific airliner with 19 persons aboard was reported missing today and a short time later an air-sea rescue unit reported sighting wreckage of a four-engined overseas plane southwest of the plane's airport destination.

The DC-6, inbound from Australia, had been missing for almost two hours before the wreckage was spotted.

The wreckage was in a hilly area southwest of Millbrae, a city close by the San Francisco international airport. The wreckage scene is about 15 miles south of San Francisco.

The plane left Honolulu at 8:45 Wednesday night and was due in San Francisco at 7:45 a. m. today. It was late. There was a good fuel reserve.

Ceiling was 1,200 feet, with scattered clouds. Visibility was about 10 miles.

When the plane didn't come in, the airport called the coast guard and trained radar instruments toward the approach line, but nothing could be seen.

FOG HEAVY

The pilot had been told to make an instrument approach because of a heavy fog over the hilly coastal area.

The plane reported to San Francisco international airport at 8:39 a. m. The pilot said he was over

Tax Exemption Will Be Kept

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has decided to continue the $1-a-day income tax exemption for Canadian servicemen in Korea, a defence department spokesman said today.

The government had been considering withdrawal of the exemption, which would have placed troops in the Far East on the same pay basis as those in Canada or Europe.

The spokesman said continuation of the exemption will mean that almost all troops in Korea and Japan still won't have to pay any income tax at all. The exemption has applied to Canadian servicemen of all ranks in the Far East since outbreak of the Korean War in 1950. Canadian servicemen elsewhere do not receive the exemption.

There has been no change in the government's decision, however, to cut off all gratuities and re-establishment credit for troops in the Far East, effective Oct. 31. The government attitude is that with the war halted in Korea, servicemen there should be no more entitled to gratuities and re-establishment credit than troops elsewhere, who do not get them.

Lawson Urges Canada House In New York

NEW YORK (CP) — Canadian Consul-General Ray Lawson has urged erection of a Canada House in New York, a $5,000,000, 18-storey modern building to house most Canadian enterprise in the metropolis under one roof.

It was no dream, he told the Canadian Club of New York in a speech Wednesday night. With their support and the support of other Canadian interests in New York it could become a reality within two years, and without cost to the Canadian taxpayer.

The idea, he said, was a personal one, but if reaction were favorable among Canadians here, he would try to get "early and favorable" consideration of the plan by the Canadian government.

Lawson spoke at the 50th anniversary of the Canadian Club of New York.

The consul-general said in his conception a Canada House would serve as a headquarters for Canadians and friends of Canada visiting or living in New York.

In it could be concentrated all Canadian government offices, Canadian transportation companies those Canadian businesses which wished to participate in the enterprise, and all Canadian organizations, such as the Canadian Club itself. He believed 80 per cent of the cost — which he estimated roughly at $5,000,000 for an 18-storey structure—could be amortized over 40 years.

Queen To Open New Session

LONDON (CP)—Parliament today formally wound up its second session since the election of 1951, and adjourned until Tuesday, when the Queen will open a new session.

The Queen Tuesday will read the speech prepared by the government which outlines its legislative proposals for the coming year.

The first session of the present Parliament opened in 1951 after Prime Minister Churchill's Conservatives wrested control of the House of Commons from the Labor party in the October election of that year.

The government now is studying preliminary arrangements for a five-power conference on Trieste after winning a Commons vote of approval for its handling of the explosive issue.

Prime Minister Churchill's forces took a 28-vote majority on the ballot, taken Wednesday night at the close of a lengthy debate.

Bus Rolls 20 Ft. Down Hill No Passengers Badly Hurt

PROSPECT HILL, Ont. (CP)—Fifteen passengers escaped with minor bruises and cuts when a Grey Coach Lines bus crashed through a guard rail and rolled down a 20-foot embankment Wednesday night. They praised bus driver Karl Garbe, 42, of Guelph, who got them out of their temporary trap.

Mr. Garbe opened emergency doors and instructed other men passengers how to open windows and help the people out of the bus. The vehicle collided with a truck tractor.

Donald O'Donnell of New Hamburg, believed to have been driving the new tractor en route to New Hamburg from Windsor, was treated in hospital at St. Marys for minor lacerations.

SWUNG SHARPLY

The bus driver told provincial police that he had to swing his bus sharply when the truck appeared to swerve into his path. The bus was enroute from Stratford to London.

The truck tractor, travelling west, turned completely around after the crash.

Mrs. Roy Ilford, London, had a bruise on her head; W. W. Revington Sr., of Lucan, had cuts about the mouth.

Other passengers who suffered bruises and slight shock were: Mrs. L. H. Doring, St. Thomas; Mrs. Alice Henry, London; Mrs. Oliver Edwards, Stratford; Bruce Cardwell, St. Marys; C. N. Metcalfe, Montreal; C. Jackin, Waterloo; Agnes Hollander, Waterloo; Mrs. Irene Murphy, Toronto; Mrs. Cora Brisson, Westminster Hospital, London; Mrs. John Corsican, R.R. 3, Lucan; Rev. N. C. Bethgate, London; W. J. Moore and Mrs. Elizabeth Moore, Guelph.

3 Die In Crash Driver Jailed

TORONTO (CP)—Peter Penak, 25, of Barrie, Ont., today was sentenced to six months for dangerous driving which caused an accident that killed three persons.

Penak drove a car that smashed into the rear of another March 20 near Newmarket, 25 miles north of Toronto. The gas tank on the other car exploded. Mrs. Alice Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. Hawkes Robinson, all of Newmarket, were burned to death.

Dr. Ward Smith testified a blood test on Penak after the accident showed enough alcohol to say he had been driving in an intoxicated condition.

Canadian Soldier Killed In Brawl

ISERLOHN, Germany (AP) — German police said tonight one Canadian soldier was killed and another seriously injured when the two fought in a workers' messhall near here today. Reason for the fight was not disclosed.

A first police report said there had been a melee between several soldiers. But the later statement said only two soldiers were involvd.

A spokesman at headquarters of the 27th Canadian Infantry Brigade said a statement on the incident would probably be issued Friday.

Weaker Sex?—Rubbish

Women Smarter Than Men Stunned Delegates Told

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Weaker sex?

Rubbish! says Dr. William G. Leman Jr., Philadelphia heart specialist, who stunned Oklahoma Clinical Society delegates (mostly male) with the bold statement:

"Women are smarter than men!"

This "weaker-sex myth," he said, just permits the ladies to live a less-exerting life—and outlive their male counterparts by an average of six to seven years.

"The man beyond 50 can't resist the temptation to shovel snow," said Leaman. "Men like to show off, to prove they are big and strong."

But by keeping alive the weaker-sex idea, women did not have to over-exert themselves to prove they still had their old vim and vigor.

Added proof to explode the age-old myth of female weakness was offered.

"Women can lose more blood.

"Women can stand more shock.

"They are far better drivers.

"They can go into a profession and hold their own provided men don't give them an inferiority complex.

"They can hold down a job, take care of a home and family, and, at the same time, guard the supposedly-stronger male."

As a finale, Dr. Leaman added: "It is a woman's world if she wants to admit it and claim it. But perhaps she would be unwise to do so."

Dr. Leaman is chairman of the department of medicine at the Women's Medical College of Pennsylvania.

Documented Indictment

29,815 Victims Of Korean War Atrocities

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States army has released a documented indictment of Communist atrocities in Korea in which it says probably 6,113 Americans died.

The statistics are not new. But it was the first time the army had given out grisly details of how captured Americans were dragged on death marches, roasted alive, lined up and shot.

To document the bleak words of the report, compiled by the army's war-crimes division and released Wednesday night, there were charts and graphs and photograps of bound, charred bodies.

The figures—of 29,815 "probable" deaths in atrocity cases, 6,113 were listed as Americans—were in line with earlier estimates. Ten Britons and 20 Australians were listed, but no Canadians.

APPROXIMATE TOTAL

After Col. James M. Hanley of a war-crimes investigation unit issued a statement in November, 1951, accusing the Reds of atrocities, the official estimate was that the total would "approximate 6,000."

But in the army's new report, what survivors had to say was grim reading—"one of the boys had no head; it seemed to have been mashed or beaten and was laying all over the road . . . the other GI had his eyes gouged out, and nothing remained where his eyes were except holes."

The charts and text indicated that most of the atrocities occurred in the first year of the war, when the Communists invaded South Korea and overran American and South Korean troops. There was a smaller upsurge of the graph line later when the Chinese entered the war and pushed Allied forces southward from the Yalu river.

To the Chinese were charged 27.3 per cent of the war crimes alleged. The North Korean Reds, who had only a fraction as many troops in the field as Communist China, were blamed as the greater barbarians.

SLAUGHTERED CIVILIANS

The army said "it is an interesting fact that the North Korean people's army slaughtered most civilians during September, 1950. Of these, 14,602 or 84.6 per cent were slain in the last four days of the month."

That included the "Taejon massacre" where the Reds were said to have killed the occupants of the South Korean city in batches of hundreds at a time.

What was not spelled out in the army's report was the reason for issuing the detailed account at this time. However, it issuance seemed related to a report to the United Nations three days ago by Dr. Charles Mayo, a UN delegate and famous American surgeon.

Dr. Mayo's report gave a scientific account of how the Reds compelled "confessions" from American war prisoners about germ warfare—a propaganda point often employed by the Communists.

There were clues to the army's reason in a statement by secretary Robert T. Stevens which accompanied the text.

He said releasing details of such "cold-blooded . . . torture and murder . . . is one of the best answers that can be given to anyone who questions the need for strong military defences."

Fear Angry Volcano May Take New Toll

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Krakatau, the island volcano which set off tidal waves killing 36,000 persons when it blew its top 70 years ago, is spewing ash and fire in a new series of eruptions.

The Indonesian government's volcanological service has reported more than 100 explosions from the craters of Krakatau in the last four days.

Shipping has been rerouted to avoid the fire-and-brimstone-belching island, which lies in the narrow Sunda straits between Java and Sumatra.

No damage or casualties have been recorded thus far.

Government observers on the west Java shore opposite the volcano said a terrific blast rocked the island Sunday morning. Shortly afterward, a cloud of sulphurous ash rose to a height of more than two miles. A series of 123 eruptions of varying intensity follo-

Farm Surplus Program Worries Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — The United States farm surplus disposal program has Canada a little worried but so far it has not endangered Canadian exports, federal officials said Wednesday.

The latest move which brought some concern here was the disclosure that Britain, traditionally Canada's major food market, is negotiating with the U.S. to buy some American surpluses for sterling.

A London dispatch said that grain, fats, butter, meat and meat products have been mentioned as being available.

The U.S. has huge food surpluses and has been authorized by Congress to accept as payment sterling or francs. Britain and other countries must pay in dollars for Canadian goods.

DUMPING BARRED

Officials here observed, however, that the American disposal program calls for shipment of the surpluses through channels that will not disrupt trade between friendly countries. It also bars "dumping" of the surpluses in importing countries at rock-bottom prices.

But there was some question here of how the Americans will interpret "dumping" and what final steps will be taken to unload the big American food stockpile.

A dispatch from Washington said that the U.K. will take $20,000,000 worth of U.S. tobacco.

Officials here maintained this will have no immediate impact on Canadian trade since the U.K. already has stated it will buy 25,000,000 pounds of Canadian flue-cured tobacco from the 1953 crop.

Find Prices Mixed On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were mixed in moderate early afternoon stock market trading today.

Industrials and golds were slightly lower. Base metals and western oils were higher. Uraniums were higher and Bathurst-area issues mostly quiet.

New Delhi, New Mylamaque, New Bidlamaque and Parbec traded more than 100,000 each for penny gains. New Norzone was over the 100,000-share mark for a half-cent loss. Steels and papers were lower. Utilities, strong in the forenoon, lost some strength, although they were still higher. Refining oils were strong and liquors retained their opening strength.

Western oils were no stronger as several principal issues gained amounts ranging to Pacific's 30 cents.

Waite Amulet and Sherritt-Gordon scored penny gains.

Milligan Advocates Two-Price Policy

NEW LISKEARD (CP)—C. A. Milligan, president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, advocates a basic farm policy to give Canadian farmers security and the introduction of a two-price system under which different prices could be set for produce exported and produce sold here.

Speaking to a meeting of the Timiskaming Agricultural Federation, Mr. Milligan said Britain, Denmark, The Netherlands and Sweden have farm policies guaranteeing farmers stable prices and enabling them to plan for the future.

"Industry operates on the two-price system," he said. "There is nothing to prevent agriculture from doing it."

3 Help Find Plane Crash

NORTH BAY (CP)—Three district members of the Ground Observer Corps are credited with pinpointing the crash of a CF-100 plane Tuesday night which killed its two-man crew—FO. Edward Andrew Charles, 23, and FO. Gerry Robert Ormiston, 22, both of Vancouver.

The observers are chief observer Edgar Edwards, his son, Sydney Edwards, and Russell Eckhart, all of the Restoule area 20 miles northwest of here.

The $700,000 all-weather jet fighter plunged into rugged bush country near Restoule while on a training flight from the RCAF station here. The ground observers reported seeing the 17-ton plane veer off from another jet and hurtle into a clump of trees. They heard an explosion and saw a ball of orange flames.

Wreckage was scattered over a half-mile radius. The fuselage burned fiercely and a crash crew found little more than a mass of broken and charred metal.

The three observers helped searchers find the wreckage and the pilot's body in rain and darkness early Wednesday. Later another search party found the navigator's body a third of a mile from the crash scene.

Roseneath Women At Area Convention

ROSENEATH — (WMS) —Delegates from Roseneath Women's Institutes attended the Belleville area WI convention at Belleville this week. The Belleville area is made up of six districts, West Northumberland, East Northumberland, North Hastings, East Hastings and Prince Edward County. This area includes sixty-one senior Women's Institutes branches and the five junior Women's Institutes.

The delegates from Roseneath attending were: Mrs. Louis Dowler, Mrs. Harold Taylor, Mrs. J. N. Lovelace, Mrs. Bart Thackeray and Mrs. Fred Murphy as convener of historical research for Belleville area and federation representative for the district of West Northumberland.

At the election of officers held on Tuesday, Mrs. Brown was re-elected convener of historical research for the area.

The coronation quilt, made by the members of Roseneath W. I. and a prizewinner at Roseneath Fair was on display there.

Machinists Accept 8-Cent Increase

MONTREAL (CP)—The International Association of Machinists (AFL-TLC), representing 8,000 workers at Canadair, Ltd., has accepted an across-the-board increase of eight cents an hour for the employees. The increase is effective from Oct. 1.

Next June 1, working hours will be reduced from 45 to 42½ hours a week.

The workers now will be paid an average hourly of $1.48.

BANDIT CLEVER

The bandit was clever in his method, police admitted, but was also very lucky.

According to police, bandits usually steer clear of a bank at a main downtown intersection for several reasons. First, traffic may slow down or block a getaway.

Second, there is a heavier concentration of police officers in downtown districts. Policemen are stationed at most of the main intersections throughout the day.

Third, there is the increased chance the bandit will be noticed and later identified by one of the many citizens passing.

On Feb. 13, 1940, the Canadian Bank of Commerce on Yonge St at Gould St. was held up and for that robbery, Toronto businessman George Precious, alias Jerry Smith, was sentenced to 12 years in Kingston Penitentiary on March 29, 1940. He died there six months later.

Gov't Making Major Changes

OTTAWA (CP)—Major changes among top officials of government transportation agencies were announced by Prime Minister St. Laurent Wednesday.

Jean C. Lessard, 49, has resigned as deputy minister of transport and chairman of the Canadian Maritime commission to enter private business, and his resignation has brought about these shifts:

Carl W. West, 62, director of canal services, becomes senior deputy minister in charge of marine affairs generally, departmental administration and special projects such as the St. Lawrence seaway.

John R. Baldwin, 41, chairman of the air transport board, becomes deputy minister for air services in charge of civil aviation, communication and meteorological matters. He remains board chairman for the time being.

Louis C. Audette, 46, member of the Maritime commission, becomes its chairman. He will be the first full-time chairman in almost three years.

Mr. West is appointed to the commission to round out its three-man membership.

Sunday School Vans Explained To WA

LAKEFIELD (ENS) — A large attendance was present on Tuesday evening when the Women's Auxiliary of St. John the Baptist (Anglican) Church held their annual Thank-offering meeting in the Parish Hall.

President Mrs. Fred Dainton, presided and the scripture was read by Miss Florence Atwood.

Mrs. H. Mainland of Norwood was guest speaker and gave an address on "The Sunday School Van" which is used to bring the Gospel to outlying districts. The speaker had spent a month this summer in Saskatchewan as a teacher with such a van and recalled many instances and experiences while there.

She was introduced by Mrs. H. E. Peasgood of Norwood, who in turn, had been introduced to the Lakefield audience by Mrs. L. J. Delaney, wife of the rector of St. John's, and thanked by Mrs. B. Q. Dench.

The benediction was pronounced by the Rev. H. E. Peasgood of St. Alban's Church, Peterborough, following which refreshments were served.

Savings Bond Sale Reaches New High

OTTAWA (CP) — Sales of Canada savings bonds soared to a new high of $158,214,000 in the first eight days of the current campaign, the Bank of Canada reported today.

This was more than double the $73,000,000 sold in the similar 1952 period, the bank said. The number of buyers expanded to 435,228 from 225,000 a year ago.

All regions showed sharp gains. Bank officials said this strong trend to pile up savings may help counter the influences of heavy instalment buying by Canadians.

Sales through payroll savings plans rose in the eight days to $104,200,000 from $58,678,000 last year.

Falangists Demand Gibraltar Return

MADRID (AP)—More than 100,000 cheering Falangists screamed demands in Madrid today for the return of Gibraltar to Spain.

They had massed in and around the Chamartin soccer stadium as part of the celebrations of the 20th birthday of the Falangist party—the only one allowed in Spain.

Generalissimo Franco addressed the crowd—officially estimated at 150,000—but made no mention of the British naval base.

Emperor Asks People Stick To Constitution

TOKYO (Reuters) — Emperor Hirohito today urged the Japanese people to stick strictly to the Allied-inspired constitution of 1946 to build a "cultural, democratic nation" in the interests of world peace and democracy.

The 52-year-old emperor, opening a new session of the Diet, said the constitution aspired to lead Japan to eternal peace and prosperity, but much remained to be done.

Says Gold Mine Strike True Battle For Liberty

TIMMINS (CP) — Kenneth Bryden, secretary of the Ontario CCF party and former deputy labor minister in the Saskatchewan government, said Wednesday night the strike which has closed 12 northern gold mines "is a union battle for liberty under a bosses' government."

Addressing a meeting here launching a CCF campaign to raise funds for the more than 8,000 miners on strike in northern Ontario and northwestern Quebec, Mr. Bryden said the strikers were upholding their basic and fundamental rights in the walkout and should be accorded them by law.

"I would suggest that the kind of government you have is a significant factor in the situation," he said. "Right now it's a bosses' government which will buckle before bosses' arguments."

NOT FAIR PROPORTION

He said much of the world's wealth is produced in this northern area and "far too much of it goes out of the area."

"I have had an opportunity to see some of the homes of those who get the lion's share of this wealth," Mr. Bryden said. "I would like you to see some of the edifices in which live the people who say it's impossible to pay more wages."

He contrasted the $60 a week minimum pay expected by southern Ontario workers for a 40-hour week with the amount paid northern Ontario miners for a 48-hour week. He said it meant a difference of about 20 per cent.

"Is there any reason why you people in northern Ontario should be second-class citizens?" he asked.

He said there was no "conceivable argument" against the check-off system sought by the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) for its striking members.

"Employers are willing to make payroll deductions for bonds, income tax and other purposes. Then why not for the check-off?"

Wanting More UN Watchdogs

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) The Western Big Three were reported ready today to urge a United Nations Security Council rebuke against Israel for the recent border killings in an adjoining Arab village and to call for more UN "watchdogs" in the troubled area.

Abba S. Eban, Israeli chief delegate, also served notice that he intended to go over the whole Middle East security question before the council this afternoon. Eban accused the Arab states Wednesday night of conniving to keep up tension in Palestine.

Western sources said Britain, France and the United States would submit a resolution to the council this afternoon denouncing the armed Israeli raid on the Jordan village of Kibya, which cost 53 Arab lives. They said the resolution also would call for more truce supervisors in Palestine to guard the peace along the Arab-Jewish borders.

Dispatches from London said the Big Three also were considering asking for an automatic arms embargo against whichever side the council finds guilty of violating the truce agreements in the future.

Says Salaries Out Of Line

TORONTO (CP) — Salaries of pathologists and radiologists should be kept "within limits" speakers at the Ontario Hospital Association convention said Wednesday.

They should not be allowed to reach three, four and five times the salary paid the hospital superintendent.

R. J. Weatherill of Toronto said radiologists and pathologists are "playing hospitals one against the other for salary advantage" and urged that no pathologist be paid on a basis of the gross intake of his department.

Some specialists were paid a salary, he said, but they prefer a retainer because it is more favorable for income tax purposes.

Lakefield Group Plans Christmas Bazaar

LAKEFIELD — Plans for the Christmas Bazaar, held each year by the Missionary and Service Club of the United Church, were outlined by Mrs. C. H. Hunter, when the club met at the home of Mrs. S. E. Richardson for the October meeting. The bazaar will be held December 4, in the Sunday School rooms.

Mrs. Robert McCracken is general convener and other conveners are: kitchen, Mrs. Richardson; handicraft, Mrs. J. Keller; home baking, Mrs. Alex Graham; fish pond, Mrs. Thos. Payton aprons, Mrs. Clare Chittick; white elephants, Mrs. A. W. Newson; tea table, Mrs. Hunter; Mission Band, Mrs. G. Poole and advertising, Mrs. McCracken.

President, Mrs. W. H. Fife, presided for the business meeting and treasurer, Miss Merle Crawford, reported $350 in the treasury. It was decided to donate $100 to the Peterborough Presbyterial; $50 to the Rev. Harold Steed of Africa; $200 to the Church Extension Fund and $25 to the Sunday School. Additional funds will be realized from the talent money and the Christmas bazaar.

Mrs. Douglas Davis presented the plan to be followed for catering to a wedding in November. She was assisted in planning by Mrs. G. E. Renwick.

Members were asked to plant pots of bulbs to be given to shut-ins during the winter and to notify Mrs. Alex Graham or Mrs. S. A. Grylls when they heard of such cases.

The nominating committee, Mrs. Allen Graham, Mrs. George Tanner and Mrs. A. W. Steward were asked to present their report at the next meeting. Mrs. H. C. Wolfraim announced the sectional rally of the WMS at Fairview United Church.

Literature secretary, Miss Irene Madill, reported that 168 books had been read to date.

Mrs. Carmen Payne was in charge of the program and led in prayer. Mrs. Raymond Jackman sang a solo, accompanied by Miss Helen Kelly and a talk on "Stewardship" was given by Mrs. P. H. Darling, who was thanked by Mrs. W. W. Leonard.

18 Nations Parade Soldiers For Ridgway

SEOUL (AP) — Eighteen nations paraded their finest fighting men before Gen. Matthew Ridgway today in ceremonies honoring the U.S. army chief of staff. He is visiting Korea where he commanded the Eighth Army in 1950 and 1951 before becoming supreme commander in Europe.

More than 6,500 men from 47 military units—including the 25th Canadian Brigade—with 311 flags and colors and more than 1,000 battle streamers, swung past Ridgway in the ceremonies behind the Korean front line.

Glee Club Meets

MARMORA (ENS)—The Glee Club of St. Andrew's United Church met on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Martha Wilkes for the October meeting. The president, Mrs. Annie Lowery was in the chair and there was a fair attendance of members. The opening excerises included the reading of Scripture by Mrs. Charles Sopha. Constituting the program was a series of readings to which each member contributed.

Wore 'Bikini' 1900 Years Ago

LONDON (Reuters)—A pair of daring briefs, worn by a girl at least 1,900 years ago, have been found during deep excavations in the heart of London, archeologists said today.

The leather scanties, remarkably similar to the bottom half of the 20th century Bikini bathing suit, are in almost perfect condition. No top section was found.

Archeologists said a slim dancing girl or woman athlete probably wore the garment between 70 and 85 A.D. when London was under Roman occupation. It is similar to those worn by dancing girls depicted in a mosaic pavement of the same period found in Sicily.

The briefs, which lace up both sides, were found with a collection of pottery at the bottom of a Roman-built well in London's financial district. The timber-lined well, pottery and "Bikini" have been removed to London's Guildhall Museum.

Says Canadian Artists Need Nude Models

LONDON (Reuters) — Canadian artists should concentrate on nude models, says Robert Pilot, president of the Royal Canadian Academy, who arrived here today to open an exhibition by Canadian artists.

Pilot said that about 80 per cent of Canadian artists were painting landscapes "depicting the wastelands and the wilder depths of the country.

"We now have a preponderance of landscape painters, and very few human figure painters," he said.

Pilot, who comes from Montreal and studied in Paris, said the United States art influence is "debasing" the French-Canadian attitude to art.

Warsaw Women Plan Bazaar For November

WARSAW (ENS) — Warsaw United Church Women's Association met Wednesday afternoon in the church basement with the president Mrs. Harold Payne in charge.

Mrs. H. Payne gave a reading "Mary and Her Bible." Mrs. G. Dyson was in charge of the devotional period and everyone read the scripture together. After the devotional period Mrs. Dyson gave two readings.

Miss Clara McCracken gave a reading about an old timer and a modern gentleman comparing present day methods with old methods. Mrs. Dyson conducted a quiz on animals.

Final arrangements were made for a tea and bazaar to be held Nov. 18 in the church basement featuring fancy work, home-cooking and a fish pond. The meeting was closed with the benediction and a lunch was served by hostesses Mrs. Sherwood Payne, Mrs. Sherman Nelson and Mrs. Ethel Lonsberry.

Citizens Soon Able To Dial Own Long-Distance Calls

TORONTO (CP) — Canadians before very long will be able to dial long-distance calls from their own telephones without bringing in an operator, Thomas W. Eadie, president of Bell Telephone Company of Canada said today.

In a speech prepared for delivery to the Empire Club, he said one-third of the long distance calls now handled by Bell are dialed direct to the called telephone by an operator, and now, "We are working towards the day when your operator—or you—will be dialing direct to telephones in practically every exchange in Canada and the United States."

Mr. Eadie said current telephone developments would have been classed as "science fiction" a few years ago. New switching equipment will receive information about a long distance call, look up routes on an electronic card index, remember the digits dialed while it is selecting and trying routes and, when the call is on its way, get to work on a new call "without even pausing for breath."

Two Railways Report Drop In Net Earnings

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways today reported decreases in net earnings for the first nine months of this year compared with the corresponding period of 1952.

CPR's decrease was $933,975. The railway reported 1953 net earnings of $17,871,302 against $18,805,277 last year.

The CNR net revenue for the first nine months this year totalled $23,991,000 compared with $29,152,000, a decrease of $5,161,000.

CPR reported gross earnings of $39,326,680 for September, compared with $39,073,033 for the corresponding months last year, an increase of $253,647.

NET EARNINGS

Net earnings were $2,783,471 against $3,106,750, a decrease of $323,279 from September 1952. Working expenses were $36,543,209, an increase of $576,926 over the preceding year's figure of $35,966,283.

For September, CNR showed gross operating revenues of $59,797,000 compared with $57,590,000 in the corresponding month last year, an increase of $2,207,000.

Net revenue for the month was $3,905,000 against $6,879,000, a decrease of $2,974,000. Operating expenses totalled $55,892,000, compared with $50,711,000 an increase of $5,181,000.

Will Disavow Troops Remaining In Burma

BANGKOK (AP) — Nationalist China today assured Thailand and the United States that it will disavow all guerrilla forces remaining in Burma following the evacuation of troops willing to move to Formosa.

A communique issued by a three-nation joint military committee said the Nationalists have agreed to cut off all supplies for guerrilla units still in Burma.

About 2,000 guerrillas and dependents will start moving out of Burma next month.

It has been estimated that 12,000 Nationalist guerrillas have been operating along the Burma-China border—many of them former Nationalist soldiers who fled into Burma ahead of Communist armies in 1949.

Unveil Paintings Of 22 Canadian Cities

LONDON (CP)—Paintings of 22 Canadian cities—22 major works and 28 sketches—were unveiled in facsimile to London reporters today at a press preview of the Seagram collection of "Cities of Canada."

The official opening is next Monday when Field Marshal Earl and Countess Alexander attend with the Canadian high commissioner, Norman Robertson.

The collection will be open to the public here for two weeks and then go on to Paris, Stockholm-Amsterdam and Madrid. Then it will tour Canada.

Farm Surplus Program Worries Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — The United States farm surplus disposal program has Canada a little worried but so far it has not endangered Canadian exports, federal officials said Wednesday.

The latest move which brought some concern here was the disclosure that Britain, traditionally Canada's major food market, is negotiating with the U.S. to buy some American surpluses for sterling.

A London dispatch said that grain, fats, butter, meat and meat products have been mentioned as being available.

The U.S. has huge food surpluses and has been authorized by Congress to accept as payment sterling or francs. Britain and other countries must pay in dollars for Canadian goods.

DUMPING BARRED

Officials here observed, however, that the American disposal program calls for shipment of the surpluses through channels that will not disrupt trade between friendly countries. It also bars "dumping" of the surpluses in importing countries at rock-bottom prices.

But there was some question here of how the Americans will interpret "dumping" and what final steps will be taken to unload the big American food stockpile.

A dispatch from Washington said that the U.K. will take $20,000,000 worth of U.S. tobacco.

Officials here maintained this will have no immediate impact on Canadian trade since the U.K. already has stated it will buy 25,000,000 pounds of Canadian flue-cured tobacco from the 1953 crop.

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were mixed in moderate early afternoon stock market trading today.

Industrials and golds were slightly lower. Base metals and western oils were higher. Uraniums were higher and Bathurst-area issues mostly quiet.

New Delhi, New Mylamaque, New Bidlamaque and Parbec traded more than 100,000 each for penny gains. New Norzone was over the 100,000-share mark for a half-cent loss. Steels and papers were lower. Utilities, strong in the forenoon, lost some strength, although they were still higher. Refining oils were strong and liquors retained their opening strength.

Western oils were no stronger as several principal issues gained amounts ranging to Pacific's 30 cents.

Waite Amulet and Sherritt-Gordon scored penny gains.

Milligan Advocates Two-Price Policy

NEW LISKEARD (CP)—C. A. Milligan, president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, advocates a basic farm policy to give Canadian farmers security and the introduction of a two-price system under which different prices could be set for produce exported and produce sold here.

Speaking to a meeting of the Timiskaming Agricultural Federation, Mr. Milligan said Britain, Denmark, The Netherlands and Sweden have farm policies guaranteeing farmers stable prices and enabling them to plan for the future.

"Industry operates on the two-price system," he said. "There is nothing to prevent agriculture from doing it."

3 Help Find Plane Crash

NORTH BAY (CP)—Three district members of the Ground Observer Corps are credited with pinpointing the crash of a CF-100 plane Tuesday night which killed its two-man crew—FO. Edward Andrew Charles, 23, and FO. Gerry Robert Ormiston, 22, both of Vancouver.

The observers are chief observer Edgar Edwards, his son, Sydney Edwards, and Russell Eckhart, all of the Restoule area 20 miles northwest of here.

The $700,000 all-weather jet fighter plunged into rugged bush country near Restoule while on a training flight from the RCAF station here. The ground observers reported seeing the 17-ton plane veer off from another jet and hurtle into a clump of trees. They heard an explosion and saw a ball of orange flames.

Wreckage was scattered over a half-mile radius. The fuselage burned fiercely and a crash crew found little more than a mass of broken and charred metal.

The three observers helped searchers find the wreckage and the pilot's body in rain and darkness early Wednesday. Later another search party found the navigator's body a third of a mile from the crash scene.

Roseneath Women At Area Convention

ROSENEATH — (WMS) —Delegates from Roseneath Women's Institutes attended the Belleville area WI convention at Belleville this week. The Belleville area is made up of six districts, West Northumberland, East Northumberland, North Hastings, East Hastings and Prince Edward County. This area includes sixty-one senior Women's Institutes branches and the five junior Women's Institutes.

The delegates from Roseneath attending were: Mrs. Louis Dowler, Mrs. Harold Taylor, Mrs. J. N. Lovelace, Mrs. Bart Thackeray and Mrs. Fred Murphy as convener of historical research for Belleville area and federation representative for the district of West Northumberland.

At the election of officers held on Tuesday, Mrs. Brown was re-elected convener of historical research for the area.

The coronation quilt, made by the members of Roseneath W. I. and a prizewinner at Roseneath Fair was on display there.

Machinists Accept 8-Cent Increase

MONTREAL (CP)—The International Association of Machinists (AFL-TLC), representing 8,000 workers at Canadair, Ltd., has accepted an across-the-board increase of eight cents an hour for the employees. The increase is effective from Oct. 1.

Next June 1, working hours will be reduced from 45 to 42½ hours a week.

The workers now will be paid an average hourly of $1.48.

BANDIT CLEVER

The bandit was clever in his method, police admitted, but was also very lucky.

According to police, bandits usually steer clear of a bank at a main downtown intersection for several reasons. First, traffic may slow down or block a getaway.

Second, there is a heavier concentration of police officers in downtown districts. Policemen are stationed at most of the main intersections throughout the day.

Third, there is the increased chance the bandit will be noticed and later identified by one of the many citizens passing.

On Feb. 13, 1940, the Canadian Bank of Commerce on Yonge St at Gould St. was held up and for that robbery, Toronto businessman George Precious, alias Jerry Smith, was sentenced to 12 years in Kingston Penitentiary on March 29, 1940. He died there six months later.

Gov't Making Major Changes

OTTAWA (CP)—Major changes among top officials of government transportation agencies were announced by Prime Minister St. Laurent Wednesday.

Jean C. Lessard, 49, has resigned as deputy minister of transport and chairman of the Canadian Maritime commission to enter private business, and his resignation has brought about these shifts:

Carl W. West, 62, director of canal services, becomes senior deputy minister in charge of marine affairs generally, departmental administration and special projects such as the St. Lawrence seaway.

John R. Baldwin, 41, chairman of the air transport board, becomes deputy minister for air services in charge of civil aviation, communication and meteorological matters. He remains board chairman for the time being.

Louis C. Audette, 46, member of the Maritime commission, becomes its chairman. He will be the first full-time chairman in almost three years.

Mr. West is appointed to the commission to round out its three-man membership.

Sunday School Vans Explained To WA

LAKEFIELD (ENS) — A large attendance was present on Tuesday evening when the Women's Auxiliary of St. John the Baptist (Anglican) Church held their annual Thank-offering meeting in the Parish Hall.

President Mrs. Fred Dainton, presided and the scripture was read by Miss Florence Atwood.

Mrs. H. Mainland of Norwood was guest speaker and gave an address on "The Sunday School Van" which is used to bring the Gospel to outlying districts. The speaker had spent a month this summer in Saskatchewan as a teacher with such a van and recalled many instances and experiences while there.

She was introduced by Mrs. H. E. Peasgood of Norwood, who in turn, had been introduced to the Lakefield audience by Mrs. L. J. Delaney, wife of the rector of St. John's, and thanked by Mrs. B. Q. Dench.

The benediction was pronounced by the Rev. H. E. Peasgood of St. Alban's Church, Peterborough, following which refreshments were served.

Savings Bond Sale Reaches New High

OTTAWA (CP) — Sales of Canada savings bonds soared to a new high of $158,214,000 in the first eight days of the current campaign, the Bank of Canada reported today.

This was more than double the $73,000,000 sold in the similar 1952 period, the bank said. The number of buyers expanded to 435,228 from 225,000 a year ago.

All regions showed sharp gains. Bank officials said this strong trend to pile up savings may help counter the influences of heavy instalment buying by Canadians.

Sales through payroll savings plans rose in the eight days to $104,200,000 from $58,678,000 last year.

Falangists Demand Gibraltar Return

MADRID (AP)—More than 100,000 cheering Falangists screamed demands in Madrid today for the return of Gibraltar to Spain.

They had massed in and around the Chamartin soccer stadium as part of the celebrations of the 20th birthday of the Falangist party—the only one allowed in Spain.

Generalissimo Franco addressed the crowd—officially estimated at 150,000—but made no mention of the British naval base.

Emperor Asks People Stick To Constitution

TOKYO (Reuters) — Emperor Hirohito today urged the Japanese people to stick strictly to the Allied-inspired constitution of 1946 to build a "cultural, democratic nation" in the interests of world peace and democracy.

The 52-year-old emperor, opening a new session of the Diet, said the constitution aspired to lead Japan to eternal peace and prosperity, but much remained to be done.

Says Gold Mine Strike True Battle For Liberty

TIMMINS (CP) — Kenneth Bryden, secretary of the Ontario CCF party and former deputy labor minister in the Saskatchewan government, said Wednesday night the strike which has closed 12 northern gold mines "is a union battle for liberty under a bosses' government."

Addressing a meeting here launching a CCF campaign to raise funds for the more than 8,000 miners on strike in northern Ontario and northwestern Quebec, Mr. Bryden said the strikers were upholding their basic and fundamental rights in the walkout and should be accorded them by law.

"I would suggest that the kind of government you have is a significant factor in the situation," he said. "Right now it's a bosses' government which will buckle before bosses' arguments."

NOT FAIR PROPORTION

He said much of the world's wealth is produced in this northern area and "far too much of it goes out of the area."

"I have had an opportunity to see some of the homes of those who get the lion's share of this wealth," Mr. Bryden said. "I would like you to see some of the edifices in which live the people who say it's impossible to pay more wages."

He contrasted the $60 a week minimum pay expected by southern Ontario workers for a 40-hour week with the amount paid northern Ontario miners for a 48-hour week. He said it meant a difference of about 20 per cent.

"Is there any reason why you people in northern Ontario should be second-class citizens?" he asked.

He said there was no "conceivable argument" against the check-off system sought by the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) for its striking members.

"Employers are willing to make payroll deductions for bonds, income tax and other purposes. Then why not for the check-off?"

Wanting More UN Watchdogs

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) The Western Big Three were reported ready today to urge a United Nations Security Council rebuke against Israel for the recent border killings in an adjoining Arab village and to call for more UN "watchdogs" in the troubled area.

Abba S. Eban, Israeli chief delegate, also served notice that he intended to go over the whole Middle East security question before the council this afternoon. Eban accused the Arab states Wednesday night of conniving to keep up tension in Palestine.

Western sources said Britain, France and the United States would submit a resolution to the council this afternoon denouncing the armed Israeli raid on the Jordan village of Kibya, which cost 53 Arab lives. They said the resolution also would call for more truce supervisors in Palestine to guard the peace along the Arab-Jewish borders.

Dispatches from London said the Big Three also were considering asking for an automatic arms embargo against whichever side the council finds guilty of violating the truce agreements in the future.

Says Salaries Out Of Line

TORONTO (CP) — Salaries of pathologists and radiologists should be kept "within limits" speakers at the Ontario Hospital Association convention said Wednesday.

They should not be allowed to reach three, four and five times the salary paid the hospital superintendent.

R. J. Weatherill of Toronto said radiologists and pathologists are "playing hospitals one against the other for salary advantage" and urged that no pathologist be paid on a basis of the gross intake of his department.

Some specialists were paid a salary, he said, but they prefer a retainer because it is more favorable for income tax purposes.

Lakefield Group Plans Christmas Bazaar

LAKEFIELD — Plans for the Christmas Bazaar, held each year by the Missionary and Service Club of the United Church, were outlined by Mrs. C. H. Hunter, when the club met at the home of Mrs. S. E. Richardson for the October meeting. The bazaar will be held December 4, in the Sunday School rooms.

Mrs. Robert McCracken is general convener and other conveners are: kitchen, Mrs. Richardson; handicraft, Mrs. J. Keller; home baking, Mrs. Alex Graham; fish pond, Mrs. Thos. Payton aprons, Mrs. Clare Chittick; white elephants, Mrs. A. W. Newson; tea table, Mrs. Hunter; Mission Band, Mrs. G. Poole and advertising, Mrs. McCracken.

President, Mrs. W. H. Fife, presided for the business meeting and treasurer, Miss Merle Crawford, reported $350 in the treasury. It was decided to donate $100 to the Peterborough Presbyterial; $50 to the Rev. Harold Steed of Africa; $200 to the Church Extension Fund and $25 to the Sunday School. Additional funds will be realized from the talent money and the Christmas bazaar.

Mrs. Douglas Davis presented the plan to be followed for catering to a wedding in November. She was assisted in planning by Mrs. G. E. Renwick.

Members were asked to plant pots of bulbs to be given to shut-ins during the winter and to notify Mrs. Alex Graham or Mrs. S. A. Grylls when they heard of such cases.

The nominating committee, Mrs. Allen Graham, Mrs. George Tanner and Mrs. A. W. Steward were asked to present their report at the next meeting. Mrs. H. C. Wolfraim announced the sectional rally of the WMS at Fairview United Church.

Literature secretary, Miss Irene Madill, reported that 168 books had been read to date.

Mrs. Carmen Payne was in charge of the program and led in prayer. Mrs. Raymond Jackman sang a solo, accompanied by Miss Helen Kelly and a talk on "Stewardship" was given by Mrs. P. H. Darling, who was thanked by Mrs. W. W. Leonard.

18 Nations Parade Soldiers For Ridgway

SEOUL (AP) — Eighteen nations paraded their finest fighting men before Gen. Matthew Ridgway today in ceremonies honoring the U.S. army chief of staff. He is visiting Korea where he commanded the Eighth Army in 1950 and 1951 before becoming supreme commander in Europe.

More than 6,500 men from 47 military units—including the 25th Canadian Brigade—with 311 flags and colors and more than 1,000 battle streamers, swung past Ridgway in the ceremonies behind the Korean front line.

Glee Club Meets

MARMORA (ENS)—The Glee Club of St. Andrew's United Church met on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Martha Wilkes for the October meeting. The president, Mrs. Annie Lowery was in the chair and there was a fair attendance of members. The opening excerises included the reading of Scripture by Mrs. Charles Sopha. Constituting the program was a series of readings to which each member contributed.

Says Canadian Artists Need Nude Models

LONDON (Reuters) — Canadian artists should concentrate on nude models, says Robert Pilot, president of the Royal Canadian Academy, who arrived here today to open an exhibition by Canadian artists.

Pilot said that about 80 per cent of Canadian artists were painting landscapes "depicting the wastelands and the wilder depths of the country.

"We now have a preponderance of landscape painters, and very few human figure painters," he said.

Pilot, who comes from Montreal and studied in Paris, said the United States art influence is "debasing" the French-Canadian attitude to art.

Wore 'Bikini' 1900 Years Ago

LONDON (Reuters)—A pair of daring briefs, worn by a girl at least 1,900 years ago, have been found during deep excavations in the heart of London, archeologists said today.

The leather scanties, remarkably similar to the bottom half of the 20th century Bikini bathing suit, are in almost perfect condition. No top section was found.

Archeologists said a slim dancing girl or woman athlete probably wore the garment between 70 and 85 A.D. when London was under Roman occupation. It is similar to those worn by dancing girls depicted in a mosaic pavement of the same period found in Sicily.

The briefs, which lace up both sides, were found with a collection of pottery at the bottom of a Roman-built well in London's financial district. The timber-lined well, pottery and "Bikini" have been removed to London's Guildhall Museum.

Warsaw Women Plan Bazaar For November

WARSAW (ENS) — Warsaw United Church Women's Association met Wednesday afternoon in the church basement with the president Mrs. Harold Payne in charge.

Mrs. H. Payne gave a reading "Mary and Her Bible." Mrs. G. Dyson was in charge of the devotional period and everyone read the scripture together. After the devotional period Mrs. Dyson gave two readings.

Miss Clara McCracken gave a reading about an old timer and a modern gentleman comparing present day methods with old methods. Mrs. Dyson conducted a quiz on animals.

Final arrangements were made for a tea and bazaar to be held Nov. 18 in the church basement featuring fancy work, home-cooking and a fish pond. The meeting was closed with the benediction and a lunch was served by hostesses Mrs. Sherwood Payne, Mrs. Sherman Nelson and Mrs. Ethel Lonsberry.

Citizens Soon Able To Dial Own Long-Distance Calls

TORONTO (CP) — Canadians before very long will be able to dial long-distance calls from their own telephones without bringing in an operator, Thomas W. Eadie, president of Bell Telephone Company of Canada said today.

In a speech prepared for delivery to the Empire Club, he said one-third of the long distance calls now handled by Bell are dialed direct to the called telephone by an operator, and now, "We are working towards the day when your operator—or you—will be dialing direct to telephones in practically every exchange in Canada and the United States."

Mr. Eadie said current telephone developments would have been classed as "science fiction" a few years ago. New switching equipment will receive information about a long distance call, look up routes on an electronic card index, remember the digits dialed while it is selecting and trying routes and, when the call is on its way, get to work on a new call "without even pausing for breath."

Two Railways Report Drop In Net Earnings

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways today reported decreases in net earnings for the first nine months of this year compared with the corresponding period of 1952.

CPR's decrease was $933,975. The railway reported 1953 net earnings of $17,871,302 against $18,805,277 last year.

The CNR net revenue for the first nine months this year totalled $23,991,000 compared with $29,152,000, a decrease of $5,161,000.

CPR reported gross earnings of $39,326,680 for September, compared with $39,073,033 for the corresponding months last year, an increase of $253,647.

NET EARNINGS

Net earnings were $2,783,471 against $3,106,750, a decrease of $323,279 from September 1952. Working expenses were $36,543,209, an increase of $576,926 over the preceding year's figure of $35,966,283.

For September, CNR showed gross operating revenues of $59,797,000 compared with $57,590,000 in the corresponding month last year, an increase of $2,207,000.

Net revenue for the month was $3,905,000 against $6,879,000, a decrease of $2,974,000. Operating expenses totalled $55,892,000, compared with $50,711,000 an increase of $5,181,000.

Will Disavow Troops Remaining In Burma

BANGKOK (AP) — Nationalist China today assured Thailand and the United States that it will disavow all guerrilla forces remaining in Burma following the evacuation of troops willing to move to Formosa.

A communique issued by a three-nation joint military committee said the Nationalists have agreed to cut off all supplies for guerrilla units still in Burma.

About 2,000 guerrillas and dependents will start moving out of Burma next month.

It has been estimated that 12,000 Nationalist guerrillas have been operating along the Burma-China border—many of them former Nationalist soldiers who fled into Burma ahead of Communist armies in 1949.

Unveil Paintings Of 22 Canadian Cities

LONDON (CP)—Paintings of 22 Canadian cities—22 major works and 28 sketches—were unveiled in facsimile to London reporters today at a press preview of the Seagram collection of "Cities of Canada."

The official opening is next Monday when Field Marshal Earl and Countess Alexander attend with the Canadian high commissioner, Norman Robertson.

The collection will be open to the public here for two weeks and then go on to Paris, Stockholm-Amsterdam and Madrid. Then it will tour Canada.

Felt He Might Be Lucky As He Awaited Race Results

COBOURG (ENS)—Seated in front of the radio Wednesday morning, George W. Holman of Cobourg put in some tense moments waiting for the results of the Cambridgeshire handicap race to come in, on which he held an Irish sweepstake ticket on 'King of the Tudors".

"I had a feeling I might be lucky enough to win; after all I was fortunate enough to draw a starter in the first place and I wondered if my luck would stay with me," he said.

While he waited for the race results, he lit up a cigar. He took a couple of nervous puffs and the cigar went out. He didn't notice it. His wife joined him and they waited what seemed an endless time. Then the good news came over the radio.

His son, Monty, was listening in at Markham and phoned him at once. Pretty soon the rest of his family, four daughters, were on the phone. That was just the starter. After that the phone rang steadily, and when it wasn't the phone it was the doorbell. Friends dropped in after they heard the news but the combination of phone and doorbell was too much for George. He grabbed his hat, headed for the door and his parting words were—.

"—me, I am heading for the wide open spaces until this thing quiets down."

Police Raid Headquarters

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—Security police have raided headquarters of the leftist People's Progressive party and seized about 10,000 copies of the party's official newspaper, Thunder.

The raid Wednesday was the third on the PPP office in three days and the fifth since Governor Sir Alfred Savage took over emergency powers in this South American colony Oct. 9.

At that time, Britain suspended the colony's new constitution and fired six PPP ministers on charges they were plotting to turn the colony into a Communist state.

Persons who saw the latest issue of Thunder said it described the recent British activities as "imperialistic."

British officials announced Tuesday that they had detained five leaders of the PPP, J. O. F. Hayes, a prominent lawyer acting for the PPP, said he will see the five today at the detention camp to prepare their case. It will be presented before a three-man committee appointed by the governor and headed by the colony's chief justice.

Escape Boredom

COPENHAGEN (Reuters)—Only 20 per cent of Danish couples marry for love, according to H. C. Dahl, a lecturer on the subject. Half of those who marry every year do so out of boredom, need of a home, or want of a child, he said. And 30 per cent wed because they like one another or share the same hobbies.

Costello Freed From Prison

DETROIT (AP)—Gambler Frank Costello was released today from the federal correctional institution at Milan, Mich., after serving about a year of his 18-month sentence for contempt of the United States Senate.

Costello left in a big chauffeur-driven car with a second man and a woman clad in black furs, believed to be his wife.

The New York rackets operator was sent to prison for refusing to answer questions of a Senate crime investigating committee.

County Councillors, Wives Enjoy Picnic, Visit To Bethlehem Iron Mines

Members of Peterborough county council, their wives, friends, and guests were entertained Wednesday afternoon and evening by Warden Ernest Leeson of Havelock at the annual warden's outing.

Highlight of the afternoon was an escorted trip through the Marmora Mine of the Bethlehem Mines Corporation. And in the evening a dinner was served to 76 guests in the Havelock town hall.

The motor party was met at the mine pit entrance by C. A. Lorenson, superintendent, and two other officials who were guides during the two-hour tour—Alan Baxter, engineer, and Floyd Steenburgh, general mine foreman.

To get at the iron ore the mining company is stripping off an overburden of an area 2,600 feet long and 1,200 feet wide. It will run down to a depth of 500 feet in places before the ore is reached.

REACHING ORE

A reddish tinge on the floor of the most southerly bench shows that, for the first time since work started some 15 months ago, the ore has been reached. But company officials estimate that there is another year's work ahead before all the overburden is stripped away and actual mining of the ore begins.

The 22-ton diesel trucks—each carrying a 22-ton load—are removing nearly 1,000,000 tons of limestone rock a month. This is being dumped on the periphery of the mine itself, artificially creating huge hills of stone.

(County councillors were particularly interested in the performance of the huge diesel trucks because a smaller model, 17 tons, is being used to haul rock fill for the Gannon's Narrows casueway. There is some concern that the heavy pounding of the trucks will play havoc with the Harvey township road leading from the pit to the narrows.)

Bethlehem Mines are employing 250 people at the Marmora mine and they are proud of the fact that their personnel are district people, many of them farmhands before they started strip mining.

During his address Wednesday night, George S. White, MP for Hastings-Frontenac, said that the Bethlehem Corporation would spend $33,000,000 before getting any ore.

After the trip to the mine, south of Marmora, the party returned to Havelock. The women were entertained before diner at the home of Mrs. Jack Davidson, whose husband is a Havelock councillor. The men had a get-together at the Havelock hotel.

TWO PROJECTS

The Hon. Harold R. Scott, minister without portfolio, said that during Warden Leeson's term of office there were two major projects undertaken to improve the county. One was the Buckhorn road, now completed; the other was the Gannon's Narrows causeway, now under construction.

Mr. Scott also said that he was particularly proud of the unity shown by the municipalities in the county. All are working for the good of the county rather than each trying to get as much money as possible spent within its own boundaries.

A similar theme was taken by Mayor Hugh Waddell of Peterborough. He said he appreciated the good relations between city and county—"after all we all live in the same county"—and he praised the provincial member, Mr. Scott, and the federal member, Gordon K. Fraser, for their leadership.

Mr. White, the MP, paid tribute to Warden Leeson for the service he has given to both his own village and the county. He referred to the Bethlehem mine, visited earlier, as "an example of the great future of ours."

SIX EX-WARDENS

Present at the dinner honoring Warden Leeson were six ex-wardens: Rork Ferguson of Norwood, James Gifford, who is completing 20 years as reeve of Ennismore, Gerald Mahoney of Douro, Melville H. Johnston of North Monaghan, James Humphries and Dick Stewart.

Among the speakers was T. P. Lancaster, former MPP for East Peterborough. Chairman at the dinner was Reeve Stewart of Otonabee.

Entertainment was a series of colored slides with commentary by James G. Wharry of Peterborough. The slides were taken during his trip earlier this year through North and Central Africa and the Middle East.

The dinner was served by the women of the St. John's Anglican Church Guild, Mrs. Frank McKay president.

The Lakefront Coming Back To Its Own

Even before the St. Lawrence seaway completion is agreed to by the recalcitrant U.S. there are signs along our own Lake Ontario front indicating a resurgence of old-time shipping business, and a forward look to the year when ocean-going vessels will be plying past the back yards of Picton, Cobourg and Port Hope. The lakefront was the old channel of commerce and communication in Upper Canada; it can again be important, and names like Port Hope can again become statments of fact.

* * *

Iron ore is being mined at Marmora and first deliveries will soon be available. It is to be shipped to the Lake front, and, as our news account this week told, an unusual method of delivery to the ships is being planned. Pelletted iron ore will be taken from the mine by rail to Picton. Thence, at the top of a bluff a mile north of Picton, it will be dumped through a special tunnel (the hole for it has already been dug) 800 feet long, 80 feet wide and 60 feet deep, directly into ships lying below the bluff. Thence the ship will carry its load through the Seaway in whatever direction its destination lies.

* * *

All along the Lakefront farm properties are being bought as industrial sites, in preparation for the day when goods to and from the factories can be shipped—by ship. Tomorrow at Cobourg the corner-stone of a big new ordnance depot is being laid by the Minister of National Defence, the Hon. Brooke Claxton. It looks as if even the Department of National Defence is seizing the opportunity for direct shipment which the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes system is going to offer. The time is not far distant, it seems, when the Lake front will be busier with ships and shipping than even in its most crowded days of the last century.

We Can Toot, Too

Kitchener is tooting its horn because of its courtesy to visiting motorists who break its minor traffic rules. These out-of-town offenders get a courtesy letter from the police instead of a summons. Well, Peterborough has its own method of extending courtesy to visitors who do not have the courtesy to observe its traffic regulations. The policemen on the beat are usually polite to over-time parkers, double parkers, and other offenders against our little ways and signs, when they notice that the license plate has an outsider's number. Our police also issue "courtesy tickets" to visitors instead of the dollar-costing kind of ticket. In September alone, when the majority of our visitors have gone home, there were issued thirty of these pleasant tickets, reminding the visitor that he was offending by parking overtime in the city's central parking lot.

In the same month the police issued 375 regular tickets against home-town offenders. Incidentally $652 was collected in September from parking tickets. That, together with the revenue from the street meters during the month ($2,848) and the city square meters ($1,363) makes quite a tidy sum.

The parking meters have proved to be real earners. Since they were installed on the streets on May 12, 1947, they have taken in $187,176, and the city square meters (in operation since July 21st, 1951) have collected $29,069—a sum total of $216,245. Where is the money going? Into general city coffers.

Suffering Cats

We have received a letter from the American Feline Society, Inc., informing us that November 1-7 will be celebrated as Cat Week. The letter says that this celebration will take place "both in America and abroad"; well, we are "abroad" so far as the U.S.A. is concerned and we have never heard of Cat Week, or the A.F.S. Inc., and we are not going to celebrate. But we are interested to learn that there are a lot of stray cats in the U.S.A., and that the Society appeals to us to adopt one of them during Cat Week. We are also fascinated by the information that during the past fifteen years the Society has "moved the Cat from twelfth to second position as a pet." Take a stray tabby into your home during Cat Week and you will have relieved a suffering cat.

Our indifference to Cat Week should not be taken as a sign that we do not like cats. We hasten to explain that every week is Cat Week with us, for we admire cats, keep a cat, and make friendly noises at cats we meet on the street. But we do not wish to be drawn into an international movement to rehabilitate stray cats; we like the cats we know, but our love for cats stops well this side of being messianic. In fact, we think that the best thing that can happen to a stray cat is for the RSPCA to pick it up and put it humanely to death. Stray animals are pests.

Not the maintenance of every living cat, but the improvement of cat breeds, is the cat-movement which interests us. England is the great centre of cat improvement, and the National Cat Club, and the Cat Fancy, have done much for these animals. There are ten breed clubs and thirteen regional clubs in England, devoted to cats, and the registering and the keeping of pedigrees is done as carefully as it is for dogs.

It may interest readers who care about cats that there are sixteen breeds of long-haired cats, and seventeen breeds of short-hairs, and that a competent judge can distinguish them all at a glance. Cats are as individual in breed as dogs, though most of the cats to be seen are mongrels. The pleasant thing about a cat, however, is that even a mongrel can be a beauty, and good care will make a fine cat of even the scraggiest.

We repeat, we are interested in cats. But we draw the line at Cat Week. We suspect that cats draw the line at it, too.

Wearisome Expensive War

The problem of Indo-China is the hardest facing any French government in the last five years, for its domestic as well as foreign and colonial effects. In the seven years it has been going on, the war in the jungles and rice paddies has cost France 75,000 casualties and four billion dollars.

The United States has realized the significance of this outpost of the West against Asian communism and how important it is that France keep up the struggle. Several times in the last three years popular French sentiment has veered the Assembly towards evacuating Indo-China completely, and leaving it to whatever nationals or communists want to wreck it. However, American goods and money (to a total of 700 million dollars) are now pouring into the country, and the war goes wearily on.

The French hold all the chief cities and strategically important areas, but they have not been able to destroy the mobile Communist forces, which are numerically fewer than the French and less well equipped. The kind of war the Communists have been waging is as difficult to subdue as Indian fighting on this continent two centuries ago, against European regulars.

To counter the nationalist bait which the Communists offer, the French have created a French Union in Indo-China of the associated states of Viet Nam, Laos, and Cambodia, and guaranteed them local autonomy within the French Union. Whether or not this political manoeuvre will successfully woo the people of Indo-China to the French cause and encourage them to keep in the fight against the Communists has still to be shown. The independence and sovereignty of their three countries is dear to the natives; the French treaties to give it are in accordance with the nationalist aspirations which have aroused Asia since the World War and which the Communists have exploited so successfully.

Poste Restante

The diminishing progression in postal deliveries from two a day to one a day has a sequel which a logical French postman had the gumption to reach—no delivery at all. In the village of Hazebrouck, a few miles down the road from Armentieres of mademoiselle fame, a postman named Maurice Croquey felt that distributing letters entrusted to his despatch was a complicated way of disposing of them. So he took them straight home, hid them in back shelves, and settled down in foot-saving comfort to read his newspaper. M. Croquey's method was so easy that he made a habit of it, an obvious improvement, from a postman's point of view, of postal service. One wonders that the Canadian Post Office has not hit upon it.

The system worked splendidly until the local income tax office fined the entire population of his district ten per cent. above their assessed taxes for ignoring "final warnings" sent to them by mail. Inquiries ended in a search of M. Croquey's house. Eight hundred undelivered letters were found; and the postman admitted to his scheme to rationalizing postal delivery, and to having burned letters of previous weeks which had cluttered up the house.

The fallacy in the system, put into operation in Canada, is that Mr. Abbott and Dr. McCann might find their departments out of pocket, and have hot words with the Postmaster General on the floor of the House. However, if put to popular test, say during the last fortnight of April when income tax returns are being made, the Postmaster General might sweep the country and care not a hoot what the Minister of Finance and the Minister of National Revenue might say.

JOY OF HARRASSING

Goodwill Island

By CYRIL DUNN (in Cyprus)

IT WAS DARK when we reached the Turkish village in the Cyprus mountains. A fire was burning under a metal pot at the roadside, and from behind its flames a sequence of ragged men came forward to shake hands with us, none allowing himself to be excluded from this ceremony.

We moved into a disordered procession into the village, one of the younger villagers carrying a pressure-lamp ahead of us. By its considerable light the village looked

✧ ✧ ✧

THE SEPTEMBER EARTHQUAKE brought the whole of it down to this indeterminate shape. Only the sad, possessive eagerness of our guides, gesticulating and explaining, made these heaps seem particularly different from other tumbled stones with which the Cyproit landscape is littered—the stony relics of several splendid civilisation.

Cyprus can readily absorb another ruined settlement, to lie beside Salamis and Curium and the rock tombs of the kings at Paphos. The visual impact of the earthquake's destruction is softened—especially at this time of year, when the whole land is burnt to the beautiful colours of stone. But the disaster itself is disguised, not minimised. Altogether, twelve thousand houses were destroyed or damaged on the island, most of them on the glamorous slopes of wine-growing hills.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE BRITISH RULERS of Cyprus—a handful of Britons backed by a Cypriot Civil Service—are now facing problems of reconstruction made peculiar by the attitude of the people. There may seem to be no obvious connection between an earthquake and the supposed desire of Greek Cypriots to throw off British rule and become Mother Greece. But one cannot ride round the ruined villages without sensing a local belief that for the earthquake, or at least for its consequences, the British Government is in some way to blame. The British administrators seem to accept this extra burden without surprise.

Things ought to have been different in the Turkish village. The Turks are a minority in Cyprus; For that reason, among others, they are naturally opposed to union with Greece, and express this attitude by showing an enthusiasm for British rule rare among subject peoples.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT IN the ruins of the Turkish village, among the Army tents crammed with iron bedsteads, popular sentiment did not seem to be materially different from feeling in the Greece villages we had seen. Indeed, it seemed if anything more alarming, because of the darkness, the flames under the boiling olives and the lamplight on the faces of a noble ferocity. We stood crowded together under the village headman's vine-arbour—conceivably preserved from the general destruction by the lucky horseshoe wrapped in silver paper which dangled from one of the arches.

Almost at once the process of question and answer began moving rapidly towards a unanimous vote of No Confidence in the British administration. The leader of the Muslim community wanted to know why the Government was giving them new roofs and nothing to hold the roofs up. Why couldn't Government provide every family with a complete house, free? And meanwhile, what about issuing more tents.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT WAS THE SAME at the Greek village, but the villagers asked these aggressive questions with more obvious enjoyment. The Greeks have some seventy-five years of experience in the joys of harassing the British administration; for the Turks it is a relatively new pastime, and one they are inclined to take rather formally. Furthermore, in the Greek village the able-bodied males did not come out as one man to show us round the ruins. According to immemorial custom, they stayed seated on groups of chairs outside their shattered coffee-house, endlessly discussing a situation about which they did not themselves intend to do anything positive—such as cleaning up the debris—preferring to leave the whole thing in the incompetent hands of Government. It is the custom, one may add, which at this moment is driving the retired English on the island to the brink of frenzy.

THERE ARE two things (at least) to be borne in mind about this curious aftermath of earthquake. One is that, when we drove round the villages, the villagers had no means of knowing precisely what the administration was planning to do for them. It is difficult not to believe that their pessimism had been induced both by the leaders of the Greek Orthodox Church—by whom not even the fall of a sparrow is neglected as a means of furthering the cause of union with Greece—and by the Communist Party, for whom every popular misfortune is inescapable to be attributed to Imperialism.

The other factor to be considered is that these complaints against the administration seem to be entirely without bitterness. Nobody came within miles of shaking a fist under our British noses. On the contrary, anyone watching our discussions from a distance might have supposed we were telling each other funny stories. We were wreathed in smiles throughout.

AT the Greek village, a young girl who was pregnant told us that she was sleeping in the open air. By close questioning we established that she was doing so not because there was no room for her in a tent, but because she disliked sharing a tent with her aunt. Then she laughed merrily and said that actually she was pleased to be sleeping out of doors: it would mean her baby would be "strong like an Englishman," since English mothers, she knew, habitually endured similar rigours. And wherever we went we were offered food and drink and friendliness by people surrounded by the total ruin of their houses.

It remains to be said that the British reconstruction plan seems intelligent and generous. It is directly administered by an Englishman who is a Greek scholar, is fond of the Cypriots and probably understands their impulses rather better than they do themselves.

TO PROVIDE for those whose homes have been totally destroyed, 2,500 specially-designed house-frameworks are being mass-produced on the island and will be set up at the villages. The villagers themselves will build the walls: they are accustomed to building their own houses, and will use the stone from the ruins. People whose houses have been damaged are being given grants of materials and cash on the spot, according to their assessed needs. The rich are being left to look after themselves, but nine-tenths of those affected are poor, in varying degrees.

The plan should get everyone into a house by the end of the year; meanwhile, all pray for fine weather—except those who want to see the administration still further embarrassed. The general level of Cypriot rural housing should be lifted when the plan is completed. It has always been notoriously low, a fact for which neither the administration nor the villagers are entirely to blame. Some of the villages will be entirely replanned, on sites acquired compulsorily.

Knowing what a finely-balanced relationship we have with the people of Cyprus, one may wonder if the earthquake has not offered us a chance to be exceptionally friendly towards them.

It is doubtful if the Colonial Service would feel entitled to go in for anything too wildly impulsive. It probably prefers to go forward, prudently and with strict justice; indeed, that is what it is required to do. But it is virtually impossible to dislike a Cypriot, and, whatever may be said about the customary low standard of life in Cypriot villages, the earthquake has plunged them into discomfort. It is disagreeable to find them, even temporarily, in any doubt about our intention to lift them out of it.

HIS ACE IN THE HOLE

Letters To The Editor

INTOXICATING IDEAS

SIR: I have just read your editorial "Canadian Education Coldly Appraised" in Examiner October 24, about Professor Hilda Neatby's new book "So Little For the Mind." It is likely to be one of the few books that I shall eventually read, and I anticipate that her indictment of Education will get my approval.

I can agree with your statement that there had been some improvement, especially in school buildings, also humanity has shown a tendency to frown on the use of the strap. If a child, or adult behaviour could be improved by punishment we would have little need for schools: just kick 'em on the shins, or elsewhere, and watch for a better psychology.

The basic ideals of education may need restatement, as you suggest, but instead of revival, the ideals are in need of development.

You say "The nub of her indictment is . . . children are not being equipped with enough facts and enough practice in using facts." This is rather an overstatement as we are given ample doses of facts but we haven't acquired the sense to make good use of the facts of life. In mathematics and other scientific problems we are taught to do some reasoning (which is a mental process) but in most of our social endeavour we are encouraged to rely on our feelings, impulse, conscience or whatever you choose to call it, which is mere mental activity, and likely to lead to disastrous extremes on any proposition; this, in effect, puts us in the act of trying to navigate the Ship of State while our mental ability is impaired, and the more we are under the influence of intoxicating ideas the better we think we can handle the helm.

Neither heathen nor religious practice has ever been able to demonstrate a reasonable application of the Golden Rule; we apply or withhold operation of the rule as our feelings dictate, not as reason should suggest; that is mostly why VIPs, burdened with education, can often express hatreds, with more intensity than you would expect from illiterates.

Yours truly,
W. H. ROSEBUSH.

HIGH CHARGES AT CIVIC ARENA

SIR: I heartily agree with "Disgusted's" letter of October 27 regarding the charges at Civic Arena. I understand last year a surplus was handed to the City Council. As this Arena is City owned, it was also a gift from the citizens to promote minor hockey and skating for those who enjoy it, why not take this profit and subsidize our kid's hockey clubs; instead of charging them ten dollars an hour for practice let us do a bit of bookkeeping until last year's profits are used up. Then revert to the ten dollar charge if necessary. A certain portion of this profit could be used to reduce the price of skating also. I think if the price was reduced on skating a larger profit would be the result. It is the same as the Exhibition, after a price goes so high people stay home unless they feel they are getting their money's worth. It has been intimated to me that last year when Marlboro's played here and the kids had their only gate of the year, which even then did not pull them out of the hole, the Commissioners thought they were missing a bet and wanted part of the gate. Just how greedy can they get? It is no wonder our young hockey players get commercial ideas at a lot younger age; after all the finger is pointed their way all the time to get their ten bucks unless you want to practice at 6 a.m.

Surely our citizens and Council are not that mercenary that they cannot operate an Arena at cost for our younger Citizens, after all our tax bill does not reflect too much desire for economy.

Yours truly,
R. B. BAKER.

PROTESTANT AS WITNESS

SIR: The letter from Mr. Davis in answer to the query "Is the Church of England a Protestant Church?" may be very misleading. The word Protestant is an affirmative term that denotes "standing as a witness for." The Church of England is referred to in numerous documents and enactments as being Protestant, because at the Reformation she stood for—and still officially stands for—the conviction that the true Catholic Faith is the faith of the Primitive Church, without the many accretions which developed later on. My answer to "a woman" would be—the Church of England is a Protestant Church.

The name of the "Anglican Church" in the U.S.A. is "The Protestant Episcopal Church." In his book "The Call to Unity," the late Bishop of New York says, 'If, however, the Protestant Episcopal Church should wish to change its name, the most accurate, the most truly significant, and the most historically correct designation for it would be, as Dr. Miel told us, 'The Catholic Protestant,' or the 'Protestant Catholic' Church." It would be highly inconvenient to raise other related points, in a newspaper correspondence.

Yours faithfully,
ARTHUR J. PATSTONE

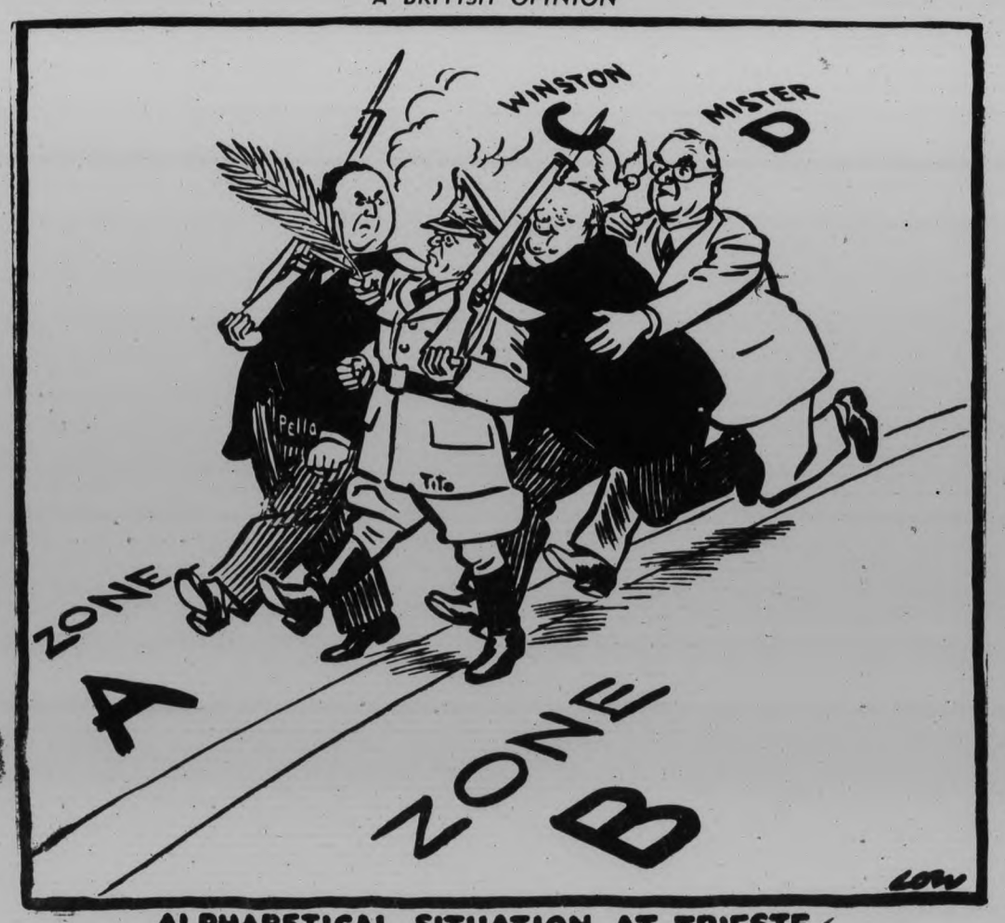
Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)



Forasmuch then as Christ hath suffered for us in the flesh arm yourselves likewise with the same mind: for he that hath suffered in the flesh hath ceased from sin; that he no longer should live the rest of his time in the flesh to the lusts of men, but to the will of God . . .

Beloved, think it not strange concerning the fiery trial which is to try you, as though some strange thing happened unto you: but rejoice, inasmuch as ye are partakers of Christ's sufferings; that, when his glory shall be revealed, ye may be glad also with exceeding joy. If ye be reproached for the name of Christ, happy are ye: for the spirit of glory and of God resteth upon you: on their part he is evil spoken of, but on your part he is glorified. But let none of you suffer as a murderer, or as a thief, or as an evildoer, or as a busybody in other men's matters. Yet if any man suffer as a Christian, let him not be ashamed; but let him glorify God on this behalf. (1 Pet. 4:1,2,12-16.)

For there is nothing covered, that shall not be revealed; neither hid, that shall not be known. (Luke 12:2).

A. Y. Jackson Shows Paintings In Toronto

By JEAN THOMPSON

TORONTO (CP) — A one-man show of a half-century of Canadian painting is on view at the Art Gallery of Toronto. The retrospective exhibition of A. Y. Jackson's paintings was opened recently by Governor-General Vincent Massey.

"Alex Jackson is not only a great Canadian painter," said Mr. Massey, opening the exhibition "He is a great Canadian, and a legendary figure in the Canadian scene . . . His works have the very breath of Canada in them."

The exhibition of 86 canvasses, in addition to some water colors and sketches, was collected from people and institutions in Canada. It is the third show arranged by the gallery to show the work of a living Canadian artist. Previously works of Lawren Harris and Arthur Lismer were shown.

These three artists were pioneer members of the Group of Seven, formed in 1920. During the next decade the group became the focal point of one of the greatest controversies in the development of Canadian art. Regarded as modernist then, their work now is classed as conservative.

The present comprehensive Jackson collection takes one from watercolors of 1902 near his native Montreal to a 1953 canvas done in the Arctic.

Watercolors and paintings evince Jackson's preoccupation with mass forms and the linear movement of Canadian landscape. Earth, sky, weather forms are interpreted as design and color in motion.

Jackson started his career as a commercial lithographer, designing barrel labels and cigar bands. Before the First World War he studied in Europe and canvasses from that period show the influence of French impressionists. His Canadian work of the period included "The Edge of the Maple Wood," a well-known picture now in the National Gallery, Ottawa.

He was an official artist for Canadian war records during the First World War. Then he painted the destructive effects of war on landscape with no sentimentality.

The majority of the pictures in the show have been done since the First World War. They show how Jackson has criss-crossed Canada and penetrated the northland to paint its earth forms, exploring the meaning of mountains, streams, woodlands and lakes.

The Jackson show moves to the National Gallery in Ottawa at the end of November.

Did Primitive Man Desire Beer Or Bread

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—Was it desire for beer or bread that made prmitive man settle down and become a farmer growing cereals?

The question is debated by nine scientists writing in the journal of the American Anthropological Association.

Some find evidence it was thirst for beer that started agriculture and villages, ending the day of nomadic hunting-and-fishing life.

Others vote for bread as the first goal.

Their views are based on archeological, anthropological and enthnological evidences.

The beer-or-bread question was raised by Prof. Jonathan D. Sauer, department of botany, University of Wisconsin.

At some time, he says, humans discovered that a mash of fermented grain yields a "palatable and nutritious beverage"—beer.

The early forms of grains grown by primitive man, in the Middle East or other centres of civilization, yielded little grain for much labor, says Dr. Sauer, who adds:

"Planting and harvesting small grains without the plow or other efficient tools would seem to me to be a game scarcely worth the candle except for a more rewarding stake than food."

PRIMITIVE TOWNS

Dr. Paul C. Mangelsdorf, geneticist who directs Harvard University's botanical museum, says the early cereals of the Middle East all had tough glumes or chaff which made them virtually useless for bread-making—but they could be used to brew beer.

he says a good case could be made for using them for beer rather than bread, but adds that man "cannot live on beer alone, and not too satisfactorily on beer and meat." Humans of that time needed the carbohydrates from cereals to improve their diet.

Several scientists believe the first use of cereals was in a kind of gruel or porridge.

100 Women Wait Marriage Ruling

LONDON (Reuters)—A hundred women now in Britain are waiting for a judge's decision to tell them whether they are bound for life to loveless "marriages of convenience" contracted in order to slip through the Iron Curtain.

With divorce court justice Seymour Karminski rests the knotty decision on whether these refugees, most of them young, can hope for further romance.

Karminski, presiding at a test case involving the marriage of a 17-year-old Hungarian girl to her 18 - year - old French schoolboy cousin, called for aid from the highest legal authority in the country.

And Attorney-General Sir Lionel Heald gave his opinion that such marriages must continue under British law unless they can be proved to have been contracted under conditions of "fear and duress."

Lawyers estimate that a favorable judgment on the divorce petition will bring applications from about 100 women now in this country who married foreigners only to gain their nationality and escape from Iron Curtain countries.

Bridge Piers Offer Exciting New Canvas

OTTAWA (CP)—The great stone piers of the interprovincial bridge linking Ottawa and Hull, Que., offered an exciting new "canvas" for Roland Beaudry to do his paintings during the summer.

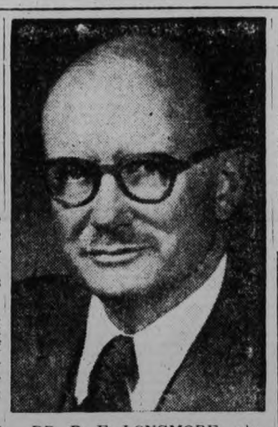
As traffic wound across the span, the 32-year-old labor department librarian painted huge portraits of Abraham Lincoln and the "Unknown Girl of the Seine" on the stone facings, with house-painter's oils.

The seven-foot portrait of Lincoln was intended to convey the inner suffering of Lincoln and the imminence of death, as well as his goodness and sympathy for the sufferings of humanity.

For the portrait, Beaudry used black and white, blue, brown and yellow.

SOMBRE PICTURE

A river mood was reflected in his second large portrait, a reproduction of "L'Inconnue de la Seine."



The original is a plaster cast made by an artist in Paris half a century ago when he was struck by the face of an unknown drowned girl recovered from the Seine river.

The head of the portrait is eight feet high and executed in white, black and yellow.

Next summer Beaudry plans to continue his river paintings, using not only the bridge supports but the islets and the rocky foreshore too.

Earth And Grass Samples Being Checked By OPP

IROQUOIS (CP) — Samples of earth and grass, taken from a nearby spot where police said Marie Anne Carrier may have been slain, were sent Wednesday to the provincial police laboratory in Toronto.

Police have been looking for the place where Miss Carrier was killed ever since the stabbed body of the 22-year-old reserve army sergeant from Bienville, Que., was found beside a county road six miles north of here.

Investigators said they found an area of grass which had been beaten down on a narrow laneway on the western outskirts of this St. Lawrence river town. They said the area and the roadway were stained with some dark substance and samples of this were sent to Toronto.

Irishmen Fail To Climb The Albertan Peaks In Wild Mat Tussle

FLASH! FLASH! NEWS BULLETIN—An Irish mountain-climbing team, Patrick Flanagan and Timothy Geohagen by name, failed in their attempt Wednesday to scale two Albertan peaks, namely Al and Tiny Mills. The Irishmen battled the elements (hair-pulling, eye-gouging, biting and the such) for more than a half-hour before finally succumbing to the rugged peaks. Failure came after Flanagan was knocked unconscious by the cruel, mean blows of the peaks.

Prior to Wednesday night the Irish had previously attempted to climb the peaks alone. Unsuccessful, they decided to combine their efforts to conquer the Albertans, challenging them to a tag-team match.

Flanagan and Geohagen unfortunately didn't realize that with the two Mills brothers in the ring the rough tactics would be twice as much as usual. That proved their undoing.

From the start the huge Albertans proceeded to crush the Irish with an assortment of illegal tactics. Finally brother Tiny blinded favorite Pat with hair-oil from his black curly locks and lured him into the Mills' corner. Tiny tagged up and Al took over.

THUMPED AROUND

The sightless Pat was thumped around until he was like a used rag doll. Then Al calmy lifted the Irishman up and brought him down across brother Tiny's knee, not once but twice, and Pat was down for the first fall.

Up to then the Mills' brothers relied upon the hair-oil and tape to help in their schemes, but during the second fall little Tiny resorted to biting, attempting to take juicy parts of Flanagan's arm.

The usually clean Flanagan went wild at this and promptly put the most illegal hold ever used in Peterborough on Tiny. He returned the bite but sank his teeth into Tiny's rump. Like an English bulldog, Pat wouldn't let go until his master, Referee Bunny Dunlop, ordered.

Along with this bite, a few mule kicks, elbow slams and such, the Irish finally softened Tiny. He was right for the Irish sleeper and Geohagen promptly put him in the Land of Nod for the second fall.

Possibly for humiliating Tiny before the season's largest crowd, the Mills' brothers went to work on Pat in the final fall. After mangling him, Tiny tossed the Irishman through the ropes to the floor.

Staggering to his feet, Flanagan attempted to crawl back to the ring. But as Referee Bunny Dunlop attempted to keep Tiny away the other bad Albertan kicked Flanagan out again. This time he stayed out for the 10-count.

Needless to say, the Albertans were given a police escort through the crowd after being awarded the victory.

JAPANESE TRICKS

Oyama Kato, the Orient's judo champion from Japan, didn't make too many friends as he made his debut in Peterborough. Along with his man, Sugi, Kato performed an old Japanese ritual, sprinkling his body and the ring with salt to chase away evil spirits. From the way he carried on, he should have swallowed a barrel of salt.

Using ever Japanese judo trick, plus some American hair-pulling, Kato gave opponent Alan Garfield of London, England, the works. After warnings by referee Dunlop, Kato would step back, bow slightly and give a sweet smile.

Garfield switched from wrestling to a few illegal holds and within minutes had Kato begging for mercy. Then Garfield delighted his supporters by stepping back, bowing and returning Kato's sweet smile.

But it was a case of "he who laughs (this time smiles) last, laughs (smiles) best". Kato came back to import the Irish sleeper to put Garfield away. Along with Sugi, Kato brought the bewildered Englishman around.

Referee Dunlop did some hair-pulling in the first bout between Herb Larson of Hamilton and Reyes Nacho, the Yaqui Indian athlete. He kept pulling Larson's locks as the Hamiltonian roughed Nacho. Larson became so annoyed at Dunlop that he even threatened to "report you to the commissioner", meaning Merv McKenzie, Ontario Athletic Commissioner.

Nacho weathered Larson's roughhouse tactics and was on his way to victory when the time-limit bell rang, ending the bout in a draw.

Buchanan, Jacklin Sold To Hamilton

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, last year's Allan Cup winners, Wednesday announced the sale of forward Al Buchanan and defenceman Harvey Jacklin to Hamilton Tigers of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

Buchanan, formerly with Toronto Marlboros of the OHA Junior A series, played left and right wing last year.

Jacklin, a regular defenceman for the Dutchmen since leaving Hamilton five years ago, can also fill in at centre.

Orfuns To Play In Oakville In First Game

Tony Kotowski's Orfuns will begin their Ontario intermediate "A" championship series with Oakville Black Knights Saturday afternoon in Oakville. At intermediate ORFU executive meeting in Toronto Wednesday night the dates were set, making the return game in Peterborough a week Sat.

Meanwhile there is some indecision in the intermediate "B" championship series between Cobourg Galloping Ghosts and Hamilton Panthers. Hamilton will decide late today whether to advance into the final series or not; apparently expenses and player-arrangements may make the Panthers drop out.

If the Panthers stay in, that final series will open Saturday night in Hamilton and then return to Cobourg, also a week Saturday, for the second of the two-game points-to-count series.

SCOUTED THE KNIGHTS

Several Orfuns went to Oakville to scout Hamilton and Oakville in their sudden-death game Tuesday night. They report the Black Knights as small but fast, at the same time comparing Hamilton's strength on a par with Cobourg. The Orfuns hope to capitalize on several weaknesses noticed in the Knights' defence.

The Orfuns came out of the ORFU meeting $100 richer. The $200 bond posted and lost by the Toronto Marauders who defaulted several games this year was divided between Orfuns, Cobourg and Oshawa. Since the Orfuns didn't have any home games with the Marauders they were awarded the larger share.

The executive also dealt with a fracus between Hamilton and, Stratford in Stratford on Saturday. Spectators and Hamilton coach, Tony Golab, exchanged words and finally blows. The executive ruled that next season Stratford must have a fence separating the teams from the crowd.

Queen's Edges RMC At Meet

MONTREAL (CP)—Queen's University Wednesday edged Royal Military College, 1952 winners, in the fourth annual Ottawa-St. Lawrence conference track and field championships.

A first and second in the broad jump and a fourth in the medley mile relay, last two events on the 15-event program, put the Queen's athletes in front with 57 points.

RMC's runners took the relay but the five first-place points were not enough to overhaul Queen's, and RMC finished with 51½. McGill was third with 28½, and three other competing schools finished this way: Sir George Williams College, Montreal, 13; Macdonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que., 8; Carleton College, Ottawa, 4.

Norm Hopper of RMC scored a triple in the field events, winning the pole vault, high jump and javelin throw. Paul Fedor and Doug Wilson were double winners for Queen's. Fedor in the shot put and broad jump and Wilson in both the hurdles events.

Ted Tromanhauser of RMC scored the only double on the track, winning the half-mile and three-mile events.

Sarnia Imperials crushed Toronto St. Michael's 37-0 to win their second straight Ontario Rugby Football Union title 21 years ago today. That victory continued their great string of league championships which ran from 1931 to 1939 a nine-year stretch that included Grey Cup titles in 1934 and 1936.

VESSELS INJURED—This is the play in which halfback Billy Vessels of the Edmonton Eskimos was injured in a Western Interprovincial Football Union game against Winnipeg Blue Bombers at Edmonton. Vessels, a leading scorer in the WIFU since being imported from Okhlahoma, is being brought down on the Winnipeg 25-yard line by guard Dean Bandiera and end Bud Grant (78). At extreme left is Buck Rogers (56) who is coming in on the play in which Vessels suffered a fractured muscle attachment on the spine. Winnipeg won the game 17-8.

GRANT'S SPORT CORNER

By DON GRANT

Shake hands and come out fighting. It's boxing today.

Alex Cross of Fowler's Corners, on Highway No. 7, about seven miles northwest of this city, is one of those men who is seeking to keep alive boxing in this area. A boxer himself before the war in Sudbury and New Glasgow he served in army camps at Sussex, Debert and in Great Britain.

Early this year Alex playfully sparred with the neighborhood boys at Fowler's Corners. He later started teaching Bill Burgomaster, Rick Dowson, John Martin, Tedd Webb and others a few tricks of the trade. They used an old set of gloves owned by young Webb.

Before he realized it a few boys from the shop at the CGE became interested and the Fowler's Corners boxing club was under way. Former boxers, Chuck Birch, Doug Wade and Bill Cridland pitched in to help train and now they're working with 40 lads from Peterborough, Lakefield, Keene and Omemee.

To keep these boys working, there must be equipment. Anyone who has anything to do with an athletic club realizes that this is the most expensive item. However through a series of bouts with Lindsay, club performances for silver collections, a raffle for a radio, the FC club gradually was able to get the fund to buy gloves, exercisers and other equipment. This cost $450. That's pretty good for so young a club.

Alex went through a little government red tape for a set of gloves. These were finally authorized by the department of education, paid for by the department of labor (that's a dandy) and then sent to him by the Ontario athletic commission.

A couple of times during the past few months, Alex has gone into the red but right now he's in the black.

All the proceeds from the bouts have gone into equipment. The only thing the youths have recevied is a set of trunks each from their split of the returns in the Lindsay fights in Lakefield two weeks ago.

Alex is the first to admit boxing is dead in Peterborough but he emphasizes "we're trying to give it a shot in the arm".

Boxing died here several years ago due to boxers (who thought they were better than they actually were) highjacking club promoters on night's of bouts. Seeing the large crowds, the boxers balked, demanding more money.

When they did enter the ring, the highjackers were in poor condition and put up a poor show. They did nothing but hurt themselves and the club.

Alex assures us that there will be no danger of this happening in his club.

"No one wants to make anything. We'll replace the equipment first and then divide what's left among the boys".

Just how much the boxers receive is now set by the Ontario commission. Alex points out that most of the time the boys won't get anything let alone come close to the commission's wage scale.

The club purpose is to develop boxing in the district, especially among the younger lads. Alex's work will be mainly with the boys, not the one special boxer. If one or two boxers come along and the prospects are good, the club will see that they go ahead but only as a club member.

The main problem facing the boxers is finding a place to train. They've been working out in the recreation room at Alex's home and it's too small to accommodate the club.

Since most of the boxers are from Peterborough, Alex hopes to find accommodation in the city, possibly at the exhibition grounds. If there isn't room there, perhaps the old Ashburnham hall could be used two or three times a week.

Let's hope the boxers such as heavyweight Cridland, middles Bill Twomey, Ken Webb, Don Free, welters Tom Mark, Glen McIntyre, Harry Lynch and the others find a place.

There's a place for boxing in city sports and from response at district bouts, it would be a welcome addition to the sporting circle.

PLAN SUPER TRACK

NEW YORK (AP)—The much-talked of modern race track in the metropolitan area of New York came up again Wednesday for discussion when the head of Empire City Racing Association said a combined effort would be made to reach some agreement on the planned super track.

James Butler, president of the Empire City, which holds its meetings at Jamaica, said the heads of Jamaica and Aqueduct had agreed to appeal to Governor Thomas Dewey and the state legislature for financial relief.

Butler said the tracks, which now get four per cent of the pari-mutuel betting figures, would need an additional two per cent in order to finance a new track. The state receives 11 per cent of the 15-per-cent total takeout.

Two sites are being considered for the proposed track, at the present Aqueduct plant, and on acreage in the Baychester section of the Bronx. Butler said it would cost about $30,000,000 to build at Aqueduct, where about 100 additional acres would be required to build a training track.

He said that if Baychester were chosen, it would take about $35,000,000 because of submarginal lands there.

If financial aid is given by the state, Butler said the new track could be ready for operations by April 1, 1957.

Bisons Dump Cleveland 8-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Bisons, jealous of their newly-won leadership of the American Hockey League, widened their lead Wednesday night, whipping Cleveland Barons 8-2.

Elsewhere, Hershey Bears climbed out of the cellar into fourth place with a 6-3 victory over Providence Reds, while Pittsburgh Hornets hung on to the No. 2 spot, dumping Syracuse Warriors 7-2.

At Buffalo, Eddie Slowinski tallied three goals and Don Marshall two to pace the Herd to their second win in as many nights over the former league champions. Joe Lung, Johnny McCormack and Steve Wochy fired the others for Buffalo.

Dunc Fisher, Skip Teal, Arnie Kullman, Murray Henderson, Lorne Ferguson and Jack McIntyre were the Hershey marksmen. Pat Egan, Paul Larivee and Denis notched for Providence.

At Pittsburgh, Danny Lewicki sparked the Hornets' attack with four goals. Bob Sabourin, Ed Leier and Buzz Gagnon also counted for Pittsburgh. Ray Timgren and Willie Marshall also counted for Pittsburgh. Ed Leier and Buzz Gagnon tallied for Syracuse.

Barrie Clips Biltmores 6-4

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Barrie Flyers moved into sole possession of fourth place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series Wednesday night by defeating Guelph Biltmores 6-4 in Guelph.

Jim Robertson paced the Flyers with three goals. John Martan notched two and Arnold Smith added a single. Guelph, who fought stubbornly and tied the score twice were sparked by Bob Attersley with two goals. Other Guelph marksmen were Ted Brady and Johnny Gillis.

IRELAND WINS

DUBLIN (AP)—The Republic of Ireland defeated Luxembourg 4-0 in an international soccer match Wednesday. The match is a qualifying game for the World Cup series in Switzerland next June.

SPS Grid Juniors Victors And Grove Takes Win As PCVS Seniors Defeated

St. Peter's High School junior Saints managed to salvage one football game for Peterborough teams Wednesday when they trounced Cobourg High junior "A" team 21-5 in Cobourg. In other high school games the PCVS Garnet and Greys lost their second game to Trinity College seniors 22-16 while at Lakefield the Grove School seniors, coached by Jack Matthews, set back Kenner Collegiate Rams 20-5. The Saints lost little time in opening the scoring. On the third play Ron Board passed to Dink Masterson for 15 yards and he zig-zagged another 22 to score. Board also set up the second major score in the second quarter when he intercepted a pass and ran 55 yards before downed. Ploughboy Ray Allen romped over to make the half score 10-0.

Held scoreless in the third quarter, the Saints came to life again in the fourth after Cobourg's Bill Stewart jump-passed to Gregg McBride for their score. Allen after the kickoff went for 35 yards and then John Martyn plunged over from the one-yard line. Martyn finished the scoring, romping 55 yards for the touchdown which was converted.

Meanwhile in Lakefield the Matthews-coached lads opened their game the same way. Grabbing a Kenner fumble the Grove team quickly turned it into a 30-yard field goal by Hugh Macdonald for three points. Minutes later Kenner fumbled again resulting in Macdonald scoring the first major which went unconverted. Macdonald added a single point in the second quarter for a 9-0 score at the half.

Kenner started to pass in the second half and finally Bob Illingsworth hit Bill Hendry with a 10-yard pass. Hendry went the other six yards to score.

Grove promptly walked away with the game in the fourth quarter when Easson ran 10 yards on an end run to score and Creswicke plunged through centre and broke into the clear to score. Macdonald passed to Caldwell for the extra point.

TRINITY VICTORIOUS

PCVS from the kickoff with Trinity marched from their 11-yard line to Trinity's 27 before being forced to kick. Chuck Geale's punt was good for a rouge point. He also took a pass from Terry Roberts later in the quarter for a touchdown, keping the Garnet and Grey on even terms with Trinity six-all at quarter time. The Geale-Roberts combination clicked again in the second quarter to match Trinity's touch and the half ended 11-all.

Trinity went ahead 17-11 in the third quarter and then added another major score in the fourth quarter to gain their second one-touchdown difference victory over the collegians. Bob McKinney punged over from the one-yard line to score PCVS' final points.

Doubt Vessels To Play Again This Season

WINNIPEG (CP)—Coach Darrell Royal of Edmonton Eskimos said Wednesday night he is doubtful if halfback Billy Vessels will be able to play any more football this year.

He said the Oklahoma import is still suffering much pain and is still in hospital.

Vessels was injured in the season's final game last Saturday against Winnipeg on a tackle by Buck Rogers of the Bombers.

Chicago Hawks Hit Their Stride, Down Rangers 6-1

By AL COLLETTI
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It took Sid Abel, the old Detroit star, just a season to prove that he could get a lot of extra mileage out of his players and apparently he still has the touch. Always a great team man in his playing days, Abel took over as coach of Chicago's Black Hawks a little more than a year ago and the Hawks did better than anyone else figured they would in the National Hockey League race last season. Old Bootnose, with mostly veteran and cast-off players, guided the Hawks into the playoffs after tying the Bruins for third place with 69 points.

Abel made few changes in the club this season. He got Larry Wilson, a forward, and defenceman Larry Zeidel from Detroit during the summer, brought up a couple players from the minors and unloaded forward Cal Gardner.

CHANGE TUNE

Until Wednesday night the Black lost seven of their first eight Hawks of 1953-54 were a flop. They games—the last four by one goal.

On New York ice Wednesday night, the victory-hungry Hawks finally found themselves. They scored in every period to trounce New York Rangers 6-1 in the only game scheduled. It was the sixth straight time over a two-season span the Hawks have beaten New York on Garden ice and the seventh time in eight games.

The clubs battled fairly evenly until the last minute of the first period when Wilson rammed in a 15-footer while the Rangers had a man in the penalty box.

RANGER GOAL

Centre Don Raleigh got the Ranger goal midway in the middle session.

Pete Conacher and the veteran Bill Mosienko whipped through the disorganized Rangers in the second period for goals.

Gus Mortson started the third-period flurry when he converted Jim McFadden's pass at 7:26. Then McFadden and young Murray Costello followed with solo goals to make the game a rout.

Al Dewsbury, Chicago defenceman, didn't get a penalty Wednesday night. He had previously been fined $50 by club president Bill Tobin for getting too many.

Tonight the Toronto Maple Leafs take on the first-place Canadiens in Montreal.

Winnipeg Smothers Roughriders 43-5

By AL VICKERY

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg Blue Bombers struck where they were supposed to be the weakest—along the ground—to smother Saskatchewan Roughriders 43-5 Wednesday night in the first game of their two-game, total-point Western Interprovincial Football Union semi-final before more than 17,000 fans.

Bombers now will carry a 38-point margin, gained mainly on the six-touchdown performance of their Winnipeg-born fullback, Lorne Benson, into the second game at Regina, Saturday afternoon.

Known strictly as a passing club since Jack Jacobs came to Winnipeg in 1950, the Bombers moved mostly along the ground in gaining their victory over the favored Riders. Saskatchewan had beaten the Bombers in four out of six meetings during the regular schedule.

CANADIAN OFFENSIVE

With Joe (Black Magic) Zaleski at the helm, Bombers picked up 289 yards along the ground, compared with 59 by Frankie Filchock's second-place Riders. Benson, rookie award winner in 1952, alone went for 163 yards as coach George Trafton relied on Canadian players for his offensive backfield, and American imports on defence.

Throughout most of the game, Zaleski handed off brilliantly to Benson, Len Meltzer and Andy Sokol, while league-leading scorer Buddy Korchak took care of the flying wing chores. All are Canadian-born.

Meltzer scored Bombers' seventh major, and Korchak converted them all and added a single on a long kick-off.

Benson's six touchdowns topped teammate Tom Casey's three-touchdown WIFU record for one game. Casey established his mark last year. Benson also set a western record for yards rushing in one game as he romped 163. The previous record was Normie Kwong's 161 yards for Edmonton.

Bobby Marlow, all-American half back from Alabama, plunged for the Riders' five points. Del Wardien missed the convert.

But Bombers' strength was not in the backfield alone. The entire front wall turned in one of its best efforts of the year, and the defensive backs left little to be desired; intercepting eight Rider pass attempts. Buddy Grant, who plays end of offence, picked off five of the Rider throws, two of which set up Bomber touchdowns.

The old mark for pass interceptions was five, set by Calgary last year.

AIR SUCCESS

Quarterbacks Frankie Filchock, playing coach, and Glenn Dobbs, both former National Football League stars, failed to get the highly-regarded Rider backs going along the ground, but had fair success in the air. The pair completed 17 of 33 passes for 171 yards. But most of the gains were in their own territory or in midfield.

Filchock started but gave way in the third quarter to Dobbs, still hampered by a knee injury. The Dobber, all-star western quarterback in 1951, pitched Riders into position for Marlow's touchdown late in the third quarter after Bombers had built up a 30-0 lead.

Herbie Johnson, import halfback, was Riders most consistent ground gainer, while Nelson Greene, a transplanted easterner, showed to good advantage on runbacks of kicks and kick-offs. Marlow was the pick of the defensive squad.

Tigers Shut Out Owen Sound By 5-0

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The loss column is making the difference in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A race this year.

Although only two points separate the top five teams, three clubs have lost at least two games. The other two who have yet to taste defeat are leading the league.

Hamilton Tigers, who won their fourth consecutive game in as many starts with a 5-0 shutout over Owen Sound Mercurys in Hamilton Wednesday night, took over sole possession of first place.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, after a late start in the schedule, have taken three in a row without defeat. Their last was a 5-3 nod over Niagara Falls Cataracts in Kitchener Wednesday night. The Allan Cup champions share second place with Windsor Bulldogs. Chatham Maroons and Stratford Indians.

The Bulldogs defeated the winless Sarnia Sailors 4-1 in Sarnia and Chatham dropped Stratford 3-1 in Chatham.

SAULT WHIPS PEMBROKE

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A southern group, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Greyhounds fortified their first-place position when they defeated the second-place Pembroke Lumber Kings 4-2 in Sault Ste. Marie.

Tigers dug in early for their victory, taking a 2-0 lead in the opening period. Frank Liscombe, Murray Comfort, Gordon Peebles, Phil Unger and Billy Hammond shared scoring chores.

Chatham Maroons, who had previously lost two games to Stratford Indians, finally turned the tide. Ed Didone bagged two and Bill Lee the other for the Maroons. Don Oberholtzer clicked for the Indians.

Kitchener, who won their first two games by mountainous scores, were held reasonably close by Niagara Falls. Jack McKenzie, Charlie Brooker, Johnny Muretich, Art Hurst and Gerry Theberge connected for the Dutchies. Lloyd Ferguson, Nick Dubick and Jim McNulty scored for Cataracts.

THREE WINDSOR SCORERS

Dick Kotanan, Lyle Wiseman, Gord Haidy and Gary Gordon netted for Windsor. Jerry Horton, obtained Tuesday from Owen Sound, gave the Sailors their lone goal.

Jim McBurney, leading scorer in Galt Black Hawks last year, and Eddie Mulligan bagged two goals each in Sault Ste. Marie's victory. The game was marked by a third-period free-for-all, resulting in four misconduct penalties, two majors and a pair of minors. Jim Maxwell notched both goals for the Kings.

Sault Ste. Marie Indians play in North Bay in a NOHA contest for tonight's only senior action.

Marmora Trips Tweed By Single Point

MARMORA (ENS) — A point kicked by Martin Nicholson with about five minutes of play remaining gave Marmora High School rugby team the verdict over Tweed at Deloro on Wednesday afternoon. There was a splendid attendance at the game which was tight from start to finish.

As a result Marmora is tied with Stirling for top place and these two teams play at Deloro next Wednesday.

Jack Gimblett Leads

Jack Gimblett rolled a neat 750 for men's best triple in the Mercantile Bowling League, while Harold Crawker's 296 single was high. Ladies' top three went to Marcella Coulas with 680, including best single of 291. Cal Nichol's team had a grand total of 3120. Few of the bowlers fell below the 200 mark. H. Cawker had a 714 triple.

Glen Baker's Meats topped Crowe's 3-1, as did A & P No. 1 over A & P No. 2. Neill's did likewise against East City Market, and Austin's won 3 - 1 from Prudential. Cal Nichol's swept four points from Empress. The scores were quite good in the circuit this week.

Bowlers In Costume

The Wednesday girls' bowling loop had a lot of fun when the trundlers turned up at the alleys in Hallowe'en costumes. Edith Ranesbotton took high three for the season to date with 711, with singles of 261, 229 and 221.

Good singles included: M. Kernohen 270, L. Armitage 268 and 200, M. Wiley 264 and 206, M. Mesley 258, D. Pacey 256 and 212, O. Downer 247, M. Young 236, T. Heslip 224, G. Blondin 221, H. Blackley 218 and 210, A. Lucas 210 and P. Jackman 200. Neat triples were: M. Wiley 644, L. Armitage 629, H. Mesley and M. Kernohen 615, D. Pacey 583, H. Blackley 571, M. Young 554, O. Downer 553.

Team standings: Rockets 18, Eager Beavers, Cisco Kids and Terrors 17, Whizz Bangs 15, Happy Gang 12, Dinkies and Tornadoes 11, Bombers 8, Ramblers 7, Wild Cats 6 and Playfairs 4.

Trailermen's Draw

The senior Lacrosse Trailermen's draw for the trailer and oil burner will be made at the Friday night OHA senior "B" game here, President Bob Pierson announced today. The draw was staged early in September in order to raise funds to send the lacrossers out west where they successfully defended their Mann Cup championship.

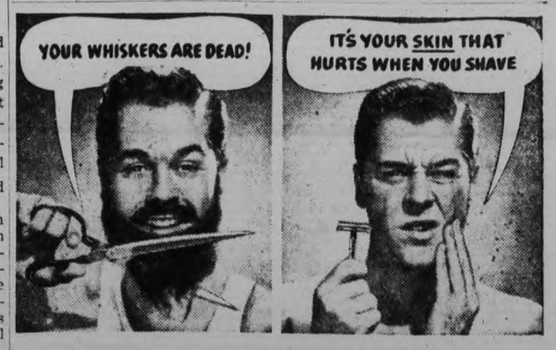
The draw would have been made sooner, possibly right after the champions returned from Victoria but for a number of tickets still being out. These have been turned in now and the club will wind it up Friday with the draw.

Canadian Team Places Second

HARRISBURG, Pa. (CP) — Led by Shirley Thomas and Lt.-Col. Charles Baker, the Canadian riding team Wednesday turned in its best performance of the 1953 Pennsylvania National Horse Show—coming second in both international jumping events of the day, and third in one.

The 18-year-old Canadian from Ottawa and Baker failed to win blue ribbons only by a small margin, Baker being beaten in an individual jumping event on time and Miss Thomas losing the individual championship to England's Patricia Smythe in a special jump-off.

Miss Thomas and Miss Smythe, first women to represent their respective countries in international competition, finished the original eight-jump course for the Governor's Challenge Trophy with faultless performances, the only riders to do it.



In the jump-off, however, after Miss Smythe had re-run the course with three faults, Miss Thomas tumbled a bar obstacle on the third jump. That gave her four faults and she was whistled off the course.

Keene Lions Plan Hallowe'en Party

KEENE (ENS) — The Lions' club at their dinner meeting in the club room Tuesday evening made plans for the Hallowe'en masquerade to be held in the township hall Friday evening and for a children's party in the Memorial arena Saturday evening. Plans were also discussed for the annual dance and television draw to be held at Club Aragon November 6th.

Actor Enjoys Being Politician Too

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — You may have had the notion that being a politician is akin to being an actor. Well, here's a man who has successfully combined the two professions.

For a few months of the year, he is state assemblyman Charles J. Conrad, representing Hollywood-San Fernando valley. The rest of the time he is merely Charle Conrad, movie actor.

Conrad was elected to the California legislature for the fourth time last November. Dropping by his home to find out how he combines his two jobs, I found him a hearty fellow with a gift of gab, a faculty generally found in both actors and politicians.

"Which came first?" I inquired.

"Acting," he replied. "Actually I started out to be a lawyer, but my father fell ill, and I had to go to work. I started as an actor in stock in my home town, Philadelphia. I met the character actor, Grant Mitchell, who took me under his wing and taught me the business.

"Then I met Walter Connolly. He had scored a hit in 'It happened One Night' and was much in demand at the studios. He needed someone to watch after his affairs and I agreed to go to Hollywood with him. I did his work and picked up acting jobs in pictures whenever I could."

Because he had some spare time, Conrad became active with the Young Republican groups. When he returned to Hollywood from army service in 1946, he renewed his film career. He also took part in Republican activities and was urged to run for assembly in the district once represented by another actor, Albert Dekker. He agreed and won in 1946. He managed to weather the 1948 storm and has won twice since then.

"No, I don't think so," he answered. "Maybe that's because I'm known as being fairly conservative. If I were to be a wild-eyed sort of fellow, I'd leave myself open to criticism."

THE RESULT OF A RACE in which the contestants, a train and an oil tanker, raced for a level crossing in Montreal. Although ending in a draw, both lost the race as the tanker suffered heavy damage and the engine was derailed. No one was injured in the mishap.

CNR Planning To Build Large Hotel

MONTREAL (CP)—Donald Gordon, president of Canadian National Railways, has outlined a project in which the CNR and private enterprise would jointly erect a modern transportation, hotel, business and shopping centre in the heart of Montreal.

The vast project covering an area more than twice as large as Rockefeller Centre's 11.4 acres in New York was explained by Mr. Gordon at a press conference.

He said the first step would be the CNR's recently-announced plan for a $20,000,000 hotel, rising above CNR's central station, on which work may be started next year.

Provisions for construction of the hotel will be included in the CNR's 1954 budget, subject to parliamentary approval.

BUSINESS PROPOSITION

Mr. Gordon said the planned hotel of upward of 1,000 rooms is considered by CNR planners as a "business proposition" that will meet definite need in Montreal.

The hotel would be followed by an adjoining CNR central office building.

Private business would be encouraged to join in the project by erecting buildings across Dorchester street from CNR's existing central station and International Aviation building and the projected hotel and CNR office building. Modern office and commercial buildings would be erected on either side of a plaza CNR planners would build above a present area of railway tracks extending north of station buildings.

Impressive Demonstration

Turks Won't Be Pushover If War Should Come Now

By TOM MASTERSON

GALLIPOLI (AP) — Allied observers who watched the Turkish Army go through its paces in recent manoeuvres here are convinced: The Turks won't be a pushover for anybody if war comes.

Turkey has a 450,000-man army, ample reserves and a growing air force that now numbers 20,000 men. Forty per cent of the Turkish budget goes for defence.

The swarthy Turk is a rugged soldier, well trained, well-equipped and disciplined. He's quickly learning how to get the most out of his United States fighting tools.

The Turks hate the Russians. It's a traditional hatred, dating back centuries in the time of the czars, and Turk soldiers are not allowed to forget it.

At the height of a sham battle only a few miles south of the Communist Bulgarian frontier this month, Gen. Nurettin Baransel, Turkish first army commander, stood on a hilltop and said to his troops:

REAL ENEMY RUSSIANS

"Always remember that the real enemy are the Russians and the Bulgarians."

Allied officers, who often try to create the impression they haven't Russia and her satellites in mind in NATO manoeuvres, feign embarrassment when the tough, practical Turks talk like this.

But they're not fooling the Turks, who have a 1,000-mile land and sea frontier with Russia and Bulgaria. The "imaginary enemy" used the same routes in the recent manoeuvres that Russia has used for centuries to invade Turkey.

DEFENCE STRESSED

The manoeuvres were aimed at testing Turkish and Greek defences along these routes and the speed with which their NATO Allies could bring aid in event of an invasion.

They also underlined the tough job facing Turkey and Greece in defending Thrace against a Soviet attack on southeastern Europe The treeless rolling plains of Turkish Thrace are ideal for tank warfare.

To protect the Bosporous and the area around the Golden Horn, the Turks have built up the Chataldja line, which cuts across a narrow isthmus from the Sea of Marmora to the Black Sea, 40 miles northeast of Istanbul.

STRONG DEFENCE LINE

The Turks also have built up a strong defence line before Gallipoli and the Dardanelles, but here they have a natural barrier to help. A few miles before Gallipoli, gentle slopes and pastures suddenly sprout into steep rocky hills covered with forest.

The manoeuvres proved Turkish and Greek troops to be among the world's best but also showed neither country can defend itself without substantial help from U.S. and British forces.

Troops To Be Used Only Halt Aggression

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian troops in Korea will not be used to further nationalistic ambitions of any kind, External Affairs Minister Pearson said Wednesday.

"Canadian troops are being held in Korea to check aggression," Mr. Pearson told the annual meeting of the Eastern Ontario Liberal Association. "They are not in Korea for any other purpose not sanctioned by the United Nations."

J. C. Allen of Ottawa was elected president of the association. Other officers are: Vice-presidents, A.R. Miller, Mallorytown; Noel Berthiaume, Hawkesbury, and A. A. McNab, Renfrew; secretary-treasurer Thomas C. Cossitt, Brockville.

Some Farmers Victims Of 'Tax Salesmen'

GUELPH (CP) — Police said Wednesday some farmers in this district have fallen victim to fast-talking salesmen promising "income tax service."

Some rural residents paid more than $50 in advance for a two-year service that was supposed to include filling out income tax forms, consultations and keeping a set of books.

When the farmers wrote to the address given by the salesmen, their letters were returned stamped "moved."

Better Beef Cattle

STRATFORD (CP)—R. H. Graham, deputy livestock commissioner for Ontario, Wednesday suggested breeders aim at a perfect beef cattle by choosing two factors of the various breeds. Addressing a southwestern Ontario breeders group, he said selection of stock to arrive at the "sleek, tidy Shorthorn" may some day prove unsatisfactory for general use.

COMMONS SPEAKER—L. Rene Beaudoin, 41, deputy speaker in the last Parliament and Liberal member for Vaudreuil-Soulanges, may be the Speaker of the Commons for the next four years. Prime Minister St. Laurent has announced that he will move Mr. Beaudoin's nomination after Parliament opens. Mr. Beaudoin would succeed Ross Macdonald, 62, of Brantford, who was appointed to the senate early last summer.

Peconi Slaughter House

Defence Witnesses Lay Bad Odors To Former Owner

Trial on the first of six public health charges facing Nick Peconi of Otonabee street, brought by Smith township, moved to a close Wednesday as the defence closed its case.

The case will come up again November 12 when the prosecution, represented by Walter Howell, and defence, represented by A. L. Eliott, Q.C., will present their arguments to Magistrate R. I. Moore.

Seven witnesses, including the accused, figured in the presentation of two and a half hours of defence evidence Wednesday. The prosecution witnesses testified last week on a charge against Peconi of carrying on an offensive trade.

The accused operates a slaughter house in Smith.

OBJECTS TO WITNESS

Hardly had Mr. Elliot begun questioning his first witness, Bruce Menzies, Peterborough Humane Society officer, when Mr. Howell objected that Menzies' evidence had no bearing on the charge.

The officer had just begun to describe a visit of October 7. The charge as dated September 3.

"I can't see it myself," Magistrate Moore agreed.

Mr. Elliott assured the court, however, that "when all the evidence is in, it will have some bearing."

Menzies continued his evidence which consisted mainly of how conditions in the slaughter house are at present. He said he has "never found a better slaughter house."

He went there originally, however, to investigate a complaint that animals were being mistreated. He found no evidence to support the complaint.

PART-TIME EMPLOYEE

Surprisingly enough, the next witness, a part-time Peconi employee who lives near the house said the area used to smell "something fierce."

The catch, however, was that the smell didn't result from Peconi operations but operations of a dead animal collection outfit, Gordon Young Ltd., who used the same property at the time of the charge, and sold it to the present owner early in the summer.

The employee, Albert Downer, said he rented a house on the property from Peconi some 200 or 300 yards from the slaughter house. The odor, flies and maggots which were described so vividly by prosecution witnesses last week swarmed about animal carcasses and refuse owned by Young.

Young, he said, took no steps to destroy the matter at all.

Moreover, he added, Peconi should be congratulated rather than prosecuted for his actions since assuming control of the slaughter house.

John Adams of Downer's Corner, next witness, frequented the property as a construction worker, building improvements to the slaughter house.

He, too, agreed there was a very bad odor coming from the area, but narrowed it down to the dead stock load in Young's vehicles. The bones and insides were taken away only once a week and the hides once a month.

PROPERTY CHANGED

The next three witnesses, Harold Gallagher, W. R. Booth and Ernest Dew also visited or worked on the property and noted how much it changed for the better after the accused took over.

They too, attributed the flies, odor and maggots to the former owner's operations.

Final witness was the accused, Peconi who called the slaughter house area "pretty bad" when he visited there first in June, prior to taking over.

Before starting to operate, though, he had all the bones gathered up from the area, scattered lime on the ground to reduce the smell and generally did all he could to make sure the place was not offensive.

He assured the court "nothing I did added to the odor." He described his operations emphasizing the care he took to carry them on in a sanitary manner.

"In other words you bought the smell," Magistrate Moore asked.

"Yes, that's right," Peconi smiled.

Under cross-examination, the accused said some of the improvements hadn't been carried out before he was summonsed to court.

Bookkeeper Testifies In Seguin Trial

CORNWALL (CP) — A bookkeeper testified Wednesday that Henri Seguin told him, a few days before Leonard Hurd was found slain, that "it would be easy to hit Mr. Hurd over the head and take his money."

Seguin, 28-year-old Cornwall laborer, is on trial for murder in the shooting last year.

Douglas McKibbon, former bookkeeper at Hurd's garage at Maxville, was one of 31 witnesses called by the crown before it closed its case.

Defence lawyers said they had not decided whether to offer defence evidence. They were expected to announce their decision at the opening of court today.

McKibbon said he knew Seguin for some time prior to the discovery of Hurd's bullet-pierced body in a taxi on a sideroad near his home 20 miles north of here Aug. 26, 1952. He said he passed over Seguin's remark about slugging and robbing Hurd.

WANTED NO TROUBLE

"I told him I didn't want any trouble in Maxville, because I was getting along well," McKibbon testified. "Seguin said that if I gave him some food and money there would be no trouble. So I gave him some groceries and $10."

During other conversations, Seguin asked him about reports Hurd carried large amounts of money, he said. He told Seguin he took care of the garage money himself in the daytime but turned it over to Hurd at night.

McKibbon said that on one occasion when he gave Seguin $2 and some groceries, he saw a brown leather zippered satchel in the back of Seguin's 1934 model coupe. Shown a satchel entered at the trial as an exhibit, he said it was similar.

NOT TAKEN SERIOUSLY

Under cross-examination, McKibbon said he did not pay any attention to Seguin's remark about robbing Hurd because he did not think Seguin meant it seriously. He said that was why he did not report it to the police.

Johnny McBain, 15-year-old farm boy from the Maxville district, said that on the night of the slaying he saw Hurd's taxicab parked near the spot where it was later found in the ditch. Near it was another car which he identified from photographs as the one belonging to Seguin.

Seguin, 28, went on trial Monday. He was brought here from Williams Lake, B. C., after being wounded in a gunfight with RCMP during what police said was an attempted bank robbery.

20 Years For Abduction

LINTON, N.D. (AP)—Donald B. Argyle, 31-year-old Canadian soldier, pleaded guilty Wednesday to kidnapping a Strasburg, N.D., housewife and was given a 20-year prison sentence. Argyle admitted the kidnapping last July 15 of Mrs. Albert Geigle, 33, wife of a grain elevator manager. She had given him a ride in her automobile. The 20-year sentence represents maximum penalty for kidnapping under North Dakota law.

May Drop Exemption

OTTAWA (CP)—The government is considering withdrawal of the $1-a-day income tax exemption for Canadian servicemen in Korea, a spokesman for the defence department said Wednesday. If carried out, all Canadian servicemen would be on the same pay basis, whether serving in Germany, France, Japan, Korea or Canada.

Committed For Trial

KITCHENER (CP)—Joseph Finnigan, 23, of Guelph Wednesday was committed for trial on a charge of manslaughter arising from the traffic death Oct. 11 of Mrs. Ray F. Leader of Guelph. The woman was killed when an automobile in which she was riding toppled over on her after a collision on the Hespeler-Guelph highway.

CD Show For Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Mayor Allan Lamport told board of control Wednesday the federal government's civil defence convoy will visit Toronto early in 1954 at no cost to the city. The mayor and the Toronto civil defence committee recently refused to sponsor the convoy here because it would cost the city almost $1,000.

Arrest Bishop For Damaging Monument

MURPHY, N.C. (AP) — Bishop Homer Tomlinson, overseer of one faction of the Church of God, was arrested Wednesday while re-enacting the self-appointed role of Moses destroying the Ten Commandments.

The object of the bishop's wrath was a mountain near here covered with five-foot concrete letters spelling out the Ten Commandments.

The site of the commandments is a shrine for another faction of the church headed by Tomlinson's brother, Rev. Milton Tomlinson of Cleveland, Tenn. The bishop lives at Queens Village, N.Y.

Now on a swing across the country, Bishop Tomlinson announced several days ago that he would go to Cleveland and "remove" his brother as general overseer of the Church of God of Prophecy and then come here in an effort to destroy the commandments at the Fields of the Wood. He did just that.

STARTS CHIPPING

Arriving in a car from Cleveland, the bishop got out, took an eight-pound sledgehammer and strode over to the eighth commandment — "Thou shalt not Steal."

Before a crowd of about 100, including sheriff M. G. Crawford and other officers, the bishop swung the sledgehammer, chipping tiny pieces from the numeral "8" of the commandment. After two blows the officers arrested him on a charge of damaging church property.

His trial is scheduled for Nov. 9.

A GONE GOOSE — The first Canada Goose reported in the district was bagged by 16-year-old Wayne Post of Campbellford on the weekend. The big bird had a wing-spread of 59 inches, and weighed about ten pounds. (W. W. Reid photo.)

Young Hunter With Gun Shoots Large Canada Goose

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—Six-teen year old Wayne Post bagged a Canada Goose on the weekend the first such bird downed in these parts this season, as far as local residents know.

Wayne bought himself a new shotgun recently, and has been waiting anxiously to use it. On the weekend, he went to Puff Ball Inn, about six miles north west of the town to try his new gun.

SAW IT COMING

While he was in the blind, he saw the big bird coming in to land on the water and could hardly believe his eyes. He waited until the bird was in range, then fired. The first shot from his new gun bagged the goose.

Local hunters report several flocks of Canada geese passing over, and it is believed this one bird may have had something wrong with it, forcing it down from the flock. It weighed about ten pounds and its wingspread was just one inch short of six feet.

Tug Sliced In Two In Harbor Collision

VANCOUVER (CP)—A tugboat was sliced in two and her seven-man crew was rescued from her sinking hull in heavy fog Wednesday night near Vancouver harbor.

The tug Dola, owned by Associated Tug Boats, was pulling a string of Pacific Great Eastern Railway freight cars on barges off Whytecliff, B.C., near the entrance to Howe Sound, when she was struck amidships by the Lady Cynthia, owned by Union Steamships Ltd.

Turkey Dinner For One Dollar

ALTAMOUNT, Man. (CP) — Every year in most rural communities the end of harvest is marked by the traditional fowl supper, a tradition that seems to gain strength through the years.

One of the first to organize this session for gourmets in home-cooking was this little town 87 miles southwest of Winnipeg. Like a lot of other customs, it lapsed during the war years, but about 300 persons turned up for the "eat all you can" classic this fall.

Tables sagged under loads of cold turkey and chickens, with apple, rhubarb and raisin, cream and lemon meringue pies. Salads and rolls topped off the feast.

BUSY COOKS

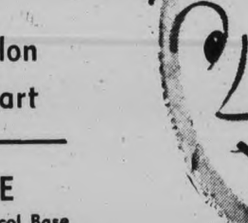
The supper was organized by the Altamount United Church Ladies Aid as a money-raising project. Adults paid $1, children 50 cents.

Each of 31 women produced 10 pounds of cooked fowl, a pot of potatoes, three pies and a large bowl of salad. Butter, sugar, cream, jellies, pickles, and gravy were also supplied on a co-operative basis.

The day before was cooking day and the men were thrust out of 31 kitchens until their services were required to carry the food to the hall where the feasters sat down, 100 to a table, until more than 300 were fed.

By 5 p.m. on feast day the hall was jammed. Platters were rapidly replenished as farmers came direct from the fields and returned after the meal, in some cases.

The following day was another cleanup as left-overs were sold to adults for 35 cents a meal and to children for a quarter. The ladies' aid was richer by $325 when the project was complete.



Obscene Radio Word Brings Protests

NEW YORK (AP)—An obscene word that went out over the Mutual Broadcasting System Wednesday night, bringing protests from across the country, has been traced to two radio station workers in Washington, the network announced.

The men were identified as an engineer and an announcer at station WWDC. The Mutual System said both were relieved of any future responsibilities on network programs. They were not identified by name.

The incident occurred during the 15-minute Fulton Lewis Jr. news program, broadcast from WWDC.

Ask Ontario Government To Help Pay For Operation Of Schools Of Nursing

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hospital Association Wednesday urged the provincial government help pay for operation of approved schools of nursing in the province. The association, at its 29th annual convention, also called for continued studies aimed at improving nurses training. The association asked for increased provincial grants for care of indigents, institutes to acquaint hospital trustees with their duties, special aid to hospitals serving residents of unorganized territories and increased federal payment for hospital service to Indians.

At the conclusion of the discussions, which included an address by Dr. E. E. Robbins of Reddy Memorial Hospital, Montreal, which outlined a program of sending patients home early but providing care for them there, several resolutions were passed which summed up the convention's considerations. These included:

Request that the provincial government recognize the service now provided by general hospitals in training nurses at no cost and provide financial assistance to such schools as met approval.

EXPAND SCHOOLS

Request that the provincial government undertake expansion of adequate nursing schools to meet a shortage of nurses and offer an attractive vocation to young women.

Request that present costs of indigent patients' care, now far surpassing statutory grants from province and municipality, be brought more realistically into line with rising expenses by increase of provincial grants and legislation to increase municipal grants, plus efforts to obtain federal assistance which is not now provided;

Request that the government of Canada increase greatly the minimum amount now paid for treaty Indians' treatment, and the problem of transient indigents' sevices as well as those of persons from unorganized areas be aided by increased government grants.

MORE BUSINESSLIKE

In discussing internal problems, several charges were made that the heads of some radiology and pathological departments were now receiving fees up to 75 per cent of their departments' total income, and that many of these specialists received three to four times the salary of the hospital superintendents. Others, it was charged, insisted on retainers plus a commission arrangement as being more favorable for income tax purposes, as well as permitting them to carry on private practice.

"These specialists are playing one hospital against another," one delegate said. "They should not be allowed to reach incomes far in excess of the hospital head. How can authority of the superintendent be maintained under such conditions."

Delegates agreed that hospital departments must be run on a businesslike basis, no matter who headed them, and that each must bear its share of total costs. Only on such a basis could a fair and honest fee be provided for the directors of such services.

ONLY PLAN IN CANADA

Dr. Robbins' description of his hospital's home care plan, described as the only such plan in Canada, revealed that it had been aimed at emptying hospital beds for other waiting patients as rapidly as patients could be sent home. Experience had shown that at a cost of about $3.50 a day, home care could be provided for the final brief period of attention, yet it had lowered the average in-hospital period about two days per patient. This had meant greater use of ancillary services such as laboratory and X-ray, making them available for a greater volume of patients.

In keeping with this program was the description by Dr. E. C. Steele, a member of the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board, who predicted that before long low cost housing may be part of hospital programs, permitting patients being put through a rehabilitation period instead of staying in hospital.

The board, he outlined, had opened a centre at Malton which, despite its being in ancient wartime buildings which cost excessively to heat, had provided an average of 41 days care of $5.50 per day. Most important, however, had been its rehabilitation of accident cases. In the old days many would have become permanent unemployable; today a great proportion, as a result of a training-treatment program, were reinstated in industry. He urged hospitals to pay greater attention to rehabilitation possibilities.

MISSING—This family snapshot shows Evelyn Hartley, 15-year-old La Crosse, Wis., school girl. Police believe she was dragged from a home where she was baby-sitting after they found signs of a struggle in the home and a pool of blood on the ground near the house.

Helping Friend May Cost Life

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP)—Fifteen-year-old Evelyn Hartley is missing—probably dead—because she did a favor last Saturday night for a girl friend.

The popular high school junior, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Hartley, has been the object of intensive search since her disappearance five nights ago from the home of Viggo Rasmusen. She was there only because a classmate at La Crosse high school asked her to substitute on a baby-sitting job.

"The chances are Evelyn was an accidental victim," said district attorney John Bosshard. He declined to name the girl she substituted for.

The possibility that a boy friend of Evelyn's might be involved in her disappearance was discounted by Bosshard.

"She had few dates and no steady boy friend. We've even cleared boys who had asked her for dates and had been refused," he said.

Death Of Motorcyclist Accidental, Jury Decides

Investigating the death of Ronald Pavey, 16, of 255 Woodbine Ave., a coroner's jury Wednesday turned in an accidental death verdict and absolved a second driver of blame. Pavey died September 24, hours after his motorcycle had crashed into the side of a turning car driven by H. L. Reynolds, 49, of 817 Park St. S.

As nine witnesses gave evidence on the matter, conflicting stories describing the motorcycle headlight's condition were heard. Some said it was dim, while others described it as normal.

PC William G. Scott who, along with PC James Armstrong, investigated the crash, said he arrived at the accident scene about 11 o'clock to find both vehicles at the southwest corner of the Stewart and Aberdeen Sts. intersection. Damage to the car was confined to the front side while the cycle sustained damage to the front wheel and forks.

He determined the drivers as Pavey and Reynolds, and their passengers as Robert Clarkson, 16, 255 Woodbine Ave., and Miss Barbara Hoey, 18, of 747 Chesterfield Ave., respectively.

LIGHT TROUBLE

Later examining the motorcycle, a 1940 model formerly used by the city police department, PC Scott discovered an interesting situation.

The motorcycle's light grew dimmer every minute its engine ran, but if the engine was shut off, the headlight would be much brighter. The dimmer light, noticed as the engine ran, would not be adequate for a driver to see on the highway, though it might be adequate to be seen by.

The tests, he reminded the jury, were made 20 hours after the accident.

Clarkson, the passenger, who also sustained injuries in the crash, described how it happened. The pair were coming in from Chemong and driving south on Stewart St. about 30 miles per hour when suddenly, about 30 or 40 feet ahead, a car turned left in front of them to go west on Aberdeen.

Clarkson felt Pavey apply the brakes but there wasn't time to avoid a collision. Upon questioning by Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, Clarkson maintained the motorcycle headlight was normal.

KNEW MACHINE

Next witness, Clare Heard, veteran motorcycle salesman, described the machine involved in the accident. He told the court he had handled all its servicing and sales since new 13 years ago.

Just four days prior to the accident, Heard installed a new battery, generator and wiring on the bike and said that, at that time, the headlight was working perfectly. Upon inspecting it after the crash, though, he found the wiring in disorder.

As a result of the accident, he thought, the headlight wire was bared and touching another part of the machine, thus causing a short circuit. This would result in trouble consistent with that discovered by Constable Scott. It would not necessarily blow out the light and the machine is not equipped with fuses.

William Burke, R.R. 1, Peterborough, was stopped at the intersection of Stewart and Wolsley Sts., 100 yards north of Wolsley when the motorcycle came by, just prior to the accident. He estimated its speed at between 25 and 30 miles an hour.

Lighting on the machine was normal, he testified.

Watching it down the street, he saw a northbound car turn left directly in front of the motorcycle, cutting the corner. He couldn't tell whether the motorcycle slowed down or not but it collided with the car.

DULL GLOW

Melville Shannon, 508 Stewart St., said he was following the motorcycle into the city. It had passed him earlier at about 55 miles per hour and when he glanced over to see it, the headlight was only a "dull glow."

Following it along the road, he saw Reynolds' car make "a normal left trun" in front of it and the resulting accident. Albert Porter, of Lakefield, riding with Shannon, also described the cycle's headlight as "dull."

Herbert Reynolds, the car driver, said that prior to making a left turn from Stewart st. he saw cars farther north but nothing between his car and them. He was just making the turn when the motorcycle appeared "practically at my side."

The collision then was unavoidable. Reynolds said he saw no headlight before noticing the motorcycle a few feet away from him.

Miss Hoey, his passenger, said she didn't see the cycle either; "just felt the impact."

In the absence of an Oshawa motorcycle mechanic, Constable Scott again appeared before the jury to report on an examination of the cycle in his presence.

The evidence was partially hearsay, but, as Crown Attorney Bradshaw pointed out, coroner's inquests are not governed by the same rules as regular court proceedings.

The mechanic found, on tracing the vehicle's wiring, that three wires running together on the machine's frame had been cut, and then rejoined by twisting and taping. One wire had worked loose and was touching another so as to cause the generator to cut out and force the battery to take the full load of the electrical system.

Under these conditions, the light would grow dim when the cycle's engine was running and brighter when not running.

The five-man jury adjourned briefly to consider whether the Oshawa man should be called to testify and returned to say they decided he needn't appear. The jurors also decided against recalling Heard to explain the other mechanic's findings.

Retiring for about 15 minutes, the jury returned with the verdict that Pavey's death was caused by "misadventure." Additionally they felt the evidence "does not warrant placing the blame on the deceased or the driver of the car."

Members of the jury were Harry Green, foreman; A. T. Fontain, Hugh Cruikshank, Raymond Fuller and Charles Coleman.

Sandbag Banks Of Po River As Water Rises

MILAN (AP)—Volunteer workers frantically sandbagged the banks of the mighty Po river in northern Italy today as its waters rose to menace thousands of acres of rich farmland. Rain continued to fall in many areas.

Sandbags were being piled up by the thousands along the banks of the Po between Polesella and Guarda Veneta, about 40 miles from the broad delta where the mouth of Italy's biggest river empties into the Adriatic sea.

On the Po Delta, several hamlets already were flooded and their farm families evacuated.

The Polesella area was the centre of the disastrous floods of 1951, when 94 were killed.

RIVER AT 1926 PEAK

Along the northern sweep of the broad Po valley, the powerful Adige river also threatens towns and farmland.

At Verona, 60 miles inland from the Adriatic, the Adige Wednesday night reached its 1926 peak, its record in modern years. Outskirts of the city of 160,000 were flooded.

Rain stopped in southern Italy, but there was still danger of landslides in Calabria, the toe of the Italian boot, where cloudbursts and floods took 55 lives last week.

A WEEKLY INFORMATION SERVICE

MONTREAL, October 29th—It's a pleasure to use gay colors in sewing, on these dark Fall days. That's one reason, I think, why more women buy Canadian made PRISCILLA BIAS FOLD TAPE than any other kind. For Priscilla comes in colors as delicate and "gay as a bowl of sweet peas"! Also in the prettiest two-toned effects. The fine quality lawn with which Priscilla is made, has been specially treated, so that it's crisp and always fresh—yet folds over scallops, curves, corners, with ease. Why not whip up some children's clothes—some cute aprons—new curtains for the kitchen—and use Priscilla Bias Fold Tape to give them that extra charm? Guaranteed fast to boiling!

Isn't It Good—the way the best chemists and designers work to make our household tasks easier? I'm thinking of the new, improved BIG 5 CLEANSER—Its formula is so good now that it cleans, polishes and disinfects—and has a delicate fragrance you'll like. It's easy on the hands. It's the tops in quality—yet sells at only half the price you'd expect to pay. And designers have made a handy container with holes already punched under the blue disc on top of the can. . . . Then there's the new odorless javel powder—made by Big 5—so soft that it won't hurt silks or even woolens. It's a water softener too!

I had to Rush Next-Door—With Wings On My Feet . . . the baby had a first tooth! His young mother was awed by the wonder of it all . . . and the baby was happy with one of her FARLEY'S RUSKS. Famous in England, they are made from the finest English wheat flour . . . enriched with calcium and phosphorus. As baby bites on Farley's they help exercise the little gums—their valuable nutritive properties aid in tooth and bone development. Wonderful at mealtime, too, crushed in warm milk or fruit. Ask for Farley's Rusks in food stores. The yellow box with the cellophane top will become a regular part of your shopping list . . . just see if it doesn't!

Each Week I Order Half-A-Dozen . . . of what I think is a homemaker's staunch and inspired friend, HEINZ CONDENSED SOUPS. Then I know I'm all set for a week of varied flavours and added richness in sauces, dressings, meat loaf, rarebits, casseroles—and of course soup! With Heinz Soups on hand . . . you can use Vegetable Soup in beef stew; add mushroom sauce to fried mushrooms; Cream of Tomato Soup to your Spanish rice; Chicken Soup with Noodles on casseroles of vegetables. You can whip up the most delectable omelets with sauces that the family say are "out-of-this-world!" — when you have a row of Heinz Condensed Soups always ready.

It's A "Honey" Of A Stove . . . and I'll wager women have described the GURNEY Gas Range in that way for many many years. Yes . . . it's all that your heart desires in a stove . . . and the best way to know how right I am is to ask your dealer to show you the new Gurney Gas Range. Gurney stoves are all kitchen-tested—and have been top favorites in Canadian kitchens for more than one hundred years! Good designing and beautiful, sturdy construction has always been part of Gurney's success secret. Look, for instance, at the automatic clock . . . the special "Even-Heat" oven that keeps the temperature exactly right—automatically . . . and its glass door! What a stove!

I'm Excited About The Chance A Woman Has—to win big cash prizes in the BLUE BONNET MARGARINE Christmas cash contest! Each week—twenty-six prizes—$500; $200; $100; with 5 other prizes of $50 and 18 of $25! Plus a chance at the Christmas BONUS of one thousand dollars. . . . Write in 30 words, or less, why you prefer Blue Bonnet Margarine. Send as many entries as you like, and enclose with each one TWO END FLAPS (with Good Housekeeping Seal of Approval) from Blue Bonnet—or reasonable facsimile. For a chance at the $1000 Christmas Bonus, write how many units of Vitamin A are in each package of Blue Bonnet. Mail to Blue Bonnet Sue, Box 2160, Toronto, Ontario.

Here's To Your Good Health! Yes, it's a toast to health and beauty when you drink the juice of one fresh lemon in a glass of water, first thing on arising. You see, this natural fruit drink helps keep you regular the healthful way. That's because lemon-in-water gently helps your system regulate itself. So take my tip—if you're feeling out of sorts, follow this healthful lemon formula for feeling better. But make a point of using SUNKIST LEMONS. I find I get more, delicious juice from them than any others I've ever tried.

No More Soggy Mittens steaming on the radiator! You see, VICEROY RUBBER SNOW MITTENS are waterproof. They're fleece-lined to keep fingers warm as toast and dipped in latex (rubber in its purest form) to keep water, wind and snow out. What's more, they stay pliable at very low temperatures. You'll notice, too, that Viceroy Snow Mittens have new, longer wristing to make complete protection doubly sure. So mother, be prepared for your youngsters' winter playtime . . . give them the comfort of Viceroy Rubber Snow Mittens. Your choice of colours red or brown (some with Cowboy or Indian designs) and sizes small, medium, large or extra large for junior adults.

Jewish Leaders Ask Canadians To Await Facts

TORONTO: "The Canadian Jewish Congress and the United Zionist Council of Canada are profoundly distressed at the bloodshed and heightened tensions now being generated among Arab States on Israel's borders," declared Samuel Bronfman, president of Congress, and Edward E. Gelber, president of the council in a joint statement issued today.

"Canada," said the statement "has an opportunity to remind both the Arab States and the Great Powers of their obligations to implement the peace recommendations of the Security Council made as early as 1948-49 when Canada played a leading role in the search for an Arab-Israel settlement. The pending Security Council hearings on border violence between Israel and Jordan will afford the world ample evidence of the continued urging on the part of Israel for peace in the Middle East, and the determined effort of Arab States to prevent any lasting peace coming to the troubled Near East—indeed, of preventing even the discussion of the possible terms of such a peace.

"Nothing will excuse brutal murder, and it is not the intention of Canadian citizens interested in the welfare of the people of Israel as well as peace in the Near East, to defend bloodshed wherever it may be found. It would, however, be profoundly immoral", said the joint statement, "to one-sidedly condemn alleged Israeli retaliation without condemning at the same time in ever strong terms those Arab States and leaders who for five years have encouraged tension and bloodshed and who have deliberately ignored any and every reasonable peace settlement that the United Nations and Israel from the beginning have been willing seriously to consider. Today organized Arab guerilla warfare is replacing sporadic border raids and Israel should not be accused or condemned until the full facts are disclosed. The Canadian people, with their strong sense of fairness, assuredly will not sit in judgment with only one side of the story heard. There is not the slightest doubt that the evidence will show Israel fighting desperately for the security of her frontiers and the safety of her harassed and unprotected border settlements. Every thoughtful Canadian will, therefore, await the findings of the Security Council and will hope that the Council will recommend immediate and practical measures to bring peace to Israel and her neighbors, resulting in greater happiness for the people of the Middle East," the statement concluded.

FOUR MEMBERS OF THE WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON Bowling Club went in costume to mark the Hallowe'en season and caused much amusement among fellow bowlers. They had fun themselves, too. Japanese Prisoners

MOSCOW (AP) — A five - man Japanese Red Cross delegation arrived by plane Wednesday night at the invitation of the Soviet Red Cross to discuss repatriation of Japanese war prisoners. The spokesman for the delegation, Risaburo Kiuchi, said he had been informed that the total of Japanese prisoners detained is 1,487, and all are accused of war crimes.

Urge Churchill 'Go It Alone'

LONDON (AP) — Two leading Conservative newspapers urged Prime Minister Churchill today to "go it alone" in a meeting with Soviet Premier Malenkov if he can not persuade President Eisenhower to join him.

They expressed understanding of United States distrust for the Russians but said Churchill's idea of holding informal East-West talks on world issues at the highest level was the only way to find out what is on the Russian leader's mind.

The Daily Telegraph said it readily conceded President Eisenhower would not find the same degree of support in the United States for such a meeting as Churchill has in Britain, but added:

"Let the impossibility of Eisenhower's participation be accepted. That does not mean necessarily that it would be impossible for him to endorse exploratory talks (with Malenkov) by our prime minister."

THE WAR MEMOIRS OF WINSTON CHURCHILL

THE MARTYRDOM OF WARSAW

The Russian summer offensive (in 1944) brought their armies in late July to the river Vistula. All reports indicated that in the very near future Poland would be in Russian hands. The leaders of the Polish Underground Army, which owed allegiance to the London Government, had now to decide when to raise a general insurrection against the Germans, in order to speed the liberation of their country and prevent them fighting a series of bitter defensive actions on Polish teritory and particularly in Warsaw itself. The Polish commander, General Bor Komorowski, and his civilian adviser were authorized by the Polish Government in London to proclaim a general insurrection whenever they deemed fit. The moment indeed seemed oportune. On July 20 came the news of the plot against Hitler, followed swiftly by the Allied break-out from the Normandy beachhead. About July 22 the Poles intercepted wireless messages from the German Fourth Panzer Army ordering a general withdrawal to the west of the Vistula. The Russians crossed the river on the same day, and their patrols pushed forward in the direction of Warsaw. There seemed little doubt that a general collapse was at hand.

General Bor therefore decided to stage a major rising and liberate the city. He had about forty thousand men, with reserves of food and ammunition for seven to ten days' fighting. The sound of Russian guns across the Vistula could now be heard. The Soviet Air Force began bombing the Germans in Warsaw from recently captured airfields near the capital, of which the closest was only twenty minutes' flight away. At the same time a Communist Committee of National Liberation had been formed in Eastern Poland, and the Russians announced that liberated territory would be placed under their control. Soviet broadcasting stations had for a considerable time been urging the Polish population to drop all caution and start a general revolt against the Germans. On July 29, three days before the rising began, the Moscow radio station broadcast an appeal from the Polish Communists to the people of Warsaw, saying that the guns of liberation were now within hearing, and calling upon them as in 1939 to join battle with the Germans, this time for decisive action.

On the evening of July 31 the Underground command in Warsaw got news that Soviet tanks had broken into the German defences east of the city. The German military wireless announced, "To-day the Russians started a general attack on Warsaw from the south-east." Russian troops were now at points less than ten miles away. In the capital itself the Polish Underground command ordered a general insurrection at 5 p.m. on the following day. General Bor has himself described what happened:

At exactly five o'clock thousands of windows flashed as they were flung open. From all sides a hail of bullets struck passing Germans, riddling their buildings and their marching formations. In the twinkling of an eye the remaining civilians disappeared from the streets. From the entrances of houses our men streamed out and rushed to the attack. In fifteen minutes an entire city of a million inhabitants was engulfed in the fight. Every kind of traffic ceased. As a big communications centre where roads from north, south, east and west converged, in the immediate rear of the German front, Warsaw ceased to exist. The battle for the city was on.

The news reached London next day, and we anxiously waited for more. The Soviet radio was silent and Russian air activity ceased. On August 4 the Germans started to attack from strong-points which they held throughout the city and suburbs. The Polish Government in London told us of the agonising urgency of sending in supplies by air. The insurgents were now opposed by five hastily concentrated German divisions.

I accordingly telegraphed Stalin.

PRIME MINISTER TO MARSHAL STALIN

4 Aug 44

At urgent request of Polish Underground Army we are dropping, subject to weather, about sixty tons of equipment and ammunition into the southwest quarter of Warsaw, where it is said a Polish revolt against the Germans is in fierce struggle. They also say that they appeal for Russian aid, which seems to be very near. They are being atacked by one and a half German divisions. This may be of help to your operation.

The reply was prompt and grim.

MARSHAL STALIN TO PRIME MINISTER

5 Aug 44

I have received your message about Warsaw.

I think that the information which has been communicated to you by the Poles is greatly exaggerated and does not inspire confidence. One could reach that conclusion even from the fact that the Polish emigrants have already claimed for themselves that they all but captured Vilna with a few stray units of the Home Army, and even announced that on the radio. But that of course does not in any way correspond with the facts. The Home Army of the Poles consists of a few detachments which they incorrectly call divisions. They have neither artillery nor aircraft nor tanks. I cannot imagine how such detachments can capture Warsaw, for the defence of which the Germans have produced four tank divisions, among them the Hermann Goering Division.

Meanwhile the battle went on street by street against the German Tiger tanks, and by August 9 the Germans had driven a wedge right across the city through to the Vistula, breaking up the Polish-held districts into isolated sectors. The gallant attempts of the RAF, with Polish, British and Dominion crews, to fly to the aid of Warsaw from Italian bases were both forlorn and inadequate. Two planes appeared on the night of August 4, and three four nights later.

✦ ✦ ✦

The Polish Prime Minister, Mikolajczyk, had been in Moscow since July 30 trying to establish some kind of terms with the Soviet Government, which had recognized the Polish Communist Committee of National Liberation as the future administration of the country. These negotiations were carried on throughout the early days of the Warsaw rising. Messages from General Bor were reaching Mikolajczyk daily, begging for ammunition and anti-tank weapons and for help from the Red Army. Meanwhile the Russians pressed for agreement upon the post-war frontiers of Poland and the setting up of a joint Government. A last fruiltess talk took place with Stalin on August 9.

On the night of August 16 Vyshinsky asked the United States Ambassador in Moscow to call, and, explaining that he wished to avoid the possibility of misunderstanding, read out the following astonishing statement:

The Soviet Government cannot of course object to English or American aircraft dropping arms in the region of Warsaw, since this is an American and British affair. But they decidedly object to American or British aircraft, after dropping arms in the region of Warsaw, landing on Soviet territory, since the Soviet Government do not wish to associate themselves either directly or indirectly with the adventure in Warsaw.

On the same day I received the following message couched in softer terms from Stalin:

MARSHAL STALIN TO PRIME MINISTER

16 Aug 44

After the conversation with M. Mikolajczyk I gave orders that the command of the Red Army should drop arms intensively in the Warsaw sector. A parachutist liaison officer was also dropped, who, according to the report of the command, did not reach his objective as he was killed by the Germans

Further, having familiarised myself more closely with the Warsaw affair, I am convinced that the Warsaw action represents a reckless and terrible adventure which is costing the population large sacrifices. This would not have been if the Soviet command had been informed before the beginning of the Warsaw action and if the Poles had maintained contact with it.

In the situation which has arisen the Soviet command has come to the conclusion that it must disassociate itself from the Warsaw adventure, as it cannot take either direct or indirect responsibility for the Warsaw action.

According to Mikolajczyk's account, the first paragraph of this telegram is quite untrue. Two officers arrived safely in Warsaw and were received by the Polish command. A Soviet colonel had also been there for some days, and sent messages to Moscow via London urging support for the insurgents.

Two days later (the President and I) sent the following joint appeal, which the President had drafted:

PRIME MINISTER (ITALY) AND PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT TO MARSHAL STALIN

20 Aug 44

We are thinking of world opinion if the anti-Nazis in Warsaw are in effect abandoned. We believe that all three of us should do the utmost to save as many of the patriots there as possible. We hope that you will drop immediate supplies and munitions to the patriot Poles in Warsaw, or will you agree to help our planes in doing it very quickly? We hope you will approve. The time element is of extreme importance.

This was the reply we got:

MARSHAL STALIN TO PRIME MINISTER AND PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

22 Aug 44

I have received message from you and Mr. Rooseevlt about Warsaw. I wish to express my opinions.

Sooner or later the truth about the group of criminals who have embarked on the Warsaw adventure in order to seize power will become known to everybody. These people have exploited the good faith of the inhabitants of Warsaw, throwing many almost unarmed people against the German guns, tanks, and aircraft. A situation has arisen in which each new day serves, not the Poles for the liberation of Warsaw, but the Hitlerites who are inhumanly shooting down the inhabitants of Warsaw.

From the military point of view, the situation which has arisen, by increasingly directing the attention of the Germans to Warsaw, is just as unprofitable for the Red Army as for the Poles. Meanwhile the Soviet troops, which have recently encountered new and notable efforts by the Germans to go over to the counter-attack, are doing everything possible to smash these counter-attacks of the Hitlerites and to go over to a new wide-scale attack in the region of Warsaw. There can be no doubt that the Red Army is not sparing its efforts to break the Germans round Warsaw and to free Warsaw for the Poles. That will be the best and most effective help for the Poles who are anti-Nazis.

Meanw[illegible] agony of Warsaw reached

The battle also raged literally underground. The only means of communication between the different sectors held by the Poles lay through the sewers. The Germans threw hand grenades and gas bombs down the manholes. Battles developeed in pitch-darkness between men waist deep in excrement, fighting hand to hand at times with knives or drowning their opponents in the slime. Above ground German artillery and fighters set alight large areas of the city.

PRIME MINISTER TO PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

25 Aug. 44

As Stalin's reply evades the definite questions asked and adds nothing to our knowledge, I propose a reply on the following lines:

"We earnestly desire to send U.S. aircraft from England. Is there any reason why the refueling ground assigned to us behind the Russian lines should not be used by them to land on without inquiry as to their activities on the way? In this way your Government would preserve the principle of dissociation from this particular episode. Our sympathies are aroused for these 'almost unarmed people' whose special faith has led them to attack German tanks, guns, and planes, but we are not concerned to form a judgment about the persons who instigated the rising, which was certainly called for repeatedly by Moscow Radio. We cannot think that Hitler's atrocities will end with ther resistance, but rather that that is the moment when they will probably begin with full ferocity. The Warsaw massacre will certainly be a matter fraught with trouble for us when we all meet at the end of the war. We therefore propose to send the aircraft unless you directly forbid it."

In the event of his failing to reply to this my feeling is that we ought to send the planes and see what happens.

The reply was adverse.

President Roosevelt to Prime Minister

26 Aug 44

I do not consider it would prove advantageous to the long-range general war prospect for me to join with you in the proposed message to Stalin, but I have no objection to your sending such a message if you consider it advisable to do so. In arriving at this conclusion I have taken into consideration Uncle J.'s present attitude towards the relief of the Underground forces in Warsaw, as indicated in his message to you and to me, his definite refusal to allow the use of us of Russian airfields for that purpose, and the current American conversations on the subject of the subsequent use of other Russian bases .

I had hoped that the Americans would support us in drastic action. On September 1st I received the Polish Premier Mikolajczyk, on his return from Moscow. I had little comfort to offer. He told me that he was prepared to propose a political settlement with the Lublin committee, offering them fourteen seats in a combined Government. These proposals were debatedunder fire by the repressentatives of the Polish Underground in Warsaw itself. The suggestion was accepted unanimously. Most of those who took part in these decisions were tried a year later for "treason" before a Soviet court in Moscow.

When the Cabinet met on the night of September 4 I thought the issue so important that though I had a touch of fever I went from my bed to our underground room. We had met together on many unpleasant affairs. I do not remember any occasion when such deep anger was shown by all our members, Tory, Labour, Liberal, alike. I should have liked to say, "We are sending our aeroplanes to land in your territory, after delivery of supplies to Warsaw. If you do not treat them properly all convoys will be stopped from this moment by us." But the reader of these pages in after-years must realize that everyone always has to keep in mind the fortunes of world-wide struggle, and that terrible and even humbling submissions must at times be made to the general aim. I did not therefore propose this drastic step. It might have been effective, because we were dealing with men in the Kremlin who were governed by calculation and not by emotion. They did not mean to let the spirit of Poland rise again at Warsaw. Their plans were based on the Lublin Committee. That was the only Poland they cared about. The cutting off of the convoys at this critical moment in their great advance would perhaps have bulked in their minds as much as considerations of honour, humanity, decent commonplace good faith, usually count with ordinary people.

PRIME MINISTER TO PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

Following is text of telegram sent to Moscow this evening.

"The War Cabinet wish the Soviet Government to know that public opinion in this country is deeply moved by the events in Warsaw and by the terrible sufferings of the Poles there. Whatever the right and wrongs about the beginnings of the Warsaw rising, the people of Warsaw themselves cannot be held responsible for the decision taken. Our people cannot understand why no material help has been sent from outside to the Poles in Warsaw. The fact that such help could not be sent on account of your Government's refusal to allow United States aircraft to land on aerdrones in Russian hands is now becoming known. If on top of all this the Poles in Warsaw should now be overwhelmed by the Germans, as we are told they must be within two or three days, the shock to public opinion here will be incalculable The War Cabinet themselves find it hard to understand your Government's refusal to take account of the obligations of the British and the Poles in Warsaw. Your Government's action in preventing this help being sent seems to us at varience with the spirit of Allied co-operation to which you and we attach so much importance both for the present and the future.

"Out of regard for Marshal Stalin and for the Soviet peoples, with whom it is our earnest desire to work in future years, the War Cabinet have asked me to make this further appeal to the Soviet Government to give whatever help may be in their power, and above all to provide facilities for United States aircraft to land on your airfields for this purpose."

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT TO PRIME MINISTER

I am informed by my office of Military Intelligence that the fighting Poles have departed from Warsaw and that the Germans are now in full control.

The problem of relief for the Poles in Warsaw has therefore unfortunately been solved by delay and by Germban action, and there now appears to be nothing we can do to assist them.

I have long been deeply distressed by our inability to give adequate assistance to the heroic defenders of Warsaw, and I hope that we may together still be able to help Poland to be among the victors in this war with the Nazis.

On September 10, after six weeks of Polish torment, the Kremlin appeared to change their tactics. That afternoon shells from the Soviet artillery began to fall upon the eastern outskirts of Warsaw, and Soviet planes appeared again over the city. Polish Communist forces, under Soviet orders, fought their way into the fringe of the capital. From September 14 onwards the Soviet Air Force dropped supplies; but few of the parachutes opened and many of the containers were smashed and useless. The following day the Russians occupied the Praga suburb but went no farther. They wished to have the non-Communist Poles destroyed to the full, but also to keep alive the idea that they were going to their rescue. Meanwhile, house by house, the Germans proceeded with their liquidation of Polish centres of resistance throughout the city. A fearful fate befell the population. Many were deported by the Germans. General Bor's appeals to the Soviet commander, General Rokossovsky, were unanswered. Famine reigned.

My efforts to get American aid led to one isolated but large-scale operation. On September 18 a hundred and four heavy bombers flew over the capital, dropping supplies. It was too late. On the evening of October 2 Premier Mikolajcyzk came to tell me that the Polish forces in Warsaw were about to surrender to the Germans.

When the Russians entered the city three months later they found little but shattered streets and the unburied dead. Such was their liberation of Poland, where they now rule. But this cannot be the end of the story.

THE MARTYRDOM OF WARSAW—Result of General Bor's ill-fated liberation attempt, doomed largely by failure of Russian troops and airplanes to come to assistance of patriots, is shown above. German rocket-firing carrier in last stages of action is still pouring explosives on the destroyed city.

A BEDRAGGLED GROUP of wounded Polish patriots, apathetic with sorrow, await their fate at the hands of the Nazis following unsuccessful uprising in Warsaw.

Chased Children

TORONTO (CP)—Donald Ealey of Toronto was charged with dangerous driving Wednesday after police said he chased children and pedestrians over the grass at a Toronto park Tuesday night with his car. Officers said Ealey sped his car at groups of playing children and then skidded it to see how close he could come to them.

Doctor At 73 Quits Career, Starts Another

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. Daniel McLellan is beginning a new career at 73.

All his life the jovial, grey-haired doctor has wanted to paint. But his schedule as one of Vancouver's leading physicians and surgeons left little time for hobbies.

Following the death of his wife a year ago, "Dr. Dan" decided it might be a good time to end one career and start another.

He sold his Beverly Crescent home, auctioned its contents and quietly wound up his affairs in Vancouver. Now he plans to motor to Ontario, visiting friends and relatives en route.

A little later he and the car will sail for France. There he will enrol as a student in a Paris art school to realize his lifelong dream of painting.

Dr. McLellan and his wife were among the founder members of Vancouver Art Gallery, and had much to do with its early success. Together they organized the first Beaux Arts ball held at the gallery.

Once he has learned to master paint and brush, the doctor hopes to start on a third career. He also has a yen for writing.

Army Announces Staff Appointments

OTTAWA (CP)—The army Wednesday announced that Maj. H. W. C. Stehem, 38, of Kingston, is to become general staff officer, grade one, at the Army Staff College at Kingston with the rank of lieutenant-colonel. Now serving as general staff officer, grade two, at eastern Ontario area headquarters, Kingston, he will take up his new duties Dec. 16.

Maj. Stethem will be succeeded at eastern Ontario area headquarters by Maj. Richard Cummings, 37, of Barrie and Weston. Maj. Cummings, now with headquarters, Canadian base units, Antwerp, Belgium, will assume his new appointment Nov. 5.

RCR Men For Germany

QUEBEC (CP) — Six hundred military personnel from the 2nd battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment left Wednesday night aboard the liner Colombia for Germany where they will replace soldiers of the 27th Canadian Brigade who return home next month. Most of the men are from the Maritime provinces, Quebec and Ontario.

Most popular sport in Sweden is soccer, but track and field meets draw large crowds.

Investigate Death

SARNIA (CP) — A Lambton county coroner's jury found Wednesday night that the death of George Forhan in county jail Oct. 16 was due to coronary thrombosis. Forhan, who had served about three weeks of a three-month sentence for drunkenness, was found dead in the jail dormitory shortly after he complained to fellow prisoners of a pain in his chest.

OPEN HALF DAY

A suggestion that storekeepers remain closed all day on November 11, which falls on a Wednesday this year, was turned down at a meeting of the retail section of the Chamber of Commerce, Wednesday. Stores will remain open in the morning as usual.

BIG PARKING LOT

C.G.E. has begun levelling of a new parking lot for some 800 automobiles on their property on the west side of Monaghan Road. It was part of the frontage of the former Waddell orchard. Transfer of top soil and grading is being done by T. F. Doughty.

TRUCK HIGH AND DRY

The heavy dump truck that broke through the floating bridge at Gannon's Narrows Tuesday evening has been brought back to dry land. Construction workers, using a diesel shovel and truck cab hauled the truck from the water Wednesday afternoon.

SHOPPING HOURS

Stores will remain open on the two Wednesdays preceding Christmas and until 9:00 p.m. for the five evenings prior to the feast. They will not open again until the following Monday. During New Year's week, the Wednesday afternoon will be closed and Saturday following the feast will not be a holiday. The retail branch of the Chamber of Commerce decided on the hours at a meeting Wednesday.

ASSISTANT MANAGER

Douglas Scanlon, a member of the sales staff of CHEX for the past year, has been promoted to assistant manager of CKWS in Kingston it was announced here today. While in Peterborough he has been a member of the Kiwanis club and also the Peterborough air force wing. He is married and has one daughter.

VISITING HARDWAREMEN

Owners of hardware stores within a large area around Peterborough are meeting tonight in Peterborough to hear Gordon Cawker, Toronto national president of the Canadian Retail Hardware Association. Men will be here from Bowmanville, Lindsay, Bobcaygeon, Haliburton, Wilberforce as well as centres closer to Peterborough to discuss new methods of merchandising.

Kick-Back

One Peterborough man is going to be kind to animals from now on. At least he'll keep his dislike for cats concealed. One night recently, he came home from work, dressed in his best and discovered a cat on the verandah of his McDonnel St. home. He aimed a kick at it, connected, and discovered it wasn't a cat at all. It was one of those black and white woods pussies. Anyhow he can't wear "his best" any longer.

Will Eliminate Nasty Taste From City Water

That nasty taste in your water isn't just chlorine.

W. Howard Powell, PUC manager, explained the taste to commission members Wednesday afternoon. He said that during the summer, when water use is at its peak, a certain amount of sediment gathers in the water lines.

When the chlorine reaches this sediment, the consumer gets a bad taste in his mouth from drinking only water.

But he had good news for city water users. During the past few weeks, the PUC had been making an effort to flush out this sediment. Within a short time, he predicted, the taste would be almost gone.

"What about the extra chlorine you're putting in the water?" Chairman Fred Hills asked.

Mr. Powell said that was being done on the orders of the city MOH, Dr. J. P. Wells. Until they received an order to the contrary, PUC workers would continue to add that extra tenth of a part of chlorine to every thousand parts of water.

At its brief meeting, the commission heard reports on the Otonabee St. water main extension from Armour Rd., the 12-inch main at Dower's Corners, the under-ground wiring extension on George St. In the Downer's Corners report, Mr. Powell thanked the Trent Canal for its co-operation in removing water from one lock so PUC workers could lay mains in the lock-bed.

The commission also approved purchase of a new aerial ladder for street light maintenance, and decided to investigate air compressors in view of a certain purchase of one in the near future.

PUC employees who wish to take part in Remembrance Day parades November 11 will be given time off in the morning, the commission decided.

Grace Church Accepts Bid Of $100,852

Charles Huffman limited has been awarded the contract for contruction of the new Grace United Church. His bid of $100,852 was the lowest of four received Monday by the building committee of the church.

Other tenders recived were: Walter Mortlock, $106,860; Bradford-Hoshal Ltd., Port Hope, $109,893; and James Tapp and Sons, Ottawa, $127,886. Architect's estimate was $100,000.

Grace United and the proposed Presbyterian church in the south end—St. Giles'—will represent a departure from traditional church architecture in the city. Both are of modern design by the same architect, E. Zeidler, an associate of W. and W. R. L. Blackwell and Craig.

ACCOMMODATE 500

The new Grace United has accommodation for 500, plus choir seating of 40. The spacious basement will contain a large auditorium with stage, choir rooms, vestry, kitchen and washrooms.

An organization dinner for church members is to be held tonight in the Empress Hotel, when plans will be made for a canvass for funds to construct the new church.

The congregation of Grace United was organized in 1948 by the Rev. E. W. Rowland, who became the church's first pastor. He had retired not long before from the ministry of Mark St. United Church.

The present church building was brought by flat car from the northern part of the presbytery, and made more permanent on its Howden Ave. site.

Present minister is the Rev. I. G. Pollock, who came to the city from South Africa 14 months ago to succeed Mr. Rowland. There are approximately 360 families in the church's congregation.

TO VISIT KINGSTON

Members of the PUC will visit Kingston Friday to study that city's gas works, accompanied by manager W. Howard Powell. They will study that City's gas works with a view to possible changes in Peterborough's.

STRIKES PARKED CAR

A car driven by Shirley McQuaig, 20, of RR 6, Peterborough, struck a parked car owned by Charles Gardner of 541 Gilmour St. Wednesday evening on George St. opposite Canada Packers. Damage to the two vehicles was set at $50. The car was parked on the west side of George while Miss McQuaig was driving south.

Bobcaygeon Advocates Say

Pigeon Lake Causeway Bring City More Business

More business for Peterborough—that's what a causeway across Pigeon Lake would mean. So said an enthusiastic band of residents of Bobcaygeon's Chamber of Commerce. Such a causeway, they admitted means more business for Bobcaygeon too One member of the 20-man deputation, Charles Logan, described it this way:

"The cattle men and other farmers in our part of Victoria county want a shorter route to Peterborough. It would mean a farmer trade for this city and in return Bobcaygeon would draw more tourist trade, and a number of pleasure drivers from your city."

The causeway, they said, was the final link in a shorter route from Peterborough to the rapidly growing resort area in the Haliburton highlands.

PREOCCUPIED

Two Bobcaygeon men, Clarence Read and Charles Logan, reviewed the most recent attempt to interest Peterborough in the scheme.

Said Mr. Read: "You were building a hospital at the time and while your mayor (Max Swanston) was enthusiastic about the possibilities of the causeway he felt the city couldn't bear any additional expense at the time."

Some concrete facts for the Peterborough merchants to consider were offered by Victoria county engineer Harry Wilford.

He estimates the cost of the causeway at about $190,000. This was on a tentative route selected recently, which would be about a mile long, through water 12 feet deep on the average.

Mr. Wilford referred to the recent meeting of the road and bridge committees of Peterborough and Victoria counties. He had come away from that meeting with the feeling that members of Peterborough county council felt favourable toward the idea of the causeway.

No definite decision was made at that meeting, he said, but both engineers are to make reports in November.

Both Bobcaygeon representatives at the meeting and members of the Chamber of Commerce mentioned the fact that parts of each county might oppose the causeway.

They felt that the southern and eastern parts of Peterborough county might feel no benefit would accrue to them. The same held true for the western parts of Victoria county. In meetings of the two councils, the opposing forces might easily defeat the causeway.

Another point that might work against the causeway was bought out by Mr. Wilford. He said that the federal Department of Transport might consider the southern part of Pigeon Lake as navigable water.

In that case, some provision would have to be made for a bridge in the causeway. The department, he said, might feel that a high level bridge was needed, such as planned for the Gannon's Narrows causeway. He thought that was doubtful, but it was a possibility. And, of course, any such structure would increase the cost.

The provincial government and federal government would between them assume 80 per cent of the cost, if they approved of the causeway.

Warden Vincent Fee of Victoria county said that at the last interview with representatives of Lindsay council he had noticed the Victoria county town seemed to be in favor of the causeway.

The floating bridge that formerly connected Ennismore and Emily townships washed out in the spring breakup of 1912. A year later a campaign began to replace the bridge, but nothing was ever done. At that time, a relatively small body of water was spanned, as Pigeon Lake in its present size and shape did not exist then.

The southern part of the lake is mostly flooded land, inundated when the series of power dams on the Trent system was installed. The old bridge spanned a broad part of what was then Pigeon creek.

Worker Falls Five Feet Breaks Hip

Hugh W. Hunter, 49, of 272 Euclid Ave., fell five feet from a ladder at the federal building on Charlotte St. today and broke his left hip.

Hunter, a cement finisher, was descending a 10-fot ladder from the second floor to the first floor, when he apparently slipped and fell to the cement floor. He was carrying a pail, empty but for a whitewash brush, when he tumbled.

The accident occurred about 11:30 a.m. He was taken by car to the General Medical Clinic on Romaine St. and later was removed by Nisbett ambulance to St. Joseph's hospital.

It is the second accident at the new federal building in a week and a half. On October 17, 29-year-old Cyprien Majeste of RR 3, Peterborough, was bringing his brother's lunch when he was hit on the head by a falling piece of wood. He suffered a fractured skull.

Poor Box Rifled

City police detectives were investigating a report this morning that the poor box at Sacred Heart church was broken into overnight and emptied of its contents. The investigation is being conducted by Sergeant of Detectives John Stevenson and Detective Douglas Farthing.

Thief Robbing Rural Mail Boxes Of Gov't Cheques

Provincial police are seeking a sneak thief who stole $159 in baby bonus and old age pension cheques from mail boxes in Otonabee township.

The thefts covered the period between the end of September and last week. OPP were only informed of the case Wednesday. The pension cheques, worth $40 each, were stolen at the end of last month; the baby bonus cheques last week.

All the mailboxes looted are located south of the old Keene road.

Three pension cheques were stolen from the mailbox of James H. Slattery, R.R. 8. They belonged to him, and to his wife's brother and sister, G. L. Crowley and Ada Crowley.

Baby bonus cheques taken belonged to Mrs. George Croft, R.R. 6 ($5), Mrs. Hazel Burns, R.R. 6 ($6), Mrs. Margaret Lefler, R.R. 11 ($12), Mrs. Merla Horton, R.R. 11 ($10), and Mrs. Hazel Rose, R.R. 11 ($6).

Provincial constable George Louth, the investigating officer, said he believes the thief must have followed the mailman around in both cases, reaching the mailboxes before the owners did. Police have the description of a car that may have been involved.

Ballet Company To Visit City

The National Ballet Company of Canada will open its third season at Peterborough Nov. 16-17, with a larger cast and three new ballet features. The company will appear in St. Peter's auditorium.

Added to the company's repertoire are the second act of "Swan Lake", "Gala Performance", and "Dark of the Moon".

The group will play in Ottawa, Nov. 18, and then tour the Maritimes. Performances will also be given in several United States cities this winter.

MOUNTAIN TOPS

A colored film of Bermuda was shown to Kiwanians at their weekly luncheon today by Don Westman, Toronto, representative of TCA. The film dealth with the housing, business and tourist attractions of the group of islands in the Carribean sea, which are actually the tops of submerged mountains.

Bootlegging Case Quashed By Judge

Accused Offered Possible Explanation Of Large Stock

A jail sentence of two months with hard labor after a conviction on a charge of keeping liquor for sale has been quashed in county court by Judge John de N. Kennedy.

Last May 6, Ted Rosebush, 31, a toolmaker working in Peterborough but living in Coe Hill, was convicted of keeping liquor for sale by Magistrate W. R. Philp. Rosebush appealed the conviction and the opposing arguments of Arthur Fair, QC, defence counsel, and Alexander Fleming, crown counsel were heard in September.

Previously Rosebush had pleaded guilty to breaking a provision of the Liquor Control Act that prohibited him from buying or keeping liquor. His liquor permit had been cancelled.

MEN FOUND IN CAR

The bootlegging charge was laid after Joseph Woods, 26, of RR 1, Apsley, and Jarvis Campbell of Rose Island, were discovered unconscious in a car on March 2 near Coe Hill. Brian Campbell, a brother of Jarvis, found them, apparently overcome with gasoline fumes. A nearly-empty bottle of liquor was also found in the car by Brian Campbell and he threw it into a nearby field.

The Crown's case was that Rosebush had sold Woods and Campbell the liquor.

Constable Jack McKendry and four other members of the OPP raided Rosebush's house on March 8. Rosebush was alleged to have said: "There is no liquor here . . . I'm not allowed to have it."

However a search revealed what Mr. Fleming, crown counsel, described as "a treasure troye of alcohol." The OPP found 168 pints of beer, 15 bottles of liquor and nine bottles of wine.

Rosebush, after being arrested, pleaded guilty to having liquor when his permit was cancelled, and said he lied to the police about having any liquor because of the prohibition. He denied sell-

Ride Into Sky Is Unexpected

CLEVELAND (AP) — A grey-haired mother and her daughter stood on the West Third street bridge Wednesday, and the younger woman intoned part of the 139th psalm, "If I ascend up into heaven. . ."

Then they started rising slowly into the sky. The drawbridge was opening for a steamer on the Cuyahoga river.

The daughter jumped to the river bank, and the mother clung to the bridge until it was lowered again.

A spiritualist had advised the two to pray over water to cure the 67-year-old mother's speech impediment, and the daughter, 32, told police she believed the "ascension" improved it.

SEVEN-YEAR TERM

TORONTO (CP)—Roy Dunlop, 30 Wednesday was sentenced to seven years on three charges of armed robbery of Toronto theatres which totalled only $588. Beverly Munro, 28, got six years on the same charges.

There is no "overnight cure" for irregularity

But there is a simple, natural answer to the common problem of irregularity due to lack of bulk

There are men and women (perhaps you're one of them) who won't let "nature take its course". THEY TRY TO SUBSTITUTE UNNATURAL "FORCING ACTION" FOR THE NATURAL REGULARITY WHICH SENSIBLE DAILY HABITS AND SUFFICIENT BULK IN THE DIET COULD PROBABLY MAINTAIN.

Many fall into the habit of using laxatives in a way laxative makers never intended. They take "big doses" willy-nilly without even reading the directions on the label.

Naturally, such overdosing—with products intended only for overnight relief of a temporary stoppage—exerts upon the delicate digestive system an unnatural strain.

There's nothing wrong, of course, with taking laxatives occasionally. If you feel you have to take a laxative, just be sure you take it wisely—in an accurate, recommended dose.

BUT THERE IS A WAY TO AVOID TAKING DRUG-TYPE LAXATIVES AND TO PLACE YOUR DEPENDENCE ON NATURE, IF LACK OF BULK IN THE DIET IS YOUR TROUBLE.

• • •

In many natural foods—such as certain vegetables, fruits, and grains—nature grows abundant natural bulk which normally and naturally aids the rhythmic process of elimination.

In no other natural food is natural bulk so ideally found as in the outer layers of the whole wheat kernel, known generally as bran.

Bran is nature's "laxative food instead of a medicine". When properly processed and shredded, whole wheat bran yields smooth natural bulk that the digestive system can handle in a natural way.

• • •

The Kellogg Company has made whole wheat bran into a delicious breakfast cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran.

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN PERFORMS NATURALLY WHAT DRUG-TYPE LAXATIVES DO CHEMICALLY. IT HELPS CLEAR THE INTESTINES OF WASTE IN A NATURAL WAY. IT PROVIDES SOFT NATURAL BULK FOR EASY NATURAL ACTION.

There is no stomach upset, no churning, no after-effect except the feeling of satisfaction and fulfillment that comes with natural, normal elimination.

• • •

To obtain lasting relief, of course, Kellogg's All-Bran must be eaten regularly. You can have it for breakfast every morning secure in the knowledge that it isn't habit-forming.

More than one million servings of Kellogg's All-Bran are consumed each day. This popularity of itself is proof that this natural laxative cereal lives up to what we say about it.

But even better proof comes from thousands of satisfied All-Bran users. They write of their own free will to tell us what natural relief they receive from eating Kellogg's All-Bran daily and drinking plenty of water.

EAT KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN EVERY MORNING FOR BREAKFAST FOR 10 DAYS. THEN, IF YOU'RE NOT COMPLETELY SATISFIED, SEND THE EMPTY CARTON TO THE KELLOGG COMPANY, LONDON, ONTARIO—AND GET DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK.

Remember—Kellogg's All-Bran has helped millions. Why not you?

No Meetings Arranged Yet In Strike Of Carpenters

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Officials of the carpenters' union said Wednesday night no meetings have yet been arranged with city contractors in an attempt to settle a strike which has tied up work on 85 construction jobs.

An estimated 3,000 building trade workers refused to cross the picket lines set up Wednesday by 750 members of local 494, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners (AFL).

William Stefanovich, business agent for the local, said he understood an official of the Ontario labor department will be sent here to attempt to bring about an agreement.

RESPECTING LINES

He also said some members of Local 880, International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL), are respecting picket lines at the Ambassador bridge and refusing to drive their trucks over the bridge to Detroit. The picket lines were established because construction work was underway there when the strike was called.

The strike was called by the union executive which Sunday was given authority by the local members to call a strike at any time.

The carpenters, who have been negotiating for the last 10 months, agreed to work on a day-to-day basis until the executive decided if a strike would be necessary.

WANT 18-CENT RAISE

A local spokesman said the union was seeking an 18-cent an hour increase to be granted gradually during the next two years. Basic pay now is $2 an hour. The spokesman said the construction firms would agree only to a 15-cent boost. He said the 18-cent increase was suggested recently by a conciliation board.

Two major firms said in a statement that the local submitted new demands for the 1953-54 contract just six months after an arbitration board had ruled that wage increases granted in the 1952 contract was "eminently fair."

Pheasant Hunters Get Off To Poor Start In Essex

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Few of the thousands of hunters who looked forward to the brief pheasant season in Essex county were happy as the annual hunt started Wednesday.

Some 150 of the 1,000 hunters who tramped over tiny Pelee island in search of the colorful birds grumbled over the delay in finding transportation to the hunting grounds.

One man was wounded shortly after the two-day hunt started on the Lake Erie island about 50 miles southeast of here.

Most displeased were some Windsor residents who criticized regulations which prevented many non-residents from hunting pheasants in nearby townships.

Still others complained of the damp weather.

A FEW HAPPY

Probably the only ones favorably impressed were those who got to Pelee island and other good hunting spots without incident, found pleasant accommodations before the rush started and managed to grab a fine catch of plump pheasants.

Victim of the first accident reported was S. A. Walsh, 56, of Toronto, who was struck in the arm and left side by shot-gun pellets fired by his brother, Stanley, also of Toronto, police said.

Some 150 hunters, many of them wealthy business men from many parts of Canada and the United States, were left on the dock at Kingsville Tuesday after trying to get to the island by boat when weather conditions forced cancellation of flights.

COUNT PASSENGERS

As the ferry was being loaded, RCMP officers arrived to count the passengers to make sure it was not overloaded. The boat is licenced to carry 303 passengers.

Howere, despite difficulties, hunters on the island reported pheasants in good supply. The season lasts two days on Pelee but is of four days' duration in other parts of the county.

Campbellford IOOF Has New Quarters

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—The local lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows have moved into their new quarters at 22 Doxsee Ave.

When the building was purchased, the second floor was unfinished and the members undertook to do their own planning and work. There was some delay at the beginning and some of the members were becoming somewhat impatient, but once a start was made, the rate of progress astounded even the most optimistic. In 22 days (and nights) the second floor of the building, which measured 28' by 82' was finished sufficiently to hold the first lodge meeting.

The work was performed under the direction of Doug. Nicholas, Noble Grand of the Lodge. When asked about the job, he stated "I only carried the ball, the real credit goes to our ways and means committee, comprising Bros. Vern Spencer, Roy Loucks, and Ray Hall, plus the work captains and the volunteer workers".

The lodge is now settled in its new location and is planning fall and winter activities.

Urges Closing Some Of Jails

TORONTO (CP)—Closing some Ontario jails as an economy measure was proposed Wednesday at a hearing of the legislature's committee on reform institutions.

Allistair Johnston, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Parry Sound, urged consolidation of jails to reduce staffs and cut the province's crime bill.

His suggestion followed comments by several members of the committee that they had found many jails with only a few prisoners in them. He said only political reasons kept some jails open.

W. J. Grummett, CCF house leader, suggested one jail might serve four or five counties, particularly in southern Ontario.

International Contest For Modern House

MONTREAL (CP)—An international competition for plans for a Canadian house of tomorrow, open to Canadian, British and continental European architects, was announced Wednesday.

The announcement was made jointly by Professor John Bland, director of the McGill University school of architecture, and Samuel Bronfman, president of a distillery company.

The competition calls for a practical design for a Canadian house suitable for a young Canadian family of five—the parents and three children under 15. To the architect submitting the best design will go an award and a cash prize of $5,000.

Veterinarians urge... variety for your dog

Nourishing, yet economical food is what every dog owner wants for his dog. Veterinary authorities agree that variety also is necessary to keep dogs happy, healthy and eating well. You get both these requirements when you feed the famous Master Dog Foods because they are a family of high quality foods formulated by experts in canine nutrition.

A diet based on Master Horse Meat and Gravy is ideal for your dog, and most dogs love it. High in food value, Master Horse Meat and Gravy contains only the best cuts of meat; no "by-products", no cereals. Here's a daily diet one leading expert recommends:

The Main Meal
—should be composed of 25% Master Horse Meat and Gravy and 75% K-9 Meal or Master Kibble, or a 50-50 mixture of Master Canned Dog Food and K-9 Meal.

The Secondary Meal
—give your dog Master Kennel Kibble mixed with a lesser amount of Master Canned Dog Food at bedtime.

The "treat"
—for those little titbits all dogs enjoy, keep Master Shapes or Mixed O-B's handy.

Wants 6 Months Free Board In County Jail

Want a "better than average" home for the winter?

Then follow the parade of drunks and vagrants into magistrate's court where they assure themselves of healthy, warm lodging.

Latest to apply for free room and board is Harry Brown, 58, no fixed address, who appeared in the police station Tuesday night to ask for a night's lodging.

Instead, he was locked up for being drunk and convicted in court Wednesday of being a second offender under the drunk section. The first offence was alleged only 13 days ago.

Evidently the accused confided in someone for Crown Attorney Bradshaw told Magistrate Moore that Brown wanted "six months free board."

WHAT HAS COUNTY GOT?

"Does the county of Peterborough supply a better than average home for these chaps?" the magistrate asked.

"It's not too bad," the crown replied, reeling off a string of benefits prisoners receive.

Instead of six months, however, Brown was awarded one month in jail. "The next time," Magistrate Moore told him, referring to a third offence drunk charge, "you can be sure of four months, anyway."

May Get New Station

KINGSTON (CP)—Mayor George Clark Wright said Wednesday Kingston "appears to be on the way" to getting a new railway station. He said discussions about construction of a new station will take place here Monday between officials of the Canadian National Railways and representatives of the city.

ANCIENT MINES

Lead mining was carried on from ancient times at Bakewell in Derbyshire, England.

RESCUES CHILDREN — Mrs. Irene Mulholland, 27, whose husband is with the Canadian army in Korea, rescued her three children when fire destroyed their home at Cannington. She holds Pat, 2, with Mike, 5, by her side, and has another daughter, Leslie, 7.

Whooping Cranes Arrive

AUSTWELL, Tex. (AP) — Wildlife officials Wednesday proudly announced the arrival of six whooping cranes, including one baby whooper, at their winter refuge on the Texas gulf coast. They are the first of the world's only flock of whooping cranes to arrive at the winter range from their unknown breeding ground somewhere near the Arctic circle.

Not Hopeful High-Level Talks Helpful

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles seem to be trying to rid the free world of the idea that a top level talk with Soviet Premier Malenkov might bring world peace.

As is obvious from repeated public statements, they regard the idea as a vain and dangerous illusion.

Eisenhower, at his press conference Wednesday, sought to min[illegible]

WINS IN SWEEPSTAKE—Walter Burley, 42, of Toronto, is one of four Canadians who won $137,500 apiece when Jupiter won the 111th running of the Cambridgeshire Handicap Stakes at Newmarket, England. They were among 66 Canadians who held Irish hospital sweepstakes tickets on starters in the 1 1-8-mile race. Mr. Burley is with his wife and daughter Carol Ann. They plan a Florida vacation with part of the money.

lomacy: A value which has tended to grow in recent months, in part because of the repeated proposals of Sir Winston Churchill for an East-West talk between chiefs of government.

Eisenhower has been asked questions about the possibility of such a meeting with greater frequency perhaps than questions on any other subject. Dulles, similarly pressed for his views, has also had the problem as a diplomat of trying to dissuade Churchill from pressing the matter to a conclusion.

In the past, Eisenhower has been inclined to take the positive line that he would be glad to meet anybody half way around the world if he thought that would do any good for peace. Dulles tended to press a somewhat more negative argument saying the United States is always ready for negotiation but is not interested in talks without evidence of Communist goodwill.

Eisenhower, asked again Wednesday for his views about the possibility of a Big Four meeting at the highest level, replied that if anything turned up to convince him that the Russians would go into a meeting in good faith, then he would overcome any handicap or solve any problem to meet with [illegible]

He went on to say it would be hopeless to have such a meeting until he knows there is an honest purpose behind Russian interest in it. Indicating he does not think such purpose exists today, he reminded reporters there had been many examples of meetings in the past used primarily for propaganda.

The president said he has a warm freindship and affection for Churchill but no plans to see him.

Say Forced Wheat Storage Like Money In Bank For Farmers

REGINA (CP)—A farm editor says some wheat growers feel that in the long-term view, perhaps the fact Prairie farmers are forced to store a good deal of this year's crop on the farm because they can't market it will be a stabilizing influence on farming.

Dave Innes, editor of The Saskatchewan Farmer, reporting on these views, says farmers may be short of cash now, but they have an interim payment on last year's crop on the way and another payment due next spring.

Before that, he says, they probably will be able to sell some of their wheat, if only at the three-bushel-an-acre quota. They also should be able to count on returns from livestock sales, though the straight grain operator won't have this secondary income source.

GOOD AS MONEY

Until the farmers can market their wheat, they will have it under cover, for the most part in weather-tight granaries on the farm, where it will be as good as money in the bank. Perhaps it will be better than this, because they won't be able to cash in on it.

Most farmers have at least this year's crop on their hands and a good many of them still have some of the 1952 harvest. That means they'll have a year's reserve to work on.

And next year may see the west produce a short crop. There may even be a prospect of three or four short crops in a row. That has happened before, says Innes, who adds that it's very unlikely there will be a third successive bumper yield.

The farm editor says that if there is a short crop next year, farmers will be able to cash in on their stored wheat and, even with a normal crop, should be able to market it gradually as current huge stores are used up.

"In other words," says Innes, "the farmer today is operating with a year's reserve behind him.

"That is the way a business is supposed to be run and farming is as much a business as any other. This year is the first a good many farmers have ever been in that position, something that won't do the farming business any harm."

THERE IS NONE BETTER!

Saskatchewan Legislature Has First PC In 19 Years

By WILFRED CHISLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

REGINA (CP)—Two provincial by-elections Wednesday gave the 53-seat Saskatchewan legislature its only Progressive Conservative member and increased Liberal strength.

First Progressive Conservative elected to the legislature in 19 years, Robert Kohaly, 32-year-old Estevan lawyer who also had Liberal backing, won in Souris-Estevan in a straight fight with CCF candidate William Schieman, Oxbow school teacher.

The Liberals, who have held the Rosthern seat continuously since the first provincial election in 1905, retained the former stronghold of provincial party leader Walter Tucker with newcomer Samuel Carr, 47-year-old secretary of Warman rural municipality, as their candidate.

Mr. Carr defeated CCFer John Thiessen, 47, an Aberdee farmer who also was runner-up to Mr. Tucker in the 1952 provincial elections, and Martin Kelln, 34, a farmer and first vice-president of the Saskatchewan Social Credit organization.

CCF MAJORITY 31

Party standing in the legislature now is:

CCF 42; Liberals 10; Progressive Conservatives 1; total 53.

The Rosthern by-election resulted from the resignation of Mr. Tucker, successful candidate for the federal riding of the same name in the Aug. 10 general election. The Souris-Estevan seat became vacant when Liberal party whip J. E. McCormick was killed in a traffic accident last spring.

Both Mr. Kohaly and Mr. Carr won by comfortable margins, leading from the start. Sunny autumn weather brought a good turnout of electors, but the vote was lighter than in 1952.

Late Wednesday night the vote count showed:

Rosthern, 50 of 51 polls—Carr 2,320, Thiessen 1,773, Kelln 1,508;

Souris-Estevan, 84 of 94 polls—Kohaly 4,344, Schieman 3,278.

Liquor Licence Board Now Called Mistake

TORONTO (CP)—Allistair Johnston, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Parry Sound, said Wednesday the appointment of the Ontario liquor licence board was a mistake.

"I think now we will all admit the Drew government made a mistake when the liquor licence board was set up," he said at a meeting of the legislature's select committee on reforms. "It should have been made a part of a government department."

Members said they agreed with Mr. Johnston that the liquor licence board is evidence that commissions or boards often lead to loosening of control by government and legislature members.

Sell 33 Cattle

BLENHEIM, Ont. (CP) — Officials expressed satisfaction Wednesday when 33 cattle sold for a total of $8,765 at the first annual consignment sale of the Kent County Hereford Breeders at Blenheim Arena. Reg. Myers of Chatham said the total price was brought down by the offering of many one and two-year-old open heifers.

Waynes Get Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The bitter divorce fight of the battling John Waynes ended in a draw Wednesday when superior court awarded each a divorce. Judge Allen Ashburn applied a so-called "humane principle" in declaring neither party the winner of the interlocutory decree.

Reduce Charge To Impaired, Driver Fined $50

The father of nine children, the youngest six years old, was convicted on a charge of impaired driving Wednesday morning in magistrate's court.

The court was being lenient, however, in reducing the charge from drunk driving, a conviction on which would have sent the accused, Wilfred Bolton, 52, of Nassau, to jail for seven days. He would have, in addition, lost his car for three months.

"I really need my car to get to work," Bolton pleaded.

"That's not my worry," shrugged Magistrate Moore as he considered evidence by PC William G. Scott.

Constable Scott told the court he had been sitting on his motorcycle at the corner of Water St. and McDonnel when he noticed a car, Bolton's, coming slowly north.

SHIFTED TO LOW GEAR

As it came abreast the driver shifted from second gear to third and PC Scott began wondering about the driver's actions because there was no traffic around to warrant such slow driving.

As the officer kept his eye on the car, it swung from the east side of the street to the west where it proceeded a short distance before returning to its proper lane.

A second vehicle caught up with Bolton but couldn't pass because the Bolton car kept to the centre of the road. At this point, Constable Scott took out after him on his motorcycle and within four blocks, stopped him.

"He didn't reply to a question 'what's the trouble?' and appeared very drowsy," the officer said in court. PC Scott moved into the driver's seat and drove the vehicle to the police station. He noticed there was no steering difficulty on the vehicle to explain its wandering actions.

In addition to other symptons of intoxication, Bolton smelled of beer. His car's action in wanked from his car into the police station. The only thing he said to the officer was that "he wanted a break."

Bolton told the court he had consumed only four draughts of beter. His car's action in wandering was explained when he said he was wiping the steam off his windshield. "I suppose I wasn't watching," he admitted, and then declared "I certainly wasn't drunk."

Deciding to give the accused "the benefit of the doubt," Magistrate Moore reduced the charge to impaired driving and fined Bolton $50 and $2.50 costs.

Both the crown attorney and magistrate complimented Constable Scott on the manner in which he handled the case, remarking especially on his alertness in spotting the vehicle's unusual behaviour.

PAKISTAN OFFICIAL — Gen. Mohammed Ayub Khan, commander-in-chief of the Pakistani army, is in Canada on an official visit. He visited Ottawa for talks with defence officials and will inspect military installations in Ontario.

AFTERMATH OF FLOODS — Hysterical women of Reggio Calabria, Italy, kneel by the coffins of their husbands who perished in the floods which recently hit the Calabria region. Heavy rains have swelled the already flooding rivers from the "toe" of the Italian "boot" to the Alps. There are reportedly from 43 to more than 100 dead in the hard-hit southern area of the country.

Newspaperman 30 Years

EDMONTON (CP) — Donald A. McCannel, veteran Alberta newspaper man, died Wednesday. He was 55. Mr. McCannel, almost 30 years in the newspaper field, was stricken Tuesday night in radio station CFRN's news room, where he had been night news editor for the last year. He started his career in 1924 with the Edmonton Journal.

Tobacco Dinner

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The cook thought it was Swiss chard when she picked the leaves from a tobacco plant in the doctor's garden. And now the physician and his wife are recovering from nicotine poisoning, the city health department announced Wednesday. Names of the victims were not disclosed.

Gerrit De Bruyn Top Orator

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — Winner of first prize in the Seymour township schools oratorical contest this year was Gerrit De Bruyan of Connolly's School.

He won the Fraser Cup for his talk on "Duck Hunters and Duck Hunting." In second place, and winner of the Seymour township cup was Freda Clark, also of Connolly's School. She spoke on "The Ostrich."

Ruth Gibson of Burnbrae took third prize, which was the Seymour West Woman's Institute Cup for her "Story of a Fly." Gladys Parker of Menie won the Seymour East WI cup for her talk on "The Coronation of Queen Elizabeth."

The contest was held in the Campbellford High School auditorium, with a large crowd in attendance. Judges for the contest were: Mrs. J. D. Thompson, Mrs. Allan Curle, Mr. Angus Todd, Mrs. W. F. Scott and Mrs. R. E. Fox.

Canadian Forest Fires Take Toll Of 2,000,000 Acres Year

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canadian forest fires take an average yearly toll of nearly 2,000,000 acres of timber, valued at about $4,000,000, Resources Minister Lesage said here today.

In a speech prepared for the fourth American Forestry Congress, Mr. Lesage said this rate of fire loss is estimated at double the rate "that could be tolerated for the practice of sustained-yield forestry."

He told an audience of forestry experts from across the United States that fire protection continues to be a principal concern of all provincial governments, accounting for half of all expenditures on forest management.

The federal government, he said, conducts research into fire protection methods and has developed a means of measuring fire danger which is widely used by protection services.

IMPROVING FORESTS

Mr. Lesage said the threat to Canada's forests from insects and disease continues to be serious, but that it is being met by constantly improving silvicultural practices. He cited an instance in New Brunswick where the Canadian government is paying one-third of a $9,000,000 project to rid 4,000 square miles of pulpwood forest of budworm.

Noting the common interests and objectives of foresters in the United States and Canada, Mr. Lesage declared:

"Our association in forest products research has grown increasingly intimate, and we would welcome closer contact especially in the fields of silviculture and forest management studies."

Canada has the largest reserves of potential forest products in the "free world" outside of the topics, with a total area of some 1,300,000 square miles in all classifications of timber. Only Brazil and Russia exceeded this figure, Mr. Lesage said.

Sues Studio

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A suit for $400,000 has been filed against Columbia Pictures, Inc., by Mrs. Carolyn Ward Satterfield for herself and three children, claiming her husband was frightened to death when two movie planes dived within 30 feet of their home. She stated that her children became hysterical and her husband, Robert E. Satterfield, died from shock.

Report Demoralizing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dr. Alfred Kinsey's Sexual Behavior in the Human Female was more demoralizing to United States troops [illegible] than Red propaganda, says John Morley, a lecturer who [illegible] returned from the Orient. The Kinsey report, Morley said at a civic meeting Wednesday, told 200,000 Americans overseas that "one out of every four American wives has been unfaithful."

TORTURED — Maj. Roy H. Bley, one of 10 American pilots who were forced by the Communists in Korea to "confess" dropping germ-laden bombs over North Korean cities, tells newsmen in his Santa Ana, Calif. home that the Reds tortured him so brutally that he "would have signed anything" after a while.

Greeks Visit Russia

ATHENS (AP)—Twelve Greek men of letters, politicians and journalists are leaving Sunday on a three-week visit to Russia as guests of the Soviet Union. The invitation was extended by Soviet ambassador Michael Sergheyev, and is in line with a desire recently expressed by him for the promotion of cultural relations and better understanding between the two peoples.

Canadian Scientist Begins Important Study Of Brain

By FRANK CAREY

ATLANTA (AP)—United States government scientists have launched a new project set off by the work of a Canadian scientist, striving to tap the secrets of the brain's memory process, as a by-product of a surgical operation to aid epileptics.

Dr. William H. Sebrell Jr., director of the National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, Md., related this to the Southern Medical Association at its annual meeting.

He cited the project as an example of the type of work being done at NIH's recently-opened clinical research centre.

There, selected sufferers from various major diseases are given "the best possible" treatments—but only as a part of a broader effort to improve these treatments, and to increase science's knowledge of the basic processes of life, both in sickness and in health.

SHOWED PROMISE

In recent years an operation was developed which had shown great promise in treating psychomotor epilepsy. That's a form of epilepsy which has proved much more difficult to treat with drugs than have the other two main forms of the disease.

The operation now is being performed at the clinical centre, and affords unusual opportunities for research on the temporal lobe of the brain, site of the epileptic damage—and also believed to be the area playing a major role in the normal process of memory. The operation consists of cutting away damaged brain tissue.

Sebrell said the Canadian, Dr. Wilder Penfield, of Montreal, provided the first tip-off more than a year ago that the temporal lobe might be a big factor in the memory process, and he added:

"Our investigations now are concerned with following up this preliminary finding. We do not know which half of the temporal lobe, if not both, dominates the process of recording experience, and we are trying to find evidence of internal and surface nerve pathways responsible for memory processes."

Sebrell said similar projects have been launched in other laboratories in the U. S., Canada and abroad.

Race Policy

PRETORIA (Reuters) — Arthur Barlow, 80-year-old journalist and veteran South African politician, was expelled Wednesday from the opposition United Party led by Jacobus Strauss. He is the fifth party member to be expelled in the last two weeks for criticizing the party's stand on race segregation.

Help Irish

DUBLIN (Reuters) — Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, gave Sean T. O'Kelly a cheque for £10,000 Wednesday for distribution to Ireland's poor through the St. Vincent de Paul Society.

London's Next Mayor Has Passion For Silly Hats

LONDON (Reuters) — A grey-haired housewife with a passion for "silly hats" is scheduled to become London's next "mayor."

She is Mrs. Molly Bolton, mother of two adult children and a veteran Socialist who has already proven her diplomatic skill by successfully concealing her age through a long public career.

Mrs. Bolton virtually is certain to be installed as chairman of the 150-member London County Council next Tuesday when the councilmen meet to confirm her nomination by the Labor party, which holds a majority of seats.

Her job, the toughest in British municipal politics, requires great tact and administrative ability.

HEAD CITY'S HEART

She will be the active head of the 8,500,000 persons who live in London county, the heart of the capital's 8,000,000 population. She will not receive one penny for her full-time job, and will only get a strictly-audited expense account.

She lives with her husband, an engineer, in a solid old Victorian brick house in northwest London. Their daughter is an actress in a London stock company and their son is on duty in Malaya as an army medical officer.

During her early days on the council, Mrs. Bolton dazzled her fellow-councilmen by showing up wearing bold new hats notable for their carefree, feminine styling. But this year when she was elected as vice-chairman of the council, decorum got the better of her and she began to show up bareheaded.

When Mrs. Bolton took her seat on the dais for the first time there was a subdued chorus of groans from the male councilmen whose lives had been brightened for years by the hats.

"It's just laziness, really," Mrs. Bolton apologized.

LONG A SOCIALIST

Mrs. Bolton's devotion to socialism dates far back into this century. For seven years she was the private secretary to Britain's famed Socialist team, Sidney and Beatrice Webb.

As chairman of the council she will be the head of a body which handles almost all the county's active civic life, from sewage disposal and civil defence to child welfare and the school system. The council even operates a string of rest rooms.

It has no jurisdiction, however, over the city police, who are national.

Mrs. Bolton's job is not to be confused with that of the Lord Mayor of London, whose tradition-steeped post gives him jurisdiction—chiefly honorary — over the square-mile borough known as "the City of London," the capital's financial district and the site of St. Paul's cathedral.

HAIR DO'S AND DONT'S

By Carol Douglas famous beauty consultant

Hair styles, like clothes styles, change with the season. Swinging to one of this season's refreshing new fashions in hairdo's will brighten your whole personality.

DO start with a new home permanent — it makes a new hairdo so easy to set and to keep looking lovely.

And for your next permanent, use Toni Spin Curlers. They're twice as easy, twice as fast — and a permanent investment. Get a complete set including midget Spin Curlers for wispy neckline hair. Only $1.29.

DON'T expect every hair style to suit you perfectly. You can widen a thin face with soft curls at the sides, lower a high forehead with bangs in your hairdo.

DO take care of your hair, whatever style you choose. Brush daily, shampoo weekly. And for the beauty of soft water shampooing—even in hardest water — use Toni Creme Shampoo. It floods your hair with healthful lanolin lather. 4-oz jar, $1.00, 2-oz tube, 65¢.

DO keep your hair gleaming with highlights. Just 20 seconds with Toni Creme Rinse — the new invisible hair dressing—and your hair will be rich and lustrous... easy to comb and set... tamed and tangle-free from one shampoo to the next. 4-oz bottle, only 59¢.

Montana Woman Runs Town, Heads Coal Mine

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—The only woman in the United States who also is president of a coal-mining company is Mrs. Lillian Gildroy.

President of the Bair - Collins Coal Co. of Roundup, Mont., she is an attractive, greying lady with so much charm she should run for office. Which she has, and therefore is mayor of Roundup (pop. 4,000).

There once was a superstition that it was bad luck for a woman to go into a mine, and probably most people still think it's strictly a man's world. But that's because most people never heard of Bair-Collins, a company with some 50 employees and an annual business of between $700,000 and $800,000.

Bair-Collins has only five stockholders. All are women.

It wasn't planned that way, Mrs. Gildroy told a press conference set up as a part of U.S. National Coal Association's annual convention here.

When Charley Bair died, he left his stock to his two daughters. When Fred Collins died, his widow and daughter got his stock. None of these has taken an active part in running the company.

BEGAN AS STENOGRAPHER

Certainly Mrs. Gildroy had no idea, when she started with the company as a stenographer in 1922, that a stockholders meeting eventually would be marked, "ladies only."

In 1923 she married the mine superintendent, Gilbert Gildroy. By 1939 she was secretary-treasurer. Gildroy went on to become president. When he died last year, she became president.

The all-feminine show will break up eventually, Mrs. Gildroy said, now with the company, and she assumes he some day will be a stockholder.

Mrs. Gildroy said being a woman coal mine operator presents no particular problems. She regularly goes into the mine, and the men don't object. For instance, her son, Richard, is "I know them all," she said. "They like to have me there. At least, that's what they say."

The Mother's Club of St. John's Anglican Church met Tuesday evening in the parish hall, Mrs. A. H. Winslow presiding. Preparations were made for the club's part in the church bazaar on November 19. Tea was served by the hostesses, Mrs. R. F. DeGrace and Mrs. R. G. Boate.

✧ ✧ ✧

At a meeting of Saint Joseph's Sodality, Douro, new members were enrolled and a new executive elected as follows: President, Miss Frances Moloney; treasurer, Miss Monica Heffernan; secretary, Miss Patricia Condon. It was decided that an "at Home" will be held at the Assumption Hall, November 13th.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mark Street Church CGIT's' annual Hallowe'en party was held Tuesday evening with Park Street CGIT girls as guests. For entertainment there was a ball toss game, a talent test, spooning beans game, fortunes were told and there was guest walk. A ghost story was told by Arlene Clysdale. Prize for the prettiest costume was won by M. Preston and for the funniest costume by Bev Bacon. Party refreshments were served.

✧ ✧ ✧

St. James Church YPU had as guest speaker at their meeting on Tuesday evening Mr. John DeWit who immigrated from Holland about five years ago. He told them of his homeland. Mr. Ron Sargent, who is citizenship convener, introduced and thanked Mr. DeWit. Miss Betty Clysdale led the worship service. Miss Ann Gibson offered prayer and Miss Betty Dickenson read scripture. The Rev. Lloyd Shorten, new minister of the church, led the group in games. Lunch was served afterward.

✧ ✧ ✧

The Explorers of George St. United Church met on Monday. Prior to the meeting, games were conducted by Mrs. Chas. E. Allen. The meeting opened with singing of the hymn "This is My Father's World." Following the offering, minutes of the last meeting were read by secretary Mary Hucks. Chief Explorer, Penny McFarlane, conducted the worship service, and Bonnie McCall read the scripture lesson. Mrs. Walter Jones instructed part of the group on how to make books, which thus made new entries. Caroly Race reported.

✧ ✧ ✧

Pre-nuptial events in honor of Miss Mary Morrison, prior to her marriage to Mr. Donald Chambers last Saturday, included four showers. A crystal shower was given by Mrs. J. S. Little at her home in Toronto. A kitchen shower was given by Mrs. Leslie King and Miss Shirley Hutchison at the former's home on Douro Street. A community miscellaneous shower was given by Mrs. S. Dawson and Mrs. W. Thorne at the foremr's home and another miscellaneous shower was given by Mrs. H. Cunningham. The bride's mother entertained on three evenings in honour of her daughter.

Otonabee sub-division of the Catholic Women's League met at the home of Mrs. Dennis Driscoll this week. President Mrs. T. V. O'Toole presided and took up business. A social half hour followed and lunch was served by the hostess.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mr. and Mrs. Bill King and son Bobbie, who are formerly of Peterborough but have been living in London, Ontario, the past three years, have now taken up residence in Wingham where Mr. King has been transferred by the Beaver Lumber Company to their Wingham office.

✧ ✧ ✧

The Overseas Club took in three new members at the meeting on Wednesday evening in the YWCA. They are: Mrs. L. Davis and Mrs. G. Williams from Liverpool and Mrs. Thomas from Coventry. President Mrs. May Grant announced cancellation of the meeting on November 11th and next meeting will be November 25. Mrs. Harry Smith was appointed the new secretary-treasurer. A social evening was enjoyed, with lunch served at the close by Mrs. Carl Byman.

✧ ✧ ✧

Junior choirs of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church were entertained for a Hallowe'en party Wednesday evening by the Ladies' Aid. About 50 children enjoyed the party. Mrs. John Hornal was in charge of arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Frank Montgomery, Mrs. Norman Giles and Mrs. Ross Latimer. Ladies who served refreshments were Mrs. Gerald Dawson, Mrs. John Buckley, Mrs. Melville McKee and Mrs. Howard Perry.

✧ ✧ ✧

Contralto Entertains

A meeting of Chapter C of District 6 of the RNAO was held Tuesday evening in the nurses' residence at Civic Hospital with Miss Florence Vickers presiding. It was announced the annual district meeting will be November 21 in Belleville. The nurses were favored in having Mrs. Joan Andrews, dramatic contralto, to entertain them with delightful selections. Mrs. Andrews came here 16 months ago from Stoke-on-Trent, England. She has been a pupil of Hugo Hart, former director of Prague Opera House. Mr. Walter Morrow accompanied her at the piano. After the musical program, lunch was served.

Clothing Ready For Korea

Group four of the WMS of George Street United Church met at the home of Mrs. O. C. Wells, 437 McGill Street, Tuesday afternoon. Assistant leader Mrs. E. A. Stinson opened with a verse, followed by prayer. Business was conducted by leader Mrs. H. J. McMillan. The sewing committee advised that three bundles of clothing are ready for shipment to Korea. The devotional was led by Miss Anne Elliott who read religious passages relating to harvest and thanksgiving. Mrs. W. H. Morton offered prayer. Mrs. J. Donnelly read poems suitable to the autumn season. The first two chapters of the new study book, "Where the sun" were taken up by Mrs. C. Turnbull. Refreshments were enjoyed at the close.

WA Invites Husbands

Invitations issued by the WA of Murray St. Baptist church to a Hallowe'en pot luck dinner on Tuesday evening said "bring your favorite food and your favorite man." It is not often the husbands take part in WA activities but this festive occasion they enjoyed. Pumpkin and all sorts of Hallowe'en symbols decorated the church dinning room and after the meal there was wide variety in the stunts and games providing loads of fun. A president Mrs. O. J. Hayward acted as the emcee. The tables were decorated and laid out by Mrs. Harry Weston and assistants, Mrs. Earl McNabb, Mrs. Harry Doughty, Mrs. L. Horning and Mrs. A. Smedmor.

✧ ✧ ✧

Hallowe'en Party

The Young Adult Group of Park St. Baptist Church met with the BYPU Tuesday evening for a Hallowe'en party. About 40 were present. A variety of colorful costumes were noted and prizes were won by Miss Olive Tedford, first; Mr. Newton Hamilton, second, and Miss Irma Dayman, third. Tradition Hallowe'en games were conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wicks and Mrs. J. Barry of the Young Adult group. After the games, a short devotional was led by the BYPU with Bob Goudey's group in charge. Miss Madalyn Binsted led a sing-song and Miss Pat Scharf read the scripture. Delicious refreshments were then served.

✧ ✧ ✧

Drapes Purchased

Mrs. J. McClenaghan, Brookdale Crescent, entertained the Y's Menettes Tuesday evening for this month's meeting. President Mrs. Joe Watson welcomed Mrs. Don Martin as a new member and presided for the business. Mrs. McClenaghan and her committee reported that new drapes for the board room at the YMCA have been purchased and will be ready for the November meeting which is to be held in the board room so that members can decide on re-decorating the room. Mrs. H. Powell reported on final plans for the rummage sale being held this Saturday, October 31, at the YMCA. Mrs. W. Osborne was in charge of the entertainment and was the winner of the draw prize. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. J. Rowan and Mrs. Osborne.

GA To Present Nativity Play

Girl's Auxiliary of St. John's Anglican Church had a full attendance at the weekly meeting Tuesday in the Parish Hall. Leader Mrs. W. C. Boate praised the girls for the splendid way they managed the Hallowe'en tea held with wonderful success. Also, appreciation for the co-operation of the W.A. was expressed. Beth Conley will be in charge of decorating the Parish Hall for the church bazaar to be held November 19, and convener of the table offering Christmas table decorations.

The Dominion G. A. conference to be held Aug. 22nd. to Sept. 1, 1954 at Camp Couchiching, was discussed. Nine girls of leadership ability will be chosen from the Toronto Division and nominations must be sent in by December 1st. This year the group is trying for the Drama Badge and plan to put on the Nativity play at the December meeting of the Church Year. Mrs. R. Sutton will direct the play. The girls will all have parts and practises will be twice a week. Pianist for the play will be Susan Simmers. The play will be judged by an examiner from Toronto.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID B. HART of Peterborough, the bride formerly Miss Teresa Ayotte, were married Wednesday morning at St. Joseph's Church in Douro. (Duke Studio Photo).

See Spinning Wheel In Use At Handcraft Guild's Tea

The Peterborough Handcraft Guild's second annual tea was held with pleasing results in the Green Room of the YWCA on Wednesday afternoon.

Their first social event of this nature last year was at a member's home and proved so successful that it was decided to arrange larger quarters.

In connection with the tea there was a sale of handicraft work donated by the members. Proceeds from the sale and the tea room will be used in furthering the Guild in its activities through the season. Program plans include a special out-of-town speaker for the March meeting, which will be open to the public and held in the Library. Regular meetings of the Guild are at Dixon House where the craft classes are conducted.

DEMONSTRATES SPINNING

An extremely interesting "aside feature" to the sale of work was provided by weaving instructor Miss Peters who demonstrated spinning yarn from domestic wool of the Merino sheep.

Miss Peters has a small spinning wheel which she purchased from an elderly Peterborough resident who knew it to be 100 yeas old. She also owns white Angoa rabbits and spins their fur into the yarns with which she knits gloves and berets such as were offered for sale.

She was wearing a pair of slacks woven from wool she had spun and she offered for sale an attractive woollen coverlet and several scarves.

Pottery work by various members and some students was in charge of Mrs. D. H. Warner, the Hungarian born ceramics artist who makes unusual buttons, lapel pins, bracelet and earring sets, wall plaques, etc., to personal order if desired.

Mrs. Warner is also skilled in Hungarian baking ways and she made a chocolate cake, decorating it unusually with icing, as a draw prize for the tea. Miss Marion Manning was in charge of the tickets and the winner was Mrs. W. W. Leonard of Lakefield.

A tempting variety of Canadian home baking was for sale by Mrs. J. G. Wharry and Mrs. J. W. Miles. A gift table which offered sewing, leather and metal work was attended by Mrs. R. H. Parker and Mrs. C. R. Stacey.

SERVE ON COPPER

In the tea room, convener Miss Anne Jamieson and decorator Mrs. Ernest Thompson used some of the finest copper, serving trays and plates made by Guild members and used a hand-made copper tea pot as well as a manufactured one.

The copper was smartly set off by a green tea cloth and the centrepiece of bittersweet and snowberries decorated the mantel, piano and bazaar tables.

Guild president Mrs. E. R. Frost received from three until five thirty o'clock when Mrs. Ada Stanton and Miss June Fraser took her place at the door. Mrs. M. Niblett took the admissions.

Pouring tea in turns were Mrs. R. J. Bolton and Mrs. Wilfred Langan, Mrs. J. W. Miles and Mrs. J. E. R. Munro and Miss Grace Reinhardt. Serving was done by Mrs. Ada Stanton, Mrs. J. R. Sharp, Mrs. E. Thompson, Mrs. S. Downs, Mrs. E. Renwick of Lakefield, Miss Marion Manning and Miss Lily Taylor.

General convener of the affair was Miss Alma Dobbin.

Chapter News

After a short business meeting on Tuesday evening, Municipal Chapter IODE joined with members of the Col. Agnes Neill Chapter to hear Miss Mary Medd, regent of Municipal Chapter, present an interesting report on the semi-annual meeting of Provincial Chapter which was held last week in St. Catharines.

Miss Medd stated that Mrs. K. I. G. Drope, the new national president, stressed the need for more members and more chapters so that the work of the order can be widened more and more. It was announced at this semi-annual meeting that Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth has consented to be Patron of the order.

Miss Medd presented St. John Ambulance first aid certificates to the following IODE members: Mrs. Wm. Durante, Miss Jean Blodgett, Miss Betty Pogue, Mrs. Graham Carruthers, Miss Jean Cuthbert, Mrs. Jas. Gillespie, Miss June Fraser, Miss Mary Medd.

Mrs. A. W. Nelson, president of the Local Council of Women, spoke to the meeting about classes which are being conducted for mentally retarded children in the city. Mrs. Nelson stated that considerable progress is being made in Peterborough but that until the classes have been in progress for a four month period Peterborough cannot affiliate with the Ontario group to receive a government grant. IODE chapters were invited to help in this worthwhile project by volunteering to serve as drivers since these children must be transported daily to and from classes, or by giving a donation, either personally or as a chapter, to the local council.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by members of the Col. Agnes Neill Chapter.

Mrs. D. Brisbin Hostess To WMS

ROSENEATH — (ENS) — "Practical Christian Stewardship" was the subject of the address given by Mrs. T. S. Coyle at the October meeting of the W.M.S. of Roseneath United church held on Tuesday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Delbert Brisbin.

The president Mrs. J. N. Lovelace presided and was assisted in the devotional period by Mrs. J. R. Wheeler, Mrs. Alec McCullouch, Mrs. T. S. Coyle and Mrs. George Mouncey.

The community friendship report with Mrs. Howard Macklin as secretary showed five letters, seven cards, one box and six calls reported by the members for the month.

Plans were made for the Autumn thank-offering to be held in November with Mrs. T. S. Coyle and Mrs. Douglas Coyle as joint hostesses.

A lengthly discussion by the members on "A Class for Bazaar Articles" a new project for Roseneath Fair for 1954 proved very interesting.

Mrs. A. J. Campbell was in charge of the Study Book "Where'er The Sun." She was assisted by Mrs. J. A. Nichol, Mrs. J. N. Lovelace and Mrs. T. S. Coyle.

Mrs. George Mouncey conducted a contest.

Mrs. Brisbin served afternoon tea assisted by Mrs. Alec McCullouch and Mrs. Bernard McCracken of Peterborough.

Fashion Note: Vogue adds its word to all the talk of furs, points up three new favorites: one, the mink pullover sweater, a brilliant brown fashion with cardigan knit edging, to be worn with tweed or velvet. Also, a fur hat, a mink tambourine by Balenciaga; a fur sweater dress, the bodice of white lamb.

nvictae Circle Holds Coffee Party

Girls of the Invictae Mission Circle of George St. United Church proved themselves capable hostesses when they entertained at a coffee party in the board room of the church Wednesday evening. President Miss Shirley Starke received the guests.

Decorations in the tea room were carried out in gold and brown with streamers and floral bouquets. The table was centred with a charming arrangement of yellow and bronze mums spiked with gilded cat-tails and barley heads. This was in a crystal bowl, set on a mirror, and yellow tapers were in sliver candelabra. A beautiful hand-made lace cloth and silver services completed the setting.

Mrs. E. W. Rowland and Mrs. A. A. Mathews poured coffee the first hour, followed by Mrs. W. R. Young and Mrs. C. D. Munro.

The girls were assisted with the tea by Mrs. J. M. Beatty and Mrs. C. E. Allen and serving, under convenership of Mrs. Graydon Hadwin, was done by Miss Jean Montgomery, Miss Enid Philip, Mrs. Loyd Starke, Miss Marjorie Brown, Miss Marion Brown, Mrs. George Murray, Mrs. L. Grant, and Miss Joyce Grylls.

Bazaar tables were in an adjoining room and were convend by Miss Rosemary Parker.

A "surprise" table was in charge of Mrs. Arthur Wells. Mrs. Howard Morrow sold the fancy work and Mrs. Wesley Heath and Miss Velma Powers the home baking.

Tickets were taken at the door by Misses Margaret Duncan and Ruth Lewers.

Hastings Group Meets In City

HASTINGS (ENS)—Mrs. Lloyd McKay and Mrs. E. Fallis of 672 Orpington Rd., Peterborough, were hostesses to group two of the WA of Trinity United, when 30 ladies motored to Peterborough for their October meeting.

The president, Mrs. Arthur Beamish, called the meeting to order. Mrs. F. Crate was convener for the worship. Mrs. L. Humphries read the 24th Psalm, and the theme on "Stewardship" was taken by Mrs. Crate. Mrs. A. Poole led in prayer.

Mrs. Beamish presided for the business. A home baking and fancy work sale will be held on Saturday, November 14, in the store formerly occupied by R. Runnels. Mrs. Cecil Oliver invited the ladies to her home for the November meeting.

Mrs. A. Poole was convener for the program, and readings were given by Mrs. Robert Collins and Mrs. C. Oliver.

A social half hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served by the hostess and committee in charge. Mrs. Crate moved a vote of thanks to the hostesses.

Sectional Rally Held At Keene

KEENE (ENS) — The sectional rally of the Peterborough Presbyterial Women's Missionary Society was held in the United Church on Wednesday. Miss Cairns, a missionary from Japan, was the guest speaker, and Mrs. Herb. McFarlane, president of the local WMS was in the chair. Mark St. United Church WMS conducted the morning devotional exercises and St. Andrew's WMS took charge of the afternoon worship service. A skit was enacted by members of the local society.

Mrs. Hepburn of Mark St. sang two solos, acompanied by Mrs. DeNure, during the day. Dinner was served at noon by ladies of the local WMS.

ANCIENT CULTURE

Excavations have traced the Indus valley civilization in India back for at least 5,000 years.

Home and School Association News

HASTINGS SCHOOL

The Home and School association met in the school with Mrs. S. Perchaluk presiding. Past president, Mrs. S. Whetred was presented by Mrs. J. G. Thompson with a past president's pin and Mrs. William J. Jones presented flowers. Mrs. Whitred expressed her thanks.

Principal Beatty presented each member of the graduating class with a school pin and spoke of the thrill that comes when one tries the entrance and starts to High School. Graduates were Douglas Fairman, Rawleigh Arthur, Tom Fairman, Maurice Humphries, Mattie Nyenheus, David Mace, Melvin Smullin, Wayne Marsh, June Foley, Thomas Walker. Pins were sent to Ron Sargent and Frank Runnells who have left the community. Tom Fairman replied for the graduates.

Mr. D. Thurston who was principal last year gave a cup to the pupil with the highest standing, and Willaim J. Johnston on behalf of Mr. Thurston presented this trophy to Tom Fairman.

Mr. L. Humphries introduced the guest speaker, Rev. R. D Duncanson of Norwood who spoke about the United Nations.

Grade 6 stood high for roll call. The committee served refreshments and a social half hour was enjoyed.

DOROTHY DIX

Son, 16, Arouses Father Joins Poolroom Chums

DEAR MISS DIX: Although most of the boys my age, 16, have been playing pool for the past few years, I didn't begin playing until recently. A few days ago my father discovered, somehow, that I had been going to a poolroom and was very angry. We have since discussed the problem and I have explained that I enjoy the game. He still insists that he doesn't want me to go to poolrooms, even though I go with my own friends. I'd like your idea since this subject is developing into a family argument.

T. T.

POOLROOMS NOT FOR TEEN-AGERS

ANSWER: Poolrooms and other places of amusement patronized chiefly by adults should not be frequented by teen-agers. Each group should have its own recreational facilities, and overlapping is not advised. When teensters trespass on the territory of adults, the latter group is apt to be annoyed, and the youngsters frequently pick up information beyond their years. Your friends should have a place of your own for fun. Since you like pool and billiards, which I grant are interesting games, why not go about setting up your own recreation quarters? Perhaps a church, or a civic group will give you the use of a room; if not, scout among your friends and find someone with an attic or basement space to donate. You won't have to look far, since almost everyone today is very conscious of adolescent needs. Then agree on some means of raising money for equipment. There are lots of things youngsters can do to earn spare money. In fact, the money you now spend in a poolroom could well be used to outfit your quarters. I'm sure the parents of your friends feel the same way your father does, and they'll all willingly lend a hand to get you boys into a more suitable atmosphere.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Recently I met a young man who had not been long in this country. A few days ago he returned to his native land on business. I would like to write to him but my mother thinks it would not be proper on such short friendship.

Lee R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Although there's nothing improper about conducting a correspondence on short acquaintance, your mother doubtless has her own reasons for objecting, and therefore her advice should be heeded.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: All my friends in school (we are juniors) talk about marrying as soon as they graduate. I think they are foolish and that they should have some sort of career before marriage. It isn't a case of "sour grapes," either, since I have lots of boy friends. I believe in having fun while I'm young, going to college, having a career, then marrying.

D. B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You have a very sensible outlook, but many girls can't keep Cupid waiting that long. There are several practical reasons why a girl should have some sort of business training before marrying, but economic factors are involved also. College education is expensive. There's a lot to be said for both sides of your question; respect your own judgment.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Menu For Annual Hallowe'en Party

Since my youngsters have become adults our costume box has deteriorated until now all that it yields is a blonde wig with long flaxen braids that was Pete's pet prop when he was a rosy-cheeked fourteen.

Eleanor (my very brunette neighbor) is going to wear it this year at the bowling club Hallowe'en party.

For this party I've cooked up the menu and one simple game. Instead of ducking for apples they are going to nibble for doughnuts!

DOUGHNUTS-ON-A-STRING

Suspend a strong cord, on which doughnuts have been strung, across the corner of the room. Insist that each guest, in order to be eligible for the games and food to come, must eat one of the cakes without the help of his hands, directly from the string. Be sure to sugar the doughnuts with icing sugar, for it powders their noses so effectively.

HALLOWE'EN LIGHT SUPPER

Toasted Cheese Rolls
Hot Ripe Olives
Spook Salad (optional)
Ice Cream Sandwiches
Hot Spiced Cider

TOASTED CHEESE ROLLS

Spread wafer thin slices of fresh crustless bread with softened butter, and then with creamed cheese, which has been flavored with salt and a tiny bit of French or dry mustard or curry powder. Roll up diagonally and fasten toothpicks. Place on rack and toast under broiler in oven, turning once until rolls are golden. These sould be served hot.

Heating ripe olives in their own juice, emphasizes their characteristic flavor and is very popular.

If you want to serve more than a "snack meal" add this

SPOOK SALAD

Firm canned peaches, blackberries or halves of red or purple grapes, pimiento, or apple peel, cloves or apple seeds, celery sticks. This is not one of those wacky salads, notable only for appearance—it tastes good too. Use half of a well-drained firm canned peach on each lettuce leaf, for each spook face. These are fearsome indeed if the eyes are made of small blackberries. Failing those, halves of red or purple grapes are quite effective—quite bleary-eyed in fact. A sliver of pimiento or red apple peel makes the mouth, and a clove or apple seed is enough, nose for any spook. The cream cheese is the hair or the hood according to your artistic ability. If you want to add some crossed celery sticks anybody with half an eye will know they are crossed bones.

ICE CREAM SANDWICHES

Cut two and one-half inch squares of chocolate cake about one-half inch thick. Between two of these squares put a slice of orange ice cream. Decorate with whipped cream and an orange mint or section of fresh orange. (Or use orange cake with chocolate ice cream between.)

HOT SPICED CIDER

To serve 8: To 3 cups sweet cider add 15 whole cloves and 3 3-inch sticks cinnamon. Bring to boiling point, reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes. Remove from heat, cover and let stand 30 minutes. When ready to serve strain, add another 3 cups or little more to bring this up to 6 full measuring cups, and ½ teaspoon each grated orange and lemon rind, and heat just to boiling and serve. An intriguing touch is to add ¼ or ½ teaspoon butter to each glass or mug in which this is to be served, just before filling it. If you would like to serve this cold, let it cool to room temperature then pour over ice cubes.

6—In Memoriam

CURRIE—In loving memory of Robert (Bob), who passed away, October 29, 1951.
Love's greatest gift—remembrance—
Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Warrall, Jack Betty and Linda.

CURRIE—In loving memory of brother Bob who passed away, October 29, 1951 and Dad Samuel Currie, Nov. 8 1952.
—Ever Remembered by Harold and Margaret, Hamilton, Ont.

CURRIE—In loving memory of a dear husband Bob, and Daddy, who passed away, October 29, 1951.
He bade no one a last farewell,
He said goodbye to none,
His spirit fled before we knew,
That he from us had gone
On a grave not far from here,
Where sleeps the one we can't forget
The one we loved so dear.
—Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by his wife, Audrey, and daughters, Sharon and Sandra.

CURRIE—In loving memory of our dear brother, Robert (Bob) Currie who passed away on October 29, 1951, and our beloved father Samuel Currie who passed away on Nov. 8, 1952.
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart hold dear
Fond memories linger every day
Remembrance keeps them near.
—Always rmembered by Margaret, Harry and John.

McKINLEY—In loving memory of a wife and mother who passed away, October 30, 1952.
The depths of sorrow we cannot tell,
Of the loss of one we loved so well.
And while she sleeps a peaceful sleep
Her memory we shall always keep.
—Ever remembered by her husband Alex McKinley, Sam and Cora, Bob and Mary and grandchildren.

BETWEEN

EVA ELEANOR THOMAS
Plaintiff

—and—

GORDON EDGAR THOMAS, by Writ and JOHN LEWIS added as a Party Defendant in the Local Master's Office by Order dated July 2, 1953, Defendants.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR SALE

Pursuant to the Judgment and the final order for sale made in this case, and bearing date respectively the 9th Day of March, 1953, and the 2nd Day of September, 1953 there will be Sold, with the approbation of M. A. Miller, Esquire, Local Master of this Court at Cobourg, by Gordon Hancock, Auctioneer, at the hour of 2:00 o'clock, on the 20th Day of November, 1953, the following Lands and Premises in One Parcel, namely:

Land and Buildings situate in the Township of Cavan, in the County of Durham, and being part of Lot 27 in the 7th Concession of the said Township of Cavan containing 48.04 Acres more or less, the said property being more particularly described in Deed number C3759 for the said Township of Cavan dated the 11th Day of March, 1942, and registered on the 6th Day of July, 1942, from John Breckenridge to James Austin Moore and Lulu Moore.

The said Lands and Premises being situate at the south-east quarter of Lot number 27 and having a frontage on Highway Number 28, south of the Village of Fraserville of approximately 12 chains.

Upon the above described lands there is said to be situate the following Buildings namely:

HOUSE—Two - storey, seven - room House of frame construction, with insul-brick siding, in good condition, situate approximately 40 feet from Highway Number 28—furnace installed in basement.

BARN—40' by 30' of stone and cement foundation with steel siding and steel roof, cement floor and lift, equipped with hydro in excellent condition.

HEN-HOUSE—Two-storey hen-house, size 45' by 20', with cement floor, steel siding, steel roof, equipped with hydro.

GARAGE.

Property is said to be well fenced and landscaped, with adequate water supply.

The Property will be Sold by Public Auction, at the House situate on the above described lands.

The property will be offered for sale subject to a reserved bid which has been fixed by the said Local Master. The purchaser shall at the time of sale pay down a deposit to the proportion of $10.00 for every $100.00 of the purchase money to the plaintiff's Solicitors, and shall pay the remainder of the purchase money within Thiray Days or as soon thereafter as the said sale shall be approved by the said Local Master without interest. All parties of this action shall be at liberty to bid. Adjustments to be made as of date of sale. The purchaser shall search the title at his own expense. The vendor shall not be bound to produce any abstract of title or any deeds or evidence of title other than those in his possession or control.

In other respects, the terms and conditions of sale will be the standing conditions of sale of the Supreme Court of Ontario, and further particulars can be had from MESSRS. CARLEY, STANDISH, CLARKE & CARLEY No. 8 Bank of Commerce Building, Peterborough, Ontario.

DATED at Cobourg, this Eighth Day of October, A.D. 1953.

One Of Finest SA Bands To Play In City

The 42-piece Dovercourt Citadel Band, Toronto, considered one of the finest Salvation Army bands in Canada, will be featured at the Peterborough Salvation Army Temple on the week-end.

Following a dinner in the temple at 5.30 p.m., Saturday, where Ald. Doug Miller will give civic greetings, the band will present its first concert at 8.30 p.m. Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., will act as chairman for the festival.

Two more concerts will be presented on Sunday, one at 3.15 p.m., opening the musicale season this year, and one at 8.30 p.m. after the evening service.

FORMED IN 1906

The Dovercourt band was formed in 1906, and since that time has ranked with the best of Salvation Army bands throughout the world. It has played in almost every city of importance in Canada, and such American cities as New York, Detroit, Philadelphia and Baltimore. Such guest conductors as Sir Earnest MacMillan, Toronto Symphony, Vladimir Bakaleinikoff, Pittsburgh Symphony, and Colonel G. Howard, U.S. Air Force Band, have appeared with the band.

One of the chief functions of the Dovercourt band is to visit hospitals, penitentiaries, old people's homes and similar institutions to provide entertainment.

The present conductor, Bandmaster W. J. Habrick, was one of two Canadian bandmasters in Canadian armed forces bands overseas during the last war, the others being conducted by bandmasters on loan from the British Army, and all graduates of Kneller Hall. Mr. Hadrick has studied music in Regina and Winnipeg and is a graduate of the Henry School of Music.

It has been said of the band that the "42 instrumentalists can achieve breath-taking pianissimo playing, their technique and brilliance in allegro passages is most skilled, and their grandeur of tone, organ-like."

New Vaccine To Aid Polio

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Polio vaccine made from live virus may prove better than the widely-publicized new vaccine made from killed virus, a scientist here believes.

Dr. Edward S. Sulkin, chief of virus research at the University of Texas' southwestern medical school, said three different types of poliomyelitis vaccine are under study with some of the research on live-virus vaccine being conducted in his laboratories.

Just returned from the international conference on virus research in Detroit, Dr. Sulkin spoke Wednesday before a Dallas service club.

The most widely publicized vaccine is made of polio virus grown in test tubes, then killed with formafin, a chemical. Dr. Sulkin said its degree of protection is not yet known.

The second, still experimental, is made from living virus, has been injected into animals along with gamma globulin, and "might be hazardous" for humans, the research scientist said.

The vaccine Dr. Sulkin's laboratories are working on, would offer the most effective protection against polio, he said. It would be made of live virus passed through living tissue so many times that it would lose its disease-causing properties but retain its immunization powers. Similar vaccines, he said, have worked best with small-pox and yellow fever.

Children Under 15 Will Be Innoculated

WAWA, Ont. (CP)—Children under 15 here will be inoculated with gamma globulin after the deaths from polio of two residents in eight days.

Latest death was Oliver Holmes, 18, in hospital at Sudbury where he was taken after catching the disease here.

A service club in the community, 100 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie, has asked the Ontario government for help in buying an iron lung.

Won't Fly Union Jack In Ceylon In Future

COLOMBO, Ceylon (Reuters)—The Union Jack will no longer be flown and "God Save the Queen" will not be played at official functions in Ceylon in future, an official directive said today.

Only the Ceylon flag and the Ceylon national anthem (Namo Namo Matha) will be used at official ceremonies.

Since Queen Elizabeth has been proclaimed Queen of Ceylon there is no need for a second flag or anthem, it was stated unofficially.

Bootlegging

Both Campbell and Woods admitted driving to Rosebush's home on March 1, and Rosebush accompanied them. But neither one admitted buying a bottle and neither one saw his companion do so.

NOT FROM STORE

First time it was noticed by either, according to their testimony, was after they had driven away from Rosebush's home, stopped for a few minutes at a nearby store, and then drove away again. Both denied buying it at the store.

Giving judgment, Judge Kennedy said:

"It seems to me that Rosebush established such a prima facie defence by denying that he sold or gave whiskey to Woods or Campbell and by providing an explanation which may reasonably be true as to why he had the quantity of liquor in his house, and as to why he lied to the police . . . that the Crown has not discharged its onus of proving the guilt of the appelant, Rosebush, beyond a reasonable doubt.

"It was argued by counsel for the Crown that a proper inference of fact to be drawn from the kind and quantity of liquor found in the house of Rosebush was that it was kept for sale.

"But it seems to me that Rosebush has provided an explanation of the quantity found on the premises, which may reasonably be true, by testifying that he lives some 50 miles from a liquor store, and that he and his brother and his wife visit him for weekends and that he does a good deal of entertaining."

On these grounds Judge Kennedy quashed the conviction.

Study Traffic Safety

KITCHENER (CP)—About 100 high school students went to a car lot today for a lesson in traffic safety. Cars wrecked in traffic accidents in this district were used to show the results of unsafe driving.

Ease Barriers On Imports

PARIS (Reuters)—R. A. Butler, British treasury chief, announced here today that Britain will abolish 75 per cent of her import barriers on European goods before the end of the year "because we want to be good Europeans."

Butler's announcement set the tone of a two-day meeting of the ministerial council of the Organization for European Economic Co-operation. Freedom of European trade is the top item on the agenda for the representatives of 18 European countries meeting behind closed doors.

The British chancellor of the exchequer, chairman of the organization, also said British tourists will be able to spend more money in Europe from Nov. 1.

He said Britons will be allowed to take £50 out of Britain, an increase of £10. They will be allowed to travel in 18 more countries, including Soviet Russia and Communist East Europe.

Butler did not specify the type of goods affected by the new liberalization measures.

Police, Boy Scouts Search For Boy, 9

TORONTO (CP)—Police and boy scouts began a search of ravines today for a nine-year-old boy who vanished more than two days ago on his way to school.

Dwight Kahn was last seen by his mother as he set out from his home in north-central Toronto Tuesday.

Cut Bacon Price

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—The Netherlands has agreed to supply Britain with 7,500 tons of bacon at lower prices when the present bacon contract has been completed, the Dutch ministry of agriculture announced today.

"PROJECT SUPPER CLUB" is the theme this year for leaders of 12 community Home Makers' Clubs which are holding a two-day meet, Wednesday and today, at Peterborough Teachers' College. 5 Cardinals Get Red Hats

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (Reuters)—Five cardinals lay prostrate before the altar in the chapel of the papal summer palace here today while Pope Pius conferred on them the red hat, emblem of the cardinalate to which he had raised them last January together with 19 other prelates.

Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, dean of the 70-member Sacred College of Cardinals, and ceremonial officials of the Pope's household recited prayers as the five princes of the church—two Spaniards and three Italians—lay flat on the chapel floor after swearing utter obedience to the pope.

The Spaniards were Archbishop Benjamin de Arriba y Castro of Tarragona and Archbishop Fernando Quiroga y Palacios of Santiago de Compostella.

The Italians were the three former papal nuncioes to France, Spain and Portugal—angelo Giuseppe Roncalli, Gaetano Cicognani and Pietro Ciriaci.

The five cardinals were absent from the grandiose public and secret consistories held by the pope in St. Peter's Basilica and the Vatican Palace in January when he conferred the red hat, the square-winged scarlet biretta, and the topaz cardinal's ring on 17 new cardinals.

Two cardinals in Communist-ruled countries have not been able to receive their emblems of office.

Poland's Stephan Cardinal Wyszynski, Archbishop of Warsaw and Gniezno, and Aloysius Cardinal Stepinac, Archbishop of Zagreb, Yugoslavia.

Moose, Truck Tangle Damage Set At $350

NORTH BAY (CP)—Two vehicles were damaged near here Wednesday in separate accidents involving a deer and a moose.

The moose, estimated at 1,300 pounds, was killed when it jumped in front of a tractor-trailer driven by Victor Wylie, 19, of Weston, a Toronto suburb. Damage to the truck was about $350.

A light panel truck driven by James V. Bucci of North Bay overturned and was badly damaged when Bucci swerved to miss a deer and went into a ditch. He and a passenger were uninjured. The deer disappeared.

RCAF Buddies Shot Murder And Suicide

CALGARY (CP)—Paul Martin and Robert Samson, both believed in their early 30s, were found dead in Martin's apartment here Wednesday night. Both had been shot and police termed it a case of murder and suicide.

Police said Martin shot Samson and then turned the shotgun on himself.

The men were former RCAF buddies and both married.

Police said a deck of cards was found strewn on the floor.

Seek Two Youths In Rape Case

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Provincial police are looking for two youths who raped a 16 - year - old girl in a parked car in London Wednesday night.

The girl and an 18 - year - old friend met the youths downtown and the four drove out behind a sewage disposal plant and parked.

According to police the older girl got out of the car. The car doors were locked and she left.

The younger girl was attacked by each of the youths who then drove her back to the city.

The girls knew only the first names of the boys.

Miss Hazel Atkinson

CAMPBELLFORD — (ENS) — A school teacher here for more than 30 years, Miss Hazel Atkinson died in Campbellford Memorial Hospital last week. She had retired from the teaching profession about a year ago because of poor health.

Funeral services were conducted on Tuesday afternoon from Bennett's Funeral Parlours with the Rev. A. E. Toombs officiating.

Miss Atkinson was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Atkinson of Campbellford. She travelled a great deal and visited the West Indies, Bermuda and Europe. Before teaching in Campbellford, she taught at Mount Olivet, West's School, Fort William and Tweed. She was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, a charter member of the Mission Circle of the church, past regent of the Bemersyde Chapter of the IODE and a member of the church choir, the Young People's Society and the tennis club.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Clifford F. Maybee of Belleville and Mrs. Glenn A. Wood of Syracuse, N.Y.

Pall bearers were David and Robert Fox, Edison Wynn, Marshall West, Frank DeCarrol and Douglas Maybee. Members of the IODE acted as flower bearers. Burial was in the Atkinson family cemetery, Crow Bay.

Wheat In Store Up In October

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian wheat in store and transit jumped by 3,100,000 bushels during the week ended Oct. 21, the board of grain commissioners said Wednesday.

In its weekly report, the board said visible supplies mounted to 319,700,000 bushels, a gain of 74,000,000 bushels on the same date last year.

Canadian marketings of wheat continued to exceed the volume of shipments to domestic points and overseas. Deliveries to country elevators for the week were 9,900,000 bushels compared to 12,400,000 the previous week.

The movement of grain from country elevators compares favorably with the same period last year although wheat is down. Total moved this year is 172,200,000 bushels compared to 175,000,000 in the first 12 weeks of the 1952-53 season.

Says Profits Important To Economy

DETROIT (CP) — Vice-president Theodore J. Emmert of Ford of Canada said today Canadian business men must accept the responsibility of "awakening people to the importance of profits in our economy" and exploding the "insane idea that profits is a term of social reproach."

In an address prepared for delivery before the opening session here of the 28th annual conference of Canadian purchasing agents, he said he had heard a great deal of criticism of profits in the last 10 years.

However, the "greatest economic tragedy that could befall our country in the next quarter century would be for business and industry to be prevented from operating at a profit."

"Profits are financing a major portion of the research and exploration in our resource areas. Profits, through taxation, will provide a goodly portion of the funds we need for schools, hospital and municipal services. Profits in the last decade have provided for us all a rising standard of living."

OBJECTS TO WORD

Mr. Emmert said he objects to the word "boom" as frequently used in reference to Canada's present surge of resource development.

The word aroused memories of its unhappy opposite, the best.

"The superstitition still persists that inevitably we must be victims of this dismal partnership."

Canada growth is firmly rooted in the soil made rich by nature, he said. It would take enterprise, capital, faith and hard work to cash in our assets.

He predicted that in 1954 business "will turn in a very good performance."

"I expect 1954 will be a year of consolidation, a year of hard selling and high sales, a year that may shake out a few weak sisters but still a very good business year."

Overdue Launch Arrives At Halifax

HALIFAX (CP) — An overdue transport department launch with four persons aboard turned up safe today as a search started along the coast of Resolution island, north of Labrador, about 250 miles from the Arctic circle.

RCAF search and rescue officials here said two Eskimos and two departmental employees were aboard.

Hereford Breeders Hold Cattle Sale

CHATHAM (CP)—The first consignment sale of the Kent County Hereford Breeders' Association was held Wednesday at nearby Blenheim with 33 cattle selling for a total of $8,765.

The top bull, from Leeson Brothers of Ridgetown, was sold to Ivan Tole of Blenheim for $620. Eight other bulls brought an average of $370.

Top heifer price was $410, paid by Floyd Cooper of Tupperville to William Sager of Dresden. Mr. Cooper also bought the top open heifer from Leeson Brothers of Thamesville for $450.

Remanded 3 Weeks On Assault Charge

OWEN SOUND (CP)—Jack Traynor, 27, of Owen Sound was remanded Wednesday for three weeks for sentence on a charge of indecent assault on a 13-year-old boy.

Crown attorney C. C. Middlebro said Traynor will be charged at the spring assizes on a charge of attempted murder in connection with the assault.

Police said Traynor assaulted the boy July 29 and pushed him into the harbor here. He was rescued by two men in a rowboat.

Indian Girl Fined For Visit

SARNIA (CP)—An Indian girl who was banished from the Kettle Point Indian reserve because she married a white man was convicted in court Wednesday of trespassing on the reservation while visiting her sick mother.

Barbara Tulsma, 20, was married three years ago and was expelled from the nearby reserve last June by the tribe's council.

Barbara's mother told magistrade J. C. Dunlap she bought a cabin for the girl outside the reserve boundary and later asked her to come home because she was sick.

Robert George, constable at the reserve, arrested Barbara as she slept in a car parked on the reserve.

Magistrate Dunlap said the accused had no right on the reserve but felt it was a case of hardship to both her and her mother. He fined the girl $1 and $12.50 court costs and gave her until Nov. 7 to pay.

London Play Exciting Murder Piece

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK (AP) — A tense and exciting murder melodrama from the London stage arrived on Broadway Wednesday night in Gently Does It, a new play by Janet Green.

This drama of a personable young man, Edward Bare, who cannot resist murdering for money takes place in a quiet, middle-class home just outside a small market town in Kent.

There is no mystery about the murders, for the audience is shown or kept informed about all. But he plans them so cunningly that they seem to be "perfect murders."

His mistake comes when Monica, played by Phyllis Povah, returns to the town after her father dies to take over the profitable store he owned there. Bare is a clerk.

POOR HOME

He had come from a drab, poverty-stricken home, and his one passion is for money. Some men, as he later explained, will kill for lust, some because of anger, some for power. But the only reason he has to commit murder, and without regret, is for money.

He instantly begins an effective courtship of the much-older Monica, and soon they are married.

She does whatever he says, and the first move is to sell the store so that he can get cash in his hand. His ultimate ambition is to take that money and sail around the world.

First, he decides, he must get rid of Monica and without the slightest suspicion on himself. With charm and attention he persuades her that she is an almost-helpless invalid. Then he begins feeding her liquor and soon she is a hopeless alcoholic.

When she is in one of these stupors, he pushes her on the floor with a liquor glass in her hand and turns on the gas. He plots carefully so that when she is found dead, he is at the public library asking for some books for her.

GETS SMALL INCOME

He finds that under her will, he doesn't get all her money, only a small income.

He then weds Freda, an ex-barmaid who has inherited considerable money from her late husband. But she is too smart to let him get near her money.

Charlotte, another woman who seems to have unlimited money, arrives, and he begins his plotting again so that he can kill Freda and pursue Charlotte's money.

But Charlotte proves to be Monica's sister, who has arrived from Australia suspicious. Soon the cunning Edward is trapped in his own web, still without the money he so fatally desired.

Anthony Oliver, Miss Povah, Brenda Bruce and a cast of both British and U.S. players make Gently Does It a tense, exciting drama which now and then is highlighted with some laughable moments.

200-Year-Old Pendant Stolen From Home

TORONTO (CP)—A 200-year-old necklace was stolen from Mrs. Edna Fraser's home while she was out of town. It was described as a 4½-inch gold cross, with a large jade stone surrounded by pearls and ruby chips, ung by a hand-made gold chain.

Mrs. Fraser reported the robbery when she returned to the city Wednesday night.

Deserving Case

LONDON (CP)—An anonymous advertiser in the New Statesman and Nation received more than 50 replies to his offer of a free portable typewriter to "deserving writer or researcher." The gift went to an invalid factory worker in Walsall, who had been living on sickness benefits.

6 People Injured In 2-Car Collision

BARRIE (CP)—Six persons were injured Wednesday in a two-car collision on No. 11 highway six miles north of here.

Michael Komar, 21, of Port Arthur, driver of one car, suffered a broken knee cap. His wife, Mary, 17, received multiple facial lacerations. Byron Brown, 30, of Brockville suffered a broken collar bone, right arm and head injuries.

Also injured were W. E. Sparham, 66, Maj. Walter Kirby, 63, both of Barrie, and Maj. Kirby's son, Capt. Christopher Kirby, 29, of Camp Ipperwash.

UC Favors Recognizing Red China

CLEVELAND (CP)—The United Church of Canada favors recognition of the Chinese Communist government and its representation at the United Nations, a church spokesman said Wednesday.

The Rev. J. R. Mutchmor, Toronto asked a meeting of the National Conference of Churches and World Order to consider the Chinese question.

The question—the proper view of the Chinese Communist government—was one of the issues for study drawn up Wednesday by the meeting, attended by some 450 clergy and laymen from 30 Protestant and Eastern Orthodox churches in Canada and the United States.

Delegates later voted overwhelmingly to reject any action favoring admission of Red China to the UN.

TRIPLETS—TWICE

MIDDLESBROUGH, Eng. (AP)—Two sets of triplets were delivered at Middlesbrough Hospital within 24 hours. Mrs. Muriel Wagner's arrived Tuesday night, all boys. Born Wednesday night to Mrs. L. J. Harris were two girls and a boy. Mothers and six children were reported doing well.

Reds Move 400 Planes Violate Terms Of Truce

Canada May Retaliate In Air Tiff

U.S. Complaint Barred TCA Service To Mexican Capital

OTTAWA (CP)— Transport Minister Chevrier hinted today that Canada may retaliate against the United States in a squabble concerning operation of a Trans-Canada Air Lines flight to Mexico.

The minister said in a statement that Canadian air transport authorities have "the position of U. S. carriers operating into Canada under review" as a result of a U. S. decision which has forced TCA to cancel plans for the Mexico service.

U.S. BEING STRICT

An official of the Canadian air transport board said the U. S. had placed an "unexpectedly strict and literal interpretation" on international air agreements.

He said that at least in one or two instances Canada had been more liberal than the U. S. in granting such air permits.

His department now was reviewing possible parallel cases of U. S. lines operating into or through Canada. One example might be operation of U. S. lines through Edmonton to Alaska.

The new TCA service was scheduled to start Saturday between Montreal, Toronto and Mexico City.

TCA now operates from Montreal and Toronto to Tampa, Fla. It wanted to extend that service to Mexico City. It planned to use the same planes for passengers disembarking at Tampa and for those continuing to Mexico City.

ORDER SEPARATE FLIGHTS

The U. S. civil aeronautics board objected, saying that two types of traffic could not be carried on the one plane. They ruled that TCA should use a separate plane for passengers travelling to Mexico City from Canada and vice versa.

Niagara Tightrope

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont.—(CP)—Willi Schwanholz, 24-year-old German immigrant, says he plans to walk across the Niagara gorge next spring on a tightrope. Schwanholz says he crossed between two of the Bavarian Alps on a tightrope and raised $1,000,000 for the Eva Peron fund by performing 200 feet above the ground across a 1,000-foot gap in Buenos Aires.

Plane Crash Claims Lives Of 19

Vancouver Woman Sole Canadian In Airliner Mishap

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "The only survivors here are rescuers." That's how United States coast guard chief Wilson Jennings described by radio the grim scene 25 miles south of here Thursday where a British Commonwealth Pacific Airlines DC-6 crashed and burned, killing all 19 aboard, including a Vancouver woman.

Among the 11 passengers were William Kapell, 31, brilliant New York concert pianist returning from an Australian tour.

Jean Chiverton of Vancouver was the only Canadian on board.

The plane from the airline operated jointly by Australia and New Zealand was only two minutes from San Francisco airport on its trans-Pacific journey from Sydney, Australia, via Honolulu. It crashed into fog-shrouded 2,400-foot King's mountain, disintegrated and burned.

TWO STILL MISSING

Seventeen charred and dismembered bodies were recovered. Search for the other two resumed today.

Cause of the crash has not been determined. Veteran pilot Bruce Dixon had checked by radio with the control tower at San Francisco airport just before the crash. There was no indication of impending tragedy.

After a United States Air Force helicopter sighted the wreckage, ground crews had to claw through tortuous, densely-wooded terrain and down a 45-degree slope.

The bodies were lifted out with a winch and 500 feet of cable. Horses balked at the going.

Some men collapsed from the heat of numerous small fires. One news photographer suffered a heart attack; another a sprained ankle and bruises in a fall.

TRAGIC FEATURE

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)— A Hungarian watchmaker's years of efforts to find a cure for his polio-stricken son came to a tragic end in the crash of an airliner near San Francisco Thursday.

Janos Feher and his seven-year-old son, John, both died in the disaster as they flew toward New York and the polio treatments which Feher had slaved for years to finance.

Since emigrating to Australia in 1949, Feher had consistently worked hours of overtime daily and had finally sold almost all his possessions to raise money for the specialized New York treatments which he was told were his son's only hope of recovery.

His widow was receiving government aid today in making arrangements to fly immediately to the scene of the crash.

Says 2,000 More Wait To Fly From Manchuria

TOKYO (AP)—The chief of South Korea's Air Force said today that the Communists have spirited 400 fighter planes into North Korea in violation of the armistice and based them at 30 newly-repaired airfields. Lt.-Gen. Choi Yong Duk told reporters: "The North Korean Air Force now has two divisions of MiGs and another division of propeller-driven craft south of the Manchurian border." He said the Reds have another 2,000 planes in Manchuria, about two-thirds of them MiGs.

Choi stopped here en route to the United States, where he will tour air force installations and confer with military officials.

REPAIRS UNRESTRICTED

The Korean truce signed last July 27 bans the movement of planes into Korea except as replacements. The armistice does not restrict the repair and construction of airfields.

In the case of North Korea, Choi said, incessant bombings during the war had made most Red airfields unusable, and Communist planes were based north of the Yalu river boundary between North Korea and Manchuria.

But as soon as the truce went into effect, the Reds quickly repaired 10 major airfields and 20 secondary landing strips and spirited in the planes, Choi said.

The United Nations command has complained to the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission that the Reds have shipped planes into North Korea in violation of the truce.

An inspection team was instructed to investigate the complaint, but no final report has been filed.

Earlier, the U.S. 5th Air Force reported tracking on radar Communist planes flying southward into North Korea immediately after the armistice went into effect.

Basic equipment of the North Korean Air Force is Russian, Choi said.

Russians have influenced North Koreans to increase the caloric content of the diet of North Korean Air Force pilots, Choi said, "so they will be in the best of health."

Seguin To Hang For Slaying Of Cab Driver

CORNWALL (CP)—Henri Seguin 28, was sentenced Thursday to be hanged Jan. 19 for murder in the shooting Aug. 26, 1952, of Leonard Hurd, taxi driver from nearby Maxville.

A jury in Ontario Supreme Court deliberated two hours and 45 minutes at the close of the four-day trial.

Before passing sentence, Mr. Justice F. H. Barlow asked the husky laborer if he had anything to say. Seguin replied:

"All I can say is that I am completely innocent."

Then two constables led him to the death cell.

DEAD ON SIDEROAD

Hurd, 41-year-old business man who operated a garage and a taxi service and was reputed to carry large amounts of money, was found dead in one of his taxis on a lonely sideroad. There were three bullet holes in his head and two in his chest and police said he had been robbed of about $700.

When brought here for trial, Seguin was serving a 20-year penitentiary term for the attempted murder of a bank manager in Williams Lake, B.C. During what police said was an attempt to rob the bank there last December, Seguin was felled by a bullet in his chest during a gunfight with RCMP. Police linked him with the Hurd killing shortly afterwards.

ONLY TWO VERDICTS

His arrest came little more than a month after his car was found abandoned in Quebec province about 75 miles northeast of Cornwall.

Mr. Justice Barlow said the jury had only two possible verdicts: guilty or innocent of murder. He said the evidence, while circumstantial, pointed strongly to Seguin.

Thirty-one crown witnesses were heard in the trial. Douglas McKibbon, former bookkeeper at Hurd's garage, said Seguin told him a few days before the slaying that it "would be easy to hit Mr. Hurd over the head and take his money."

Claim Gouzenko Spent $100,000 Over Eight Years

TORONTO (CP)—The Star says in a newspage story today that Igor Gouzenko has squandered about $100,000 in "high living" since he informed on the Russian spy ring in Canada eight years ago.

A guardian of the former Soviet embassy clerk is concerned with his conduct in recent months, the story says. He appears over-anxious to talk and "for money will say just about anything, whether fact or not."

The guardian said he thinks Gouzenko's expressed desire to appear before Senator Joseph McCarthy's Communist investigation committee in Washington is a move to make money.

Gouzenko receives a nominal sum from the Canadian government but "has become so accustomed to a high standard of living that nothing short of $100 a week is enough."

The former Soviet employee received $75,000 from a movie company for his life story and earned about $25,000 more in royalties from a book.

The whereabouts of Gouzenko, his wife and two children is secret. He is living under an assumed name in Canada but is not guarded. Interviews with him are arranged by RCMP headquarters in Ottawa but are not censored.

Whitby Case To Test Ont. Edible Oils Act

WHITBY (CP)—Ontario's Edible Oils Act, proclaimed five months ago, will be tested in the courts next Wednesday.

Godfrey Schilling, Whitby Food Products Company manager, faces a charge of selling a substance resembling a dairy product.

Schilling, 33, brought with him to Canada from Britain last year a process for making a frozen dessert using milk solids and vegetable fats. He said Thursday:

"We have not broken the law because our product does not attempt to imitate ice cream. It's made differently, tastes differently and sells for a different price."

Protest Bases

LONDON (AP)—Sofia radio said Thursday night that Bulgaria has sent a letter of protest to the United Nations against the use of military bases in Greece by the United States.

Interim Regime To Replace Guiana's Reds

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (Reuters)—An interim government to replace the deposed leftist regime of Cheddi Jagan will be established in this troubled British South American colony in mid-December, chief secretary John Gutch announced Thursday.

The interim government will consist of a single-chamber legislature and an executive council headed by Governor Sir Alfred Savage.

Gutch said the necessary amendments to Guiana's suspended constitution will probably be presented in the House of Commons in London next week and after the required 40-day statutory period the interim government will start functioning.

Gutch, just back from London, said the decision on whether PPP leaders would be prosecuted depended on the availability of evidence and the views of the attorney-general.

The secretary added that deposed premier Cheddie Jagan and former education minister L. F. S. Burnham, both now in prison, would be tried if there was sufficient evidence.

"It would be highly desirable for prosecutions to be brought against some of these people provided it has a good chance of success, Gutch said.

ARGENTINE REACTION

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The newspaper La Prensa today said Britain's actions in British Guiana should be considered by all American republics under the Rio de Janeiro treaty for defence of the hemisphere.

La Prensa, now published by the government - supported Argentine General Labor Confederation, said that if a Communist plot did exist in Guiana as British authorities charged, it affected the Americas and not Britain, and thus should be debated at the forthcoming Caracas Inter-American Conference.

Frankie, Ava Call It Quits, Wed Two Years

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Frank Sinatra and Ava Gardner have called it quits and Miss Gardner said Thursday she would seek a divorce.

In a statement issued through MGM, Miss Gardner's studio, the couple said:

"Having reluctantly exhausted every effort to reconcile our differences, we find no mutual basis on which to continue our marriage. We still have great respect for each other."

They would have celebrated their second anniversary Nov. 7.

US Asks UN Assembly Probe Atrocity Charges Against Reds In Korea War

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States today formally asked the UN General Assembly to take up its charges that Communists in Korea committed atrocities against American and Allied captives. The request was contained in a letter to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. The letter merely asked that the item be put on the assembly's agenda. It was not accompanied by an explanatory memorandum telling why.

UN sources said they expected a meeting of the steering committee Monday to decide whether to agree to the U.S. request.

Chief U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge announced the move Thursday night, a little more than 24 hours after the army war crimes division issued its account of the torture, murder and starvation deaths of 29,815 persons —including 6,113 American soldiers —behind Red lines in Korea.

The report, documented with blood-curling photographs and eye-witness stories, touched off demands from shocked American public and private figures for UN action.

Lodge's terse announcement gave no indication, however, whether the U.S. would ask the assembly to pass judgment and condemn those responsible for the killings.

GET BITTER OPPOSITION

Diplomats said any U.S. demand for condemnation of alleged war criminals almost certainly would run into bitter Communist opposition and Russian counter-demands that Red China and North Korea be invited here to answer the American charges.

The announcement came as the U.S. disclosed it will present further evidence of Soviet complicity in Communist torture to wring germ warfare "confessions" from captured American airmen to the UN's 60-nation political committee.

Lodge's swift reaction to the atrocity report caught his associates by surprise. American experts went into an immediate huddle to write an explanatory memorandum telling the UN why they thought the report should be placed on the assembly's agenda.

The next step is for Mme. Pandit of India, assembly president, to call an extraordinary meeting of the steering committee to decide whether to grant the request. The Soviet battle to keep the question out of the UN is expected to begin in that committee.

In the UN Security Council, meanwhile, the Palestine question remained under consideration. Today the council was scheduled to debate further Syria's complaint that an Israeli hydro-electric pro-

Ike's Visit Cut To Two Days, To Address House

OTTAWA (CP) — President Eisenhower's state visit to Ottawa next month will be for two days unstead of three as originally announced, the external affairs department said today.

The president and Mrs. Eisenhower will arrive here by train at 11:30 a. m. Friday, Nov. 13 and leave for Washington the following night. The original schedule called for the president to remain here Saturday night and to start back home Sunday.

He will review a guard of honor in Confederation Square at approximately 11:40 a. m. and place a wreath on the national war memorial.

A dinner in honor of the president will be given by the governor-general at Government House Friday evening, followed by a reception.

At 10:45 a. m. Saturday, Nov. 14, the president will review a guard of honor in front of the Peace Tower before entering the Parliament Buildings to address members of the Senate and Commons in the Commons chamber at 11 a. m.

At 11:45 a.m., the president will confer with the cabinet in the Parliament Buildings. He and Mrs. Eisenhower will lunch with Mr. St. Laurent and his wife at the prime minister's official residence.

Saturday evening, the president will give a dinner at the United States embassy in honor of the governor-general and prime minister, followed by a small reception.

French Wipe Out Vietminh Elite

SAIGON (AP)—A French command spokesman said today that French forces have virtually wiped out the Vietminh's elite 320th division during 10 days of fighting.

Two divisions of French mobile forces, supported by tanks, artillery and planes, have been fighting the Communist-led Vietminh division.

The spokesman said the Vietminh unit has lost nearly 4,000 men and cannot now carry out its assigned objective, infiltrating the interior of the Red river delta to reinforce the 60,000 Vietminh troops already behind French lines.

Red Troops Said After Partisans

LONDON (Reuters)—Some 3,000 crack Red army troops have been sent into East Germany with orders to crush an anti-Communist resistance movement operating a "hit and run" guerrilla warfare, an official British source said Thursday.

Government quarters here said they believe it possible that Field Marshal Friedrich von Paulus, former German Army commander captured at Stalingrad, is directing the anti-partisan campaign. Held by the Russians since 1942, von Paulus was freed this month and returned to Germany.

Mother Charged In Babys' Death

TORONTO (CP)—A 23-year-old pregnant mother has been charged with murder and accused of bashing her one-year-old daughter against a table when she cried too much in a bathtub.

Mrs. Doris Martyn, who has two other children, was charged Thursday after Patricia Anne Martyn died in hospital of severe head injuries.

Police said the woman, her plumber husband and the three children lived in two small rooms in mid-town Toronto. They quoted the mother as saying she became upset at the constant crying of the baby while she bathed it.

Police said the child's head was battered against the table last Friday. The mother took Patricia Anne to hospital Monday and told doctors she had fallen from her crib.

Say Second Yank Wants To Return

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Indian chairman of the neutral nations repatriation commission indicated tonight that another U. S. soldier may be ready to turn his back on the Communists and go home.

Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya disclosed that the prisoners had asked if relatives from the United States could come to Panmunjom and talk to him.

Thimayya told newspaper men he believes "more of them (Allied prisoners) will change their minds and request repatriation."

One American already has done so, leaving 22 Americans in Indian custody who by Communist accounts are refusing to go home.

Thimayya said he told the American there was nothing in the Korean armistice rules which would prohibit relatives from serving as "explainers."

Many relatives of the 22 back in the United States have been trying to arrange for trips to Korea, but nothing concrete has developed.

Anti-Communist Prisoners Agree To Hear Reds' Pleas

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Violently anti-Communist North Korean prisoners have agreed to attend Communist interviews Saturday, ending a two-week holdout which threatened to wreck the neutral nations repatriation commission. "They are coming out tomorrow for explanations—so they have agreed," said Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the commission, today.

Five hundred North Koreans are scheduled to move out of their compounds Saturday morning for interviews with Red explainers, who will try to persuade them to return home. Another 500 are to be interviewed in the afternoon.

PERSONAL TRIUMPH

The Koreans' decision to attend the interviews peacefully represented a solid personal triumph for the patient Thimayya.

Thimayya told reporters that, after days of delicate negotiations, the PoW leaders indicated two days ago they were willing to attend explanations. But they asked for time to talk fellow prisoners into attending.

These will be the first North Koreans to meet the Reds since the explanations started Oct. 15.

USAF Flier Hits 754 MPH In Jet

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The United States Air Force claimed today to have wrested back from the U. S. Navy the world speed record for level flight.

Col. F. K. (Pete) Everest, 33, of Edwards air force base, flew a North American Super Sabre 754.98 m. p. h. Thursday on a 15-kilometre (about nine miles) course along the Salton sea. His top speed with a tail wind was 767.276 m. p. h., and he bucked the wind coming back at 742.684 m. p. h.

Fastest previous time was 753.4 m. p. h by navy Lt-Cmdr. James Verdin earlier this month in an F-4-D Skyray over a three-kilometre course Federation Aeronatique Internationale recognizes speed marks over either three- or 15-kilometre courses.

"Not Satisfied"

Soviet Calls On Farmers To Produce 41% More Food

By SIDNEY WEILAND

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The Soviet government today called on Russian farmers to produce 41 per cent more food this year than they did in 1950.

A decree published here said production thus far this year is only slightly over last year, and requirements of the population "were not satisfied."

The decree told the Russian people to expect "impressive increases" for their larders between now and 1956. It set specific goals of production.

The government will put 8,500,000,000 rubles ($2,125,000,000 at official exchange rates) into capital investment for the food industry during the next year. More than 1,000 new food factories will start operation by 1956.

The decree, third in a week, is part of a campaign launched by Premier Malenkov in August to improve consumer services and raise living standards.

The full text of the decree ran over 20,000 words. It was printed fully in Moscow newspapers and read over the state radio. It took the Moscow announcer 2¼ hours of fast, uninterrupted reading to get through it.

The decree complained of the leanness of cattle generally. Organizations responsible for fattening the animals have not been working satisfactorily, it said.

A great amount of valuable fish was still being sent for crude salting instead of being given a high-quality processing. Most margarine hadn't enough taste and aroma and the lack of well-packed food was still apparent.

The decree said 18,000,000 bottles of champagne will be produced next year, and 20,000,000 bottles the year after. Three times this quantity of brandy would be produced.

Half Bread-Winners Idle

Strike-Paralyzed Timmins Builds Wall Of Optimism, Few Miners Leaving Town

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP)—More than half of its bread-winners are idle but this strike-paralyzed gold town of 28,000 has built a wall of optimism against early threats of mass evacuation and economic disaster.

Since July 11 the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) has called progressive strikes in the gold mines, basis of the town's economy, until now 5,000 of 7,000 miners are workless and six of 11 mines are closed. When the big 1,800-man Hollinger mine shut down Sept. 24 there were predictions that an economic crisis and departure of much of the population would follow.

But merchants, though feeling the pinch, still are in business; loan companies are willing to extend credit; and the early exodus of job-seekers has slowed to normal.

WILL WIN THROUGH

Local business men admit that the strike has pinched them to the point where some have had to lay off staff but their attitude was expressed by one:

"This won't last. Things may be tough for a time, but we'll come through all right."

Timmins is in the centre of the Porcupine gold camp, an area which mines 16 per cent of Canada's $150,000,000-a-year gold output. Normally the annual payroll for the area runs to $21,500,000.

Now miners who averaged $65 weekly in the mines are living on union relief vouchers and their savings. The vouchers, which can be used only for groceries and other necessities, amount to $9 weekly for a single man. A married man gets $14 plus $4 for each child. In addition, each striker gets $1 weekly in cash.

SUPPORT PLEDGED

Cost of the strike to the union, Canada's biggest, is estimated between $60,000 and $65,000. The 75,000-member USWA has pledged both national and international support to the strikers and the 375,000 member Canadian Congress of Labor has also promised support.

Issues in the strike are union demands for higher wages—conciliation boards have recommended increases between seven and 10 cents hourly, a work week of 40 hours instead of 48, and checkoff of union dues.

The companies have balked at adding to their labor costs but the checkoff is the big stumbling block. The companies want no part of this, contending that if a man wants to support his union he can pay his own dues rather than have the employer deduct the dues from his pay and hand them over to the union.

Outside the miners, the hardest economic blows have fallen on small store operators and restaurant owners. So far the strike has had little effect on chain stores. One manager said, however:

"Things will get worse before they get any better. We realize that, and we're not kidding ourselves that the next few months are going to be easy."

SALES FALL OFF

One clothing store used to take stock daily. Now, said its manager: "It would be a waste of time. We're not selling enough to warrant it."

A union-operated kitchen serves 2,000 breakfasts, 3,000 lunches and 2,000 dinners daily. The kitchen is the gift to the union of Dan Mascioli, Timmins business man, and was once the town's only night club, the Golden Hub.

Loan companies are still willing to give an attentive ear to a miner's financial troubles but one credit company manager said the average miner is wary of taking on new commitments with his future uncertain.

Many miners are going to the union which offers non-interest loans and is willing to wait until the man is working before demanding repayment.

At one stage of the strike seven or eight families plus many single men were leaving Timmins daily in search of work elsewhere. Now, moving companies say, business back to "normal."

16TH TRIINITY TROOP

Who is to stop and who is to go? What are the proper signals to use in directing traffic? What is the proper way to turn a corner?, to pass oncoming traffic?, traffic proceeding in the same direction?, or parked?

These and other questions dealing with the Highway Code of Ontario were discussed and answered by Constable Wallace Mohns of the Ontario Provincial Police as he instructed Second Class Scouts at Trinity church last Wednesday evening. During the instruction period other groups received coaching in the Scout Promise and Scout Law from S.M. Dick Batten; in the tying and use of knots from A.S.M. Russell Brierly, and in semaphore from A.S.M. Brian Gibbons.

In a presentation made by Gordon Thompson, form S.M. of the troop, Peter Chown and Bill Hendry received their 1st class badges which they had earned under his leadership. Following this, Peter Chown presented the former S.M. with a gift on behalf of the boys in the troop. Following the Scout Silence and break off Mrs. Hubert Chown and Mrs. Perry served the boys and leaders with a special treat of pumpkin pie and soft drinks.

2ND ST. LUKE'S PACK

The parents of Archie Nokes and David White were on hand last Tuesday evening to witness the investiture of their sons with the yellow and green neckerchiefs of the St. Luke's Cubs.

The following tests were passed during the evening: Randy Cummings, good carriage, knots, telling time and somersault; David White, telling time and grand howl; Glen Turkington, Union flag and knots; Gary McFaul, highway code and Union flag; Richard Lee, promise; Neil Roberts, highway code; Bill Steen, signs and salute; Teddy Fullbrook, telling time and Union flag; Roger Mesley, signalnalling; Douglas Price, good carriage.

1ST ST. JOHN'S PACK

At last Friday's Pack meeting new chum Joe Vollans was welcomed to the group and new officers appointed.

David Irwin was made Senior Sixer and Jerry Sedgwick and Tommy Lewis became Sixers. Joe Cunningham passed his model and thrift tests; David Irwin qualified for his artist badge; Bob Yudin, cleanliness;; Fred Willison, toymaker's badge.

SCOUT UNIFORM EXCHANGE

Cub and Scouth mothers: On Thursday, Nov. 5th Mrs. Irwin and Mrs. Minty will be at your service in the Scout Uniform Exchange in the basement of St. Paul's church. Here you may leave articles of cub, scout or girl guide uniforms to be sold and buy others to take their place. This is a convenient non-profit exchange, operated for the service of Scouting in Peterborough.

Lady Lions Plan Amateur Contest

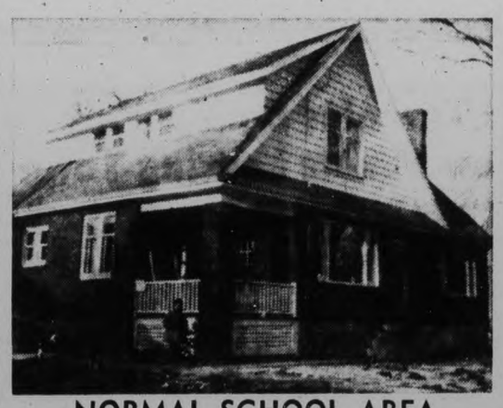
MILLBROOK (ENS). — The Lady Lions club met at the home of Mrs. A. R. Payne with 17 members present. Mrs. Gordon Trick was welcomed as a new member

Mrs. W. W. Kennedy reported that the new curtains for the town hall, which have been bought and are being made up by the Lady Lions, would probably be ready to hang in time for the amateur contest the club is sponsoring November 13. Final plans were made for the contest at which it was decided to sell home-made candy.

The sum of $10 was voted to the Lions club to assist with prizes at the annual Hallowe'en party for children of Millbrook and district on Saturday evening in the armories. A committee was appointed to meet at the home of Mrs Ron Palmer to wrap candy for this event.

A donation was made to the Port Hope Children's Aid Society.

The serving of the dinner to the Lions club for their November dinner meeting will be in charge of the south group under the convenership of Mrs. A. R. Payne.



The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. William O'Brien, who was the lucky winner of a draw for a cup and saucer.

Court whist was played. The prize for high score went to Mrs. Gordon Trick, and the consolation prize to Mrs. P. Hamilton. Refreshments were served by Mrs. J. T. Crowley and Mrs. William O'Brien

Canadian Soldier Hurt In Brawl Near Hannover

HANNOVER (AP)—A spokesman at headquarters of the 27th Canadian Infantry Brigade today denied a German police report that a Canadian soldier was killed in a fight Thursday at Deilinghofen.

The German police report said a Canadian trooper was killed and another seriously injured in the altercation.

The brigade spokesman said the report was based on a fight between two soldiers, both described as intoxicated, but that neither was killed. He added:

"One of the soldiers fell and struck his head. He was knocked unconscious. He was taken to a hospital where he revived. Neither of the soldiers was seriously hurt. Someone saw the soldier while he was unconscious, assumed he was dead and reported it."

The soldiers were not identified.

Trucker On Trial In Death Of 20

CORNWALL (CP) — Max Roodman, 40-year-old trucker, Thursday went on trial for manslaughter in connection with a bus-truck collision near Morrisburg July 31 in which 20 persons were killed.

Police charge that Roodman, of Toronto and Ottawa, is the owner of a light truck with which a Colonial Coach Lines bus with 37 passengers collided in pre-dawn darkness on No. 2 highway. After the collision, the bus plunged into the Williamsburg canal, which parallels the highway.

Roodman is charged specifically in the death of Ordinary Seaman John Fanya of Hamilton and Churchill, Man., one of the bus passengers.

Dr. C. A. Liuden, Morrisburg district coroner, testified that Fanya died by drowning.

Stirling High Wins 6-3 From Madoc

STIRLINNG (ENS) — Stirling high school rugby team defeated Madoc 6-3 at Madoc Wednesday afternoon.

Down 3-0 with only a few minutes of play left, McCrory from a kick formation tossed a forward to Ross Ray who scampered 50 yards before being hauled down. On the next play Leonard caught a pass good for 30 yards, putting the ball on the Madoc five-yard stripe, from where Hadley went over for a touchdown. Knapton kicked the convert to make the final count 6-3.

Madoc scored their points in the first quarter, two on a safety touch and one on a rouge.

'Florida Trip' Evidence Heard In Fraud Trial

TORONTO (CP)—A woman in the property office of the Ontario department of highways Thursday testified in a fraud trial she overheard her boss say to another man:

"We can go to Florida on the money we make on this deal."

Her boss, James Cuttell, is serving a three-year-term for fraud, theft and conspiracy. Mrs. Audrey Marshall was testifying in the trial of John Kersley, facing 17 charges of defrauding the province of $38,000 worth of crown properties.

Police said Kersey was Cuttell's partner in the frauds during 1950-52.

Anti-Communist

On that day the Communists got back 10 of 491 Chinse interviewed.

The North Koreans were scheduled to appear the next day, but massed for a breakout when the Indians prepared to use force to take them before the Reds.

The day after, the Communists contented themselves with Chinese again, getting back 10 of 430.

But then the interviews stopped when the Reds demanded North Koreans—at gunpoint if necessary—and other members of the commission refused to approve the use of force.

URGED MODERATION

From the start, Thimayya urged moderation, staved off inflammatory formal statements and worked daily with the prisoners to persuade them to go before the Communists peacefully.

Although the big, suave Indian general was obviously happy at the outcome, he was still cautious.

Offered congratulations on his "personal victory," Thimayya smiled and said "wait until tomorrow."

Meanwhile, on the peace-talk front which is going on simultaneously here, Communist diplomats today called an American proposal for setting up the peace conference "absurd . . . a trick . . . absolutely unacceptable" and pushed preliminary talks deeper into deadlock.

Although the Red proposal was less caustic than usual, they made it clear that their answer was "no" to United States ambassador Arthur Dean's plan to fix a time and place for the conference now and talk about its composition later.

Unruffled by the Red rejection, Dean agreed to a Communist request that he think over their views. The meeting recessed until Saturday.

TCA said use of separate planes for flights to Tampa and for flights on to Mexico City would be too costly.

Mr. Chevrier said the system proposed by TCA now is in wide use among international airlines. TCA operated through London and Paris to Dusseldorf, Germany, in this fashion and Air France operated through Montreal to Chicago.

He said he "regretted" the decision of U. S. authorities which had prevented establishment of an international service "which both the Canadian and Mexican governments felt would be in their mutual interests.

Bags Brother, Pheasant

BRANTFORD (CP) — Donald Bloomfield, 19, of Hatchley was wounded near here Wednesday when he was struck in the head and shoulders by the pellets from his brother's shotgun. George Bloomfield, 18, said he thought his brother was too far away for the pellets to reach him. Donald was brought to hospital here where the shot was removed. The charge also bagged a pheasant.

Cancer Society Honor Treasurer, R. E. Macdonald

A highlight of the meeting of the Executive Committee of the Peterborough Unit, Canadian Cancer Society, was the presentation of a farewell gift to R. E. Macdonald, who has been treasurer of the Unit for many years.

Dr. L. Zacks made the presentation and expressed appreciation on behalf of the executive to Mr. Macdonald for his faithful work throughout the years. Also, he wished him success in his new position at head office of the Bank of Nova Scotia, in Toronto.

Reports were read by committee chairman and the innovation of a monthly progress report of the local unit activities was introduced by the unit president, Mrs. Maurice Holt.

This report will be sent to all members of the executive, the medical advisory board, the president of the local branch of the Ontario Medical Association (which Provincial Association assisted greatly in the formation of the Canadian Cancer Society), Civic hospital and St. Joseph's hospital and to those interested in the society.

Mrs. Holt said "I feel that our general interest will be increased throughout by the cicularization of our activities. Too, the members of our executive and those interested in our Society will know fully the progress and growth of our lay education field and the work of the welfare committee."

J. S. Hendry and Mrs. Eve Collins, co-chairman of the lay education committee detailed fully the work being done in the distribution of our literature to industries and offices in this city. Members of their committee, Mrs. Ruby Brooks, Frank Foster, Q.C., James Harkness and J. W. Fortner are all assisting in spreading the correct knowledge of cancer information.

Miss Harriet McGeary reported to the Society on the meeting held recently by the Local Council of Women in connection with the "Housing for elderly people" and the local unit went on record as wishing to assist the Local Council of Women in whatever they can within the limits of the society.

A nominating committee was chosen to select a new slate of officers for the annual meeting which is to be held in January. J. W. Fortner was chosen chairman of this committee and has as his committee members, Mrs. John Bradshaw, Mrs. O. J. Hayward and Mr. Foster.

Mrs. Claire Stuart was hostess for this meeting and Mrs. Hayward convened the social arrangements that followed the business sessions.

Pie King Declared Out Of Richest Race

CAMDEN, N. J. (AP)—The Pie King, British two-year-old champion, today was declared out of the world's richest horse race—tomorrow's $250,000 Garden State Stakes.

Ray Bell, co-owner of the British thoroughbred, said Pie King split open the heel of his right front foot yesterday after unseating jockey Tom Gosling in a workout and running through the concrete stable area.

The English owner said the horse apparently cracked the heel when he jumped a four-foot fence during his runaway romp.

Crown Attorney Says Law Crazy, Man Acquitted

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, called it "crazy law," but a Supreme Court justice's decision was enough to warrant a dismissal in a case of failing to stop at a through street against a Scarborough driver.

Albert Barber, 19, of 908 Danforth Rd., Scarborough, was a driver involved in a two-car accident at Murray and Water Sts. June 6, which resulted in severe injuries to a passenger in a Peterborough taxi, driven by Fred Dyer, 42, of 605 St. Catherine St.

Barber had blurted to PC Sherman Keliele, "I didn't stop for the sign," minutes after the accident. In stating the crown case, however, Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, failed to introduce a bylaw proving Murray St. at that point is a stop street, and that stop signs are erected at that corner, even though they could be seen from the magistrate's court window.

GRANT DISMISSAL

Defence counsel D. T. Stewart of Toronto was quick to note the omission and moved for dismissal on those grounds. The dismissal was granted, even though, as the crown pointed out, the magistrate could call for the evidence if he wanted it.

As a result of the accident, Mrs. Donald Westlake, 22, of 172 Antrim St., was taken to the hospital with a broken pelvis and fractured shoulder blade. She was only released recently.

Dyer had been going north on Water St. when his vehicle was struck on the side by Barber's, which had been eastbound on Murray. Both Mrs. Westlake and Dyer were thrown out of the careening taxi, which ended up in the city hall lawn shrubbery.

Constable Keliele, who investigated the crash, was attracted to the scene by screams he heard inside the police station. It was raining heavily at the time.

GRACE UNITED CHURCH MEMBERS warmed up to the start of a church fund-raising campaign at a large dinner on Thursday evening with 280 present. Shown above with their minister, the Rev. I. G. Grace United Congregation Organizes To Raise $55,000

A "loyalty dinner" organized by the Grace United Church congregation was held Thursday night in the Empress hotel. It marked the official opening of the campaign to raise $55,000 in pledges for the new church.

The contract was awarded Charles Huffman Ltd. on Monday night when his bid of $100,852 was the lowest of four received by the church's building committee.

At present the congregation are worshipping in a temporary frame church at the rear of the lot on Howden Ave. and Monaghan Rd. The new building, the first permanent United Church south of Lansdowne St., will seat a congregation of 500 with additional space for the choir.

CANVASS HOMES

Attendance at Thursday's organizational dinner was 250. The money-raising venture will be a house-to-house canvass among the 360 families in the parish. The canvass, with 47 workers doing the legwork, will be completed in 12 days.

Payment of the $55,000 will be over a 150-week period.

Two general chairmen have been named to head the drive. They are Harry L. Corner and Harold Doig. Eric McKinstry is the campaign committee chairman.

Other organizers: James Waldie, special gifts; George Sage, initial gifts and training; Walter Hargreaves, teams; and J. D. Kean and J. D. Lucas, division leaders.

The canvassers have been divided into eight teams under their two division leaders—four teams to a division. Names of the captains are Edwin Cotton, W. H. Gerow, Douglas Montgomery, Dr. Donald McNabb, Glenn Price, Morley R. Eves, S. V. Reiten, and C. E. Whatley.

Harvey Weidner is the campaign treasurer. And the three chairmen of the service committees are Douglas Montgomery, publications; Mrs. J. S. McWilliams, arrangements; and Mrs. Eric McKinstry, hostess.

Construction work on the new church should begin almost immediately.

Ex-UN Employee Ducks Questions

NEW YORK (AP) — A former United Nations American employee has refused to say whether he introduced another American to a Russian official for purposes of espionage.

Alexander Svenchansky, 44, was dismissed as a UN radio announcer broadcasting to the Soviet Union after refusing last year to say whether he ever had been a Communist party member.

Svenchansky was questioned Thursday by the Senate internal security sub-committee headed by Senator William E. Jenner (Rep. Ind.).

The witness was asked whether he had introduced Abraham Brothman, a New York chemical engineer, to an official of the Amtorg Trading Corp., a defunct Soviet organization, for espionage purposes.

Svenchansky refused to answer on grounds of possible self-incrimination.

Brothman was convicted in 1950 of conspiracy in the case of Harry Gold, a Philadelphia biochemist and confessed atomic spy. Gold is serving a 30-year prison term as co-conspirator of Julius Rosenberg, executed with his wife, Ethel, for handing over atomic secrets to Russia.

Mrs. J. H. Hess

HASTINGS (ENS) — The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. Hess Wednesday afternoon was largely attended. The body was taken to Trinity church two hours prior to the service which was conducted by the Rev. N. Cole and a former pastor, the Rev. J. E. Glover of Marmora.

Mrs. J. E. Glover was soloist. Pallbearers were L. E. Kelly, Bart Thackeray, D. H. Walsh, W. A. Thompson, J. M. Baker and A. E. Metcalfe. Flower bearers were Virgil Oliver, Cecil Oliver, Iden Bonds Jr., R. R. Burnham, D. Fleming and L. Humphries. The burial service was read at Maple Grove Cemetery, Havelock.

Mrs. Hess was born at Trent River, the former Wealthy Blanche Davidson. She was in her 65th year. She had resided at Havelock and, for 24 years, in Hastings.

Surviving besides her husband are two sons, Grenville and Alton Thompson of Hastings, two stepsons, Clifford Hess of St. Catharines and Everett Hess of Hastings, three sisters: Mrs. Clifford Knox (Annie) of London, Mrs. Philip O'Brien (Rose) of Kenora and Mrs. Gertrude Fisk of Washington, D.C.

Drove Through Stop Sign Of School Patrol, Fined $35

Charged with driving without reasonable consideration after his car narrowly missed children crossing Hunter St., Donald Russell, 22, of 298 Braidwood Ave., was fined $35 and $8.50 costs in magistrate's court Thursday.

In addition Russell, first driver ever charged in the city for failing to obey safety patrol signals, lost his driving licence for 50 days. Magistrate R. I. Moore told Russell to consider himself lucky. "If you had hit those children, you might have been here on a much more serious charge."

The accused pleaded guilty to the reasonable consideration half of careless driving.

PC Don Mckay outlined the story for Magistrate Moore before witnesses took the stand to testify. He described how, on October 21, the school patrol captain of Immaculate Conception school reported a car driven across the Hunter and Mark Sts. crosswalk, disobeying patrol members' stop signals.

NEARLY HIT

The vehicle narrowly avoided striking children and a woman crossing the road at the corner.

Further verbal reports of the incident were also received by the officer from the two women who witnessed the action.

Mrs. Bertha Dixon of 635 Armour Rd. said she was standing at the southeast corner of the intersection when she saw the car, identified as Russell's, coming down Hunter St. at a "considerable speed . . . faster than he should have been going."

Reaching the crosswalk, Russell put on his brakes, released them and then stopped further down the street. Without getting out, he started again and drove off.

Mrs. Dixon said the car came very close to children and if it hadn't been for a safety patrol member who pushed the children back and mounted the curb herself, "he couldn't have helped but hit them."

Mrs. Marjorie Smith of Mark St. was also crossing the street when the car came along. She corroborated Mrs. Dixon's evidence and added the driver just missed her and two little children. "We would have been killed," she said, "if he had hit us."

SUN IN EYES

Though he had pleaded guilty, Russell offered an explanation by claiming the sun was shining in his eyes at the time and he couldn't see the signs. He admitted to Crown Attorney Bradshaw, however, that his vision was not very good.

Magistrate Moore termed the accused's explanation "not sufficient excuse."

Convicting the driver, Magistrate Moore wondered if the safety patrol members were in any danger from drivers like Russell. He said the patrollers are doing "an especially good job," but thought the province might be lax in not instituting school zones and lower rates of speed in those zones.

Drunken Driving Cases Remanded

Charged with drunk driving today in magistrate's court, Vernon McMillan, 24, of 294 Townsend Street, pleaded not guilty. The charged was adjourned until November 4 when McMillan will appear as a result of an accident early this morning at George and Charlotte streets.

McMillan's car struck one stopped at the lights there, driven by Harold Grafstein of 623 Homewood Avenue.

Stewart Harding, 37, of 2 Princess street, pleaded guilty to a charge of having care and control while impaired Thursday in magistrate's court.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, Q.C., told the court Harding was found asleep in his car on October 22, following a party. He was fined $50 and $2.50 costs.

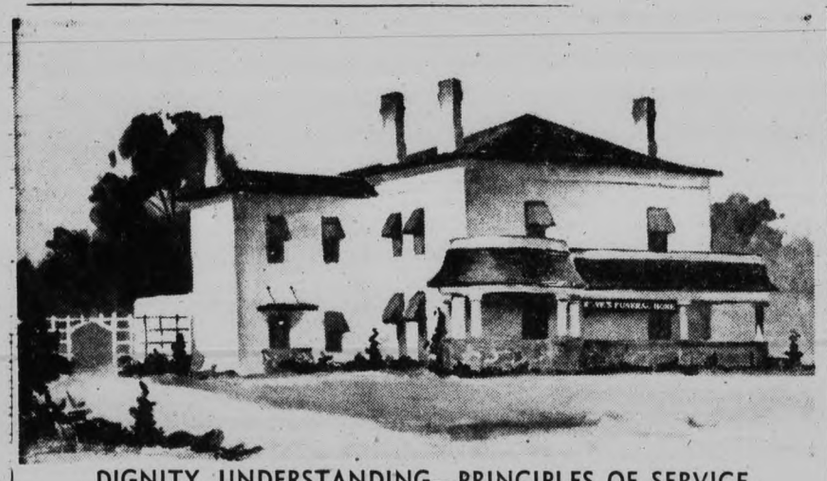
James Heffering Dies At Oshawa

OSHAWA (CP)—James Heffering, 70, past president of the Incorporated Racing Association of Canada and one of the country's best-known breeders and owners of thoroughbreds, died in hospital here today.

Mr. Heffering, who lived on his Riverdale stock farm at nearby Pickering for the last 30 years, had been in failing health for some time. He entered hospital here last week.

A staunch Liberal, Mr. Heffering had been president of the Ontario county Liberal Association for 19 years. He was a shoe manufacturers' agent in Toronto before moving to Pickering.



He is survived by his widow and two daughters and two sons. Funeral service will be held Monday at Pickering with interment at Mount Hope Cemetery in Toronto.

Carelessness, Imprecision And Sloppiness

A lively discussion is going on at McGill University about the way the students there use the English language. Professor G. I. Duthie, the head of the English Department, says that "Carelessness, imprecision and sloppiness can be observed any day at McGill not only in exercises written by freshmen but in conversations between students." Professor Sprott says that the students, in the main, cannot spell. The sudents have replied with angry protests and jeers.

* * *

A number of Canadian newspapers have taken up the fight. The Brantford Expositor, always valiant in a battle for good English, says that we must not expect children to learn good English usage at school if the qualifications for school teachers are lowered. The Ottawa Journal has expressed its annoyance with the parrot cry that children cannot learn good English at school if they do not hear it at home; it very properly asks what the schools will do if home instruction and example are all-powerful.

Our own stand in this matter is well known and we fear that it may become a bore to our readers. We think that Canada is a dangerously illiterate country, and because we feel strongly that careless use of language is a sign of careless thinking we worry about it. We consider our national illiteracy a symptom of a disease, rather than a disease in itself. Nevertheless, this is a case in which we may profitably return to an earlier theory of medicine and treat the symptom, in the hope that thereby we may bring about an improvement in the disease.

* * *

We are astonished that Canadian students—certainly those at university level—should be so blind to their own interest that they do not want to acquire a command of their own language. It is a plainly observable fact that the quickest advancement and the best jobs go to men who can speak and write clearly and well; there is literally no field of work in which this is not true. Nor is this simply the snobbery of a minority, who prefer grammar to chaos and good plain English to a muddle of slang and jargon. Language is the principal tool of thought; it is a safe assumption in 99 cases out of 100 that a man who cannot frame a simple statement clearly cannot think a simple thought clearly. He cannot progress logically from a handful of facts to a valid conclusion. As for any creative thinking, it is quite out of his scope, because he lacks the main tool of thought.

* * *

Nor is his danger limited solely by his inability to think for himself; he is also the dupe of foolish thinking in others. He cannot reason, and therefore he is uncritical. He is likely to fall victim to superficially attractive but essentially worthless schemes proposed to him by stupid or crafty leaders. The illiterate man is the dupe, the patsy, the fall-guy, whenever anything goes wrong with the world. It is a plain fact that knowledge is power.

Young Canadians have some ambition, though this quality is not so common as we wish it were. Many of them want to get on in life and improve their circumstances. Yet hundreds of thousands of them are too stupid and lazy to realize that a study of their own language in all its variety is one of the keys to promotion.

Unbalanced Houses

The Parliament of Canada is unbalanced, one-sided with Liberals, many persons warn. It does not vitiate the figures that most of the direful critics are Conservatives. The House of Commons has 171 Liberals, in contrast with only 50 Conservatives, 23 C.C.F. members and 15 Social Crediters. The Senate is even more out of balance. Of its 102 seats, 81 are occupied by Liberals, 8 by Conservatives, and 13 are vacant.

Before crying havoc about the condition at Ottawa, let the composition of the Provincial parliaments be considered. Nearly all are unbalanced, with Liberals (P.E.I., Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, Manitoba), Conservatives (Ontario), National Party (Quebec), C.C.F. (Saskatchewan) or Social Credit (Alberta). The Ontario Legislature is so lopsided as to have almost no sides—just the Government party. With the by-election this week in Niagara Falls of another Conservative, that party now holds eighty of the ninety seats. The official Opposition (Liberal) has only six seats. The C.C.F. has two, and the other two are occupied by a Liberal-Labour and a Labour-Progressive member. Thus the Ontario Legislature is more unbalanced than even the Senate, where the Opposition to the Government party has eight seats.

There is a difference, of course, between the Senate and a Legislature. Senators are appointed, members of parliament elected. However, everywhere in Canada, federally or provincially, the people have expressed by their votes what amounts to a predilection for one-sided Houses. The composition of the Senate therefore accurately reflects the elective choices of the people. In making nominations for the thirteen vacancies in the Senate, the Prime Minister may logically follow this Canadian tendency. There are times, however, when a Prime Minister need not and should not follow popular practice. We think that he will gain in public estimation and the Senate in public usefulness and representation, if new appointees to the Senate include some who gain entry to the Upper House not because they are Liberals but for some other primary distinctions.

When The President Visits

No visitor to Canada can be more welcome than an American President. The present chief of the American state is so popular and esteemed by Canadians that they have even named one of their mountains after him. President Roosevelt was—judging from American Republican tongues wagging against him—even more generally liked and admired in Canada than in the States. Yet despite this friendship and great good regard by all Canadians of all kinds, what happens when an American President comes to visit us?

For weeks preceding the Presidential visit, American secret service agents scurry along every inch of the route which the President will take in Canada; they nose every street along which he may pass. They inspect balconies overhanging the street. They investigate the rooms—state or private—which he may occupy. And when the great time comes for the arrival of the great man, a great army of American strong men, police, detectives and other bodies comes with him. It is as if the President were entering a State hostile to him, where the natives were armed to the teeth, ready to throw knives, yo-yo balls or even bullets. It seems that when an American President visits, his henchmen turn Canada into a police state—armed by Americans.

Why should the President's advisers be so suspicious of Canadians? And have they no confidence in our own police and the R.C.M.P. protection which Canada affords any distinguished visitor?

The Canadian people are not so foolish as to believe that there exist here no cranks who might menace the safety of the President, and it would be a calamity if a sinister accident were to befall him on Canadian territory. Yet we cannot help but feel that the White House police are overdoing their concern for President Eisenhower's safety. Our own King and Queen visit without such a noise and show of guards. But already American secret service agents have been prowling around Ottawa in preparation for the visit next month. And when that time comes, will Canadians be able to see the President for the screen of American guards around him?

How Does The Water Taste?

We were required one evening this week to toast the health of the Queen in water. As the assembled toasters sat down a lady beside us said: "Isn't the city water foul?" Being an infrequent consumer of water just as water, we could not say that we had noticed anything particularly bad about the water; as for the toast just then drunk, well, a toast to the Queen in water always leaves a bad taste in our mouth. But the lady informed us that the taste of city water all summer and fall has been so nasty that her husband was carting well water by the gallon jug from the establishment of a friend who lives outside town, just so that his wife could tolerate if not enjoy the water she drank.

The husband may soon be able to discontinue his burdensome task. Chlorine is still being added to the city supply, on orders of the Medical Officer of Health, but there is hope that the need for this extra precaution—extra above the filtering the city water gets—will subside with winter. The Utilities Commission manager was brave enough to confess to the Commission that chlorine was not the only taste that tells. It seems that during peak periods of consumption sediment gathers in the water lines. This taints the water. During recent weeks Utilities men have been flushing the sediment from the conduits, and gone with the winds of summer will be the nasty taste.

Only chlorine will remain, and the unpleasant taste of chlorinated water ha this mollifying quality—it is guaranteed health. Every native knows that what is good for you may often be unpleasant; it is the price one traditionally pays in Puritan parts for goodness. Even that price may go down, if Dr. Wells happens to think that Peterborough can safely drink without chlorine.

ISSUE IN BR. GUIANA

To Oust Or Not?

By GUY WINT

THE ACTION by the British Government in British Guiana raises some very interesting questions both of practice and of constitutional theory. The onlooker who has seen most clearly what lies behind the incident is the veteran philosopher Bertrand Russell. He puts the issues trenchantly in a letter to the "Manchester Guardian."

✧ ✧ ✧

BERTRAND RUSSELL voices the anxiety of many people. Dr. Jagan's Government in British Guiana, whatever its misdeeds, was elected by regular democratic processes. Can a British governor turn it out without exposing himself to the charge of being anti-democratic and of opposing the declared will of the people? Bertrand Russell attempts to supply an answer.

A government, he says, may win a majority at a given moment of time but it ceases to be democratic if it sets about perpetuating its power by anti-democratic means, and if by its action it shows that it resolves to stay in power when the public which elected it has changed its opinion and desires another government. That has been precisely the history of Communist government in many countries: Having attained power by means of democratic constitutions, the communists kick away the democratic ladder by means of which they have risen. No rivals are ever to mount the same ladder again and supplant them.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE IS NO example in history of a communist government submitting itself to a general free election to decide whether it should continue in office. The communist theory says explicitly that communist governments, even if they begin by being elected, must continue as dictatorships.

That is the gist of Bertrand Russell's argument. He is not objecting to communist economic or social policies. He is objecting to dictatorships. "Democracy," he says, "involves legal opportunities for changes of opinion and it is anti-democratic to allow a momentarily popular clique to secure itself in power indefinitely no matter how unpopular it may subsequently become." Elsewhere he draws the consequences. "I do not think we have the right," he says, "to say that we will not tolerate a government containing communists but not to alter the Constitution. But we have, I think, a right to say that we will not have a communist government, for that is one which cannot be changed by subsequent changes of opinion.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT IS only fair to the British Government to say that in British Guiana it seems to have followed substantially the principles which Bertrand Russell lays down. When the Party of Dr. Jagan—a virtual Communist Party even if it did not use the name—gained its victory at the elections, the British Government did not try and stand in the way of his forming a government. The Civil Services of British Guiana were placed at Dr. Jagan's disposal as was constitutionally correct. The Governor of British Guiana intervened against him—using his reserve powers—only when Dr. Jagan had been in office for some time and had shown his colours. The ground for intervention was that he was aiming at establishing a dictatorsnip government of conventional communist type.

✧ ✧ ✧

AMONG other measures prepared by Dr. Jagan's government, one was surely especially significant. It proposed to disfranchise certain classes of voters at its own discretion. Admittedly these classes were described in such a way that the measure might seem innocuous. They included those who "advocated war or discrimination on racial grounds," and so on. Under liberal government the number of persons barred under such a provision might not have been very large. But Communists attach very peculiar meanings to ordinary terms. Experience in Eastern Europe showed that any political opponent, whatever his real record, was in due course denounced as a Fascist beast or a war-monger. Dr. Jagan might have used this clause to banish from politics most of his legitimate opponents.

✧ ✧ ✧

PROBABLY the Governor felt the need for his action all the greater because it had become clear that Dr. Jagan's Party, even though elected by mass support, was rapidly losing this support. One of the main labour organizations, the Manpower Citizens' Association, had turned against him. That was why Dr. Jagan was so anxious to find other means than the democratic ballot box for staying in power. The question put by Bertrand Russell was thus made real and urgent. Was a "momentarily popular clique to secure itself in power indefinitely, no matter how unpopular it might subsequently become?"

✧ ✧ ✧

MIGHT NOT the Government of India, for example, quite conceivably find a Communist-controlled government brought into power by a snap vote in, say Andhra or Travangore-Cochin, using that power to dig itself in, subvert the spirit of democracy, and make its power permanent.

Speculation about the principles involved must not divert attention from the tragedy of what has happened. Because of a communist manoeuvre, a promising political experiment has been interrupted or postponed. The political development of British Guiana was proceeding parallel with an encouraging progress towards self-government in the West Indian islands, which is leading to the creation of a new West Indian Dominion. Now the whole future in British Guiana has been put in doubt. Thus, once again, Communism has wrecked the hopes of the orderly development of a democratic system. It is the same story in British Guiana as in so many other parts of the world in recent years.

Women As Classicists

(La Presse, Montreal)

It is evident that the women of this city wish to profit more and more from the educational facilities put at their disposal . . . We should rejoice at this progress in classical culture among French-Canadian women, not so much because it puts them on an equal footing with men, but because it is an excellent ground for mutual help between the two sexes in the same class, because it prepares a feminine elite capable of seconding the initiative and action of the masculine elite by working with them to improve our society.

STARVING

He had been waiting a long time for his lunch.

"Waitress," he said, "must I sit here until I starve."

"Oh no," replied the waitress. "We close at six o'clock."

An American Opinion:
MEN MAY COME AND MEN MAY GO—

Mazie and Melba

By BON VIVANT

I have made mention in this column of goldfish, news, waltzing mice and other strange inhabitants of Chateau Vivant. The latest of God's creatures to take up residence is a pair of budgerigar. I had more than a little trouble finding this word in either dictionary or encyclopaedia. I gather the compilers of these useful volumes have small use for budgerigar, and assume the attitude anyone wishing to know about them can take a bit of trouble.

My Hutchinson's tells me the budgerigar is a small, hardy species of Australian parrakeet (Metopsittacus undulatus). It also offers the information that the M.U. feeds mainly on grass seeds, and breeds freely in captivity. This free and easy attitude of the budgerigar in its love life is why one room, which we can ill afford, has become the aviary.

A friend of a juvenile Vivant tried her hand at breeding budgies in captivity. They lived up to advance notices, and she found herself suffering from a surfeit of bird life The solution was simple. She presented her little school chums with budgies, extolling the merits and charms of these pint sized parrots. This was a most generous gesture, but a budgie housing shortage quickly took the bloom off the rose. One cage at $25.00 and one stand to hold same at $12.00 seemed a high price for the doubtful company of two slightly bald, bedraggled samples of Australian bird life.

Naming the birds caused the usual problem which faces one when called upon to name a new pet or a new baby. However, their ties with Australia finally solved this. As the Vivants had seen the film "Melba" shortly before the budgies descended upon the home, and as Melba was an Australian it seemed a pretty compliment to name one of the newcomers after her. I want to make it quite clear that there is no similiarity between the singing voice of a budgie and that of the late Madame Melba.

Naming the other bird was easy. A distant connection with a family calling Australia home enabled us to pinch the name of a popular daughter hence the Mazie. This was all very fine, but now Mazie has denied her sex and we find he should have been called Mark. As we are not well up on male Australian names we are sticking to the original, and I suspect Mazie is going to have a tough time at budgie conventions and like beanos explaning his quaint misnomer.

I rather like these newcomers. The female, when she gets a bit older, will be a lovely blue-gray color, and is already proving friendly and docile. Mazie, on the other hand, is a swashbuckling type. He kicks up a terrific row in the cage and his language is something to marvel at in one so young. As I can't understand what he says I suspect it is some little used Australian dialect, but I know from his tone he is using words far beyond his years.

MELBA, when freed for her daily flyround, is most sedate. Her favorite roosting place is a picture frame, although with a little coaxing she will make use of a friendly finger, or an inviting shoulder. Not Mazie, he seems to imagine a small room offers him limitless scope for aerobatics. Banging into walls, colliding with the ceiling, or losing himself behind the furniture doesn't deter him in the least. He's a show-off and doesn't care who knows it.

Melba's efforts to calm down this feathered rocket are of no avail. She selects a perch which gives her a good view of the room, and issues plaintive invitations to Mazie to join her and take in the sights. Mazie ignores this well-meant advice and hurls himself into the window where he gets tangled in the curtains. Male-like he does not admit this is his own fault, but screams for Melba to come and get him out of the mess.

If Mazie doesn't dash his brains out before he attains full growth he will be a handsome fellow in his green coat, but I predict a merry life for Melba trying to keep his exuberance within reasonable bounds.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

O Lord, thou hast searched me, and known me . . . Thou compassest my path and my lying down, and art acquainted with all my ways. For there is not a word in my tongue, but, lo, O Lord, thou knowest it altogether. (Ps. 139:1, 3, 4.)

Woe unto them that seek deep to hide their counsel from the Lord, and their works are in the dark, and they say, Who seeth us? and who knoweth us? (Isa. 29:15.)

✧ ✧ ✧

For God shall bring every work into judgement with every secret thing whether it be evil. (Eccl. 12:14.)

✧ ✧ ✧

My son, despise not the chastening of the Lord; neither be weary of his correction: for whom the Lord loveth he correcteth; even as a father the son in whom he delighteth. (Prov. 3:11, 12.)

✧ ✧ ✧

For the grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men, teaching us that, denying ungodliness and wordly lusts, we should live soberly, righteously, and godly, in this present world; looking for that blessed hope, and the glorious appearing of the great God and our Saviour Jesus Christ; who gave himself for us, that he might redeem us from all iniquity, and purify unto himself a peculiar people, Zealous of good works. (Titus 2:11-14.)

The Speed Criminal

(Le Soleil, Quebec)

Are not speeding drivers criminals? asks a Toronto psychologist in connection with the increase in road accidents. They are criminals in the same sense as other law violators, he says, and perhaps more so in view of the damage, injuries and losses they may cause. This psychiatrist puts them in the same class as drunken drivers and those who ignore red lights and other traffic signals. It is abuses like these that produce the multiplicity of dangers and spoil the beauties of our picturesque highways.

Letters To The Editor

ONE WHO KNOWS

SIR: The Civic Arena is a healthy place for both young and old. It offers good clean sport for both.

It belongs to us, the people of Peterborough, young people who are growing up to be the young citizens and good business men and women. The Arena has been badly abused by some of the younger patrons; by this I mean the benches have been chopped in holes by skates which have to be replaced by new lumber. It makes it easier to sit on a good solid bench and watch a hockey game than one full of slivers and holes. Most of the money received from the Arena goes right back into the Arena to make a better place for sport and fun. It is supervised continually to protect our children from harm and the possiblity of cuts and bruises by some careless skaters. And it is our opinion, the staff of the Arena, that Mr. Smillie, the general manager, is doing an excellent job which is far from easy.

The wash-rooms have been retouched with new paint three times because of lip stick. Now I ask you! How are we going to have an Arena and hockey and other sports if the people don't uphold it. So now the school hockey teams have a safe place for practice and hockey without charge for obligation. All this sounds expensive, doesn't it Mr. Editor? Well it is, so now you see where our 50 cents admission goes—right back into the Arena to build a better generation for to-morrow.

How can we have an Arena if we allow it go to ruin? It is ours, Peterborough's, it belongs to you. So uphold it the same as our own homes. As all Peterborough loves a good healthy sport.

Are we a sporting city?

Sincerely,
THE CARETAKER

CHURCH HISTORY

SIR: I should like, if I may, to reply to C. J. Davis and his letter in Monday's Examiner. I agree that technically, The Anglican Church is not Protestant since "Protestant" was the name given to the adherents of Martin Luther in 1529 and the Anglican Church was not in existence at that time; but my Encyclopedia states that the name is now applied generally to those Christian denominations which differ from the Church of Rome.

Certainly the Anglican Church is a Catholic Church, but not a Roman Catholic one.

In 1534, Papal Authority was set aside by act of Parliament and 1535 Henry assumed the title "Protector of the Church of England." Under Edward VI. in 1551 a new confession of faith was made in 42 articles, and English was substituted for the Latin formerly used.

And under Elizabeth the present 39 articles of faith were adopted.

In closing may I point out, that in the United States the Anglican Church takes the title of "The Protestant Episcopal Church."

Yours sincerely,
GEORGE FOWLER

Blind Since Birth, Ottawa Man Watches Television

OTTAWA (CP)—Blind since birth George Lafleur, 40-year-old amateur radio operator and printer, is able to see images on a television screen. His doctor says he is one in 10,000,000 sightless persons who can be helped to sight by television.

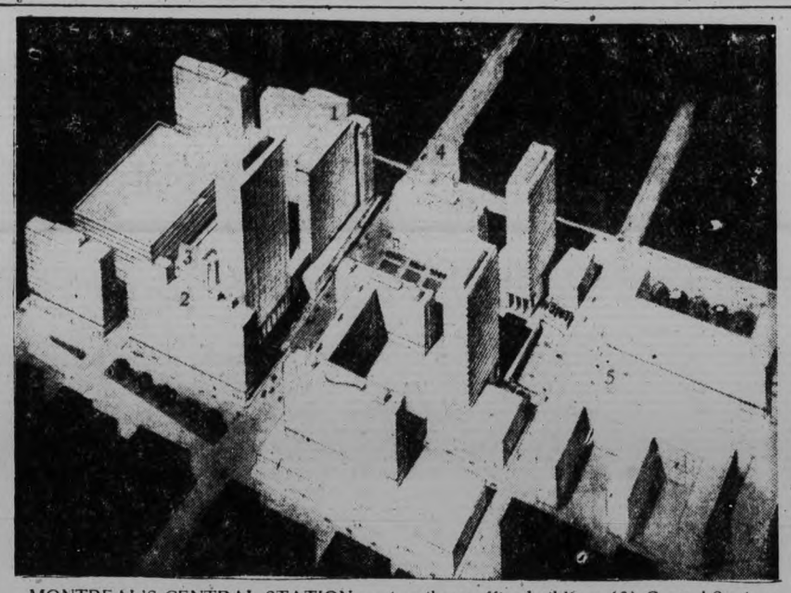
Mr. Lafleur said Thursday in an interview that he first saw shadowy images on the television screen shortly after a television station opened here this summer. The first image was a singer with arms outstretched but to Mr. Lafleur it looked like a tree.

Persons who have known him for years were doubtful but Dr. Harold Courtenay, Ottawa oculist made a series of tests of the optic nerves and muscles.

"Mr. Lafleur is probably the one blind person in more than 10,000,000 who can be helped by television. I wish it were otherwise but it would be tragic to raise false hopes.

"This one man can see television images because of the sharp contrast between the black and white on the screen and because of the peculiar condition of his eyes. It is not through any miraculous power of the television picture tube."

Dr. Courtenay and Jack Winters, an optician, developed a pair of bifocal spectacles which enable Mr. Lafleur to bring the television images into sharper focus.



Mr. Lafleur said there have been many surprises in what he has seen on the screen.

"I didn't know there was so little difference in appearance between a man and a woman. After all, they sound very different. I had thought there would be much more physical difference."

Trustees Are Elected For St. Giles' Church

At a special meeting of the St. Giles' Presbyterian congregation on Thursday night a board of trustees of five men was elected and two auditors. A report on the financing the new church was made by the committee. Elected trustees were Fred Finnie, William Clark, Stanley Mahood, Ross Armstrong and Arnold Smith. The auditors named were John Robertson and Grant Clarke.

The building committee's treasurer Walter Dunford reported on the progress and steps taken since the last congregation meeting on the erection of a church. A contract has been awarded to Charles Huffman Ltd. and plans are almost completed for the financing of the project.

(1) is the new hotel; (2) is the International Aviation Building flanking the proposed 28-storey railway office building; (3) Central Station; (4) Dorchester St. looking west, and (5) the new enlarged McGill College Ave. The other buildings indicate how the remainder of the area can be developed by private interests.

Gold Smuggler

DIJON, France (Reuters)— Vienna-born Karl Schwarz, 50, of Forest Hills, N.Y., was sentenced Thursday in absentia to a year in jail and fined 93,000,000 francs ($260,400) for allegedly illegally importing 176 pounds of gold into France. Schwartz's car was involved in an accident near here in April, 1951. The trunk burst open and the gold was scattered over the road.

Chiefs Drop Betzel, To Get New Manager

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The contract of manager Bruno Betzel of the Syracuse Chiefs will not be renewed when it expires Dec. 31, general manager Gene Martin announced Thursday night.

Betzel, 60, has piloted the International League baseball club for four seasons. It finished seventh in league standings for 1953.

The Chiefs recently signed a working agreement with Philadelphia of the National League. Martin said the decision to drop Betzel was made after a conference with Joe Reardon, farm director for the Phillies.

Martin said no successor to Betzel has yet been chosen.

Plan Gala Re-opening Of Marmora Arena

MARMORA (ENS)—The official re-opening of the Dr. Hamilton Crawford community arena will be on Friday, November 20.

The installation of the artificial ice plant is now advanced to the point where the official opening can be planned. The arena has been enlarged and new seating accommodation provided at the north end.

The RCAF band of Trenton is to provide music for the occasion. Some noted figure skaters are to give an exhibition and a hockey game will be played between Campbellford, 1952 champions of the Trent Valley League and an all-star team picked from other teams in the league and district.

Even Daily Worker Lauds Lynn In "Moon Is Blue"

LONDON (AP)—Diana Lynn, a young actress from Los Angeles, is appearing here in a sexy sort of play, and even the Communist Daily Worker is discreetly advising its readers to see it.

The play is "The Moon Is Blue," imported from the United States, where the film version has run into censorship troubles.

The play opened here in July and was greeted sourly by most dramatic critics. They thought the play, plus Dr. Kinsey, proved the United States was becoming obsessed with sex.

But after they had emptied their minds on this subject, the critics began advising their readers to go anyway. The answer: They liked Miss Lynn.

The 27-year-old star was surprised.

"The critics were absolutely wonderful," she said the other day. "I thought they must all be Drunk."

Her part is that of Patty O'Neill, who gets herself picked up by a man atop the Empire State Building. There is considerable talk of seduction.

"It could be a dirty part," Miss Lynn says. "But if it's played honestly, it's a good portrayal of many girls — particularly American girls."

She thinks English and American girls are different.

"Over here they just don't talk about sex so much. I think that maybe they discovered it before we did, and now it's accepted as a fact."

Plan End Duplication

HAMILTON (CP) — All Ontario universities except the University of Western Ontario have adopted a plan to eliminate duplication of evening classes for university extension work. Dr. C. H. Stearn, McMaster university director of extension, said Thursday night they have agreed on a zoning plan under which groups of counties are allotted to the various universities.

Cold War Began In Poland, Says Churchill

NEW YORK (CP)—Sir Winston Churchill says the cold war began before the shooting war ended with Russia's refusal to give immediate aid to Warsaw underground fighters being wiped out by the Germans.

With Russian troops less than 10 miles away, the Polish underground in Warsaw began Aug. 1, 1944, a battle to seize the city from the Germans. The Germans turned their "tiger" tanks against the underground, which pleaded for supplies from the Allies.

Sir Winston says Premier Stalin refused the use of Russian air bases to Allied planes dropping supplies to the underground, which also appealed for Russian aid. A joint appeal by Sir Winston and the late President Roosevelt was rejected by Stalin, who said:

"These people have exploited the good faith of the inhabitants of Warsaw, throwing many almost unarmed people against the German guns, tanks and aircraft. . . ."

Sir Winston tells of these events in The Examiner's Weekend Picture Magazine on Saturday.

TACTICS CHANGE

"On Sept. 10, after six weeks of Polish torment, the Kremlin appeared to change their tactics," Sir Winston says.

"That afternoon shells from the Soviet artillery began to fall upon the eastern outskirts of Warsaw, and Soviet planes appeared again over the city. Polish Communist forces, under Soviet orders, fought their way into the fringe of the capital. They wished to have the non-Communist Poles destroyed to the full, but also to keep alive the idea that they were going to their rescue. Meanwhile, house by house the Germans proceeded with their liquidation of Polish centres of resistance throughout the city. . . .

"When the Russians entered the city on Jan. 17, they found little but shattered streets and the unburied dead. Such was their liberation of Poland, where they now rule."

Daring Bandits

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) — An armed bandit Thursday held up two bank messengers in a taxi and escaped with £8,000 in banknotes. The messengers were transferring the money from one city branch to another. The bandit jumped into the cab as it stopped at a traffic signal, disarmed the messengers, cowed the driver and escaped in the traffic.

PCVS And Oshawa Squads In Sudden-Death Tilt For Lakeshore Group Title

Another football title could easily come to Peterborough Saturday as the high school teams commence the annual fall p aydowns. In the only city game Bev Goulding's PCVS Garnet and Grey seniors will start anew their series for the lakeshore championship. It will be a sudden-death game at Riverside Park with Oshawa CVI, the winner advancing into the COSSA playdowns. Coach Goulding said the first game played earlier this season against Oshawa Collegiates' Combines (won by Oshawa 16-6) has been thrown out. Under COSSA rules a team must have only players from the school it represents. Combines used players from both OCVI and Oshawa Central. The same ruling kept Combines out of the Red Feather tournament.

IN THE COSSA

At the same time in Belleville the St. Peter's High School juniors, undefeated by either junior "A" or junior "B" teams, may be playing a COSSA junior "B" championship game with Albert College.

In their only junior "B" games this season the junior Saints easily took the lakeshore title from Kenner Collegiate Rams in two straight games. Since then in exhibition games the Johnny Lynch-coached Saints have defeated "A" teams from Lindsay, Peterborough and Cobourg.

Coach Lynch said today that the Niagara and Georgian Bay districts apparently haven't any junior "B" teams. Therefore the sudden-death game Saturday between the Bay of Quinte winner and the Lakeshore champions will mean a COSSA title for the victor.

SECOND CROWN?

If the Saints win out, it will be their second COSSA junior "B" title in recent years. They defeated Welland Notre Dame two years ago at Morrow Park for their first junior championship.

While these teams were practicing for the championship game, the St. Peter's senior Saints were playing an exhibition game Thursday night with Lindsay Collegiate seniors in preparation for the COSSA senior "B" championship in two weeks' time.

The senior Saints with a downfield march late in the fourth quarter eked out a 12-11 victory. The Saints had lead until that moment, going ahead 6-0 in the second quarter, staying ahead 6-5, adn then going ahead by another unconverted major in the second half.

Gillespie Rolls High

G. Gillespie had high three of 813 and high singe of 307 in the men's City Bowling League, as Payne's led teams with 3607 pinnage and top game of 1331. The 6-0 victories were taken by Sunocos, Novelty Shoe, Stopawhile and Ferguson over McBride-Anderson, Primeau's, Family Credit and Golfers; the 4-2 decisions went to Payne's, McCormick, Royal York and Edward's over McDonald, Monumental, Parkhill and McGillis.

Gool counts were: S. Richardson 748, H. Davis 722, B. McCarrell 793, G. Walton 773, A. Pilling 700, M. Akers 723, G. LaPlante 701, G. Gillespie 813, L. Anthony 714, W. Flint 759, E. Reynolds 783, W. Harris 724, V. Ferguson 733, A. Mattucci 758, J. Playford Jr. 752, and singles of B. McCarrell 302 and G. Gillespie 307.

8 Of Eskimos Make All-Star Team

By AL VICKERY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—Seven players from the first-place Edmonton Eskimos and their coach, Darrel Royal, crashed the 1953 Western Interprovincial Football Union all-star offensive team, chosen for The Canadian Press by coaches and sports writers in league cities.

For the first time in Canadian football history, the selectors bowed to these days of highly-specialized football performers and the two-platoon system by also naming a 12-man defensive squad.

Three Saskatchewan Roughriders and two Winnipeg Blue Bombers made up the balance of the offensive team. The tail-end Calgary Stampeders failed to gain an offensive squad berth.

THREE CANADIANS

Three Canadian players made the first or offensive team, compared with two in 1952. They are leading scorer and flying wing for Bombers, and guard Jimmy Quandametteo and fullback Normie Kwong of the Esks. Besides Korchak, halfback Rollie Miles of Edmonton was the only other holdover from last year's all-stars. Only one player—tackle Martin Ruby of Riders — was picked for both teams.

Starry halfback Billy Vessels of Esks, all-American last year with Oklahoma and voted the outstanding player of the year in the United States, was the sole player named to every ballot.

Here are the teams:

OFFENSIVE TEAM

End: Bud Grant, Bombers
End: Mac Speedie, Riders
Tackle: Martin Ruby, Riders
Tackle: Leon Manley, Esks
Guard: Jim Quandametteo, Esks
Guard: Mike Cassidy, Riders
Centre: Eagle Keys, Esks
Quarter: Claude Arnold, Esks
Flying Wing: B. Korchak, Bombers
Half: Billy Vessels, Esks
Half: Rollie Miles, Esks
Fullback: Normie Kwong, Esks
Coach: Darrel Royal, Esks

DEFENSIVE TEAM

End: Frank Anderson, Esks
End: Ezzert Anderson, Stamps
Tackle: Martin Ruby, Riders
Tackle: Dick Huffman, Bombers
Guard: Gordon Brown, Stamps
Guard: Dean Bandiera, Bombers
Linebkr: John Wozniak, Riders
Linebkr: Tony Momsen, Stamps
Half: Neill Armstrong, Bombers
Half: Ray Willsey, Esks
Half: Bobby Marlow, Riders
Half: Tom Casey, Bombers

Sault Indians Get McCracken

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (CP)—The Sault Indians of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association's southern group Thursday announced the acquisition of centre Bill McCracken.

McCracken, former Toronto St. Michael's star and last year a member of Glace Bay Miners of the Maritime Major league, is due here today and may see action against North Bay Trappers here Sunday.

McCracken, a Winnipeg product had a total of 69 points with Glace Bay last season, winding up in the top 10 of the MMHL.

The Indians also announced that Conrad BonHomme, high-scoring left winger, was expected to join the team during the week-end. BonHomme started the season with Sudbury Wolves but quit when he had salary differences with manager Max Silverman.

M. Simmons Leads

Dot Martin took high three of 702 for the second week in a row in the YM senior lasses' bowling circuit. Mary Simmons' 311 was top single. She was followed by Betty Pogue with 294, D. Woods 265, A. Dixon, 263, H. Thompson 261, D. Martin 255 and B. Kay 242. B. Pogue had a triple of 665, B. Kay 656, A. Dixon 647, M. Simmons 638, D. Woods 637 and Helen Howden 610.

Bombers, Tigers, Corvettes and Commandoes took four points respectively over Aces, Lucky Strikes, Hurricanes and the Glens in fair competition by the girls.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Latest American Hockey League bulletin received shows Gaye Stewart of Buffalo leading scorer with 13 points, including seven goals. Teammate Don Marshall had 11 points, while Red Sullivan of Hershey and Jack Gordon of Cleveland had 10 each. The Peterborough redhead scored five and aided on five in six games, serving but two minutes in penalties. Don Ashbee of Cleveland Barons isn't mentioned among the leaders in scoring this time, but the local lacrosser will blink the light a goodly number of times, no doubt, during the AHL campaign. His team and Buffalo are battling it out for top spot in the standing these days. Nip O'Hearn is Syracuse spare goalie.

Eddie Redmond's TPT Petes hit into a fairly busy weekend with Orillia Pontiacs here tonight and Belleville Memos coming up this way Monday in OHA senior "B" fixtures. Locals lost their opener to Oshawa Truckmen in Bowmanville last weekend, but hope to hurdle Pontiacs and Memos on home ice. Petes play in Kingston on Nov. 6. Efforts are being made to clear Hannah and McMaster through the OHA since their return from a season of hockey in Scotland. Both would be most helpful to the Peterborough cause but require an official okay to perform this semester in local livery. Hectic hockey action is expected all through the hefty senior "B" schedule with five strong clubs in.

Merv Cracks the Whip

Ontario Athletic Commissioner Merv McKenzie—well-known to senior lacrosse fans around here—recently slapped a $200 fine on the Mills brothers, Al and Tiny. Seems they used a microphone as a weapon during a pro mat bout in Maple Leaf Gardens. We're not at all surprised, as these huge western ring villains will use anything but legitimate tactics. Tiny even crowned Pat Flanagan with a chair here one night, and then had to fight his way through angry fans to his dressing room, police helping him escape. At least, this fine shows that Merv is taking his commissioner's job seriously and keeping his eye on the questionable tactics of pro grapplers.

Two of our high school football teams are in weekend action. St. Peter's junior "B" squad has a sudden-death Bay of Quinte area playoff tomorrow in Belleville for the right to proceed in COSSA playdowns. PCVS seniors tackle Oshawa Combines here at 2:15 Saturday in Riverside to settle their lakeshore "A" district, and the Combines are up 10 points from the first fray. However, we look for Bev Goulding's PCI-ers to knock off Oshawa on the round after a stiff scrap. Johnny Lynch's senior SPS pack will be playing Albert College from down Belleville way next week, either Nov. 4 or Nov. 7, winner to hit into COSSA senior "B" competition. Lindsay juniors trail Oshawa, and the Kenner boys are out of the running now.

Orfuns Open ORFU Series

Peterborough Orfuns are off tomorrow for a two p.m. touch in Oakville. They play the Oakville Black Knights—who erased Hamilton Panthers in group finals—a home-and-home series for the ORFU intermediate "A" championship. With points counting, Tony Kotowski's crew will be trying to win by a good margin in the away opener for a lead in the return here Nov. 7. Winner of the series is the provincial titleholder for 1953 and will trek to Montreal two weeks hence for the Eastern Canada final. Survivor of that will be at home a week later to the victor from the west in the Canadian final playoff. The Orfuns are in good shape for the tilt tomorrow and hope a lot of local grid fans go to Oakville to cheer 'em along.

* * * * * *

Orfuns' executive met last p.m. to arrange tomorrow's trip and next week's home game. Club is well in the hole financially but hopes to break even on the season yet. Reserve seat tickets for the Nov. 7 playoff here are on sale now in a number of downtown spots, and draw ducats are also out for Grey Cup pasteboards. Some doubt was expressed by the executive as to whether or not Blair Thomson's gimpy knee would let him play this weekend, but 'twas thought Don McGillis might be back with ribs taped up. ORFU reported that the John Black Trophy for the most valuable player—won jointly two years ago by Bill Huntley and Jim Loreno this year will be voted on by the various ORFU field officials, such as refs, umps, etc. Oshawa recently was fined $50 for signing—but not using several of the Toronto Marauders toward schedule's end. The fray tomorrow will be broadcast.

Sain Quits Ball To Run Agency

WALNUT RIDGE, Ark. (AP)—Johnny Sain, right-handed New York Yankees curveballer, Thursday retired from baseball to operate an automobile agency here.

Sain, who played in the major leagues for 11 years and in organized baseball for six years before that, won the opening game for the Yankees in the 1953 world series in a relief role. His record for last season with the Yankees was 14 victories to seven defeats.

He said he mailed his resignation to the Yankees this week.

The 35-year-old hurler got his start with the old Boston Braves in 1942 and played with them until 1951, when he was sold to the Yankees for $50,000.

Marciano To Meet British Champion

PARIS (AP)—Rocky Marciano, world heavyweight champion, will fight the British champion, Don Cockell, in a 15-round title bout next June, Al Weill, the world titleholder's manager, said today.

The match will be held either in London or the United States, "wherever we could get more money," Weill said.

The manager made his announcement of the heavyweight bout after a one-hour talk with Jack Solomons, Britain's boxing promoter.

"No final decision on the matter will be taken, however," Weill said, "until I talk with International Boxing Club manager Jim Norris next week at New York."

Dinner Honors Queen's Trainer

MONTREAL (CP) — The Montreal branch of the Queen's University Alumni Association Thursday night honored John (the Senator) Powell, former trainer of the university's football, hockey, and basketball teams, at a dinner here.

Powell, 78, retired in 1950 after 26 years as trainer of college teams—including the great Grey Cup football squads of 1924-25-26.

Former football and hockey star Jack Carver presented Powell with a $600 cheque and expressed the appreciation of the alumni association for all "the great work and the fighting spirit" the Senator showed at Queen's.

John Connor, former president of the Montreal branch, said Powell was "gruff and silent" but "when he made friends with you, he was a real friend. He agonized over every game as much as the players."

Among those at the presentation were Carl Voss, now chief referee of the National Hockey League, and Herb Hamilton, general secretary of the alumni association.

Remember When—

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gus Bodnar, then with Toronto Maple Leafs, set the NHL record for the fastest goal scored by a rookie 10 years ago tonight. Bodnar scored against New York Rangers 15 seconds from the opening bell. He set the record of most points scored by a rookie in a season with his 22 goals and 40 assists in that season of 1943-44.

Foster's Father, Billy Hewitt 50 Years In OHA

TORONTO (CP)—A half-century of recording the heart beats of Ontario hockey will be marked here Dec. 8.

Sports celebrities from many parts of Canada and the United States will meet then to honor W. A. (Billy) Hewitt who is beginning his 50th year as secretary of the Ontario Hockey Association.

However, the guest list at the banquet won't be limited to hockey. Football, horse racing, track and field and rowing will be represented too. Billy Hewitt has been mixed up in them all.

The father of Foster Hewitt, Canadian radio's premier hockey broadcaster, he was appointed to the OHA post in December of 1903. Since then he has received 49 acclamations.

Keenly interested in football, he played a large part in the formation of the Interprovincial Rugby Football union in 1912 and was president of the Canadian Rugby Union in 1918 and 1919. He served as CRU secretary for a period during the First World War.

He was sports editor of the Toronto Daily Star from 1900 to 1931 and in 1914 spread the idea of a national body to govern amateur hockey in Canada.

LAUNCHED CAHA

The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association came into being that year, largely through his doing, and he was named secretary-treasurer of the body. He became registrar-treasurer of the CAHA in 1922.

A turf authority, he became chief steward of the Canadian Incorporated Racing Association in 1937 after several years as assistant steward. Next year he was made a member of the Ontario Racing Commission and in 1950, appointed commission steward of the ORC.

Capt. James Sutherland of Kingston, past president of the CAHA, has called Billy Hewitt the "miracle man of hockey who has done more than anyone to guide the game through its scant and lean days."

Chicoutimi Drops Game To Saints

Valleyfield Braves have moved up into a tie with Chicoutimi Sagueneens at the top of the Quebec Hockey League standings.

The Braves moved up from a four-team, second-place tie by defeating Quebec Aces Thursday night on home ice. Chicoutimi dropped a 5-2 decision to Sherbrooke Saints.

Sherbrooke's win enabled the Saints to climb out of the cellar, dumping Springfield Indians into the bottom slot.

At Valleyfield, the Braves, using Kline-Haworth-Leclerc for two of their scores, jumped into a 1-0 lead in the opening period. Valleyfield outscored the Aces 4-3 in the second and held them scoreless in the last stanza. Roy Kelly got two of the three Quebec markers.

At Sherbrooke the Saints pumped in two in the opener, added two more in the second for a 4-0 lead, and picked up an insurance marker shortly before the final whistle. Delphis Franche got both Chicoutimi's goals in the last stanza.

Never Box Again Says Sugar Ray

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson said Thursday he has quit the boxing ring for good.

"I'll never fight again," the ex-champion said, scotching reports that he was weighing an offer to challenge Bobo Olson, the middleweight titleholder.

Robinson once held the welterweight and middleweight championship but retired last Dec. 18 to take up tap dancing in a song and dance show.

Last week Ray was quoted as saying he'd been offered a sizable chunk of money to fight Olson. Thursday Robinson said he was offered $300,000 and later $350,000.

"If I fight again," Robinson said, "it'll be because somebody hit me when I wasn't looking."

M. Callaghan Tops

M. Callaghan had high three of 629 this week in the Lucky Strike girls' bowling league and G. Gibbons had best single of 245. The Dunfield team blanked Parsons and McBride's won 4-0 from Gibbons. The 3-1 wins went to Reed over Butcher, Knights against Graham, and by Callaghan over Miles.

Good triples were: D. Hamley 620, L. Jopling 603, M. Hollowell 575, J. Dunfield 568, M. Knights 560, L. Griffin 556, M. Patterson 540, B. Hardill 535, B. Gardiner 532, G. Payne 530, I. Penrose 529, G. Pearson 522, H. Powell and K. Bullied 518, E. Butcher 514, G. Gibbons 512 and M. Watson 508. Neat singles included: M. Callaghan 243 and 208, G. Payne 243, G. Pearson 230, B. Gardiner 228, H. Powell 224, D. Hamley 221 and 221, M. Hollowell 221, L. Jopling 220 and 211, I. Penrose 217 and 200, M. Patterson 216, M. Watson 215, J. Dunfield 202 and 200, M. Knights 202.

Tom Johnson, Montreal defenceman, whose two-goal performance sparked Montreal Canadiens to a 3-1 decision over Toronto Maple Leafs.

BLOSSOMS AT CENTRE—Tom Johnston, described as Canadiens' most underrated defenceman, is apparently their most underrated centre as well. Moved up to the pivot spot Thursday night against Toronto, he scored two goals to lead the Montrealers to a 3-1 win.

Junior Ti-Cats Whip Lions 20-6

TORONTO (CP)—Hamilton Tiger-Cats Thursday night won the Junior Big Four best-of-three football final series in two consecutive games by defeating Parkdale Lions 20-6.

Rangy Dave Cathcart scored a touchdown, converted it, and kicked four single points to account for half the Ti-Cats' total score.

Hamilton led 12-0 at half-time on Cathcart's converted major, one of his singles and another major by Mike Volcan. Parkdale struck back in the third quarter for a touchdown by Bill Irwin that Tom Urowitz converted.

Rod Simpson fell on a Parkdale fumble behind the Parkdale goal line for another Hamilton major as the fourth quarter began and Cathcart rounded out the scoring with three singles midway through the quarter.

Hab Defenceman Turns Centre Helps Beat Leafs

BY ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

There's nothing in the National Hockey League constitution entitling a player to overtime pay, but if Montreal's Tom Johnson puts in a claim today, he's entitled to a sympathetic hearing.

The Canadiens were in dire straits Thursday night when veteran centre Elmer Lach went out with a match penalty after a stick-swinging episode with right-winger George Armstrong of Toronto Maple Leafs. They were leading 1-0 at the time, but they were fast running out of centres.

Kenny Mosdell and Paul Masnick, the latter a recent draftee from Montreal Royals of the Quebec Hockey League, were the only available pivot-men. So coach Dick Irvin called on Johnson, a defenceman by trade, to fill in for Lach.

While Johnson was still getting acquainted with his wingers, the Leafs' Eric Nesterenko tied the score, offsetting Mosdell's first-period goal.

SCORES TWICE

That set the stage for the third period, in which the transplanted blue-liner took charge. He fired the two goals, both on passes from Maurice Richard, that gave his club a 3-1 victory. Still taking his regular turn on defence, he helped limit the Leafs to a single shot on goal through the entire period.

Johnson's pair of goals gave him four for the season, more than he ever scored in a single year and only one shy of his entire output in three seasons as a Montreal defenceman.

The victory boosted the Canadiens into a four-point lead over the second-place Detroit Red Wings. The Leafs stayed in a third-place tie with Boston Bruins.

The match penalty to Lach resulted from a tangle early in the second period in which the Canadien centre was injured. He emerged, swinging his stick at Armstrong and the big winger lifted his own stick to ward off the blow.

Lach's sentence, the third match penalty of the year, carried a $100 fine. Armstrong drew a high-sticking major which automatically cost him $25.

The Canadiens went into the game without regular centres Dick Moore and Jean Beliveau, both out with injuries.

Eastern Clubs Study Tangle Facing Big 4, ORFU Teams

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Eastern Canada football fans, still slightly ga-ga over the six-touchdown performance of home-brew Lorne Benson of Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the western conference semi-final, turned today to things closer to home: The play-off scramble in the Big Four and Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Just about everybody who knows a football from a baseball has written off Saskatchewan Roughriders from Grey Cup contention after Benson and the Bombers murdered them Wednesday night at Winnipeg with a 43-5 triumph. They figure Saturday's finale in the total-point semi-finals is just window dressing.

But it's anybody's guess about the eastern cup finalist with all Big Four clubs still in the running and a couple of interesting games scheduled for Saturday.

Montreal Alouettes and Hamilton Tiger-Cats, tied at the top of the standings with 12 points, meet at Hamilton and Toronto Argonauts and Ottawa Rough Riders clash at Toronto. Argonauts and Riders are tied for third place with 10 points.

BIG CASUALTY REPORTS

The red-hot Alouettes appeared to have the inside track until last week-end when Ottawa walloped them 30-15 to snap a Montreal three-game winning streak and an Ottawa three-game losing streak. More than that, the hospital report on the Als after that loss shocked home-town fans.

Tex Coulter, towering import lineman and punter, suffered a fractured ankle and is out for the season. Five others — end Ray Poole and linemen Ray Cicia, Jim Tomlinson, Ed Bradley and Juan Sheridan—suffered such miscellaneous injuries as fractured ribs, slipped knee cartilege and assorted bruises.

Coach Doug (Peahead) Walker, who has put the Als through "secret" drills in preparation for the Hamilton game, won't decide until game time whether to use some of his cripples.

Ottawa Rough Riders, Argonauts and Tiger-Cats, all remarkably free from injuries, have held stiff drills throughout the week.

All clubs have two more games to play after this week-end and it still is possible they could end in a four-way tie in points.

IMPS NEED WIN

Sarnia Imperials, ORFU defending champions, have a stiff test against the league-leading Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen at Kitchener. The Dutchmen already have clinched a playoff spot and Imperials need this game to hit the post-season series.

Imperials are deadlocked in second place with Toronto Balmy Beach with the week-end games closing out the schedule. The Beaches have a soft touch Sunday against the winless Brantford Redskins at Toronto.

Sole possession of the runner-up spot in the intercollegiate union is at stake. University of Toronto Blues and McGill Redmen, each with four points on two victories, clash at Montreal. The other college game brings together McMaster Marauders and Queen's Golden Gaels at Kingston.

University of Western Ontario Mustangs, who lead the circuit with four straight victories, have an open date.

CUT-UP—The Pie King Irish-bred champion among two-year-olds in England stumbled on a greasy track Thursday prepping for the Garden State Stakes in Camden, N.J. He threw his jockey, raced a quarter of a mile, cleared a four-foot fence and ran through a crowded barn to his quarters. He was unhurt. Here, in a less rumbunctious mood, he is being groomed by Joe Reilly.

Here And There In Sports

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

TIED STEWART MARK

TORONTO (CP) — When young Lorne Benson of Winnipeg Blue Bombers scored six stunning touchdowns Wednesday night he matched a performance by Jackie Stewart of the old Hamilton Tigers four years ago.

Benson, a 22-year-old back, led the Bombers to a 43-5 victory over Saskatchewan Roughriders in the first game of the Western Interprovincial Football Union semi-finals.

It was Nov. 5, 1949, that Stewart scored six majors to pace Hamilton Tigers to a 39-7 win over Toronto Balmy Beach of the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Their feats probably will go down as records in modern Canadian football history. However, it is hard to say if they were all-time records, because records of individual game scoring are not kept.

VOTE HOGAN TOP GOLFER

CHICAGO (AP) — Ben Hogan Thursday was voted "professional golfer of the year" by the U.S. Professional Golfers Association. Hogan, winning the award for the fourth time, was named on a record-breaking 803 ballots from PGA members and sports writers. He had a 748 plurality over his nearest rival, Lew Worsham.

MMHL TO KEEP TROPHY

KEMPTVILLE (CP)—President W. B. (Baldy) George of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association said Thursday that, barring a change before play-off time, teams of the Maritime Major Hockey League will compete among themselves this year for the Alexander Trophy.

Donated by the former governor-general, Viscount Alexander, the trophy is awarded annually to the champion of the major series. Originally, this group comprised four senior leagues across Canada but now only the Maritimes group remains.

LOAN PAIR TO CATARACTS

HAMILTON (CP)—Hamilton Tigers of the OHA Senior A series Thursday night announced the loan of two players to Niagara Falls Cataracts, a league rival.

Forward Bill Hartsburg and defenceman Pete Pidsodny will join the Cataracts for the rest of the season. Forward Ron Rohmer said he would seek his release from the Tigers to play for Simcoe in the OHA Senior B league.

DECIDE AGAINST BAN

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Irish Turf Club stewards took issue with the English Jockey Club Thursday and said they see no reason for banning horses trained by Irishman Paddy Prendergast. The Jockey Club banned Prendergast-trained horses Oct. 15, questioning the performance of Blue Sail in an English race. It said the race was "inconsistent" with a previous run in Ireland.

Bay Blows Lead But Wins 5-4

NORTH BAY (CP)—North Bay Trappers Thursday night blew a three-goal lead but came back with the only two goals of the final period to turn back Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Indians 5-4 in a Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A southern group game.

Victory hurdled the North Bay squad past Sudbury Wolves into second place in the five-team race. Newcomer Gord Pankhurst, 21-year-old centre from Winnipeg, scored the tying goal in the third and added two other assists.

Veteran Smoothie Ab DeMarco set up the winning goal by George Gosselin.

Chester Konaczki, Boelke, and DeMarco got the Trappers off to a 3-0 start only to have the Indians come back with four straight in the second period on two counters by Vip Palladino, and singles by Hank Backor and Hub Macey.

"Pie King" Doubtful In $266,000 Stakes

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—The Pie King, British two-year-old champion, came down with a case of equine "athlete's foot" Thursday and appeared a doubtful starter in the world's richest horse race—the $266,000 Garden State Stakes Saturday.

Co-owner Elwood Johnston said The Pie King had developed a hoof condition roughly equivalent to athlete's foot in a human. He said the condition had been aggravated by the rainy weather and a slight infection since the horse arrived here to train for the race.

Stamps Wallop Flyers 8-1 To Hold Second

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Calgary Stampeders drubbed Edmonton Flyers 8-1 Thursday night in a Western Hockey League game to consolidate their hold on second place.

Steve Witiuk connected twice for the Stamps. Sid Finney, Pat Coburn, Art Michaluk, Frank Ashworth, Ray Barry and Fred Hucul added singles.

Jim Anderson tallied the lone Edmonton goal.

Hawks' Ex-Goalie Tops Poll In 'Peg Election

WINNIPEG (CP) — Paul Goodman, former goal tender for Chicago Black Hawks in the National Hockey League, led the poll in Winnipeg's ward two Wednesday night to win election to city council. It was his first plunge into politics.

Goodman was one of three goalies used by the Black Hawks in winning the Stanley Cup in 1938. He was regular goalie for the Black Hawks 1939-41.

An injury cut short his hockey career and he entered business in Winnipeg.

43-5 Shellacking Puts Paid To Filchock Revolution

REGINA (CP)—That shocking 43-5 shellacking Frankie Filchock's Saskatchewan Roughriders absorbed from the Blue Bombers in the Western Conference semi-final opener at Winnipeg came just as the old master was threatening to revolutionize football coaching procedures.

Most coaches stress hard workouts which are often lengthy and sometimes at a two-a-day clip. They scan films of past games and fill books with opposing team plays on scouting forays.

Not so Frankie.

He believes his charges should play themselves into shape during the regular season to arrive at peak form for the playoffs.

PRACTICES EASY

"His practices, compared to any of the others, are child's play," says sports editor Tom Melville of the Regina Leader-Post. "If the nightly drill lasts over an hour it is a long one.

"While Bomber coach George Trafton, in particular, has master charts, small notebooks, and red-rimmed eyes from peering at films the Old Man looks at things in a different light, if he looks at all."

Where has this novel approach to coaching brought clubs Filchock has coached?

In his coaching debut at Edmonton last season, his so-so Eskimos finished a comfortable distance behind the first-place Bombers. But in the WIFU playoffs they scored the West's two greatest comebacks against Calgary and Winnipeg to emerge as Edmonton's first Grey Cup finalists in 30 years.

LOSES FIRST THREE

This season the 36-year-old former New York Giant saw his Roughriders drop their first three scheduled games to the other, better-conditioned clubs. But when the battle for playoff berths started in earnest, Riders went unbeaten in their last five games, edging out Bombers, pre-season favorites, for second place.

Then came that disastrous game at Winnipeg Wednesday night.

With Riders now forced to overcome a 38-point deficit here Saturday in the final game of the total-points semi-final with Bombers, fearless Frankie probably is pondering his past coaching strategy.

Olson's Victory Causes Shift In Middleweights

NEW YORK (AP)—The recent flurry of action in the middle-middleweight class, including the title scrap between Carl (Bobo) Olson and Randy Turpin, has resulted in an overhaul of the ratings of the 160-pound division by Ring magazine. Only a few minor changes were made in the other weights.

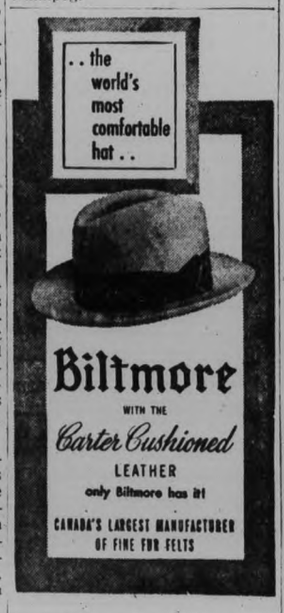
Olson's decisive triumph over Turpin gave the division its first champion since Ray Robinson retired Dec. 18, 1952, and left the title open.

Turpin, of England, was placed in the No. 1 contender's spot, followed by: 2. Rocky Castellani, Cleveland; 3. Joey Giardello, Philadelphia; 4. Gil Turner, Philadelphia; 5. Joey Giambra, Buffalo; 6. Ernie Durando, Bayonne, N.J.; 7. Charles Humez, France; 8. Ralph (Tiger) Jones, Yonkers, N.Y.; 9. Randy Sandy, New York; 10. Garth Panter, Salt Lake City.

Turner, Durando and Panter were not on last month's list, and Giardello was moved up a notch.

Durando rejoined the first 10 by knocking out Humez in the sixth round in Paris. Giardello advanced with a good win over Walter Cartier. Panter climbed into the rankings for the first time by whipping France's Pierre Langlois, who was dropped. Turner, No. 3 welterweight contender a month ago, has been fighting at 155 pounds and was moved into the 160-pound class by Ring editor Nat Fleischer.

The heavyweight ranks were kept intact with Roland La Starza, Ezzard Charles, Nino Valdes, Dan Bucceroni and Heinz Neuhaus running in that order behind champion Rocky Marciano. Canada's Earl Walls of Edmonton and Windsor, Ont., was ranked seventh.



Floyd Patterson's victory over Wes Bascom sent the Olympic champion back into the light-heavyweight ratings, this time in the No. 8 contender's post.

Del Flanagan of St. Paul, who handed Steve Marcello his first defeat advanced from sixth to fifth among the welters. Johnny Saxton took over Turner's No. 3 slot.

LIGHTWEIGHTS SHUFFLED

In the lightweight division, Art Persley of Red Cross, La., returned to the first 10 as the result of wins over Phil Kim and Henry Davis. He was given the No. 8 rating, one notch ahead of Arthur King of Toronto. Montreal's Armand Savoie, who meets lightweight champion Jimmy Carter in a title fight in Montreal, Nov. 11, was boosted from ninth to sixth.

The featherweight, bantamweight and flyweight divisions were largely unchanged and no Canadians were listed among the top contenders in those ranks.

IL Head Suggests 24 Major Clubs In Two Divisions

MONTREAL (CP) — Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International Baseball League, Thursday night outlined plans he has submitted to major league clubs for the addition of eight teams to the present 16-club setup.

Addressing a banquet of the Snowdon Fastball League, Shaughnessy contended there are too many "losing teams" in baseball at present.

He said minor leagues got around the difficulty of having too many "losing" or non-playoff teams in the loop by letting four teams contest the playoff series.

Major leagues at present included the top club in each league in the world series playoffs, leaving seven losers in each loop. If a proposed plan to add two new entries in each major league was adopted, there would be nine teams in each league not making the playoffs.

12-TEAM LEAGUES?

Shaughnessy said his plan hinges on finding eight cities capable of building ball parks seating at least 35,000 and getting owners capable of financing a major league club.

He said four teams would be added each of the present leagues which would be sub-divided into east and west section.

In the National League, the east section would consist of Brooklyn, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Toronto and Montreal. The west would be made up of Milwaukee, St. Louis, Chicago, Cincinnati and possibly Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Phillies' Outfielder Quits Major Leagues

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bill (Swish) Nicholson, veteran 39-year-old outfielder of Philadelphia Phillies Thursday announced his retirement as an active Major League player.

Nicholson spent 15 years in the National League with Chicago Cubs and the Phillies. He joined the Phillies in October, 1948, in a trade for Harry (the Hat) Walker. Last year he appeared in 38 games, made 13 hits in 63 at bats for an average of .206.

He played his last game on Sept. 19 in Brooklyn when he appeared as a pinch-hitter.

Six WO Teams Form New Loop

WOODSTOCK, Ont. (CP)—Four western Ontario Senior B teams and two Intermediate A entries have combined into one league in the Ontario Hockey Association.

Plans were made at a meeting here Sunday. Called the Big Six, the league will be comprised of Woodstock Athletics, London Briggs Wallaceburg and New Hamburg, all Senior B clubs, and Tillsonburg and Aylmer, Intermediate A teams.

The group opens a 30-game schedule Nov. 5 and will conclude league action Feb. 17.

Canadian Riders Second, Third At Harrisburg

HARRISBURG, Pa. (CP)—Canadian riders won second in one international event and tied for third in another at the Pennsylvania National Horseshow Thursday.

Lt.-Col. Charles Baker took the red ribbon in the afternoon fault-and-out jumping. At night he and Shirley Thomas were locked in a six-way tie at the end of the in-and-out jumping.

England's Patricia Smythe, last rider of Thursday night's event, came up with the only perfect performance to win her fourth personal international victory here.

Her win gave the British team its sixth victory in the first eight of 11 international events. Ireland has won two.

Second was Mrs. Carol Durand of the United States team who had four faults.

For the second day in a row Baker just missed winning Canada's first blue ribbon. In the afternoon event, Baker on Anchors Aweigh cleared 13 of the 14 obstacles when the one-minute time limit was up and he was whistled off the course.

Capt. Michael Turbridy of Ireland, riding Ballynonty, cleared the 14 obstacles within a minute to take first place.

Bethlehem Hits New Steel Record

NEW YORK (AP)—Bethlehem Steel Corp., No. 2 American steel producer, is rushing into 1953's final quarter at 104 per cent of its rated production capacity and with a fat earnings record of $9.25 a share behind it for the last nine months.

"We see no reason why operations should change to any extent, certainly for the balance of this year," said board chairman Eugene G. Grace following Thursday's third-quarter directors' meeting.

"We expect good business throughout next year."

The nine-month earnings of $93,525,340 smashed the previous nine-month record of $90,800,000, equal to $8.96 a share, set in 1950.

Third-quarter earnings set another record, totalling $34,030,204, or $3.38 a share, breaking the 1950 third-quarter high mark of $33,563,841, or $3.33 a share.

THREAT OF OPEN WAR—Maj. Gen. Vagn Bennike, left, of Denmark, truce supervisor for the United Nations, warns the Security Council that open war threatens in Palestine unless the armistice agreements are followed to the letter. At right is Israel's chief UN delegate, Abba Eban, who followed Bennike's recent speech with a conciliatory gesture offering to stop work on Israel's controversial Jordan River hydro-electric diversion project on the Israel-Syria border.

Germans Aid French In Indo-China

By IAN FAWCETT

SAIGON, Indo-China (Reuters)—Ten thousand young German soldiers are fighting for France in Indo-China. They represent some 70 per cent of the French Foreign Legion which has the best fighting record of all the regiments in the country.

Others who wear the distinctive white pill-box cap of the legion are Spaniards, Italians, Poles and a few French, Americans and Britons. They have names and numbers—but, for the most part, only the numbers are real.

The French Foreign Legion in Indo-China is not the legion of Beau Geste. Few of these men fighting the Communist-led Vietminh are murderers or other criminals on the run from justice. Most of them are youngsters who could not find work in their own country or decided to take this chance to "see the world."

They joined the legion, and many have regretted it.

Legion life, as any of them will tell you, is tough and unrelenting. They receive less pay than other troops, their food and living conditions are worse, their discipline is harder, and they see much more actual fighting.

DefenceProgram Levels Out: Claxton Aide

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian government placed orders for $4,000,000,000 worth of arms equipment since 1950, but the program has reached its peak and now is "levelling out," R. M. Brophy, deputy minister of defence production, said Thursday night.

Though the arms program still has some time to run, Mr. Brophy disclosed that the government now is grappling with the problem of maintaining a limited mobilization and production base to prevent a complete dissipation of defence industry.

"As one means of keepfng (production) lines operating at minimum economic levels, it is planned to make full use of the mutual aid program wherever possible," he told the Society of Automotive Engineers.

Under the mutual aid program, Canada supplies certain arms and equipment to North Atlantic partners overseas free. A total of $324,000,000 has been set aside for this program in the current fiscal year.

"Furthermore, measures will be taken to ensure that, if a line is shut down, it will be kept in a position where it can be reactivated with the least possible delay."

Sentenced For Assault

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—William VanDerHart, 22, was sentenced to two months in jail Thursday for what Magistrate Donald Menzies termed a "brutal assault" on a 19-year-old girl. VanDerHart was charged with assault occasioning actual bodily harm on Jean Wilson. She said VanDerHart had demanded a date and had become angry when refused.

Speed Record Claimed

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A world speed record of 754.98 miles an hour was claimed Thursday for Lt.-Col. F. K. (Pete) Everest, 33, chief of the flight test operations laboratory at Edwards air force base, who piloted a North American Super-Sabre over a 15-millimetre (9.3-mile) course along the Salton sea. His top speed with a tail wind was 767.276 m.p.h. and he bucked the wind coming back at 742.684 m.p.h.

Bring More Boys To Brampton School

BRAMPTON (CP)—Members of the legislature's select committee on reform institutions agreed Thursday an attempt should be made to bring boys from other Ontario institutions to the Brampton reformatory.

The committee, visiting the reformatory, learned that the institution had never reached its capacity of 200.

Committee Chairman W. J. Stewart and opposition leader Farquar Oliver suggested that the institution, actually a training school for boys under 25, should have the word reformatory removed from its title. The school, the only one of its kind in Canada, is an experiment in the reformation of first offenders.

George St. United 118 Years Old This Sunday

George St. United church, one of the oldest former Methodist churches in Ontario, will celebrate the 118th anniversary of its founding on Sunday.

The first church was built in 1835 across the street from the present site. It was enlarged in 1853, and in 1875 the present edifice was erected with the addition of the Sunday school building in 1924.

All are invited to the anniversary services to be held Sunday at which guest speaker, the Rev. Donald J. O. Scoates, minister of St. Columba United church, Toronto, will preach on "The Benediction of the Church," and "A Thrilling Story." A fireside hour will follow the evening service.

Machinery Tax Established To Help Pay For Schools

VANCOUVER (CP) — When the provincial government's new school financing plan becomes effective next year, manufacturing concerns in British Columbia will be required to do their own tax assessing.

Vancouver city officials said plans call for firms to set the value of taxable machinery in their plants covering the first year of operation and they foresee no difficulty in getting the information.

The government, which suggested the system, already uses the plan in unorganized territories where the machinery levy now is in force. Vancouver city also has charter powers to demand the declaration and to crack down on defaulters.

Theg overnment's equalization o assessment legislation was given final approval during the session just concludede. It calls for taxation of machinery for the first time, to provide additional tax revenue to finance school costs.

Manufacturers will be required to submit a sworm affidavit setting out the value of machinery in their plants. Assessment department officials will then check these reports progressively, probably at four-year intervals.

D. McQueen, Vancouver's assessment commissioner, said the new legislation will have the effect of increasing sharply the civic tax on manufacturing establishments. However, it would also ease the load on home owners and give material relief to retail and wholesales commercial firms.

Negotiations End N.Y. Milk Strike Into Sixth Day

NEW YORK (AP) — Marathon negotiations to end New York's milk strike broke down early today, and Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri, calling the situation "intolerable," immediately called a mediation meeting at city hall for later in the day.

A deadlock in the wage-hour dispute became apparent at 2:30 a.m. EST when representatives of the AFL Teamsters Union walked out of the bargaining room.

The walkout, which began five days ago, seemed on the verge of settlement for the last two days, with federal, state and city mediators taking part in the lengthy sessions.

Thursday, on the basis of optimistic statements issued by negotiators, fleets of big milk trucks rolled toward the city, ready to supply fresh milk for 12,000,000 metropolitan area consumers in New York and northern New Jersey. They were stopped, however.

OVER WAGES, HOURS

The strike began Sunday when 15,000 drivers and plant workers stopped work over their demand for a $15-weekly wage increase and a 35-hour work week instead of 40 hours.

Fresh milk supplies were exhausted almost immediately in retail stores and restaurants. Milk depots ran out Tuesday. But plenty of powdered and evaporated milk has been available.

Dairy farmers estimate the walkout is costing them $250,000 a day, forcing them to divert their product to less-profitable milk by-products such as butter and cheese.

The original industry wage offer had been $2.50 more weekly.

After the deadlock was announced, an industry counsel said the companies had raised their offer to $6.50, but the strikers now seek a package increase of $12.50 weekly. Wages range from $82 to $125 a week.

Expected settlement of the dispute seemed predicated on a price boost of one or 1½ cents a quart to consumers. Milk now sells in the affected areas at 27 cents a quart delivered and 23½ cents in stores.

Queen, Duke Receive Diplomats At Palace

LONDON (AP)—The Queen received the diplomatic corps at Buckingham Palace Thursday night in a glittering presentation party.

Prime Minister Churchill was there in full evening dress and knee breeches.

The Queen wore a dress of pale green and pink tulle with a spray of pink artificial roses on her left shoulder and a kingfisher-tailed blue ribbon of the Order of the Garter. Her jewelry was a diamond tiara, necklace and earrings.

The Duke of Edinburgh wore evening dress with knee breeches, on which the Garter emblem shone.

Move Douk Women

VANCOUVER (CP)—Seventeen Doukhobor women, convicted last month of nude parading, will be moved this week-end to the federal penitentiary at Kingston. Forty-six Doukhobor men, also sentenced to two years or more on the same charge, will be placed in the British Columbia penitentiary at New Westminster.

44 Years Apart, Sweethears Wed

TORONTO (CP) — Childhood sweethearts who lived an ocean apart for 44 years will be married here next Wednesday in a quiet ceremony.

Jim McLaren and Sally Farmer, both 69, picnicked together on the hills of Scotland 50 years ago. Jim left for Canada, never expecting to see his sweetheart again.

He went to Brantford, became a factory worker, married and had a son. His wife died last January.

He went to the Coronation in June and while overseas decided to look up old hometown friends. He found Miss Farmer, still single operating a hardware store in his native Glasgow.

Mr. McLaren returned to Canada and the wedding was arranged by mail. Miss Farmer arrived in Canada Tuesday.

The couple plans a wedding trip to New York.

65% Rejected As Navy Recruits

TORONTO (CP)—Rear Admiral H. F. Pullen of Oakville, chief of naval personnel at Ottawa, says nearly 65 per cent of the more than 14,000 persons who tried to enlist in the navy during the year ended last Sept. 30 were rejected.

Addressing a Navy League dinner Thursday night, he said 35 per cent were turned down "because of a lack of general ability or because the recruiting officer considered they were downright unsuitable for the navy." Ten per cent lacked sufficient education, 4.5 per cent were medically unfit and the rest could not meet age or nationality requirements.

"There is much to be done in our communities if we are to reduce this proportion of what I call human wastage," said Admiral Pullen.

"It is time to look at our homes, our schools and our churches.

"In the light of this wastage, the Sea Cadet movement assumes great importance. Every effort and every dollar expended in support of it pays off in dividends to Canada."

Winter Arrives

EDMONTON (CP)—The stock of winter footgear dwindled quickly in Edmonton's shoe stores after the city awoke Thursday to a storm that left more than three inches of snow on the ground. Wednesday the thermometer had soared to 71—a record high for Oct. 28. Thursday, temperatures dropped to 23.

Tops Campaign Goal

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa is the first city in Canada to pass its objective in the Community Chest campaign, R. H. Hyndman, campaign chairman, told a meeting of canvassers Thursday night. He announced collections of $462,223, topping the campaign goal of $435,000 by six per cent.

1,100 Take Part In Pelee Shoot

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—The 1,100 hunters from many parts of Canada and the United States who are taking part in the annual pheasant hunt on Pelee island have shot more than 8,000 birds since the two-day season opened Wednesday. Three men were casualties.

Sam J. Walsh, 56, of Toronto, injured when struck by a shot fired by his brother, Stanley, underwent surgery Thursday for removal of pellets which lodged near his lung. Emmett Egan, of Grosse Point Farms near Detroit, was injured when his gun exploded and blew off part of his thumb.

Floyd Smith, Maple Heights, O., suffered minor injuries when struck by a car driven by Frank Adams, Pelee island.

Hunters were more pleased with Thursday's sunny weather than they were Wednesday when fog and rain made hunting unpleasant.

PlanNewCommunities For Flooded Areas

TORONTO (CP)—New communities to replace those to be flooded by the St. Lawrence seaway and power development will be planned jointly by residents of the areas concerned and by the Ontario hydro commission, H. D. Rothwell, Hydro liaison engineer on the power project, said Thursday night.

Addressing the Canadian Industrial Management Association, he said Hydro will produce a plan to be presented to the Iroquois residents as a suggestion for a future community."

Steers, Heifers Up By 50c, Lamb Sales Good

TORONTO (CP)—Cattle receipts increased over last week at the Ontario stockyards this week. Prices were 50 cents higher on good and medium quality slaughter steers and heifers while trade was dull at about steady prices on common classes. Veal calves were actively strong while hogs lost $1.50 from last week's close. Lambs were in good demand at steady prices. Holdover at the close 700 cattle.

Cattle receipts of 8,847 head were added to 500 carried from last week. Included in fresh receipts 2,600 westerns. Choice weighty steers $19-20; choice light $19-19.50; a few at $20; good light and weighty $18-19; mediums downward to $16; good heifers $17-18; light mediums downward to $16; heavy mediums downward to $15; common steers and heifers down to $8; good cows $11-11.50; light heifery cows up to $13; mediums $9-10; canners and cutters downward to $6; good heavy bologna bulls $12-13; butcher bulls $12-12.50; heavy fat bulls $10-11; common light downward to $8; choice fed yearlings $22-22.50; good fed yearlings $20-21; mediums downward to $17; good stockers and stock calves $17-19; common to medium down to $14.

Calf receipts were 3,887 including 2,100 westerns. Good to choice veal calves $23-25; common to medium $12-22; grassers $8-12; heavy calves were slow and hard to sell.

Hogs totalled 2,894 head. Prices were $1.50 lower at $34 for grade A sows were unchanged at $24.

Sheep and lambs 2,624 head. Lambs were active in demand at steady prices. Good ewes and wethers $20-21; bucks $1 discount; heavy lambs as much as $3 discount; feeder and cull lambs $15-18; good light sheep $8-10; common sheep downward to $4.

NO BUS TERMINAL YET

An official of Provincial Transport Ltd., in Montreal speaking for Colonial Coach Lines, said Thursday there are no immediate plans for a bus terminal to be erected here. This scotched rumors that a large Toronto construction corporation had planned on building one for Colonial Coach. The spokesman said the company would build one "as soon as possible".

CAPTAINS MEET

Captains of school safety patrols held their first monthly meeting in the city hall, Thursday. Each captain gave a report on their individual patrol's equipment to constable Don Mackay and submitted their ideas concerning the improvement of patrol activity. The rule that all patrol members remain on the curb while giving directions, was stressed by constable Mackay.

Car Rolls Over Pins Arm Woman Driver

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—Vera Jean MacDonald, 23, of Glen Williams, had her right arm pinned underneath her car Thursday afternoon after it rolled over on Highway 7, a mile west of Havelock.

Miss MacDonald is believed to have dozed off at the wheel as she was driving her late-model English car east along the highway at 1:30 p.m. The vehicle ran off the south side of the highway, mounted the embankment, and then rolled back after reaching the crest.

As it rolled back it snapped off a CPR telegraph pole.

Damage was estimated at $600 to the car, most of it to the roof and sides.

Miss MacDonald was found by a passing motorist, her right arm pinned underneath the vehicle. The motorist released her, and she was treated in Havelock for a crushed arm and shock by Dr. W. M. Judd.

OPP Constable George Rose of Campbellford investigated.

SEEING DOUBLE—Teachers at Central public school are having their troubles this term and it's all because the school has what could easily be a record number of twins enrolled in classes. They boast seven sets of twins from kindergarten to Grade 5. Kindergarten teacher Mrs. W. E. Kibblewhite (centre, top left photo) chats with the Higgins twins, Barbara and Margaret, about her hand puppet monkey. She also teaches another set of twins, Faye and Fran Windsor, in the afternoon class. Grade 1 has also a set of twins, Thomas and David Cadman (left to right, lower right) while both Grade 2 classes have twins, Terry and Gerry Bolton (top right) and Sue and Lee Elliott (middle right). Cynthia and Josephine Blakemore, Marian and Margaret Truman (left to right, lower left) make Grade 5 teacher and pupils see double.

Contract Awarded To Start Work On Simpson-Sears

Foundation of the Simpsons-Sears departmental store building in Peterborough will be constructed by Carroll Contracting Co. Ltd., Toronto. The company confirmed to The Examiner today the report that they had been awarded the contract for this first stage of the work that is to be begun just as soon as the working drawings are ready.

Carroll Contracting Co. are now completing an expansion job at Lindsay Collegiate Institute, and are about to move into Peterborough for the first time.

Bert Alexander of Carroll Construction said today: "we might be in there next week". It is likely that some representative of the company will be here within a few days to arrange for preliminaries of their contract. Meanwhile Simpson-Sears have announced their intention to build in Ottawa a big unit of their projected chain.

The Peterborough location as announced several months ago is on the south side of Lansdowne St., west of Monaghan Road.

Likely To Back Fred Young CCF Leader

A strong move is underway among CCF groups in Ontario to have Fred Young of Toronto elected provincial leader at the nominating convention in November.

Present indications are that the Peterborough CCF Association will instruct their four delegates to vote for Mr. Young who is now provincial organizer.

The CCF nominating convention will be Nov. 21-22, called specially to pick a successor to E. B. (Ted) Jolliffe who was provincial leader of the party for nearly 11 years. He resigned earlier this year.

Mr. Young is no stranger to Peterborough. He has addressed union meetings here, and last July he attended two meetings of the Peterborough CCF Association to help them in their federal campaign.

A letter from Halton riding CCFers, advocating Mr. Young as the new provincial leader, has raised a favorable response among the members of the local association.

HAS QUALIFICATIONS

"We think he has the qualifications to make an excellent Ontario leader," said William Triggs, recording secretary of the association. "Our local meeting is not till Nov. 12, so we can't say for sure, but there is a strong likelihood that we will throw our weight behind Mr. Young."

Mr. Triggs, who is also on the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL), and president of Local 293, UPWA (CIO-CCL), added this comment: "Mr. Young is well liked by trade unionists. He spoke to a regular meeting of ours (Quaker Oats Co. production workers) just before the strike, and a number of the members said he was the best speaker they had ever heard."

The prospective candidate has not yet said that he intends to run for office, but his friends throughout Ontario are putting out feelers to see what the reaction is of the various party associations. His name will almost certainly go before the convention.

Mr. Young is 46 years of age, son of the Rev. H. S. Young of Greenwood, N.B. He attended teachers' college and taught school, becoming principal in Woodstock, N.B. He is a graduate of Mount Allison University; he received his MA from the University of Toronto and his BD from Emmanuel College.

Besides holding pastorates in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island he assisted in credit unions, co-operatives, and he was active in adult education. During the Second World War he was general secretary of the Halifax YMCA.

His political experience: Maritimes director of organization for the CCF and editor of CCF paper. Defeated provincial candidate in Halifax West and federal candidate in Toronto Davenport.

At present he is on the staff of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), working with the national organizing committee of the CCF. He thus knows both political and trade union problems.

Mad No Longer, Bird Pays Off

WELLINGTON, N. Z. (Reuters) Mrs. M. Cairns isn't mad at Bunty the blackbird any more—she figures she's been paid for the mess Bunty made of the Cairns' mail box.

Bunty chose the box for her nest. As fast as the postman put letters in, she tossed them out. Just as Mrs. Cairns was going to take eviction proceedings, "The blackbird came down out of a tree and dropped something at my feet—a 10-shilling note."

With the rent paid, Bunty can nest undisturbed.

Hallowe'en Has History Reaching Back 3,000 Years

Hallowe'en, a festival now more than 3,000 years old, has retained few of its original practices. It was originally a pagan feast that marked the death of a year and the death of the sun's warmth.

It was one of the two main festivals of the ancient Celtic nature religion that spread, in the time before Christ, from the east end of the Mediterranean to the northernmost parts of the British Isles, and lingered as Druidism in the southern part of the isles.

The other main feast was at the spring equinox in June.

Adherents of this nature religion principally revered a female deity known as the White Goddess. She was known in three aspects—the virgin (spring), the mother (summer and harvest), and the hag (the dying year) — thus forming a pagan trinity.

END OF YEAR

The feast on the Eve of All Hallows was held to mark the end of the year. By this religion years were measured from the end of one harvest to the beginning of the next.

Bonfires were lit as a form of prayer to the dying sun to return in spring with the rebirth of the White Goddess and bring warmth and plentiful crops.

As the hag, the goddess remains in Hallowe'en in the form of witches' masks and costumes, and in pictures and decorations of hags aboard broomsticks, flying to their evil haunts. Actually, the witches of antiquity never claimed to be able to fly. They smeared themselves with a fatty substance which contained an intoxicating herbal mixture.

This grease gave them the sensation of flying; some authorities believe it acted much as marijuana does.

As the Christian religion spread through Europe, the festival of All Hallows' Eve was retained to make the transition from pagan religion to Christianity more comfortable.

The bonfires that once were lit by most people on Hallowe'en are a reminder of the fires that were lit as material prayers to the sun.

SHELLING OUT

Shelling out is only a partial carryover of the practice of buying off the spirits—even then costumed children and adults — that called on most people.

It was once a twice-yearly event, done at New Year and Hallowe'en. Children chanted to their victims:

"We are no daily beggars that go from door to door;
We are your neighbors' children whom you have seen before."

As Hallowe'en progressed into modern times, each child was called on by the givers of goodies to perform some trick, to sing or recite. Without that token payment, they received nothing. Only a few households continue today to demand a performance from the many children who call at their doors.

Even the malicious tricks of children and teen-agers are on the decline. Once buggies decorated barn roofs, and privies toppled by the score. The motor car has replaced the buggy, and the familiar outbuilding exists in few places.

But, across the country, when children call out "Trick or treat" on Saturday night, their hearers will know All Hallows Eve has come again.

Coronation Medal Air Cadet Work

For outstanding work with the Air Cadet League of Canada, Harold L. Garner, general manager of The Examiner has been awarded a Coronation Medal. Mr. Garner is a past president of the Air Cadet League and has served since its organization as one of its directors.

Accompanying the medal was a certificate and also a letter from Air Marshall C. R. Slemon, Chief of Air Staff, Ottawa. The air chief in his letter expressed his appreciation to Mr. Garner for "outstanding work which you have done with the Air Cadet League" and said he was pleased to see that recognition had been given.

The certificate which was embossed with Mr. Garner's name read: "By command of Her Majesty the Queen the accompanying medal is forwarded to Harold L. Garner, Esq., to be worn in commemoration of Her Majesty's coronation, 2nd of June, 1953."

Line Of Duty

It's all part of a day in the life of a fireman. On Thursday the Peterborough firefighters—who double as troubleshooters for man or beast—were called to Harold Bray's home, 417 Dublin St. A black fluffy kitten had reached into a can to get some food remnants and its head got caught in the can. It was finally eased out by Fireman Bill Trick who rolled back the open flap of the tin, from the inside, with a pair of scissors. Kitty, fireman and family were all pleased with the result.

Taking Over On Reserve Jailed 2 Months

Isaac Taylor wanted to be chief of the Curve Lake Indian Reserve. His ambition, however, was nipped in the bud, as Magistrate R. I. Moore gave him a one-way ticket to county jail Thursday where he ordered the accused for a two-month vacation.

Musing on a description of a Curve Lake brawl on Friday night, Magistrate Moore told him: "I don't know how they'll get along without you, but they're going to."

The description was supplied by OPP Constable Don Lacombe and Corporal Jack Munro who testified against Taylor and an Orillia reserve Indian, Garnet Shilling, in charges of causing a disturbance.

Both men pleaded guilty.

BRAWL REPORTED

Constable Lacombe said he, Corporal Munro and Constable Jack Gray were dispatched to the reserve Friday night when a brawl was reported. They arrived shortly after midnight to find a group of two dozen men gathered around the darkened dance hall.

Taylor, showing remarkable audacity, marched up to the car, told the officers he was taking over the reserve and told them to get out.

The police didn't budge, and after much cursing and swearing, Taylor told his cohorts to roll the car over. He, with the aid of Shilling, started to rock the vehicle but the officers drove the car some 400 feet away and waited for radio-dispatched reinforcements.

By the time three more provincial police had arrived, however, the mob was dispersed and the Indians were safely arrested.

Corporal Munro corroborated the constable's evidence, adding that Taylor was the ringleader and Shilling had tried to warn the police away before trouble started.

Shilling was dealt with relatively lightly and paid a fine and costs of $22.50.

PREVIOUS OFFENCES

Taylor, however, had a background of three previous offences

Trial Opens In Charge Against Store

Merchant Charged With Operating In Illegal Hours

Prosecution evidence in the first of several bylaw charges against women's clothing store operators was heard in magistrate's court Thursday as the result of their one night opening September 11.

City solicitor W. F. Huycke, Q.C., called eight witnesses to testify against Zimel Levine, operator of Muriel's Specialty Shoppe, 202 Charlotte St.

Three witnesses, John R. Corkery, registrar of deeds, Edward Davis, assessment commissioner and Douglas Spencer, assistant to Mr. Davis, identified the store and its operator, as Muriel's Specialty Shoppe and Mr. Levine.

ORIGINAL BY-LAW

E. A. Outram, city cerk, submitted the original by-law, 2864, which was passed in 1929 to provide for the closing of stores "between the hours of seven o'clock in the afternoon and five o'clock in the forenoon of the following day."

Lengthy discussion on the original petitioners for the bylaw took place between the witness and the defence counsel, W. B. Gordon.

During the discussion, it emerged that names of petitioners were signed to the sheets as early as March, 1929, although the bylaw wasn't passed until November.

Mrs. Madeline Dudley, operator of the Kathryn Shop in Ashburnham, testified next against Levine. She said she visited there about 8:40 the night of September 11 and purchased a pair of stockings, producing a sales slip for the purchase.

Asked by Mr. Gordon who "sent her over," Mrs. Dudley said no one had but under further questioning revealed she had visited the store on the suggestion of the Kathryn's Shop's former operator, Mrs. K. McLarnon.

BOUGHT STOCKINGS

Another customer that night, Mrs. Jean Guerin, also purchased a pair of stockings. She too was asked who sent her and replied that no one had.

Questioned further, however, she explained how, when she had come out of the store, a policeman had taken her name and address and questioned her regarding any purchases.

The final two witnesses, Sergeant of Detectives John Steven-

Panel On Farm Replanning to Feature Conservation Meeting Nov. 9 at Kawartha Club....Jack Matchett is New President of Junior Farmers....Victor Morrow President of Northumberland Forums....Royal Winter Fair Nov. 13-21.

A panel discussion of the subject of farm replanning will be a feature of the annual meeting of Zone 4 of the Ontario Conservation Association at Kawartha Country Club Monday Nov. 9. The president is Ed Youngman of Pontypool.

The members of the panel will be: Roy Sanderson of Bailieboro; John Nurse of South Monaghan; E. White of Elizabethville; Harry Blewett of Smith; F. C. Paterson; and Tom Lane, of the soils department of O.A.C.

Four of these farmers have all had experience with the replanning of farms, and this panel should reflect interesting phases of the work they have been doing.

The morning session begins at 10.30 and will include a report by provincial officer M. H. Johnston; a report of the Ganaraska and Moira authorities; election of officers; and so on.

Lunch will be at 12.30 and the panel discussion is a feature for the afternoon with an address by Frank H. Kortright who is the author of "This Business of Conservation". Ralph Banbury of Brighton in his call for this meeting says every county should have two car loads or more in attendance to carry the inspiration home.

It is understood that farmers interested in the project of conservation could at least be there for the afternoon program.

Any person wishing to sit in for lunch should advise Mr. Paterson at the weekend. Places have been ordered for fifty, but if others are interested they can be included if notice is given in time for Henry Rennie, who supervises the Kawartha's dining room.

"We'd like to have a good attendance," Mr. Paterson said, "and those who come for the afternoon program will also be heartily welcomed."

Poultry Marketing

Saskatchewan poultry association has asked the provincial advisory and planning board to make a study of the industry, including the possiblity of a poultry marketing board both from provincial and national standpoint.

✦ ✦ ✦

Jerseys To Alabama

Alfred Watt of Middlesex county consigned a Jersey calf to an auction sale. The U.S. buyer was so pleased with the young animal that he returned and bought privately six more of the same blood line, the herd sire, Roslyn Molly's Beason, and five of his daughters. They were shipped last week to Alabama.

Sending 11 Carloads

Alberta breeders are sending eleven carlots of purebred livestock to the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto, November 13-21. This shipment will be made up of two cars of Herefords, and one each of Shorthorns, Aberdeen-Angus, commercial cattle; Holsteins; Jerseys and Ayrshires; sheep, swine; Cyldesdale horses, and one car of Percherons and Belgians.

✦ ✦ ✦

Winter Wheat Club

Jay Whittington was this week the tenth member signing up for the senior 50-Bushel Winter Wheat Club. Others have expressed their intention of joining, but have not yet called at the office of the Department of Agriculture.

"We would like to hear from some more of our farmers, soon," F. C. Paterson said Thursday.

✦ ✦ ✦

Junior President

Jack Matchett of Otonabee is the new president of Peterborough Junior Farmers. He was elected at a meeting of the directors for the coming year.

The other officers are: Vice-presidents, Mary Wood and John Waterman; secretary, Doris Jopling; treasurer, Archie Davidson; auditors, John Edmison, Keith and Marilyn McIntyre. Norman Blodgett is press representative.

✦ ✦ ✦

Juniors At Stirling

A. O. Dalrymple, agricultural representative in Hastings county, has quite a program lined up for the annual meeting at Stirling Thursday evening, November 5, of 4-H Clubs, Homemakers, Junior Farmers for presentation night. The outstanding boy in club work this year will receive a gold watch, and the corresponding girl will be given a silver tray.

✦ ✦ ✦

Homemaking Leaders

Twelve homemaking clubs were represented at the training school Wednesday and Thursday this week at the office of the Department of Agriculture and Ontario Teachers College. The work was directed by Miss Jean Noble, Bowmanville, home economist with the provincial Department.

The clubs with their leaders and assistants were: Havelock, Mrs. William Woodbeck and Mrs. Robert Melville; Norwood, Mrs. John Knox; South Smith, Mrs. W. C. Mann and Mrs. Albert Bulmer; Belmont, Mrs. Dora Elmhirst and Mrs. Clarence King; Warsaw, Barbara Cuffe and Donna Payne; Lakefield, Mrs. Marjorie Payton and Mrs. Velma Farrow; Keene, Mrs. Irene McIntyre and Mrs. Edith Easson; Buckhorn, Mrs. Olive Churchilll and Mrs. Norma Mason; Halls Glen, Mrs. Albert Harrison and Mrs. Hilliard Hamblin; Otonabee, Mrs. L. Beef On Grass Silage

A winter ration of grass silage and hay for beef cattle has proved to be as satisfactory as hay plus corn ensilage, says W. A. Jordan of the division of animal husbandry, Central Experimental Farms, Ottawa.

That finding is based on two years tests, looking for answers to these questions: "Is grass silage a suitable feed for wintering beef cattle or different ages? How does it compare with corn silage?"

"It was found that when calves were wintering on an average of four pounds of hay, two pounds of grain and about 18 pounds of either grass or corn silage, they made equally good gains. Normal development and good condition was apparent in both groups, and no noticeable difference could be observed in bloom and condition of cows or in the birth weight of their calves."

OVER THE SIDE—With New York all but out of fresh milk, farmer John Du Fosse, of Oxford, N.J., dumps milk on his farm after overstocked creameries were unable to accept it because of the three-state strike of milk drivers and plant workers. The wages-hours deadlock is costing dairymen an estimated $250,000 a day.

Forum Season Opens Monday

First of the winter series of fifteen Farm Forum broadcasts will be Monday night, Nov. 2. The subject is: "The Agricultural Representative and the Farmer".

The topics for the other November Mondays are: Nov. 9—"Partners All" . . . and to quote the official program "The farm woman is a partner with her husband. What does this means?"

Nov. 16—"The Challenge of Dairy Substitutes". What effect will they have on the dairy industry?

Nov. 23—Fourth Night Feature.

Nov. 30—"The Struggle For Men's Minds."—What aspects of Western life will make the strongest appeal to other peoples?

Implied in this program is another subject: "The Challenge of the Forum". It isn't anywhere on the list, but it is bound to come to the attention of every rural resident, and particularly to those who continue to remain aloof from this great enterprise of the farmers of Canada.

Are we going to form a Forum in our community for this season? Several hundred farmers of Peterborough county have already set their mind in the affirmative to that question. You saw many of them at the enthusiastic rally at Ontario Teachers College last Monday night. Incidentally that was an inspiring meeting, and a credit to Wellington Sutton of Otonabee, the Ontario Forum chairman, who in his diligent and unofficious way of doing things has performed the duty to which the Peterborough Federation assigned him a few years ago.

It was an appointment which Mr. Sutton accepted in the spirit of making the most of it, and with the support of his committee and of farm groups Forum interest has been developed into serious activity right across the county.

The Forum purposes and effects could be still further strengthened by the organizing of groups in local centres where the seed of appeal and example has not yet taken root.

TIME AND THOUGHT

And, it is a serious undertaking this approach to fifteen discussion nights on questions ranging from safety on the farm to 'Barriers to Trade' on Feb. 1.

"Should trade barriers between Canada and the United States be lowered and finally eliminated?" Ultimately that matter comes close to every Canadian. To have an informed opinion on it, he needs at hand sources of fact, and the give and take, the winnowing of opinion in group discussion.

The Forum invites serious attitude and thought and as much study as the individual farmer can find time for it.

Monday night sessions are not confined to what may be called cerebration, but it comes first, and in most instances receives the quality of thinking that is the basis of the influence and verdicts of the Farm Forum. Discussion periods are usually followed by some form of entertainment, lunch and so on.

A primary value of these meetings is their stimulus to thinking and intelligence, the securing of evidence and the weighing of it, not just for the period of debate, but for eventual reference by government representatives to whom the collated reports of secretaries are made available.

DEMOCRATIC AGENCY

That end or purpose leads to the Nov. 30 subject "The struggle for men's minds". In the Forum sessions there is no aspect of 'struggle' nor of aim to sway rural minds. The Forum manner is quite the opposite, a democratic agency that does encourage free and uninfluenced thinking, the logical approach to questions from the standpoint of definitions and evidence, leading to conclusions.

In this atmosphere of freedom, farmers also have their own choice of attitude toward the Forum, to be indifferent, to pass it by as if it were of no importance to them, or on the other hand to join their thousands of Canadian fellows in the study of problems and questions affecting them all, even to their sources of income, such as: "The challenge of dairy substitutes", "The farm price trend", "Farm policy in relation to production", and others.

There is a warm welcome in the county Forum company for those groups which move into action for the new series in communities where organization has not yet been rallied.

Northumberland Forum

Victor Morrow of West Dartford was elected president of Northumberland Farm Forums at their annual rally Friday, October 23, at Warkworth. He succeeds James Bird of Codrington who has been chairman for four years.

Vice-president is F. S. Harnden, Grafton; and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Raymond Richard, west Dartford Forum; press correspondent is Mrs. Don Pollock, also of west Dartford.

Cliff Waite, Ontario secretary, told the meeting that reports of group discussions of the weekly broadcasts are read by members of parliament, the chairman of Ontario Hydro and many others for the summarized rural opinion obtainable from these digests.

Mr. Waite said that farmers would be supplied this coming season with the reaction of the public men receiving the condensed reports of Forum meetings which are supplied by their secretaries. He complimented Northumberland Forum for its drama festival and poster competition, apart from the other activities promoted throughout the year.

A motion by Don Carruthers thanked the executive for their leadership. Lunch was served after the program of readings by Mrs. Arthur Ward of Dartford and Mrs. Earl Haren of Norham, and the sing-song led by Mr. Waite.

WORLD CHAMPION PRODUCERS are seldom offered for sale at public auction, and the entry of two of them in the All-Canadian Holstein Sale held October 19 at Toronto provided a feature attraction.

Grahaven Milestone Mona (left) brought $2,600, the top price of the sale on the bid of W. K. McLeod, Disraeli, Que., while Ourvilla Princess Phyllis (right) brought $1975 going to Lockwood Holsteins, Forfar, Ontario. Mona is the World Champion junior two-year-old for 305 days, while Phyllis is the World Champion junior three-year-old for 365 days, both on twice-a-day milking.

British 1954 Marketing Scheme For Farm Produce

The British government's scheme of assisting in the marketing of cereals produced on British farms next year will restore free markets while providing a reasonable security of income for the farmer. An explanation of its scope is set forth in The Economist published in London, Eng.

"It should provide a model on which, despite the opposition of National Farmers' Union, free markets will be restored for other farm products, particularly the more difficult livestock marketing.

The essential change is that minimum prices paid to each farmer by the government are replaced by standard prices, which represent the government's guarantee of a minimum average return for farmers as a whole.

The farmer will sell his cereals in a free market, to whom and at what price he can; he will be in competition with other farmers and with imports. The quantities and prices of all sales will be recorded. If the average price actually realized by say the 1954 rye harvest, exceeds or equals the standard price laid down by the government—in this case 25s a cwt.—that is the end of the matter; the farmer has earned his income in a free market.

GOVERNMENT PAYS

But, if the average price works out at less than 25s, the government will make up the difference. The deficiency payment to each farmer will be the difference between the standard and the average price, multiplied by the quantity of rye he has sold.

For wheat, the standard price will be subject to seasonal variations, while for barley and oats the actual deficiency payments to farmers will be based on the acreages grown; they will be calculated from the price deficiency according to the average yield per acre. For barley there are additional complications in reckoning the "average" price to be used. But, such technical difficulties are not overwhelming, and seem to be effectively dealt with in the government's scheme. . .

Deficiency payments are tolerably straightforward in administration, and in principle they provide the simple and effective ways of letting prices move freely to perform their main economic function, without putting the farmer at, as he sees it their unrestrained mercy.

FARMERS ACCEPT

The National Farmers' Union has accepted this scheme "without prejudice to the form of permanent organization for dealing with cereals". This presumably means that the N.F.U. still hankers after some producers' marketing board to work in conjunction with government support for cereal prices.

It points out regretfully that what is guaranteed by the deficiency payments scheme is a standard return to cereal-growers as a whole, not to the individual farmer. His deficiency payment for, say wheat, is based on the average price of all the home grown output. If the price at which he has sold his own crop turns out below the average price, his total return—from the market and the government through the deficiency payment—will fall short of the standard price. To other farmers who have sold above the average price mechanism is allowed to give its proper reward to the farmer who is skilful in his choice of time and place to sell, or whose product is above the average in quality.

For crops so standardized and unperishable as grains, salesmanship and variation in quality are of comparatively minor importance. For livestock, which presents the government with its major problem in agricultural marketing, they are of major importance.

If the incentives provided by a free market with deficiency payments are a defect in NFU opinion, they are one of the scheme's merits for the public, and also for the enterprising farmer. A marketing board that was purely a co-operative body for dealing with the physical problems of orderly marketing would not affect this situation. But, if it were a trading body run by farmers—a monopoly seller of domestic produce—its practical effect would almost certainly be to reduce the extra rewards for quality and for skill in selling. It would provide a flatter security for farmers at a serious cost in incentives and therefore in benefit to the consumer. The government should set its face against proposals of this kind."

The Economist is a financial journal published in London. This quotation is only part of its survey of the proposed marketing scheme in Britain for 1954.

"Farmers Key Men"

Members of the county council who heard Dr. H. L. Patterson at the Co-op dinner Monday night saw something of the reality of his theme on their visit to the Bethlehem Steel workings near Marmora Wednesday afternoon.

Canada's resources iron ore and hydro-electric power have been attracting a high wage industry into tremendous investments in this country. One of them is over in Hastings county.

Ontario has one million horse power coming into use next year, but every kilowatt has already been spoken for by industry. Since the end of the war we have stepped up electric power supply three times in this province, and there is still talk of shortage.

Dr. Patterson was elaborating to his Co-Op audience the subject of his talk in a panel discussion at the Ontario Federation of Agriculture convention last winter. He was stressing the factors that are exerting effect on agriculture.

They included increasing population from: high birth rate, immigration, low death rate; and the incoming on a large scale of the U.S. steel industry into this country, with its highly paid workers.

Every day we are adding 1100 people to our population, the equivalent of many a village.

Canada is one of the few surplus countries in the world, such as U.S.A., New Zealand, Australia, Holland, and most of them have no steel industry worth while. The others have to depend on imports for manufacture. The result is that steel is always one industry that finds world markets readily.

Since 1936 farm wages have increased from $21 a month, plus board, to $105 and board last year. Agriculture has become a high cost industry. Canadians used to look upon their country in terms of surpluses. On the reverse side of that view, in 1951 when we could look back on an increase of 20% in population, wheat was the only product showing as much as 21% surplus.

Dr. Patterson mentioned the consequence of the 1952 frosted wheat crop on the greater production of pork products, went down the dairy products and also touched on beef cattle. From that prospect it appeared that in the coming ten years we will be looking for an increase in agricultural production along quite a number of lines.

"I submit that Canada will soon be in a position where the producer of food will be one of the key men of this country," he said.

The thanks of the Co-Op audience was expressed to Dr. Patterson in a motion by C. E. Moore.

Hereford Breeders Elect Charles Fisher President

Eastern Ontario Hereford Breeders elected Charles Fisher of Bailieboro president at their meeting Wednesday night in the office of the Department of Agriculture.

The other officers are Past President Homer Hawkey of Indian River; vice-president Allan Linton, Cobourg; secretary-treasurer Wm. Mood; executive directors F. E. Birdsall, Ray Nokes, Jr., Manilla, and Milton Cornish, Norwood. The representative to the Peterborough Federation of Agriculture is Ronald Warner of Westwood.

The club's appreciation of the presidency if Mr. Hawkey for the last two years was expressed in a motion by Col. Birdsall.

Mr. Fisher, Mr. Hawkey and Mr. Mood were appointed a committee to consider and report on a proposal by Mr. Hawkey that the Club sponsor 4-H Hereford Clubs in the counties of Northumberland, Durham, Victoria and Peterborough. Mr. Hawkey said he favored steer calves, but the committee could go into the merits of steers or heifers, to be shown in the fall with the prospect of the best of them going on for the Royal guineas.

Mr. Hawkey suggested that steers would be ready in the fall for a fat stock sale that would include the other beef breeds. He also recommended that the 4-H Clubs be conducted under the provisions of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

The motion by Col. Birdsall, referring the Hawkey proposal to a committee, was unanimously adopted. "I think it is too big a question to try to decide tonight", he said.

INVITED TO NORWOOD

G. A. Brethen, president of Norwood Fair, invited the Association to hold its regional Hereford show at Norwood next fall. He said the policy of the fair board was to carry on its community projects throughout the year. He recalled the grain and swine clubs and the Hereford heifer calf club of this year.

"We had 43 calves distributed among boys and girls of East Peterborough, and 42 of them were brought out at the fair. So I think we are entitled to call that effort a success."

Many of the calves were well fitted Mr. Brethen said, and the prices at the sale on Oct. 13 were on the whole above the big sales at Thessalon and Manitoulin. Mr. Hawkey said the gains in weight and the fine appearance of many of the calves "were staggering".

MAY CONTINUE CLUB

"Our directors last Monday night talked of buying beef steers for this fall, and let the boys and girls make their preference of breed," Mr. Brethen explained. "We have the idea that some of them would go on for the Queen's guineas next fall after our show. We were wondering what you would think of our idea."

Norwood Fair board, he said, was much interested in promoting junior club work. He recalled that when the 4-H swine club had only five members "we turned over 20 more members to them".

Actually the answer to Mr. Brethen's question about a beef calf will not be available until the committee has met.

The Association decided to hold their annual spring sale around the 1st of June, the date to be fixed later. It was suggested that a fall sale might also be arranged, but no present decision was made.

Mr. Mood's financial statement set out the items amounting to $16,086 receipts, $15,199.50 disbursements, and $874.09 operating expenditure, leaving a profit of $12.51.

52 Canadian Ambassadors of Goodwill

THE CANADA STORY is being told abroad as perhaps no other living nation's story ever has been told . . . told as only art, the universal language, can tell it.

When The House of Seagram commissioned the painting of 52 portraits of Canadian cities by distinguished Canadian artists and then dispatched those paintings by air on a 30,000-mile international tour, it was with the earnest hope that greatly increased understanding and goodwill toward Canada would follow.

There was little doubt that these graphic glimpses of the Canadian skyline and landscape would bring to people of many lands a deeper interest in Canada and a warmer feeling of friendliness for the Canadian people.

Today the Seagram Collection is barely half-way on its international tour—and the actuality is daily outstripping the most optimistic of advance estimates. Throughout Latin America . . . in San Juan, Havana, Mexico City, Caracas, Rio de Janeiro, Sao Paulo, Buenos Aires . . . Canada, through Seagram's airborne art gallery, is Page One news. Not only at the time of the formal previews for leaders of government, industry, the professions and society, but throughout the seven-to-ten day public showings in each city the Canadian paintings and the cities they represent are major topics of interest in the news pages, on radio, and television, in everyday conversation.

As these Canadian ambassadors of goodwill leave Montevideo for Rome, Paris, London, Stockholm, Geneva and Madrid, more than 60,000 people already have studied the collection and carried home brochures reproducing the paintings in full colour. More than that, they have carried away vivid personal impressions of Canada as a great and growing country—a land of vast natural and industrial resources and remarkable human resourcefulness.

Officials Buck US Price Support

TORONTO (CP)—R. J. Riddell, executive vice-president of the United States national live stock exchange, said Thursday night that American livestock marketing officials are opposed to price supports as a solution of livestock problems and added that "brighter days lie ahead for cattlemen."

In an address to a Toronto livestock exchange public relations dinner, he said a support solution "entails supports by grade, by areas and by seasons."

"One error in planning, anywhere along the line, upsets the whole program and leads to periods of scarcity and glutted markets."

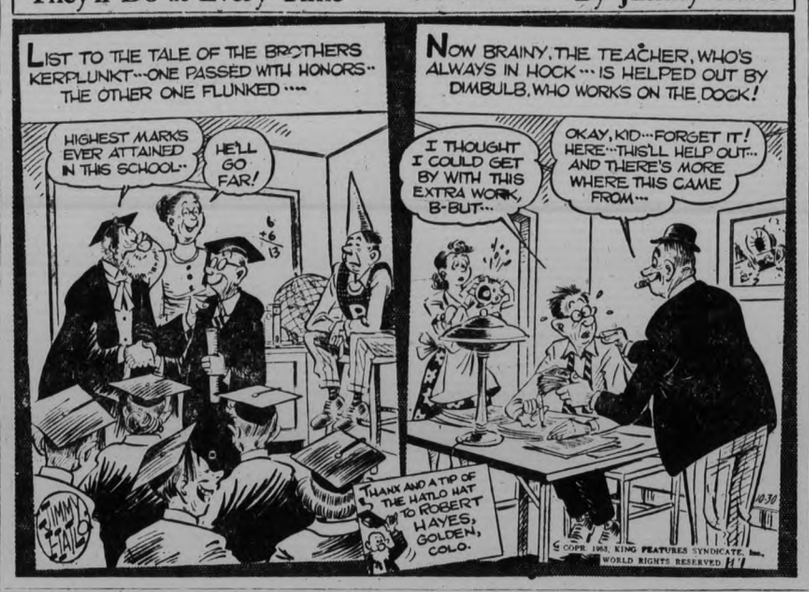
"The cost of price supports is a tremendous burden to the taxpayer. It has been the history of such programs that although they are initiated as a temporary relief measure, they tend to become a permanent policy."

John Abner Windsor

Funeral service was held Thursday in Apsley United Church for John Abner Windsor, 86, who died Monday. The Rev. H. Kaye of Lakefield officiated.

Burial was in Apsley cemetery.

Pallbearers were William Wigg, Archie, Vernon and Wilmer Windsor, Lloyd and Andrew Young.



Giant Warriors

SASARI, Sardinia (Reuters)—Excavators at nearby Porto Torres have uncovered the skeletons of two giant warriors who died 4,000 years ago. The two skeletons, both intact, and surrounded by weapons furnishings, and vases, were more than eight feet tall.

Only Lucky Break Can Solve Disappearance

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP)—Only a lucky break, it is felt by authorities here, will turn up any concrete evidence in the disappearance of 15-year-old Evelyn Hartley six nights ago.

Police chief George Long, who has admitted his department is "up against a stone wall," was joined today by district attorney John Bosshard in the belief that it now is a matter of fortune whether search parties which have been combing the rugged countryside will come up with anything tangible.

"If we get a good break we may develop something," said Bosshard. "So far we have had none, despite the fact our searchers have worked hard at their job."

SEX CRIME INDICATED

Bosshard conferred in his office Thursday with FBI agents, but declined to discuss the nature of the conference. Under the Lindbergh law, the federal agents could come into the case Saturday —one week from the girl's disappearance—if there is evidence of kidnapping.

"There's no such evidence," Bosshard said. "This is a sex crime rather than a kidnapping."

Bosshard disclosed that the state crime laboratory had determined that a pair of girl's panties found several days ago under a railroad underpass are stained with human blood. The underwear, the same type and size worn by Miss Hartley, has not been identified as hers.

Stains on a house near the Viggo Rasmusen home, from which Evelyn disappeared last Saturday night while tending the Rasmusen's baby daughter, also are of human blood, Bosshard said.

First Private Tree Farm Certified At Meeting

ALTON (CP)—The first private tree farm in Ontario was certified Thursday.

Delegates to the two-day annual Private Land Forest Management Field Meeting presented a scroll to E. R. Grange, retired civil engineer, in the midst of the 325-acre tree farm he has operated in the Brampton district northwest of Toronto for 14 years.

Sun Over Italy Calms Flood Fear

MILAN, Italy (AP)—A bright sun broke over north Italy today, ending a week of intermittent rains and calming fears of a major flood disaster.

Rivers and torrents which Thursday night were still ripping out small bridges and washing away roads began to recede. The Po, which devastated thousands of acres of rich farm land and took 94 lives in 1951, remained at a high level, but officials said the situation now is not alarming.

Three more persons were reported drowned Thursday in racing flood waters, bringing to at least 20 the number of victims of the week of rains and floods. Fifty-five persons lost their lives in southern Italy last week in floods.

Careless Thieves

COBALT, Ont. (CP) — A safe stolen from the Canadian Legion premises here was found broken open and minus $90 it had contained. But police found $8.65 in silver scattered in the area.

Closed Months, Abbey Re-opens

LONDON (Reuters) — Westminster Abbey will reopen for divine services on Sunday after what is believed to be the longest period it has ever been closed for public worship in its 1,000-year history.

The historic abbey was closed at the start of this year to begin the long task of preparation for the Coronation. After the Coronation it was opened briefly to enable members of the public to view the fabulous setting in which the rites were held.

Since June, workmen have been busy removing the special stands and equipment and replacing the seating.

About 700 workmen who have handled jobs in the abbey will attend a special service Sunday morning marking the completion of their task.

THE WAR MEMOIRS OF WINSTON CHURCHILL

THE SECOND WORLD WAR

On Tuesday, September 5 (1944) we sailed once again from the Clyde in the Queen Mary. All the Chiefs of Staff came with me, and met daily, sometimes twice a day during our six days' voyage. I wanted, before meeting our American friends, to harmonise and grip the many plans and projects which were now before us. In Europe, Overlord was not only launched, but triumphant. How, when, and where could we strike at Japan, and assure for Britain an honourable share in the final victory there? We had lost as much, if not more, than the United States. Over 160,000 British prisoners and civilian internees were in Japanese hands. For nearly three years we had persisted in the strategy of "Germany First". The time had now come for the liberation of Asia, and I was determined that we should play our full and equal part in it. What I feared most at this stage of the war was that the United States would say in after-year, "We came to your help in Europe and you left us alone to finish off Japan." We had to regain on the field of battle our rightful possessions in the Far East, and not have them handed back to us at the peace table.

Our main contribution must obviously be on the sea and in the air. Most of our Fleet was now free to move eastwards, and I resolved that our first demand on our American Allies should be for its full participation in the main assault on Japan. The Royal Air Force should follow as soon as possible after Germany was defeated.

I was by no means certain that Germany would be defeated in 1944. It was true that we had had nearly seven weeks of unbroken military success. Paris was liberated and large areas of France had been cleared of the enemy. Our advance in Italy continued. The Soviet offensive, though temporarily halted, might at any moment surge forward again. Greece would soon be free. Hitler's "secret weapons" were almost mastered, and there was no evidence that he had learned how to make the atomic bomb. All these and many other factors induced a belief in our military circle that the Nazis would soon collapse. But I was not convinced. I remembered the German onslaught in March 1918. At a meeting of the Chiefs of Staff over which I presided on September 8 I accordingly warned them against basing their plans on an imminent German collapse.

Another matter lay heavy on my mind, I was very anxious to forestall the Russians in certain areas of Central Europe. The Hungarians, for instance, had expressed their intention of resisting the Soviet advance, but would surrender to a British force if it could arrive in time. If the Germans either evacuated Italy or retired to the Alps I much desired that Alexander should be enabled to make his amphibious thrust across the Adraitic, seize and occupy the Istrian peninsula, and try to reach Vienna before the Russians. It seemed much too early to start sending his troops to South-East Asia. The C.I.G.S. agreed that there should be no question of withdrawing any of Alexander's troops until Kesselring had been driven across the Plave.

As a result of our lengthy talks on the voyage we reached agreement about what we should say to our great Ally.

✧ ✧ ✧

We landed at Halifax on September 10, and reached Quebec the following morning. The President and Mrs. Roosevelt, who were our guests, had arrived just before us, and the President waited at the station to greet me. Once again the Citadel was our home, while the staffs again monopolised the Chateau Frontenac.

On the morning of Wednesday, September 13, we held our first plenary meeting. With me were Brooke, Portal, Cunningham, Dill, Ismay, and Major-General Laycock, who had succeeded Mountbatten as Chief of Combined Operations. The President had with him Leahy, Marshall, King, and Arnold. But this time, alas, there was no Harry Hopkins. He had sent me a telegram just before I left England: "Although I am now feeling much better, I still must take things easy, and I therefore feel that I should not run the risk of a setback in health by attempting to fight the Battle of Quebec on the Plains of Abraham where better men than I have been killed."

Mr. Roosevelt asked me to open the discussion. I thereupon made a general survey of the war which I had prepared on the voyage. Since our meeting at Cairo the affairs of the United Nations had taken a revolutionary turn for the better. Everything we had touched had turned to gold, and during the last seven weeks there had been an unbroken run of military success.

I was also glad to record that although the British Empire had now entered the sixth year of the war still keeping its position, with a total population, including the Dominions and Colonies, of only seventy million white people, our effort in Europe, measured by divisions in the field, was about equal to that of the United States. This was as it should be, and I was proud that we could claim equal partnership with our great Ally. Our strength had now reached its peak, whereas our Ally's was ever increasing. There was complete confidence in General Eisenhower, and his relations with General Montgomery were of the best, as were those between General Montgomery and General Bradley. The part played by General Bedell Smith in directing and cementing the staffs was of the highest order. An efficient integrated American-British Staff machine had been built up, and the battle was being brilliantly exploited.

In Italy General Alexander had resumed the offensive at the end of August. Since then the Eighth Army had suffered about 8,000 casualties and the Fifth Army about 1,000. The Fifth Army had hitherto not been so heavily engaged but they were expected to attack that very day. In this theatre there was the most representative British Empire army there had ever been. There were in all sixteen British Empire divisions, namely, eight British, two Canadian, one New Zealand, one South African, and four British Indian. I explained that I had been anxious lest General Alexander might be short of certain essentials for the vigorous prosecution of his campaign, but I now understood that the Combined Chiefs of Staff had agreed to withdraw nothing from his army until Kesselring's troops had been destroyed or were on the run out of Italy.

General Marshall confirmed this undertaking, and accordingly emphasized that in that case we should have to look for fresh woods and pastures new. It would never do for our armies to remain idle. I said I had always been attracted by a right-handed movement to give Germany a stab in the Adriatic armpit. Our objective should be Vienna. If German resistance collapsed we should of course be able to reach the city more quickly and more easily. If not I had given considerable thought to aiding this movement by capturing Istria and occupying Trieste and Fiume. Another reason for this right-handed movement was the rapid encroachment of the Russians into the Balkan peninsula and the dangerous spread of Soviet influence there.

✧ ✧ ✧

Certain trouble makers said that we would take no share in the war against Japan once Germany had been defeated. Far from shirking this task, the British Empire was eager to play the greatest possible part. We had every reason for doing so. Japan was as much the bitter enemy of the British Empire as of the United States. British territory had been captured in battle and grievous losses had been suffered. The offer I now made was for the British main fleet to take part in the major operations against Japan under United States Supreme Command. We should have available a powerful and well-balanced force. We hoped that by the end of 1945 this would include our newest battleships. A fleet train of adequate proportions would be built up, making the warships independent of shore-based resources for considerable periods.

The President intervened to say that the British Fleet was no sooner offered than accepted. In this, though the fact was not mentioned, he overruled Admiral King's opinion.

I continued that as a further contribution to the defeat of the enemy, the Royal Air Force would like to take part in the heavy bombardment of Japan. A bomber force of no mean size could be made available, and would feel honoured to share with their American colleagues the dangers of striking at the heart of the enemy. As for land forces, when Germany had been beaten we should probably be able to send six divisions from Europe to the East, and perhaps six more later on. In South-East Asia we had sixteen divisions, which might ultimately be drawn upon.

✧ ✧ ✧

The President thanked me for this review, and said it was a matter of profound satisfaction that at each succeeding Conference between the Americans and the British there had been ever-increasing solidarity of outlook and identity of basic thought. Added to this there had always been an atmosphere of cordiality and friendship. Our fortunes had prospered, but it was still not quite possible to forecast when the war with Germany would end. One more big battle would have to be fought, and our operations against Japan would to some extent depend on what happened in Europe.

The President agreed that we should not remain in Burma any longer than was necessary to clean up the Japanese in that theatre. The American plan was to regain the Philippines and to dominate the mainland of Japan from there or Formosa, and from bridgeheads which would be seized in China. If forces could be established on the mainland of China, China could be saved. American experience had been that the "end run" method paid a handsome dividend. Rabaul was an example of this by-passing technique which had brought considerable success at small cost of life. Would it not be possible, he asked, to by-pass Singapore by seizing an area to the north or east of it such as Bangkok?

I said that all these projects were being examined and would be put in order. No decision could be reached until after we had taken Rangoon.

I then cast back to make sure where we stood, and asked for a definite undertaking about employing the British Fleet in the main operations against Japan.

"I should like," said the President, "to see the British Fleet wherever and whenever possible."

Admiral King said that a paper had been prepared for the Combined Chiefs of Staff, and the question was being actively studied.

"The offer of the British Fleet has been made," I repeated. "Is it accepted?"

"Yes," said Mr. Roosevelt.

"Will you also let the British Air Force take part in the main operations?"

Here it was much more difficult to get a direct answer. Marshall said that General Arnold and he were trying to see how to use the greatest number of aircraft they could. "Not so long ago," he explained, "we were crying out for planes. Now we have a glut. If you are going to be heavily engaged in South-East Asia and Malaya, won't you need most of your Air Force? Or is Portal's plan to bomb Japan something quite separate?"

"Quite separate," answered Portal. "If our Lancaster bombers are refuelled in the air they can go nearly as far as your B 29s."

I said that for the sake of good relations, on which so much depended in the future, it was of vital importance that the British should be given their fair share in the main operations against Japan.

During the days which followed I had a number of conversations with the President and his advisers. I had been surprised to find when I arrived at Quebec that the President was accompanied by Mr. Morgenthau, the Secretary of the United States Treasury, though neither the Secretary of State nor Harry Hopkins was present. But I was glad to see Morgenthau, as we were anxious to discuss financial arrangements between our two countries for the period between the conquest of Germany and the defeat of the Japanese. The President and his Secretary of the Treasury were however much more concerned about the treatment of Germany after the war. They felt very strongly that military strength rested on industrial strength. We had seen during the nineteen thirties how easy it was for a highly industrialised Germany to arm herself and threaten her neighbors, and they asserted that there was no need for so much manufacturing in a country as large as Germany, which could to all intents and purposed feed herself. The United Kingdom had lost so many overseas investments that she could only pay her way when peace came by greatly increasing her exports, so that for economic as well as military reasons we ought to restrict German industry and encourage German agriculture. At first I violently opposed this idea. But the President, with Mr. Morgenthau—from whom we had much to ask—were so insistent that in the end we agreed to consider it.

The so-called Morgenthau Plan, which I had not time to examine in detail, seems to have carried these ideas to an ultra-logical conclusion. Even if it had been practical I do not think it would have been right to depress Germany's standard of life in such a way; but at that time, when German militarism based on German industry had done such appalling damage to Europe, it did not seem unfair to agree that her manufacturing capacity need not be revived beyond what was needed to give her the same standards of life as her neighbors. All this was of course subject to the full consideration of the War Cabinet, and in the event with my full accord the idea of "pastoralizing" Germany did not survive.

We held our last meeting at midday on Saturday, September 16. The Combined Chiefs of Staff had now completed their final report to the President and myself, and at Mr. Roosevelt's request Admiral Leahy read it out to us paragraph by paragraph.

On Sunday, September 17, I left Quebec by train with my wife and daughter Mary to pay a farewell visit to the President at Hyde Park.

After dinner I left for New York, and boarded the Queen Mary the following morning. The voyage home was without incident. We arrived in the Clyde on September 25, and left immediately by train for London.

Bedside Vows Give Quads Dad

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — At a hastily-arranged bedside marriage ceremony, Lansing's Trollman quadruplets found a father and became the van Alstine quads.

Mrs. June Trollman, pretty brunette divorcee, mother of the quads, was married Thursday in a simple ceremony to George W. van Alstine, 34, strapping Lansing automobile serviceman.

"I'm really happy now for the first time in months," the bride declared.

Marring the happiness for the couple was the death of one of the quads—the last born, a boy.

The two other boys and a girl are winning their battle for survival.

Van Alstine told reporters he was the father of the quads.

The bridegroom, who also has been divorced, said he had been in love with the mother of the quads "for more than a year."

"I wanted to marry June a long time ago," he said, "but we had a little misunderstanding and it just never came off. I hope I can be a good husband and father."

It's ridiculous but true!

remarkable achievement for n of his ripe years is the hat "Otonabee Pioneers" is ne of two books which Pro- Needler has published this The other is an important chapter on the last months ir Walter Scott. It is the hitherto unpublished "Re- cences of Sir Walter Scott's ence in Italy, 1832" by Sir. am Gell.

William Gell wrote his reminiscences of Scott's visit to Rome and for use by Lockhart, Scott's biographer. Professor Needler came upon the manuscript in Toronto, and has edited it. A portrait sketch of Sir Walter never reproduced before, is the frontispiece. This sketch is said to be the best likeness of Scott in existence.

Professor Needler was born in Millbrook, and remembers the village when it was twice as big as it is today. The old Needler mills were in his family. His father was George Needler, (who married a Stewart of Stewart Hall, a connection of the Stewarts of Auburn, one of the Otonabee pioneers of whom he writes in his new book. His grandfather was Walker Needler, the first Needler in Cavan, who came to the district in 1831 and brought the mill there which Adam Scott, first white settler in Peterborough, had built not long before.

Professor Needler is now 87, but has the mental and physical agility of a man twenty years younger. On his nineteenth birthday Professor Needler, then a member of the Queen's Own Rifles, was called to the colors to go to the Northwest to fight the rebel Louis Riel. That was in 1885.

Professor Needler's most vivid memories of the Otonabee river as it flows from Lakefield to Peterborougr are of its tumultuous rapids, a beautiful and powerful sight which struck the literary pioneers of this district. When the Trent Canal was built the rapids all but disappeared. Otonabee is an Indian name meaning "flashing water running fast."

Dr. Needler remarks that Mrs. Moodie got her first earnings by her pen for a poem she wrote on the Otonabee river, which she had accepted in Montreal. For this she received $25. Times were then very hard with the Moodie family and the $25 was a godsend. It bought food for the family and shoes for the children.

Professor Needler has accepted an invitation to speak to the Peterborough Historical Society at its monthly meeting at the Public Library next Tuesday.

Eggs Drop 21c In Ten Days

The price of eggs has dropped to the Peterborough district producer 21 cents a dozen in ten days.

On Monday, October 19, prices to the owners of laying flocks were: A-large, .65; medium, .56; A-small, .45; B-, .48.

On Thursday this week the quotations were: A-large, .44; medium, .37; A-small, .32 and B's .37.

The top price of the season to the farmer was .70 on September 23. It held at that level three or four days and then weakened as demand fixed on several of the other grades including pullets.

Production has been increasing as pullets have been gradually maturing; a lot of Grade A-large were finding their way to the hatcheries earlier in the fall, and that outlet has been folding up. The industry has moved into the season of heavier laying.

A report from London (Ont.) dealer says that not only has the supply been accumulating in the market, and from local sources, but there has also been the effect of imports from the U.S.

"There has been a drastic drop in prices in the States due to overproduction. Now, the Americans are trying to unload their surplus, and our market is flooded already.

He said a carload of eggs from Detroit arrived in London last week. The trade wasn't interested even at the slashed price. "So, they moved along to Toronto, and if they don't sell there, they go to Montreal."

Neighbors Hold Bee

WALLACEBURG (CP) — More than 20 farmers of North Dover township are staging a harvesting bee to bring in the 40-acre corn crop of John Gordon, who recently lost part of his right hand in a field accident on his farm. Gordon will have most of his crop under cover by the end of the week.

Criticized Leadership

BERLIN (AP)—George Handke was named East German deputy foreign minister over the head of Anton Ackermann, state secretary Thursday night. Ackermann had criticized Communist party leadership after the June 17 revolt.

TWO BLACK BRANT, THE SMALLEST of the wild goose family, were shot on Thursday morning at Pigeon Lake by Charlie Russelle, right; his companion, Dave Dawson, was not so lucky. These fowl, averaging three pounds, breed in the Arctic and winter on the Atlantic coast and are said to be among the finest table birds. The hunters said there were at least 2,000 brants on the lake before they started shooting. —(Examiner Staff Photo).

Ask Soldiers Liable For Deserting Wives

HALIFAX (CP)—The Nova Scotia Women's Institute Thursday passed a resolution urging that husbands on active service in Canada be made liable to civil courts in the matter of supporting wives and children.

The resolution was one of five passed as the institute concluded its two-day annual convention here.

Another, directed at both federal and provincial governments, asked that no person known to have suffered from venereal disease be granted a marriage licence until given a clean bill of health by a physician.

The institute also asked that penalties under the Married Wives and Children Maintenance Act for disobeying court orders be made stiffer and that allowances under the act be increased.

It sought the services of the RCMP in enforcing the act.

Long Time No Sewers

WHITBY (CP)—Mayor Harry Jermyn says that many Whitby taxpayers have been paying for sewers since 1915, yet still have no sewage facilities. He urged town ratepayers Thursday night to vote Dec. 7 for a $200,000 expenditure for sewer expansion.

Georgian Chairman

MOSCOW (AP) — The supreme Soviet of Georgia, home state of Joseph Stalin and Lavrenti P. Beria, has fired its chairman and selected his successor, Moscow papers reported today. V. G. Tskhovrebashvili was dismissed, and M. D. Chubinidze took his place.

Bad Hiding Place

TORONTO (CP)—John C. Whitelaw of Montreal has been appointed assistant general manager of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, at Toronto head office, effective Nov. 1. G. K. Sheils is general manager.

Mr. Whitelaw, manager of the Quebec division of the association for 13 years, will be succeeded in that post by Arnold D'Amato, assistant manager.

Want Freedom

VIENNA (AP) — Vienna newspapers came out today with heavy black bordered front pages to mark the 10th anniversary of the Moscow declaration that promised this occupied land its freedom. More than 2,000,000 Austrian workers stopped work for five minutes after breakfast in mourning for failure of the Big Four powers to keep their promise.

AlcoholismFoundation Meets For Conference

OTTAWA (CP)—A two-day conference opens here today for a study of the use of alcohol and the "problem dinker."

Called by the Ontario Alcoholism Research Foundation, the session is designed to reach persons responsible for handling staff, such as personnel managers in government and industry and social workers.

The foundation, an agency of the Ontario government, recently established clinics in two hospitals here for the treatment of alcoholic patients.

Atom Sub Marks New Era In Propulsion

LONDON (Reuters) — Jane's Fighting Ships, leading textbook on naval power, said today the United States' construction of two atomic-powered submarines marks the start of a new era of ship propulsion.

It said: "The application of nuclear energy will make sea power more formidable than ever before by giving every vessel so equipped the capacity for travelling vast distances without re-fueling."

The new edition of Jane's, published today, said the development may produce changes "as profound as the conversion from sail to mechanical power."

Jane's said Russia, with 370 submarines already in service, is building 100 more, all equipped with "snorkel" breathing devices enabling them to travel immense distances underwater. It said the Russian navy now has 520,000 officers and men.

The book said the Royal Navy has become dated "as regards the bigger ships." It said no battleships, aircraft carriers, cruisers or destroyers have been ordered since the Second World War. Three carriers, ordered during the war, are under construction.

To dispel any "undue alarm," however, it added that since the war Britain has carried out an "immense" program of conversion reconstruction and modernization.

SOURDOUGH DIES

CALGARY (CP)—One of the original "sourdoughs" who took part in the Klondike gold rush, Alexander Grant Low, 75, died Tuesday. Mr. Low, president of the local sourdough club, went to the Yukon in 1899 at the height of the Klondike gold rush. Born in Palmerston, Ont., he was a well-known traveller in the western provinces.

PARTING WITH CARTING — Little Anders and his mother don't get tired any more when they shop in this Stockholm, Sweden, supermarket. The wide-eyed youngster seems quite satisfied with his mother's ingenious solution to the problem of baby-carting.

Objections Block New TCA Service

MONTREAL (CP) — A new Trans-Canada Air Lines service due to start Saturday between Montreal, Toronto and Mexico City has been postponed indefinitely because of objections raised by United States authorities.

A TCA spokesman announced the postponement Thursday night and said it will continue until the difficulties are overcome.

TCA now operates from Montreal and Toronto to Tampa, Fla. It wanted to extend that service to Mexico City. It planned to use the same planes for passengers that were getting off at Tampa and for those continuing to Mexico City.

American authorities objected and said that two types of traffic should not be carried on the one plane. They said that TCA should use a separate plane for passengers travelling to Mexico City from Canada and vice versa.

The TCA spokesman said use of separate planes for flights to Tampa and for flights on to Mexico City would be costly.

AGREEMENTS SIGNED

OTTAWA (CP)—New Brunswick, Manitoba and Saskatchewan have signed agreements with the federal government to help disabled persons, the labor department announced Thursday. The agreements provide for a federal grant of $15,000 to each of the three provinces during the fiscal year ending next March, 1954.

Churchill Military Base With Task Changing Arctic From Enemy To Friend

By BERNICE MacIVER
Canadian Press Correspondent

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—When the Duke of Edinburgh visits Hudson bay next summer he will see two Churchills, both in the same place.

Eskimos and Indians still earn a living from trapping and hunting as they did early in the 18th century when prime beaver was the new world's principal export. But today Churchill, northern port for summer grain shipments to Europe and important military base, typifies in many ways Canada's new north.

Started as a trading post in 1717, Churchill now has a population of 850. Over the centuries the trade with the Indians and Eskimos has continued. In the harbor, Eskimos still harpoon whales. Inland the natives follow the migrating caribou.

EXCITED OVER VISIT

Take it from an Indian named Powderhorn, his people are excited about the visit by "Queen Elizabeth's man."

Every Indian of the Churchill band of Chipewyans will be on hand to greet Philip, Powderhorn announced, and the women will do some extra special beadwork during the long winter months.

Churchill is quick to point out that though it sits just 500 miles south of the Arctic circle, and 610 miles north of Winnipeg, it has more to show the Duke than mounties, huskies and Eskimos in mukluks.

Most important are the port and military installations. It is a port despite Arctic weather and icebergs and a military base because of them.

RECORD SHIPMENTS

Churchill's three-month shipping season ended in mid-October, the most successful in its 22-year career as a shipper of grain to overseas markets. Close to 10,800,000 bushels were cleared after arriving here from the south over the 510-mile rail link completed in 1929.

Soon, the terminal elevator towering over the surrounding barrens will again be filled to its 2,500,000-bushel capacity in preparation for the new season nine months away.

Three miles from Churchill proper are the military installations. For security reasons not much is said about the military Churchill but, generally, its major task is to change the Arctic climate from enemy to friend.

The base is ideal during the winter months for testing equipment under Arctic conditions and in 1946 was headquarters for "Operation Muskox."

NOTABLE VISITORS

Churchill has been on the itinerary of a large number of senior officers in recent years. The army has men here. So has the RCAF and the navy and the barracks also house members of the United States armed forces.

The first men to try to put Churchill on the map couldn't even get a roof over their heads. The attempt to build a post at the mouth of the Churchill river was made in 1688, but fire destroyed the building before it was even finished.

Wars with the French prevented any further activity until 1717, when James Knight built a wooden fort a few miles up the river. This was named Prince of Wales.

Later, an immense stone fort was built at the mouth of the river and has been restored by the government as a historical monument.

DUKE WILL VISIT—It will be summer when the Duke Edinburgh visits the port of Churchill, Man., in Hudson B Eskimos and Indians still earn a living from trapping hunting as they did in the early 18th century. The por busy during the summer with grain shipments and three m from the town are the important military installations. H soldiers and Eskimo children make friends in the long wi season.

PRIVATE TELESCOPE — Astronomer Jean Naubert, shown below at work polishing a powerful lens, built this giant telescope atop his Montreal home. The bricks are a temporary measure, used to prevent the eight-foot telescope from toppling in the wind. Mr. Naubert, a director of Le Centre Francais de la Societe Royal d'Astronomie, has what is recognized as the world's biggest telescope in private hands. There are bigger telescopes in public observatories, but the monster that stands on the roof of Mr. Naubert's home is the largest owned by an individual. Through the powerful lenses and mirrors of this all-seeing tube, Mr. Naubert regularly visits such places as the moon without once being so far away that he can't heed Mrs. Naubert's call to come and help with the dishes. Mr. Naubert built the telescope himself. The mirrors are 16 inches in diameter and the tube is eight feet long. It took nine months for the wholesale fruit salesman to build the telescope in his spare time.

UN Seeks To Reassert Authority In Supervising Palestine Armistice

NEW YORK—The action of the three Western Powers (the United States, Britain and France) in bringing the Israel-Arab border question before the Security Council is regarded here as the most serious effort yet made to reassert the rapidly waning authority of the United Nations in supervision of the five-year-old Palestine armistice, writes Robert Stephens in the Montreal Star.

Prompted by the recent Qibya incident in which Israel armed forces are alleged to have killed sixty-five Jordanian border villagers in a reprisals raid, the Western intervention is expected to seek a thorough overhaul of the United Nations truce supervision in Palestine and a bolstering of the strength and prestige of United Nations truce officials on the spot.

MORE EFFECTIVE ACTION

The chances that the present discussions may result in more positive and effective action than in the past are considered here to be increased by recent developments in United States policy towards the Middle East.

United Nations power to influence Israel-Arab affairs has frequently in the past been weakened by divergence between British and American views, especially the reluctance of the United States to commit itself to any policy or enforcement action which might prejudice American-Israeli relations. This conflict between the two great Powers most directly concerned with the Middle East and especially with the Palestine question not only confused policy-making discussions here but also seriously undermined the local authority of United Nations officials supervising the Palestine armistice in the field.

A recent example of the level to which United Nations' authority had sunk was the refusal of Israel to implement the order of the United Nations truce chief, Major-General Vagn Bennike, of Denmark, to stop work on the diversion of water from the River Jordan in the demilitarised zone on the Israel-Syria border. This led to Syria's raising the matter in the Security Council.

SEEK TO REPAIR DAMAGE

But since the Republicans took office, the United States Administration has been less sensitive to the impact on domestic politics of its relations with Israel. It has been more concerned to repair some of the damage done by its relations with the Arab States.

This trend towards a more balanced position between Israel and the Arab States has been accentuated since the Middle East visit of the Secretary of State, Mr. John Foster Dulles, in May of this year, and has brought United States and Britain policies in the Middle East closer into line.

It has been further underlined by two recent events; the despatch to the Middle East of President Eisenhower's special envoy, Mr. Eric Johnston, to discuss a new large-scale international irrigation plan for the Jordan Valley drawn up by the experts of the famous Tennessee Valley Authority in the United States; and the reported suspension of United States economic aid to Israel until the Israeli Government complies with the order of the United Nations truce chief concerning the diversion of Jordan waters on the Syrian border.

In their handling of the Qibya incident and their present action in the Security Council, the United States and Britain are acting more closely in concert than ever before in United Nations discussions of the Palestine dispute.

WOULD BROADEN DEBATE

While the Arab States seek to concentrate the Security Council discussions on the Qibya incident in order to obtain a clear-cut censure of Isreal on this particular issue, Isreal aims to broaden the debate to include the whole past history of Israel-Jordon border friction and the failure so far to convert the Palestine armistice into a definitive peace settlement. The Arab spokesman in the Security council, Dr. Charles Malik, of Lebanon, has indeed already accused Israel of deliberately increasing tension through such incidents as Qibya, as a means of forcing the reopening of the whole Palestine question with a view to a settlement favourable to itself.

In its complaint to the Security Council, Israel has alleged repeated violations of the armistice agreements by the Arab States through attacks across the border by Jordanian regular and irregular forces, assaults on Israen life and property by marauders from Jordan, failure of the Jordan Government to stop these activities and hostile acts such as economic blockade and war-like propaganda.

Jordan claims that most of the incidents of which Israel complains are caused by private individuals or gangs and fall within the scope of normal police work rather than in the category of military violations of the armistice. The Jordanian authorities say that the great length, arbitrary nature and difficult physical terrain of the armistice lines and the economic distress of the Arab border inhabitants, who are in many places cut off by the frontier from their lands, augment the number of incidents and make border policing difficult.

Biggest Audience Sees Final Night Of Ballet

TORONTO (CP) — The Sadler's Wells ballet Thursday night closed out a three-day stand estimated to have grossed at least $110,000 and perhaps as much as $125,000.

In all, 28,098 persons crowded into Maple Leaf Gardens—9,332 Tuesday and 9,291 Wednesday to see "The Sleeping Beauty" and 9,475 Thursday night for "Swan Lake."

Thursday night's crowd was the largest the famous British troupe has ever drawn.

Sol Hurok, New York impresario who is managing the group's North American tour, said the gross may reach $125,000, which he said is a record for a three-day visit by any theatrical company anywhere.

BALLET TOUR

Herbert Whittaker, Globe and Mail reviewer, wrote today:

"If this is so, it would seem to put Toronto up amongst the leading ballet cities of the world. But it might be added that any true ballet town would surely have its own opera house in which to entertain such distinguished visitors."

Maple Leaf Gardens was fitted out for the performance by installing a huge stage across one end. This reduced seating capacity from the normal 14,500 to 9,500.

"Swan Lake" featured Violetta Elvin and Jack Field. Mr. Whittaker called it "perhaps the smoothest of the three performances given here."

Mr. Hurok said the company may return to Canada in 1955.

Mrs. Scott Fife Given WMS Life Membership

HASTINGS (ENS) — Mrs. T. Kennedy of the manse at Warkworth was hostess to the WMS of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Hastings.

The president, Mrs. C. Dodd, presided and the meeting opened with the 23rd psalm repeated. The scripture was read alternately by the president and members. The Rev. Kennedy led in prayer and a hymn was sung.

Mrs. Scott Fife gave current events of special interest, including the trouble in British Guiana, where the Presbyterian church has missionaries. Mrs. Reta Johnson sang a solo.

The roll call was answered by 11 members, one guest and the Rev. Kennedy. Mrs. Kennedy gave the last chapter of the study book, "The Christian Church in Africa." Mrs. C. Dodd invited the ladies to her home for the November meeting.

The society presented Mrs. Scott Fift with a life membership certificate. The address was read by Mrs. J. C. Taylor and the presentation of the certificate was made by Mrs. Allan Sherwin.

A closing hymn was sung and the Lord's prayer was repeated in unison. Mrs. Kennedy served refreshments.

Discuss Temperance Laws

The WMS of Mark St. United Church met Tuesday afternoon in the church parlor. Mrs. A. E. DeNure presided. It was urged that all subscritions be received this week. Mrs. J. W. Sargent reported 87 calls made during the month by the community friendship group. Mrs. A. Macklin read a poem dealing with Christian stewardship and offered prayer for Miss A. Throop. Discussion on temperance and peace compared some temperance laws with those of India. A nominating committee was chosen, consisting of Mrs. W. A. Atchison, Mrs. W. L. Hepburn and Mrs. J. L. Welsh. Attention was drawn to the film, "Beautifying Canada by Landscaping Your Home," to be shown November 6 in the Sunday School hall by the United Church Training School committee. Mrs. W. Russell was in charge of worship, assisted by Mrs. N. Hewitt, who gave a comprehensive synopsis of chapters of the study book. Mrs. Max Pomeroy favored with the solo, "All the Way," and was accompanied by Mrs. DeNure.

Packagers Invite CAC To View New Designs

TORONTO — Canadian packaging manufacturers and processors have invited the executive of the Canadian Association of Consumers to review the "newest designs in consumer packaging" being shown at the 1953 Canadian Consumer Package Competition, it was announced here today by C. R. Cornell, secretary of Packaging Association of Canada. The consumer package competition, sponsored annually by PAC, is being held in conjunction with the 2nd Canadian National Packaging Exposition in Toronto, November 3-5.

"Our association was quite concerned over the resolutions calling for improvements in certain packaging, which arose out of the recent sixth annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Consumers," Mr. Cornell stated, "because our manufacturer-members recognize the strong influence of packaging on the buying habits of Canadian consumers.

"Resolutions passed by the various organizations in Canada," Mr. Cornell further stated, "often serve as a barometer of opinion to manufacturers who are continually striving to put more eye-appeal into their packaged goods. For this reason, we have invited the executive of the CAC to visit the 1953 Canadian Consumer Package Competition display which consits of the latest designs in consumer packaging. We firmly believe that the results of this competition will do much to revolutionize packaging in Canada and this will have a strong influence on women's buying habits in 1954."

During the sixth annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Consumers, chapters from every province called for the elimination of staples in packaged goods, a system of standard marking on all packaged and canned goods, removal of striped and patterned wrappers for side bacon and investigation into cellophane packaging of fruit and vegetables.

Ladies' Curling Open Meeting

Opening meeting of the ladies' section of the Peterborough Curling Club was on Thursday, followed by a delightful afternoon tea in the club rooms.

President Mrs. V. A. Selkirk presided and first welcomed the new members, inviting them to introduce themselves. She then announced an open bonspiel to be held on November 6, and also advised that the first game of the Ostrander Trophy 'spiel on November 9 is to start at a new time of two o'clock.

Mrs. R. H. Turner made brief remarks, stressing the importance of loyalty. She outlined her point as "loyalty to the club as a whole; to the executive as representatives of the club; and to the skips, in every way possible embodying good sportsmanship."

Mrs. C. B. Westbrook spoke also, giving a characteristic humorous touch to her comments which were of value. She said "To be a good curler you must have strength, good sense of humor, good sweeping ability, keenness of eye and enthusiasm for the game." A further comment noted was, "We should have the prestige of the organization at heart always, and with this in mind watch our action on the rink."

A total of 87 playing members and 18 social members were reported by Mrs. Erle Welbourn, membership chairman.

The new members this year are Mrs. Neill Gemmell, Mrs. George Graham, of Lakefield, Mrs. J. J. Dutton, Mrs. W. Lettau, Mrs. A. Lamers, Mrs. E. Bickell, Mrs. Wm. Godson, Mrs. Bert Austin, Mrs. Jack M. Graham, Mrs. Maida Langford and Miss Beverley Martin.

Other committee chairmen also reported.

The tea arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Ian MacGillivray, assisted by members of her social committee.

Mothers At Tea In Queen Mary

The Queen Mary Home and School executive members entertained class mothers and kindergarten mothers at the tea hour in Mr. Loveday's classroom at the school Thursday afternoon.

President Mrs. Robert Hutton and Mrs. R. Shaw received the guests and principal Mr. O. M. Steer was introduced to them and spoke briefly.

Mrs. Shaw spoke on membership and Mrs. D. Rostocky, parent education convener, spoke on the aims of Home and School, advising also that the parent education study group will hold its first meeting at the home of Mrs. E. Whiteley on November 2.

Co-conveners of the tea were Mrs. I. Moldaver and Mrs. Shaw.

YW Costume Party

A Hallowe'en party for the Tuesday and Thursday gym classes at the YWCA Thursday evening had the halls ringing with shrieking and laughter as queer costumed figures appeared. Mrs. J. E. Watters and Mrs. F. R. Pope were on hand as judges and they awarded nine prizes.

Prize for the most beautiful costume went to Mrs. Opal Mongraw; for the best pair to Evelyn Teasdale and Marlene Henderson; for most original to Patricia Houle; for best characterization to Betsy Astle; best clown to Betty Newscomb; most ugly to Dorothy Peconi; most appropriate to Frances Sayle; best ghost to Marion Wright.

Jean Innes and Janet Painter were in charge of refreshments that were served in the gym, after some games.

WMS Groups Hold Section Rally

FAIRVIEW (ENS)—The annual Women's Missionary Society fall rally of the United Church for the northern section of the Peterborough Presbyterial was held in the Fairview United Church Thursday afternoon, with a good attendance.

Mrs. Elmer Milburn, sectional vice-president for this district, led the meeting. The Rev. Wolfraim of Lakefield led the worship service. Rev. T. H. Fleetham, minister of the entertaining church, extended a welcome. Mrs. Harold Lewis was appointed secretary, and she read the minutes of last fall's rally, which was held in Warsaw United Church.

Mr. Fleetham sang a solo, "We Beseech Thee, Hear Us." Mrs. Arnold Olmstead, literature secretary for the Peterborough Presbyterial, had charge of the literature display. Mrs. Olmstead was assisted by Mrs. Eric Lines of Peterborough.

Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe, Presbyterial president, brought greetings from the Presbyterial, and introduced the guest speaker, Miss Bessie Cairns, a missionary on furlough from Japan.

Miss Cairns said the great problem facing Japan today is rehabilitation. Churches are anxious to be self-supporting. They lack funds and personnel to rebuild their churches. She stressed the great need for missionaries. For every 200 non-Christians there is only one Christian in a population of some 83 million people crowded into an area smaller than California. There is great uncertainty for the future, fear of war. Industry, especially the "silk," is not being carried on much because of nylon taking its place. Many are out of work because the typhoon disrupted the pearl industry which will take 10 years to rebuild.

Farm daughters are sold to work in factories to raise money at home, but the farm women are gradually being educated to raise poultry, rabbits, grow vegetables and cook more nutritious meals.

The WCTU is becoming very active since the war, working with army commanders to establish recreation centres.

Missionaries have to battle against a long-established religious tradition which is strong. Communism is common among youth in universities and Buddhism has a strong section.

In closing Miss Cairns stated that "we can pray, because more things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of. Let us use more time for prayer which will move some of the mountains. Let us seek God and find the way to soul-winning in this great work."

Miss Cairns was thanked by Mrs. Leonard of Lakefield.

As the roll was called a representative from each group gave a report of highlights accomplished in their auxiliary. Mrs. Jas. Johnston reported from Bridgenorth; Miss C. McCracken from Warsaw; Mrs. C. S. Tanner from Lakefield; and Mrs. Stanley Boyce from Fairview.

Mrs. Neil Jewell, leader of the new Mission Band at Fairview reported on work accomplished.

The offering was received by Mrs. Wesley Bell and Mrs. Walter Heard and was dedicated by Mrs. George Dyson of Warsaw.

Reports on the school for leaders at Whitby Ladies' College were given by Mrs. Tanner and Mrs. Wolfraim of Lakefield. An invitation was extended from Lakefield to meet with them next fall. Mrs. Milburn who is completing her four-year term thanked all who had hleped her during her term of office.

The Fairview ladies served a delicious lunch in the Sunday school room and all enjoyed a social half-hour.

Thankofferings Given At Dinner Party

A joint meeting of the afternoon and evening branches of the WA of St. Luke's Anglican Church for the annual occasion of bringing in the United Thankoffering boxes was held Thursday evening. The offerings were received by Mrs. W. C. Hughes and Mrs. J. Gemmell, thankoffering conveners of the branches.

Co-conveners of the evening were Mrs. D. H. Wyatt and Mrs. R. Sanderson, the presidents. About 70 ladies attended and enjoyed a turkey dinner served them by GA members, Beverly Pollock, Marilyn Vint, Elizabeth Cutmore, Diane Pearse, Helen Walker, Dorothy White and Joyce Taylor with a men's group assisting in the kitchen.

Afterward, the ladies were addressed by Sister Francesca of the Sisterhood of St. John the Divine of Toronto.

She spoke of the call to enter religious life and said "A novice must have a sense of vocation and believe that God is directing her to make religion her life, without other obligations." She continued to say, "Prayer is the first duty and active works, such as nursing, caring for the aged, teaching, mission work, church embroidery and making of altar bread, is carried on in addition."

Sister Francesca described the new convent in Willowdale and explained the plans for expanding the accommodation. She said calls for workers are coming in all the time and the need for more volunteers is very great.

She was introduced by Mrs. W. J. Gilling and was thanked by Mrs. G. R. Langley.

Friends From Here At Tea Honoring Marion Foster

Goodbyes—for three years—were said to Miss Marion Foster at YWCA headquarters for Canada in Toronto, Thursday afternoon at the tea hour. The occasion in her honor was arranged by National Council World Service committee.

Miss Foster, who endeared herself to every person she came in contact with during four years as program director of the Peterborough Y, left at 9:25 this morning from Malton airport and is flying to Paramaribo, Surinam, (Dutch Guiana) to become program director of the YWCA there.

Attending the tea from Peterborough were Miss Leta Brownscombe, executive director of the Y, and Mrs. Jack Pruner and Miss Ella Down of the office staff, Mrs. H. T. Rehill, president of the Y board, and board members Mrs. C. A. Craig, Mrs. J. Lewis, Mrs. Stan McBride and Mrs. T. Cook, and Y members Miss Isobel McCamus, Miss Helen Edmison and Miss Ruby Leach who worked closely with Miss Foster when she was here.

MISS MARION FOSTER

A corsage of lovely roses and chrysanthemums was the gift to Miss Foster from the Peterborough Y staff and Mrs. Rehill.

Receiving the guests was Mrs. Ryrie Smith of Toronto, president of the National Council YWCA, and world service committee chairman Mrs. H. R. Perkin of Agincourt, who was formerly Miss Marion Armstrong of Peternorough. Also Miss Agnes Roy, executive director of National. Tea was poured by Mrs. E. A. Allcutt, a vice-president of the council.

Among the guests was the president of the YWCA Council of Australia, Mrs. W. W. S. Johnston of Melbourne, who is on a trip across Canada.

Miss Foster's voluntary decision to go to Surinam for a three year period was welcomed by the National Council. The YWCA in Paramaribo has been operating under direction of a volunteer person, the wife of a native, and is in need of strengthening and building up.

Her work in Peterborough Y was tremendously appreciated by Miss Brownscombe, staff and board, and she had previously worked in Calgary, Edmonton and Vancouver YWCAs which have also commended her.

Since leaving the staff here early in August she has been visiting her mother in Calgary and her sister in Vancouver, and the three have recently enjoyed a ten-day holiday in Hawaii. She spent a short time before leaving today with her sister in Hamilton.

Miss Foster was entertained for dinner last evening in Toronto by Miss Brownscombe, accompanied by a party of friends.

DOROTHY DIX

Refuses Good-Night Kiss Girl Loses Men Friends

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a lady of 26, with a good job, nice appearance and good personality. While I have no trouble carrying on a conversation, or meeting people, I am the reserved type. My chief trouble concerns men. I have gone out with many men in the past few years, but have difficulty getting beyond the first few dates. It seems that after a date or two the young man expects a good-night kiss—and that I am not prepared to give. When I snub their advances, I'm called an old-fashioned girl. When I do marry, I'd like to do so without a book of regrets on past affairs.

Terry K.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Don't be too discouraged about your dating status. Many a maid has waited through the late twenties, and even into the thirties, for her true love, and usually he comes along. Don't wait too placidly, however; do what you can to speed his arrival by spending as much time as possible in places where you are likely to meet men. In the interim, don't let down the barriers on your personal integrity. By the time a girl has passed 25 without a steady beau, men are prone to regard her as so eager for male companionship that she'll make concessions to secure it. Then, of course, when they tire of her, they go on to another compliant gal. Such men are not worth compromising one's principles, are they?

APPEARANCE COUNTS

Perhaps there is something in your personal appearance or attitude that needs toning up. Many of the large cosmetic companies with associated beauty salons frequently have short courses of three to seven days, in personality analysis and improvement. If you have one of these salons in your town, see if they offer such a course. It will be worth your while. Often just a different touch with make-up, a new hairdo, or a few lessons in becoming attire, or general grooming can make a lot of difference to a girl's dating quotient. Keep yourself alert mentally, up-to-date on what goes on in the world, and you should be well equipped to meet and keep the man you want.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: A few weeks ago my husband's aunt called in the morning asking us to fill in at bridge for her that night, taking the place of two guests who had disappointed her. We arrived for dinner a bit late, as I had warned her we might, only to find the other guests had reached dessert. Of course we were served the full meal, but still I was much hurt, and wouldn't eat at all. Was I justified?

B. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Since you were kind enough to fill in at the last minute, I do think the least that could have been done was to hold dinner a few minutes more. Only a few very special dishes are so delicate that they can't be held a short time. However, sulking on your part wasn't the solution. You should have eaten your dinner in good grace, but been less hasty to accept any future invitations on the same basis.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: How can I tell some mothers that their children are rapidly wearing out their welcome at my house? From the time school is out until dinner time the neighborhood youngsters congregate here. When I was their age I learned to do useful things like quilting, knitting, etc. Why can't today's children be taught the same things?

H. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If it's any consolation, you must have a very warm personality, and a pleasant home, to have so many children like to be with you. However, when a problem becomes acute, drastic measures must be taken to cure it. In your case this means telling mothers, in no uncertain terms, that you'd like time off from their small fry. Perhaps some day, when you aren't too busy, you could teach the youngsters to knit or crochet.

The marriage of Miss Sarah Anne Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Edwards of Cleveland, Ohio, to Douglas Perry Laird, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Laird of Peterborough, took place on Monday, October 26th. The couple will live in Peterborough.

Roseneath W.A. Donate $110 To Church Funds

ROSENEATH — (ENS) — The United church WA made the following donations: $100 as a thank-offering to the church treasury; $20 to the Missionary and Maintenance fund of the United church; $10 to the John Milton Society for the Blind; $5 for prizes for the annual Sunday school Hallowe'en party.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. E. Rae Brown. The president, Mrs. Earl Waldie presided, with Mrs. Ella Brown as pianist.

Mrs. Walter Gallagher was in charge of the devotional period and chose as her subject "Stewardship." Mrs. Lorne Thackeray gave the scripture reading.

The financial statement, presented by the treasurer, Mrs. Fred Norris, showed a balance on hand of $526.

Mrs. Earl Waldie and Mrs. J. R. Wheeler were appointed delegates to attend the Cobourg Presbytery WA tea at Port Hope United church, October 30.

Plans were made for the November meeting when the election of officers will be held, Mrs. James A. Brown will be hostess.

Good cheer cards were autographed and sent to three members who were ill, Mrs. C. W. Varcoe, Mrs. James Thompson and Mrs. Alfred Braithwaite.

Mrs. Charles Sandercock, president of the ladies division of Roseneath Agricultural Society, explained the new project in ladies work for the 1954 fair. The project "Let's Have a Bazaar," will consist of eight articles on hand sewing and will be open to ladies' organizations of Alnwick township. The United church WA won first prize on the new 1953 project, best hand-embroidered applique quilt.

Mrs. Harold Taylor, program convener, introduced the program A guessing contest by Mrs. Isaac Skuce was won by Mrs. Frank Adams. Mrs. J. R. Wheeler gave a reading. Mrs. Bart Thackeray's group won the Bibilical quiz sponsored by Mrs. H. Taylor. Mrs. E. Sandercock won the birthday prize.

The meeting closed with prayer. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. William Beatty and Mrs. John Beatty, served refreshments.

Havelock News

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Steenburgh have returned from a three weeks vocation when they visited relatives in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and New York.

The Rev. Roy Hisey of Boston, Ont., will conduct evangelistic services in the Fellowship Baptist church from November 2 to November 13.

Anniversary services will be held next Sunday in Havelock United church when the Rev. J. W. Wilkinson of Oakwood, a former minister, will be guest speaker at both services. A fowl supper will be held in the Sunday school auditorium the following Wednesday.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Readers' Friday Column Conducted By Mary Moore

QUESTION: . . on Sunday I'm having company for supper and I know they are both very fond of French fried potatoes and fish, but it would take me at least a couple of hours to make them at supper time, so I was wondering if I could make them in the morning, keep them some way and then reheated them in the oven when we want them. Can you help me on this?

. . . A Young Wife.

ANSWER: I have not recently tried what I am going to suggest to you to try. As you know you may buy frozen French fries and we are instructed to reheat these in the oven. You probably could fry your potatoes hold them in refrigerator in single layers, then reheat them uncovered in a hot oven. It probably will even improve them if the oven is hot enough. You could try the same with the fish—but with both of these foods make sure you undercook them just a little on the original frying so that there is a little leeway for them to brown in the oven.

You may be sure though, that if there were any royal road to precooking fried foods the fish and chip shops would have discovered it. As it is they pretty well fry everything at serving time.

QUESTION: Would you please send me any wine recipes you have also recipes for soft drinks except root beer which I already make. I believe my grandmother used to make a drink something like cream soda and it was called Boston cream . . I find it so economical to make soft drinks at home . . .

RUTH H.

ANSWER: You may be experienced enough to make sense from the 2 short formulas I am going to give you. I have not tried them but the formula book from which I took them is very reliable.

ROYAL POP

To 3 gallons of water add ½ lb. cream of tartar, ¾ oz. ginger, 3½ lbs. white sugar, ½ dram essence of lemon, ½ pint yeast. The formula warns that the corks should be tied down.

GINGERADE

Dissolve 3 lbs. granulated sugar in 2 gallons water. Then the beaten whites of 3 eggs and 2 oz. powdered ginger stirred to a paste in ½ cup water. Bring slowly to boiling in enamelled kettle, skim, and stand aside to settle. When cold add the juice of 1 large lemon and ¼ oz. yeast dissolved in 2 tablespoons lukewarm water. Mix thoroughly, strain, fill bottles, cork tightly and tie corks on and put at once in cool place. Ready for use in 2 days. I have sent wine recipes.

QUESTION: Would you please send me recipe for Fruit Cocktail . . it called for fruit in baskets in your recipe . . Mrs. Glen C.

ANSWER:

CANNED FRUIT SALAD

One-half 6-quart basket each peaches and pears, 5 oranges, 1 grapefruit, 5 cups water, 5 cups sugar, 1 bottle maraschino cherries (Approximately 30-cent size). Make a syrup of the water and sugar. Peel and cut up peaches and pears as for salad. Cook in syrup; about 5 minutes before the peaches and pears are done add oranges and grapefruit which have been peeled and cut up. The last minute add well drained cherries, cut in half. Seal in sterile jars while hot. Makes 5 quarts.

The reader who gave me this recipe adds: "This year I added a pint of canned cubed pineapple when I added the oranges and grapefruit . . when I open it I add bananas, California grapes or any other suitable fruit.

QUESTION: I have a quantity of rye flour on hand . . it is our own harvested this fall . . both yeast and baking powder biscuit fell when in oven . . the bread went through the normal risings, but instead of rising a little more in oven it fell! . . any help you can give would be appreciated. Eileen Y.

ANSWER: You can make rye bread but it takes practise. Try this:

RYE BREAD

Mix together 1½ cup lukewarm water and ½ cup molasses, 1 table spoon salt, and, if desired, 2 tablespoons caraway seeds. Crumble into this 3 cakes compressed yeast, and stir until dissolved. Add 2 tablespoons soft shortening. Sift and measure 2½ cups sifted rye flour and 4 cups sifted bread flour and stir in with spoon then mix by hand. If it is too sticky to handle add a little more wheat flour. Knead and let rise twice. Shape into oblong or round loaves, let rise until doubled. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. about 35 to 40 minutes.

6—In Memoriam

GENGE—In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Lorne, who passed away October 30, 1946.

God gave us a son for awhile,
But seeing the future and what was in store,
Stretched out His hand and whispered so still,
Come home, Lorne for it is My will.
Our thoughts of him are thoughts of love,
That will live to the longest day.
They won't wear out, can't be lost
And won't be given away.

—Always remembered by Mom, Dad sisters and brothers.

MANN—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Sgt. James S. Mann, who was killed in Belgium, October 29th, 1944.

However long our lives may last,
Whatever land we view,
Whatever joy or grief be our,
We will always think of you.

—Lovingly remember by his wife and family, Donna and Bobby.

Plan No Inquest In Double Death

CALGARY (CP)—No inquest will be held into the deaths of Paul H. L. Martin of Calgary and Robert G. Samson of Winnipeg, murder and suicide victims whose bodies were discovered Wednesday night in Martin's apartment.

Police said Martin, recently released from hospital here for treatment of a war injury, shot Samson, his RCAF buddy overseas, with a 12-gauge shot gun and then turned the weapon on himself.

Car-Bus Crash Kills 3, Hurts 10

DIMONDALE, Mich. (AP)—An automobile and a bus collided on the outskirts of Dimondale, killing three women and injuring 10 persons Thursday night.

The Short Way Lines bus overturned. The automobile careened into a utility pole.

Two of the dead were the only occupants of the automobile. An elderly woman died in the tangle of wrecked seats inside the upturned bus. All the injured were bus passengers.

Witnesses told state police a small panel truck ran over one of the women who was thrown from the car by the impact. The driver is being hunted.

Killed were Mrs. Betty June Hall, 27, and Mrs. Lorna Metzger, 45, both of Lansing, and an unidentified bus passenger who boarded the bus at Toledo, Ohio, with a ticket for Lansing.

OBITUARIES

JOHN JAMES BLEWETT

Word has been received of the death of a former district man, John James Blewett of Summerland, B.C., on Monday. He was buried on Wednesday at Summerland cemetery.

Mr. Blewett was born in Smith township 75 years ago, son of the late Webster Blewett and Hannah Nicholls. He has spent 50 years in the west, ten of them at Hartney, Man., and the rest at Summerland. A son, John, predeceased him 25 years ago.

Besides his wife, the former Mary Gordon, he leaves three children, Mrs. Cecil Watson (Jean), Gordon and Ralph, all of Summerland. There are two sisters, Mrs. Ross Allin of Windsor, Mrs. Florence Northway of R.R. 1, Lakefield, and three brothers, W. N. Blewett of Bridgenorth, Milson of Fort Qu'Appelle, Sask., and Evans Blewett of Selwyn. Mr. Blewett attended the United Church.

JAMES THORN

MILLBROOK — (ENS) — The death occurred at his home here Thursday after an illness of three years of James Thorn in his 90th year.

He was born in South Monaghan township, son of the late John Thorn and his wife, the former Ellen Lucas. He was the last of a family of six boys and three girls. He attended school in South Monaghan township and farmed in Otonabee township before moving to Millbrook six years ago.

He was married to the late Mabel Deyell, granddaughter of John Deyell, the first settler in Cavan township. Surviving are two daughters, Edith, at home, and Mrs. Dalton Stewart (Etta) of Otonabee township.

The funeral will be conducted Monday at 1:00 p.m. from McPherson's funeral home by the Rev. A. M. Butler of St. Andrew's United Church, of which the deceased was a member. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery, Peterborough.

T. HOWARD COLLINS

Recently retired Millbrook postmaster, T. Howard Collins died today in Civic Hospital. He had been postmaster in the village for 30 years, from 1922 until December, 1952.

Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Collins, he leaves two sisters, Miss Mamie Collins of Millbrook and Mrs. Lamprey of Vancouver.

Mr. Collins was a member of the Royal Canadian Artillery in World War I, and was wounded in France. He was a member of St. Thomas' Anglican Church, the Lions Club and Branch 402, Canadian Legion.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Elderly Hunter Becomes Lost For Nine Hours

HAVELOCK (ENS) — Darwin Moore, 78, of Belmont township, left his home, Wednesday afternoon about 2 o'clock with his dog and a gun for a bear hunt in the woods in the vicinity of his home. When he did not return about 5 p.m. his wife became uneasy and notified a neighbor, Robert Newell, who went out to search for him. When darkness settled down Mr. Newell realized he would need help and about 15 men joined the search. It was not until about 11 p.m. that they found him near the home of Robert Marshall in a field of sumach which had grown to about his height. He had fired all of his eight shells, and the searchers think it was the last one he fired that gave them the clue to his whereabouts. His dog left him early in the afternoon, and so far has not been found.

Mr. Moore had burned all his matches and had lost his gun after firing his last shell. Although only two miles from his home, he had covered more mileage in his attempts to find his way out. When found he was trying to make some one hear him by blowing on a cartridge. As he was rather exhausted, a cane was made in the woods to help him to walk to the home of Mr. Marshall, where he was given refreshments. Although he was not wearing a coat, he is no worse today after his trying experience.

Red China Bids For Jap Peace

TOKYO (AP)—Red China waved a peace feeler at Japan today after signing an $84,000,000 trade pact with an unofficial mission of Japanese legislators.

But the Communists insisted that Japan break with Nationalist China and the United States.

Peiping radio said Chinese Vice-Premier Kuo Mo-jo told the Japanese that "normal relations," a peace treaty, and even a non-aggression pact "is quite within the scope of consideration." It also broadcast a long editorial from the Peiping People's Daily expressing the same sentiments.

But, Kuo said, Japan must first break off diplomatic relations with Nationalist China and renounce its mutual security pact with the U. S.

The Communist move has long been anticipated since Peiping this spring started sending back about 30,000 Japanese held in China since 1945.

Before the Second World War Japan and China were each other's best customer. Japan has not done any sizeable business with China since 1945.

Believe Indian Party Slain In Assam Bush

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Five hundred Abor tribesmen, armed with bows and arrows, are believed to have killed an Indian government party of 25 in the Assam jungle.

The party, 10 government officials and 15 troops, were distributing salt to the tribesmen when they were attacked last week, according to a report from Gauhati, in Assam.

The Abors are one of 12 main miles of mountains, forests and wildernesses.

An operational force has been sent to the trouble spot.

Timmins Puck Artist Out Of Hospital Soon

PAISLEY, Scotland (CP)—Angus (Gus) Galbraith, 21 - year - old hockey player from South Porcupine, Ont., whose left leg was amputated above the knee following a hockey injury, should be out of hospital in three weeks, an official of the Paisley hockey club said today.

The official said Galbraith plans to take a television technician's course and is already studying in hospital. His mother, Mrs. T. Galbraith, who flew to his bedside from South Porcupine, is expected to stay until he leaves hospital.

Ancient Tradition Gets Test Run At Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Visitors to Parliament Hill had a preview today of an ancient tradition being revived by the governor - general for the opening of the 22nd Parliament Nov. 12.

A test run was made from Government House to Parliament Hill with the open carriage and mounted escort which will be used to carry Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, governor-general, to the opening.

The test run was made for timing the trip and for acquainting the RCMP troop in charge of the carriage with the drive.

Churchll Painting On Block For $7,500

NEW YORK (AP)—An original Winston Churchill painting — done at Casablanca and presented to President Franklin D. Roosevelt—is on sale for $7,500 at the Hammer galleries here.

The canvas is "Tower of Katoubia Mosque," executed while Sir Winston and Roosevelt were attending the wartime conference in north Africa.

A gallery official said the late president presented the painting to his son, Elliott.

Man's Foot Fits Body Found In Montreal Lane

MONTREAL (CP)—Police said today a man's foot found in a ditch 40 miles north of Montreal, has "definitely" been identified as part of a bullet-pierced and mutilated body found hidden Wednesday in an east-end lane.

They said the foot and ankle found Thursday night fitted the left leg of the dismembered body. They had been hacked off at the same time as the head, hands and other foot.

A further search of the area near Joliette, Que., failed to reveal other missing parts of the body.

A farmer, on his way home to supper, gave police their first major break in the killing of the unidentified man, when he spotted the foot lying in a ditch.

Provincial police combed the area on both sides of the road without success. The limb was sent to Montreal's medico-legal laboratory where it was identified as part of the dead man's body.

The discovery may mean the first break in the bizarre killing. When the torso was found early Wednesday by residents of Bourbonniere street, it was wrapped in A canvas shroud and covered with a black and green blanket. All labels had been torn off.

FBI Takes Role In Rutkin Suit

NEW YORK (AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation Thursday suddenly and mysteriously stepped into the court trial of James Rutkin's $22,500,000 damage suit against his one-time partner in bootlegging.

Lawyers in the trial were closeted for about two hours with agents of the FBI and the trial itself was recessed to today.

The lawyers and the FBI agents said they were under orders from federal trial judge Thomas F. Murphy not to reveal the nature of their conference.

Rutkin has accused Joseph H. Reinfeld, his one-time bootlegging partner, and others of conspiracy to defraud him in a number of liquor dealings.

The interruption in the trial came while Rutkin's lawyer was putting into evidence scores of documents from books and records of New York and New Jersey liquor firms with which Reinfeld was connected.

New Herbert Play Opens In New York

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK (AP)—Bobby-soxers of today, who frequently think their parents are too inhibited and old-fashioned because they sometimes give them lectures disapproving of necking and similar romantic pastimes, would have their eyes opened wide by a glimpse at "A Girl Can Tell." This is the new comedy by F. Hugh Herbert which arrived at the Royale Theatre Thursday night.

This is by the same author who wrote the hit comedy of a few seasons back, "The Moon Is Blue."

"A Girl Can Tell" is a forthy, amusing play equipped with a splendid cast. But it is fragile in spots and does not measure up to the continuously-humorous impact that marked "The Moon Is Blue."

Janet Blair is charming, tender and with a sweet sense of comedy in the role of Jennifer, a middle-aged matron. An able cast including Paul McGrath, Tod Andrews and Jack Whiting.

Oct. Defence Contracts Reach Over $9,000,000

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence contracts totalling $9,444,000 were awarded during the first half of October, the defence production department reported today.

Largest was a $1,215,000 order for ammunition containers placed with Engineering Products of Canada Ltd., Montreal.

Others included a $643,000 order placed with Four Wheel Drive Auto Co. Ltd., Kitchener, Ont., for crash trucks; a $446,000 contract for ammunition packing boxes placed with Zimmerman Brothers Ltd., Tavistock, Ont.; and a $361,000 contract for a training building to be constructed by Olmstead and Parker Construction Co. Ltd., Hamilton.

Mysteriously Injured, Woman Still In Coma

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The condition of Miss Margaret Spence, 32, of Chesley was reported unchanged today by attendants at Victoria Hospital. She is still in a coma and critically ill.

Miss Spence was found mysteriously injured last Saturday morning in a Chesley office where she works.

and was reported by Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw as a Curve Lake reserve trouble maker.

Magistrate Moore turned to Taylor. "So you want to be chief," he said. "You wanted to take over. I don't know how they'll get along without you but they're going to."

He sentenced the accused to two months in jail and an additional five days if court costs of $2.50 weren't paid.

Begin Contempt Proceedings Cowardice Case

LONDON (Reuters)—Legal authorities today established their right to begin contempt-of-court proceedings against Herbert Gunn, editor of The Daily Sketch, for an article the paper published about a soldier accused of cowardice in Korea.

The soldier, Pte. Patrick Lydon, was sentenced last week by court-martial to a year's imprisonment. The prosecution said he cowered in a foxhole while his comrades were under attack by the Communists. He was later taken prisoner.

The Daily Sketch summarized his case, said there were conflicting views, and invited its readers to express their opinions of his sentence. Most of those who replied thought Lydon had been dealt with harshly.

Solicitor-General Sir Reginald Manningham-Butler, on behalf of the government, said in court today that the article was published before higher army authorities had confirmed the findings of the court-martial.

He submitted that under Britain's strict laws dealing with public comment on uncompleted court cases, the matter was still sub judice (under legal consideration). Manning-Butler argued that it interfered with the due course of justice.

The lord Chief Justice, Lord Goddard, granted leave to apply for a writ of attachment against Gunn. If such a writ is obtained and served it means Gunn can be brought before a judge in the High Court.

Gold Miner Faces Serious Counts

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP)—Glenning Herron, 37-year-old gold miner, had a second charge of attempt to do grievous bodily harm laid against him when he appeared in court today to face a charge of attempted murder.

Police chief Stanley Timmerman of nearby Larder Lake testified Herron attacked him with an ax Oct. 19 when Timmerman was investigating a domestic quarrel complaint. Both charges arose from the incident.

Report No Progress In Gold Strike Meet

TORONTO (CP) — A meeting here Thursday between three northern Ontario municipal leaders and provincial officials discussed means of settling strikes which have halted production at eight Porcupine district gold mines. No progress was reported.

Premier Frost said today the meeting resolved that settlement would be reached only when officials of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) were able to meet with mine executives and discuss their differences over wages and union security.

Labor Minister Daley and Premier Frost represented the government. Mayor J. W. Spooner of Timmins, Reeve Victor Evans of Tisdale township and Reeve Arthur James of Whitney township made up the northern delegation.

Man Attacked, Robbed By Drinking Associates

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A man found lying unconscious on a London street this morning told police he had been attacked and robbed by four drinking companions.

Michael Kane, 35, of Hamilton is in favorable condition in hospital with head injuries. He told police he accepted an offer of a drive home from two men and two women with whom he had been drinking in a downtown hotel, and the last thing he remembered was leaning over in the back seat of a car to pick up his cigarets.

Kane said $41 was missing from his pockets.

Students Form Forestry Club In Norwood

Norwood District High School students organized a forestry club Thursday afternoon. Fifty-four girls and boys attended, of whom at least 46 definitely decided to become members.

The officers from within the club membership are: President, Brooke Rye of Asphodel township; vice-president, Grant Elmhirst of Indian River; secretary-treasurer, Paul Humphries of Asphodel.

John Auckland, teacher of agriculture on the school staff, is actively interested in this new club. Ken Best, assistant agricultural representative, has been promoting the project, and has met with most encouraging support from the large group of students who attended the first meeting.

It is expected that an undertaking similar to the work begun last spring by the 4-H Forestry Club of Lakefield District High School will be assumed as the new club becomes established. That is only part of their program which will follow the study of trees and the other activities of the Forestry Club plan.

Lakefield students planted this year 15,000 pine seedlings on the C.G.E. property at Nassau.

Scores Practices, Says Firm Sound

NEW YORK (AP)—A report on a routine examination of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States by the New York state insurance department criticizes some former company practices but says the company is in sound financial condition.

Alfred J. Bohlinger, state insurance superintendent, said Thursday that Equitable has ended certain management practices criticized in the department's report. They included the awarding of nearly $1,000,000 worth of advertising contracts to a newly-formed agency headed by the son of the company's chief executive officer, and the payment of double salaries to three Equitable officials who served on the board of McCarthy Oil and Gas Corp. of Houston, Tex., taken over by Equitable after it fell behind on loan payments.

"This does not in any way question the financial soudness of Equitable. The financial stability of the company is not involved in any way," Bohlinger said.

Saved Years For Car, Sees Cadillac Wrecked

CHICAGO (AP)—A news stand operator who saved his nickels and dimes for 23 years "to buy the car of my dreams" saw his shiny, black $5,487 Cadillac badly wrecked Thursday.

John S. Motley, 74, of Chicago was bruised and shaken up when his Cadillac collided with a transport truck north of Chicago. The car was driven by his grandson, Charles Smith.

The car was insured.

Accident Death Suit Dismissed By Court

TORONTO (CP)—Action of Mrs. Ethel J. Warm against Charlton Transport Ltd. of Oshawa for damages in the death of her son, Bernard, 21, was dismissed in court Thursday.

Counsel for the transport firm said the man was attempting to pass a car and was on the wrong side of the road when his car collided with a Charlton truck. An action by Arthur Winkler, passenger in the car, was also dismissed.

Pope Urges Agents To Protect Clients

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—Pope Pius has urged American travel agents gathered in congress here never to connive with those "who permit themselves abroad what conscience would reproach them for at home—wanton display of luxurious and dissipated living."

He also asked them to protect their clients from unscrupulous persons who would exploit them while they were abroad.

The Pope received the members of the American Society of Travel Agents in audience Thursday at his summer residence at Castel Gandolfo. His speech was released today.

Fort Erie Man Named To Bridge Authority

FORT ERIE (CP)—John Murphy Teal, 35-year-old building contractor here, has been appointed a member of the Buffalo and Fort Erie public bridge authority, succeeding the late William G. Willson of Ridgeway, Ont.

Announcement of the appointment was made Thursday through Government House, Ottawa.

Up To Parents

OTTAWA (CP)—The annual convention of the Eastern Ontario Women's Institute Thursday voted down a resolution demanding that movie managers be "implored and, if necessary, compelled" to remove crime or love scenes from any movies to be shown to children. Parents should see that their children do not attend movies with "adults only" censorship rating, the group said.

Manufacturers Oppose B.C. Machinery Tax

VANCOUVER (CP)—A new tax on machinery which the provincial government will implement in 1955 to help meet spiralling education costs is meeting strong opposition from manufacturers.

"Manufacturers are definitely being discriminated against," says R. V. Robinson, manager of the B.C. division, Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

The tax legislation is contained in the Assessment Equalization Act, passed by the Social Credit government at this fall's session of the legislature.

The legislation, designed to redistribute the tax levy for school purposes, puts machinery and installations on the tax roll to be assessed as "improvements."

INCREASE TAX TAKE

The government estimates it will add $150,000,000 to the tax roll, but a spokesman for the Vancouver Board of Trade said this figure is "extremely low."

No estimate has been made on how much the tax is likely to bring in.

"It is difficult to know what effects it will have until we know what proportion the different municipalities will pay toward education," Mr. Robinson said.

Under the government's new scheme for financing education costs, cities, municipalities and rural areas will each contribute a different proportion of their total costs. The City of Vancouver will pay 75 per cent of its school costs.

Civic officials in Vancouver have estimated the machinery tax will increase manufacturers' tax contribution to the city by at least 25 per cent.

DETAILS TO COME

Final details of how the tax will be implemented are still to be worked out and manufacturers do not know on what basis their equipment will be assessed on its replacement or depreciated value.

An interesting feature of the tax is that, in Vancouver at least, manufacturers will be required to do their own tax assessing.

In Vancouver, manufacturers will be required to submit a sworn affidavit setting out the value of machinery in their plants. Assessment department officials will check the reports progressively, probably at four-year intervals. It is not yet known what system of assessing will be used in other districts.

Representatives of B.C. manufacturers say the new tax will hit hardest at secondary industries "already on the borderline."

"Manufacturers here, loaded with high labor and other costs, are already finding it a tough struggle to keep from pricing their products out of the market," a spokesman said.

Mr. Robinson said the tax would "put a penalty on efficiency" because all improvements made by a firm would add to its assessment.

The tax would "not necessarily" be passed on to the consumer, he said. "Many firms who are competing with lower cost areas would have to absorb the tax themselves."

UNEASY CHAIRS—This U.S. soldier glumly occupies an easy chair at the port of Trieste, as U.S. Army engineers unload household effects of soldiers' families, prior to loading them aboard transports for shipment to the United States. "Uneasy" chairs are the new "fashion" in furniture in Trieste, pending settlement of the explosive dispute between Italy and Yugoslavia, over future occupation of Zone A, following the proposed withdrawal of U.S. and British troops from the area.

Ignored Pedestrians' Right, Driver Fined

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—In a case believed to be the first of its kind heard here, David Douglas was found guilty Thursday of driving without consideration of other users of the highway by ignoring the rights of pedestrians. He was fined $20.

Police testified that Douglas made a left turn on a green light while two women were crossing the street towards the green light.

The witnesses said one of the women, walking behind the other, pulled the second pedestrian from the path of Douglas' car.

Douglas said that as he drove past the women he shouted at them: "Why can't you make up your minds."

Magistrate F. K. Jasperson said the women had the right to cross before the car moved to make the left hand turn.

Wrong Takes Over As Under-Secretary

OTTAWA (CP)—Hume Wrong, 59, will take over as under-secretary of state for external affairs Monday.

The Toronto-born diplomat, who has been ambassador to Washington since 1946, succeeds Dana Wilgress, who now is Canada's representative on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The appointments were announced in June.

HON. BROOKE CLAXTON, minister of national defence, Friday laid the cornerstone of the new administration building of the Central Ordnance Depot in Cobourg. Some 3,000 turned out to watch the ceremony as Major-General H. D. Graham, general officer commanding the Central Command and contractor H. J. McFarland stand by.

Defence Minister Lays Cornerstone Of New Ordnance Depot At Cobourg

The huge extent of the new Ordnance Depot of the Canadian Army at Cobourg was displayed to some 3,000 civilians attending the laying of the cornerstone of its administration building by Hon. Brooke Claxton, DCM, Minister of National Defence, Friday afternoon. In officers and men, the Army contributed color and wonted precision to the ceremonial, and, that done, they busied themselves in showing their guests around and through their spacious establishment. It is in various stages of completion. Warehousing has already begun in at least one of the big units. Most of the interior detail of the administration building is unfinished, and workmen are still employed on some of the warehouses. For the public, the visit of the Minister afforded an opportunity to view the premises at close hand and within walls.

No. 26 Central Ordnance Depot, which is being transferred from smaller quarters in Ottawa, provides storage for the equipment and other material required by the Canadian army of today and tomorrow, excepting technical guns, motor vehicles, gasoline and food. It is a huge warehouse used solely for receiving, storing and shipping some 30,000 separate items.

225 ACRES

The property in its 225 acres, enclosed in high steel fencing, was an imposing background to the final placing of the cornerstone of the administration headquarters. Six warehouses are building, several built, and there is ground room for double that number, should they ever be necessary. The firehall is in use, the heating plant also. A descriptive booklet for the convenience of visitors mentioned that three boilers in this power-house generate 600 h.p. each; are fed by three 90-ton hoppers; fueling and ash removal is automatic; and there is provision for easy conversion from coal to oil burning, if that change should be required.

Stores from the old depot in Ottawa and a sub-depot in Montreal have been arriving for some time, and already there have been shipments of supplies from Cobourg to Germany and Korea. Total staff will be around 800 eventually, and the annual payroll several million dollars.

Broad paved roadways, railway sidings, ground for a football pitch are only incidentals to be noticed.

The assembled crowd was entertained by the depot bugle band which is to be transferred from Ottawa, and with concert music by the band of the 1st Canadian Infantry Battalion of Camp Borden, under the direction of Warrant Officer Holmes.

The program was opened by Major-General H. D. Graham, of Oakville, General Officer Commanding the Central Command, after the Minister had inspected the honor guard drafted from the depot staff.

GUESTS

Mr. Claxton was accompanied by his aide and Senator W. A. Fraser of Trenton, former member of parliament for Northumberland. Others on the platform for the official group were Mrs. Claxton, Mrs. Fraser, Major-General S. F. Clarke, Quartermaster General; Dr. F. G. Robertson, MP, Northumberland; John James, MP, Durham; W. H. Henderson, MP, Kingston; Frank Folwell, MP, Belleville; Mayor J. D. Burnet, Cobourg; Col. W. G. Denney, Commandant of the new Ordnance Depot; D. B. Mansur, president of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, and others.

An episode of the ceremony was the question by C. C. Parker of Parker and Associates, consulting engineers, Hamilton, to H. J. McFarland, of McFarland Construction Co. Ltd., contractors of the administration building: Can you assure us that this building has been built according to the plans and specifications.

"I can," Mr. McFarland replied. "I declare the building now ready for the cornerstone," said Mr. Parker.

After his mortaring job, the Minister said: "My skill with the trowel was not acquired by practice; it was inherited from my grandfather, who was a stonemason and was buried at Picton nearly 100 years ago."

Mr. McFarland presented the silver trowel to Mr. Claxton. Mayor Burnet was introduced by Major-General Graham.

Among those present were Hon. W. A. Goodfellow and Hon. John W. Foote, VC, members of the government of Ontario, and Major Earl Drope former MP for Northumberland.

"The citizens of Cobourg express through me their thanks to the Minister of National Defence for the establishment of this great ordnance depot in our town," Mayor Burnet said in his official welcome to the Hon. Mr. Claxton. "We assure him that we will try to be worthy of the confidence he has placed in us. The depot has already made a difference in the whole economy of our town, and many fine citizens are making their homes in Cobourg and an increasing contribution to our community life.

RECEIVED COURTESY

"From the commanding officer down through the levels of personnel, we have received every courtesy, kindness and co-operation.

"We know that the office of Minister of National Defence is one of great responsibility for the security of our country, and also for carrying out the great obligations Canada has assumed in other parts of the world. Hon. Mr. Claxton is admired for his ability and for his personal and moral courage. When the history of our time is written, the name of Brooke Claxton will be among those most important of this century in Canada, and one of the greatest names in the administra-

Week-Long Milk Strike Now Ended

NEW YORK (AP)—Marathon negotiations today settled a week-long milk strike in the New York metropolitan area, bringing employees higher wages and the region's 12,000,000 the prospect of higher prices.

Dealers said huge tank trucks this morning were heading from country farms toward the milk-starved area with the fresh fluid milk. They said it should start coming out of processing plants for distribution to stores and homes by afternoon.

Samuel J. Cohen, counsel for the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL), said the 200 companies involved in the dispute had granted a package increase amounting to about $8.50 a week. He said the actual wage increase is $6, and the two-year contract also contained fringe benefits and other improvements.

UP HALF CENT

Irving R. Wisch, chairman of the industry negotiating committee, said he believes "offhand" the retail and wholesale prices of milk will increase one-half a cent per quart.

The agreement ending the strike of 13,000 drivers and plant workers was hammered out in a 13-hour all-night session in city hall.

Company officials said it would be at least 24 hours before milk firms can be operating at sufficient capacity to meet all demands.

Two Killed In Car Crash

NAPANEE (CP) — A young mother and a nine-year-old girl, both from Toronto, were killed today in a car-truck collision only a few hundred yards from their destination.

Hospital attendants said Mrs. Ann Jillings, 22, and Jean Winger, 9, died when the car in which they were riding was in collision with a brewery truck at the entrance to a farm run by Henry Jillings, a relative.

They said Jean Winger's sister, Geraldine, 15; George McTaggart of Toronto; and Thomas and Gary Jillings, small sons of the dead woman, were hurt in the accident. Mrs. McTaggart was not hurt.

Truck driver David Corbett, 34, of Toronto was uninjured. Another truck later struck the overturned brewery transport, but did little damage and driver Harold Jenkins of RR 6, Cobourg, was unhurt.

5 In Reserve Unit Killed In Jeep Crash

PLESSISVILLE, Que. (CP) — Five youths, members of a Canadian Army reserve unit, were killed early today when their jeep veered off the highway and crashed into a tree near this town, 45 miles southwest of Quebec City.

Dead are Laurent Daudelin, Leo and Paul Lavoie, brothers, Ronald Comtois, and Yvan Langevin, all residents of this St. Lawrence river south shore community.

All were members of a reserve unit of the Regiment de la Chaudiere.

Ex-Army Private Poses As Doctor In 8 States

CINCINNATI (AP) — A 30-year-old former army private who duped doctors and hospitals in eight states with his pose as an experienced physicion will serve the next three years in jail.

His fantastic story, reminiscent of the Royal Canadian Navy's "Korea doctor," unfolded Friday after he pleaded guilty to charges of misrepresenting himself as a physician to army officials.

He is Harold K. Rain, who used the name of Dr. Samuel P. Hall in performing scores of operations. The Federal Bureau of Investigation arrested him Sept. 9 after he asked a magazine editor if the publication would be interested in buying the story of the masquerade.

Rain said he went to the University of Chicago as a pre-medical student. After his "training," a medical placement agency referred him to the Inland Lime and Stone Co. of Manistee, Mich., as company doctor.

From there he went to Mississippi, Arkansas and St. Louis, where he worked in a sanitorium for four months.

He became a resident physician at Camden-Clark hospital in 1949 at Charleston, W.Va. There he performed his first major surgery unassisted. There too he married a nurse.

From West Virginia, Rain moved to Ravenna, Ohio. He was resident physician at Portage county hospital from October, 1947, to July, 1948. On the move once more, he went to a clinic at Stephensville, Tex. Here he acquired a reputation as a specialist in obstetrics and gynaecology.

Atomic Furnaces In U.S. Unsafe U.K. Chief Says

NEW YORK (CP) — Britain's atom-fuel production chief, Sir Christopher Hinton, said Friday that atomic furnaces of the type of some in operation in the United States are "inherently unsafe."

Hinton said a water - cooled graphite furnace has a serious disadvantage in that it can "under unfavorable circumstances, explode and scatter dangerous fission products over the countryside."

Dr. Henry D. Smythe, a member of the atomic energy commission, disagreed with Hinton, however. He said that only under an extremely improbable combination of circumstances "might a reactor explode."

RECENT EXPLOSION

A reactor recently exploded at the Chalk River, Ont., atomic plant. No one was hurt.

The reactor at Chalk River did not "explode" in the accepted sense of that word.

The uranium rods suspended in the reactor were contained in aluminum tubes and water circulated in the space between the aluminum and uranium for cooling purposes. Several of the aluminum tubes sprang small leaks permitting radioactive particles to escape from the reactor.

Marie Dionne Enters Convent

NORTH BAY (CP)—Marie Dionne, one of the 19-year-old quintuplets, left Friday night for Quebec where she will enter a convent.

Marie, smallest of the quints at birth, was accompanied on the trip from her home at nearby Corbeil by her mother and an older sister, Paulin. She will enter the Order of the Servants of the Holy Sacrament, a cloistered order.

Oliva Dionne, the girls' father, said Marie "felt very happy" about the trip.

The other quints have been away since early September. Annette, Cecile and Emilie resume their studies at the Institut Familial in Nicolet, Que., while Yvonne enrolled in an art course at the Notre Dame Congregation in Montreal.

RCMP Responsible For President's Safety

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCMP will have full responsibility for the safety of President Eisenhower during his two-day state visit here.

The visit, originally planned for three days, has been cut to two, the external affairs department said Friday. From the time he crosses the border Nov. 13 until he returns to United States soil his safety will be the job of the Mounties.

Three uniformed Mounties will join the presidential train at the border and form the President's bodyguard until hhhhe reaches the bodyguard until he reaches the boundary on his way home.

U.S. secret service men will accompany the President and security details will be worked out in consultation among them, the RCMP and city and railway police.

Unknown Man Shot Left In Barrie Ditch

Port Hope Boy Killed By Truck

Second Boy Suffers Fractured Hip In Separate Accident

COBOURG (ENS)—A Port Hope boy was killed and another boy suffered a broken hip in two separate accidents which occurred Friday on Highway 2 within an hour and a half of each other.

Four-year-old Danny Hayward, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hayward of RR 4, Port Hope, was instantly killed near Welcome about 6:00 p.m. when he darted across the highway into the side of a truck.

The youngster was coming home with his sister, Barbara, 13, from a Hallowe'en party at Welcome schoolhouse. They were on the south side of the highway, just opposite the side road which runs north past their home. Danny had a pumpkin and some candies in his arms when he broke loose from his sister and ran across the highway.

RUNS INTO SIDE

A westbound truck, driven by Joseph R. Smith of Scarboro, was passing at the time and Danny ran into the side of it and under the wheels. He died instantly. Not far from him were the pumpkin he had been carrying and the Hallowe'en candies.

Ironically, his father, Jim Hayward, former secretary-manager of Port Hope Board of Trade, had moved his family out of Port Hope in order to safeguard his children from traffic.

It was a close call at 4:30 for seven - year - old Pat Harness whose guardian, George Harness lives with him near Port Hope. The boy was on the north side of the highway near Roseberry Hill and ran north from behind a westbound car. Leo O'Grady of Detroit, driver of an eastbound car, swerved to avoid the boy and rolled his car in the ditch.

However, the boy was unable to stop and ran into the side of O'Grady's car just as it rolled over. He was taken to Port Hope hospital with a fractured hip.

Provincial Constable Bill Werner of Cobourg investigated both accidents.

Iran Extends Olive Branch

TEHRAN (AP)—Iran today extended the olive branch to Britain in their two-year-old quarrel following Iranian nationalization of Anglo - Iranian Oil Cp. holdings here.

An official government statement read by Foreign Minister Abdollah Entezam expressed "pleasure" at a recent British offer to resume diplomatic relations. The statement hinted at the possibility of new talks to settle the dispute over compensation for the British property and get oil flowing again.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the House of Commons Oct. 20 in a reference to Iran:

"I hope that a new chapter has opened. There is a new government there aware that we are ready to resume diplomatic relations. If this can be done, it will then be easier for us to discuss together the complex problem of Persian oil."

Asserting that these remarks have been "appreciated and caused pleasure," Entezam said his government "is hopeful Eden's recent speech is a sign of a new policy and the beginning of a new chapter of friendly relations between the two countries."

Composer Kalman Dies In Paris

PARIS (AP)—Emerich Kalman, 71, composer of "Princess Czardas" and "Countess Maritza" and other popular operettas, died Friday at his home here.

Born in Hungary, Kalman first intended to be a concert pianist, but an illness made his hands too weak. He then turned to symphonic composing, but the successes of Franz Lehar, composer of "The Merry Widow," inspired him to try his hand at operettas.

Only a few days before his death, his family said, he had finished another operetta, "Arizona Lady."

Plan Apartment Hotel

OTTAWA (CP)—Negotiations are under way for construction of a 200-room apartment hotel in Ottawa at a cost of about $1,000,000, Frank Brodie, an Ottawa lawyer, announced today.

Students Hurt In Crash After Game

BISMARCK, Ont. (CP)—Ten persons were injured Friday night when an automobile carrying eight Grimsby high school students home from a football game was in a head-on collision with a truck and then smashed into the side of a house.

The students had been to Welland to watch their school team play Welland Notre Dame Collegiate. They were returning on Highway 57 when the crash occurred at the intersection of Highway 20, about 17 miles west of Welland.

Several of the girls in the car were Grimsby cheerleaders.

Police said they believe Barry Bourne, 16, was driving the car. He suffered head and chest injuries.

OTHERS INJURED

The other injured students are Marian Rushak, 16; Ann Braid, 16, Beth Ann Tuer, 16, Maria Toderoff, 16; Douglas Young, 16; Robert Evans, 16; and Clifford Dequitville, 17.

Injured in the half-ton pick-up truck were Peter Goretozen and Edward Walsh, 34, both of Beamsville.

Two of the students said the car, travelling at moderate speed, was approaching the intersection when the truck suddenly appeared. The car bounced off the truck, snapped off a high-tension feeder line and threw part of Bismarck and the surrounding district into darkness, then crashed against the frame house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCready.

Several window pains were shattered and the car broke a small hole in the frame siding.

Alfred S. Rogers Millionaire Dies

TORONTO (CP) — Alfred Selby Rogers, 79-year-ol millionaire industrialist and sportsman, will be buried here today. He died of a heart attack Friday.

Mr. Rogers, who owned some of North America's finest hunting and saddle horses, was born at nearby Newmarket and rose quickly in his father's retail coal firm, the Elias Rogers Coal Company, which he bought in 1912.

He was also president of several other major companies, including St. Mary's Cement Company and Canada Building Materials.

He was former president of the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto; a governor of the University of Toronto, and for 18 years a director of Ridley College in St. Catharines.

Breaks Into Home Of Girl Friend

DETROIT (AP)—For breaking into a girl friend's family home and selling their television set, radio, washing machine and clothing, a 17-year-old Detroit girl will be sentenced Nov. 24. The victimized family was on vacation.

She is Elaine Klavinger, found guilty along with a 16-year-old boy of also using the charge account of the girl friend's family to buy $675 worth of clothing and food. The boy was ordered to a vocational school.

Clothing Labels Turn Search To Toronto Area

BARRIE (CP)—Police said today the search for the identity of a well-dressed man found shot to death in a ditch near here Friday has turned to Toronto. They said clothing on the body bears labels of Toronto stores. Officers checked merchants there today. An autopsy today placed the time of death as Thursday night. The body had four bullet wounds from a .38 calibre automatic pistol in the chest and one in the head.

Robert Cowen, a 27-year-old farmer, spotted the body while driving along a concession road near Stroud, five miles south of here. A trail of blood led from the road to the water-filled ditch. Nearby police found a cartridge from an automatic.

One theory is that the man was killed by a hitchhiker bent on stealing his car. Another is that he was the victim of gangland vengeance, possibly at the hands of members of Toronto's criminal element.

FEW CLUES

He had nothing in pockets but a Toronto street-car ticket and a chain letter.

Police described the man as five feet, eight inches tall, weighing 175 pounds, of stocky build, well dressed in a brown suit and grey topcoat. They said his head was almost bald, fringed with sandy grey hair. His age was estimated at between 50 and 60 years.

Residents of the area reported hearing shots Thursday night.

Mrs. George Ayres, who lives less than a quarter of a mile from the spot where the body was discovered, said there were two shots, seconds apart, about 9:45 p.m. Thursday. She said she thought at the time they were fired by deer hunters.

HEARD SHOTS, CARS

Donald Gibbons, 13, told police he also heard shots.

"I heard one shot and the engine of a car start," he said. "Then there was another shot and the car door slammed. Then the car took off at a terrific rate. I could hear it churning up the gravel."

Assessor Robert Sproule of Stroud said he saw a man with a brown suit buy a newspaper in Stroud about 6:30 p.m. Thursday. Sproule viewed the body and said it might be that of the man.

Police roped off the area to preserve tire tracks in the mud.

Report Two Dead In Montreal Fire

MONTREAL (CP) — One man was reported dead and another is believed to have died in a fire today at the plant of Nu - way Lambskin Processors, Ltd. Three other persons were said to have been seriously burned.

Leo Pellerin, an employee, said he and others were emptying material on the second floor of the plant when the fire broke out. The cause was not immediately known.

About 50 other workers were reported to have escaped.

Collapses At Palace

LONDON (Reuters)—Eric Whitelaw, retired rubber planter who collapsed at Buckingham Palace Tuesday before receiving the Order of the British Empire from Queen Elizabeth, died Friday night.

Whitelaw was awarded the OBE for helping the Ceylonese government plan the development of the island's rubber industry.

Lamport Charges Judge Failed Read Evidence

TORONTO (CP)—Mayor Alan Lamport charged Friday night that Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of Ontario "failed to read the evidence" when he compelled the Toronto board of police commissioners to issue a taxi licence Friday to Thomas A. Ross.

Ross was repeatedly refused a licence by the board, which said it did not have to give reasons for its refusal. He started an appeal, heard by Mr. Justice A. M. LeBel, who ordered the licence granted immediately.

Weeks went by and the licence was not granted. Ross moved that Mayor Lamport and Judge T. H. Barton, police commission members, be jailed for disobeying the order.

This motion was abandoned in the chief justice's ruling Friday but costs of the action were assessed against Mayor Lamport and Judge Barton. Amount of the costs was not disclosed but was expected to be large—perhaps hundreds of dollars.

MAYOR EXPLAINS STAND

Mayor Lamport said Ross was refused a licence because he and a partner had been guilty of trafficking in licences. They had been granted 27 licences which they sold in 1950 for $125,000.

Said Mr. Lamport:

"There never has been a more flagrant case of trafficking. Chief Justice McRuer's statement that we were depriving a man of his living shows favoritism. He preferred Ross' viewpoint."

Mr. Lamport said evidence of Ross' trafficking was before Chief Justice McRuer.

"He couldn't have read it and made the statement that the police commission was depriving the man of his living," Mr. Lamport said. "It was Ross' choice in 1950 to get out at a huge profit.

No Violation Of Agreement

PANMUNJOM (AP)—A neutral inspection team today said it found "no evidence whatsoever" that the Communists had violated the armistice agreement by shipping crated combat planes from Manchuria to a North Korea air base at Uiju.

The report was signed by Czech, Polish, Swiss and Swedish members of the team which the neutral nations supervisory commission sent to Uiju to make an investigation.

The probe was ordered after the United Nations command protested that the Communists were moving planes into North Korea in violation of truce terms which permit only the replacement of worn-out combat craft.

Interested In Nehru

Prime Minister Fixes Hopes On Asia

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent will have his thoughts and hopes fixed on Asia when he leaves the capital next Feb. 4 on a globe-girdling air journey.

Mr. St. Laurent will visit many points in Europe, Asia and the Far East on the most extensive good-will tour attempted by a Canadian prime minister.

But his real reason for the trip is to visit Asia and his main hopes are centred on Prime Minister Nehru of India.

It is a safe bet, and Mr. St. Laurent has virtually said so on occasions, that he believes Nehru to be the man in the best position to exercise an influence for good, or for harm, to all the peoples of the world.

REMOVE MISGIVINGS

During a talk with a Canadian Press reporter the prime minister said he believes it is most important that any misgivings Asian people may harbor about the western world and its intentions should be removed. Good relations between the East and West were essential and could be created and maintained.

He believes that Canada is a good example. Canada, once a colony of the British Empire and a next-door neighbor to the United States, proved it could win self-government, manage its own affairs and maintain cordial relations with both the United Kingdom and the United States. It would be helpful to Asian leaders to have among their people, even for a brief time, the prime minister of such a country as Canada.

The western world is more advanced in those things which lift the standard of living and make for a better life for its peoples, he said. The Asian world viewed things with more of a spiritual than material eye.

CAN BENEFIT TOO

Canada no doubt could benefit from the Asian outlook and could also bring material benefits to that area. There was no need to discuss which civilization was superior or inferior.

Mr. St. Laurent was reluctant to discuss specifically his hopes and purposes—or his itinerary—for the unprecedented tour. He will be 72 years old Feb. 1 and he knows he faces a strenuous journey but he feels fit and ready.

Tentatively, the trip is expected to last six weeks and four days—with a return to Ottawa March 22. It will be made in the huge RCAF C-5 aircraft which government officials have used for trips.

850 Canadian Troops Arrive At Rotterdam

ROTTERDAM (CP)—The liner Samaria docked Friday night in Rotterdam, bringing 850 Canadian replacement troops to stand sentinel in the heart of Germany.

The arrival marked the first major troop movement into Europe under the rotation which will see some 10,000 Canadian Army officers and men move through this port to and from Canada. The first Canada-bound troops are scheduled to sail from here Sunday.

Most of the new arrivals are veterans of Korea.

Troops were unanimous in declaring they had had a "wonderful voyage."

NO LEAVE

A "No Leave" sign was posted aboard ship to make sure the Canadians would be off early on the train today for Soest, new Canadian army base in Westphalia. The rotation coincides with the transfer of Canadian headquarters from Hannover to Soest.

Most of Friday night's arrivals were from the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. There were also elements of the Royal 22nd Regiment, Lord Strathcona's Horse, the Royal Canadian Regiment, Royal Canadian Engineers and the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps.

Forces proceeding from Germany back to Canada will all be home for Christmas.

Diesel Rail Car Goes Into Service

NORTH BAY (CP)—The newest thing in railway transportation, a diesel railway car, will go into service when it pulls out of here Monday, Nov. 9, bound for Angliers, Que.

The Canadian Pacific Railway will start its "Dayliner" service between North Bay and Angliers, via Mattawa, Timiskaming and Ville Marie, using the all-stainless steel passenger car.

The CPR will inaugurate two other "Dayliner" services on the same day. Two of the cars will be coupled together for service between Toronto, London, Windsor and Detroit on a four-hour, 20-minute schedule.

Another car will run between Montreal and Mont Laurier.

The car which will run between here and Angliers will go on display along the line next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Dean Proposal To Reds "Flexible" Agenda

PANMUNJOM (AP) — American Ambassador Arthur H. Dean today proposed a "flexible" agenda to speed up talks for arranging a Korean peace conference, but the Communists immediately rejected it as "sleight-of-hand."

The diplomats debated an hour and three minutes, got nowhere for the sixth straight day, and called it quits until Monday.

Dean told reporters he was not depressed over the lack of headway in his week of talks with the Communists to set up the Korean peace parley.

He still felt the Reds wanted the conference and "it is not surprising that it has taken us some time to get shaken down on a working basis."

Dean proposed a "flexible or unnumbered agenda" under which the negotiators could skip around among various problems that must be settled before the political conference can convene.

Takes Army Forces To Repel Invasion

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Gen. J. Lawton Collins said today an invaded Europe could not be liberated with hydrogen bombs — "it takes army forces on the ground to repel an invasion on the ground."

The former army chief of staff, now U.S. representative on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization military committee, said he meant no disparagement of sea or air forces.

Armies cannot get along without them, he said, but—

"It was not until we sent in army forces to meet the invaders in Korea on the ground that their progress was stopped . . . despite the fact that our troops were outnumbered by the Communists as much as 30 to 1."

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP)—Grains were irregular at the close Friday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, in sympathy with firmness on United States markets. Rye showed the best tone.

Commercial demand was limited. Best buying showed in barley where exporters made small purchases. Oats and rye trade was mostly domestic. Modest seaboard orders and industrial support appeared in flax. Lack of offerings aided rye.

Prices for top grades of Class 2, IWA and domestic wheat—except Class 2 durums—were up one-eight cent. Class 2 durums were unchanged.

Fire Damages Boarding House

BROCKVILLE (CP)—Fire of undetermined origin today damaged a boarding house and office in Prescott and also held up traffic on the main line of the Canadian National Railways when firemen strung their hose across the right of way.

The fire occurred in a new housing development, in an old home used by the construction company as a boarding house and office. Hydrants would not function and firemen had to run their hose across the CNR tracks to get water. Two through trains were held up. Firemen tunnelled under the tracks, and put their hose through the tunnel.

Defiant PoWs Kick, Scream At Interviews

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Defiant anti-Communist Korean war prisoners marched from their compounds today and with shouts, kicks and screaming [illegible] whelmingly told Communist explainers they will not go back to Red rule.

By late afternoon only 20 of 430 North Koreans had elected to go back to the Communists, an Indian spokesman said.

The Koreans came out peacefully to meet Red "persuaders" after two weeks of negotiations with Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission.

But once before the explainers, most of the PoWs were anything but peaceful.

USE FOUR GUARDS

As many as four Indian guards were assigned to each prisoner, but frequently this wasn't enough.

One enraged prisoner broke free and hurled a folding chair into the faces of three smarly-uniformed Red officers. All were slightly injured.

In at least two instances, prisoners kicked over field tables used by the Communists with their muddy boots.

Almost all of them screamed, shouted and spat at the Communist agents. They writhed and struggled in the tight grasp of Indian soldiers.

Indian guards forced prisoners to listen to the explanations as long as the Reds wanted to talk—or until it became obvious that the issue was decided.

OBSERVERS PRESENT

Some interviews lasted only 30 seconds. Others continued for nearly two hours.

Swiss, Swedish, Polish and Czech observers were present at all interviews.

At one point the United Nations command protested because Indian guards were using strong-arm methods to hold prisoners in the interview tents. The UN command said that while the repatriation commission authorized the use of force to protect the explainers, some prisoners were being dragged back after saying only that they wanted to "go south."

Name Billy Hitchcock Manager Of Bisons

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Billy Hitchcock, veteran American League infielder, today was named playing manager of Buffalo Bisons of the International League for 1954.

Temperatures Below Zero Winter Starts In Arctic

OTTAWA (CP)—The long Arctic night is creeping southward. Ice is forming in the rivers and fiords of the Arctic mainland and the northern archipelago. Temperatures are below zero now.

Government administrators of the Barren Lands, some just back in Ottawa, paint this picture of the descent of winter on the 1,516,758 square miles of the Northwest Territories and Yukon—more than a third of Canada's area:

Freeze-up will reach northern Baffin island in early November. The sun will disappear Nov. 10 and re-appear in early February. There now are three or four hours of daylight but soon that will give way to hazy twilight, then blackness.

REALLY COLD

At Pond Inlet on northern Baffin it will be a steady 40 below zero in January and February, sometimes nearly 60 below. In 1923-24, the temperature there was below zero for 85 days. Winter lasts eight months. Eight feet of snow may fall.

It often gets colder in the western sub-Arctic. Temperatures in the Yukon have fallen to 85 below. In the eastern Arctic it is not so much the cold as the wind that makes the winter almost unbearable for 300 white men who man radio, radar and weather stations, RCMP and trading posts and church missions. Blizzards may last for days.

The eastern Arctic is north of the tree line and comprises the Arctic islands and mainland north of a line from Aklavik near the mouth of the Mackenzie river southeast to Churchill, Man. The country is known as the Barren Lands.

There are 8,600 Eskimos in the northern wastes, 2,500 of them in Ungava. Some 80 per cent of all Eskimos live in the eastern Arctic. Total population of the Northwest Territories is some 16,000 but nearly all the whites live in the western sub-Arctic, 5,500 around Great Slave lake. The Yukon has a population of 9,096.

The Eskimos have finished putting up caches along their trap lines and many have moved to winter camps. The boats have been put away and by mid-November there will be enough snow to travel by dog team and komatik (sledge).

The Eskimo knows the warmest clothing comes from animal hides and centuries ago learned that a closed dome of snow blocks with an interior raised platform and low opening for ventilation is the easiest home to heat.

HUNTS YEAR ROUND

He hunts the year around for caribou, seal, walrus, whale, muskox, and polar bear. Now he is getting ready to trap the white fox, his only source of income except family allowances and old-age pensions.

The northern supply boats have made their final calls. The eastern Arctic is supplied from Montreal, the western from Tuktoyaktuk near the mouth of the Mackenzie.

At Churchill, the RCAF is gathering supplies for its fall airlift to northern outposts including Alert—the Canadian community closest to the North Pole, near the northern tip of Ellesmere island from where Admiral Peary launched his spurt to the North Pole in 1909.

The Canada geese, ducks, gulls and whistling swans, have flown south, but some birds stay, the ravens, ptarmigans, willow and spruce grouse and snowbirds.

U.K. Rejects Eire's Appeal For Roger Casement's Bones

DUBLIN (Reuters)—Britain has refused once again, as she has during 37 years, to let the remains of Sir Roger Casement go home for burial at Murlough Bay in County Antrim.

The London government's latest refusal was made koown in the Dail Eireann by Conncha O'Brien, spokesman for Prime Minister Eamon de Valera.

Persistently since Aug. 3, 1916, when Casement was hanged in England as a traitor, Irish nationalists have pleaded that the bones be laid in a grave made ready for him 37 years ago in the tiny cemetery at Murlough Bay.

De Valera made the latest appeal to Britain during a recent visit to London.

Before the bearded, fiery-eyed Casement was hanged at Pentonville prison, he said: "when they've done with me, don't let my bones lie in this dreadful place. Take me back to Murlough to lie there."

But when his body was cut down from the gallows it was buried in the prison yard beside scores of murderers in unmarked graves, for it is an English law that condemned men's bodies shall rest where they are hanged.

British officials, through the years, have insisted that removal of Casement's bones would set a "difficult precedent." But many have argued that the remains should be handed over to improve Anglo-Irish good-will. In a House of Commons debate in 1936 one Scots member of Parliament said: "Britain let France get back Napoleon's remains from St. Helena—why can't Eire have the bones of Sir Roger?"

If the Republic of Ireland ever wins the fight, Casement's remains undoubtedly will be sent to Dublin for a lying-in-state. A bust of Casement now stands in the National Gallery of Ireland.

KNIGHTED IN 1911

Casement was knighted in 1911 for his good offices in the British consular service. But in 1916, during the First World War, he went to Germany and apparently was much favored by the Kaiser's government.

On Good Friday, 1916, he landed from a German submarine on a lonely spot on the Irish coast near Tralee, in a boat crammed full of pistols and ammunition. Soon after that the Sinn Fein rebellion began. Casement was taken to England where he was convicted of conniving with the Germans to stir up the revolution against Britain.

The Irish now are seeking an order of mandamus in London courts directing the governor of Pentonville prison and the sheriff of London to hand over Casement's remains.

Police Open Fire On Student Riot

LUCKNOW, India (Reuters) — Police opened fire today on a banned student demonstration, injuring two persons, after tear gas and clubs had failed to cool the graduates' anger over the forcible removal to hospital of two hunger strikers.

Lucknow resounded with student rioting Friday night as police stormed the students' union headquarters to take the two fasting students, in a dangerous condition after taking nothing but lemon water for nine days, to hospital.

They began their strike as a protest against the expulsion of 14 fellow students for unruly behavior.

Toronto Man Indicted On Shooting Charge

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — A Toronto man has been indicted on a charge of shooting a police lieutenant with intent to kill.

David Read, 24, also was indicted Friday by an Erie county grand jury on charges of burglary, grand larceny and illegal possession of a loaded weapon.

The Toronto man is accused of shooting a police lieutenant, Philip J. Francis, Sept. 12 with revolver as Francis attempted to take him into custody in front of a police precinct station. Francis was not seriously wounded.

Private Collection

BAILDON, England (CP) — An 8,000-volume library of fiction and poetry compiled by the late Tom Turner, postal clerk in this Yorkshire town, has been purchased by an official of the University of Illinois with a view to using some of the books in the college library.

2 Snap Goals Held Blackpool To 4-1 Victory

LONDON (Reuters) — Two snap goals by inside-forward Ernie Taylor today helped Blackpool to a decisive 4-1 upset victory over West Bromwich Albion, leader of English League Division I soccer.

The 10th-place Blackpool handed Albion its first defeat away from home this season although the loss failed to break its hold on first place.

The Albon still leads with 26 points, two more than Wolverhampton Wanderers who took over second place by defeating Preston 1-0. Huddersfield, in second spot last week, was held to a scoreless tie by Manchester United and now is in third place with 23 points.

There were no changes among the top teams in Division II. Leicester defeated Everton 2-1 and leads with 24 points, one more than Doncaster, 2-0 victor over West Ham United.

In Division III (Southern) Ipswich defeated Walsall 3-0 to take a seven point lead. Norwich, Southampton and Brighton share second with 24 points each. Port Vale, 1-0 winner over Carlisle, is eight points ahead of Gateshead in the Northern section with 31 points.

In Scotland, Queen of the South swamped Raith Rovers 5-1 and leads Division A with 15 points. Four points behind is Dundee, which took second place from Raith Rovers after a 1-1 tie with Celtic.

Motherwell beat Stenhousemuir 4-0 in Division B and the two teams now share top spot with 12 points each.

Malik Declares U.S. Charges War Campaign

By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) Russia's Jacob Malik declared today that the new United States atrocity charges are part of a campaign to step up war hysteria and thus justify increased expenditures for arms.

Malik told the UN assembly's 60-nation political committee that U. S. officials do not want a relaxation of world tension. He spoke after Dr. Charles W. Mayo, U.S. delegate, mentioned Friday's statement by Maj.-Gen. William Dean, who said he had considered suicide while a prisoner of war because he feared he might be forced to disclose secrets.

WHY WAIT?

"Dean has been free for some time now," Malik said. "Why did the press have to come up with that statement today and why did the American delegate have to bring it up? Because they don't want a relaxation of tension. They want to step up the cold war and war hysteria."

Malik spoke as the political committee neared the end of its debate on germ warfare. The United States already has asked the assembly to take up as a separate question the army's report of Communist atrocities in Korea in which the U. S. charges almost 30,000 were killed, including more than 6,000 Americans.

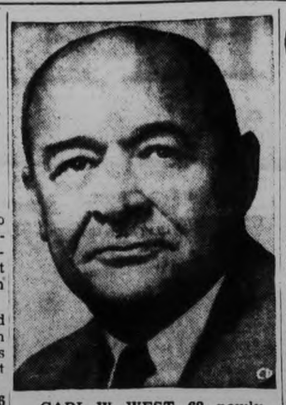
MUST SEEK POWERS

"If a man can apply to the court and challenge our authority, and if the case is not going to be heard properly, then we have nothing to do but seek new powers from the provincial government.

"I'll put the judgment of Judge Barton and Magistrate J. W. McFadden (the other police commissioners who refused Ross a licence) up against any other judge's decision any time.

"It's surprising when a judge who's been on the police commission for at least 10 years is chastised by the chief justice who has been sitting on the case for only a day and a half.

"I was shocked at the forced order of Mr. Justice LeBel. This was the worst case of trafficking there's ever been before the police commission. Ross was starting a new run on licences."



NO COMMENT

Chief Justice McRuer today refused comment on Mayor Lamport's charges.

"I never discuss a decision after I have given it," he said. His order compels the Toronto police commissioners to grant Ross a licence Monday.

Charge Forces Hindering Korean Pact

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

MOSCOW (AP) — The Anti-Fascist Committee of Soviet Youth published a statement today declaring that "dark forces of reaction" are attempting to hinder a Korean settlement and German unification.

The statement was reminiscent of a declaration put out by the Soviet Trade Union Organization just before the last Soviet note to the Western powers. The declaration was a harbinger of sentiments later expressed in the Soviet note. (That note puzzled Western diplomats by its hazy reply to Western proposals for a foreign ministers' conference on Germany and Austria, and its suggestion for a five-power conference, including Red China, on a long list of problems at present curdling international relations.)

The West is waiting now for the U.S.S.R. to reply to another bid to foreign ministers' talks on Germany at Lugano, Switzerland, Nov. 9.

The anti-Fascist youth group statement sounded repetitious of Premier Georgi Malenkov's insistence that all international problems be considered at once, not just Germany and Austria. The Soviet Union is so wrapped up with its internal affairs just now that it may be perfectly satisfied to mark time on the international field indefinitely.

Too Many Sandwiches Collapses On Trolley

TORONTO (CP) — A 13-year-old boy collapsed on a street car today, gasping that he had been shot in the stomach.

Police made a fast check and came up with a different story. He was the victim of two bags of egg sandwiches.

Police said he broke into his grandmother's home Friday night, took three bags of egg sandwiches and had a feast. One officer said: "What he needs is a good rest and a good spanking, and I don't know in which order."

Cattle Theft Ring Believed Broken

CORNWALL (CP) — Police said today they believe they have broken a cattle theft ring with the arrest of three district men.

Held in custody are three brothers, Viateur Larocque, 34, of Glen Robertson, Jean-Paul Larocque, 25, of Alexandria and Gerald Larocque, 21, of Williamstown. Police said they were arrested in Ottawa Friday when they tried to sell two cattle. They face cattle theft charges.

Modify Tour Plans

SUVA, Fiji (Reuters) — Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh have modified plans for their forthcoming Pacific tour so they can spend two days in the islands of Tonga, it was announced today. Instead of going from here to Tonga by ship, which would have given them only six hours on the "friendly islands," they will fly.

Gen. Marshall Awarded Peace Prize

OSLO (AP)—The Nobel Peace Prize for 1953 has been awarded to Gen. George C. Marshall, American soldier-statesman who gave his name to the Marshall Plan.

At the same time, the prize for 1952, previously omitted, was awarded to Albert Schweitzer, Alsatian missionary-philosopher.

The Norwegian Nobel Institute, a five-member board, announced the selections Friday. In keeping with tradition, it gave no explanations.

Marshall, 72, was convalescing from a flu attack at his winter home in Pinehurst, N.C., when he received the news. "This award is a great distinction and honor for which I am deeply grateful," he said.

Instrumental in setting up a $17,000,000,000 aid program for the war-shattered economy of Europe, Marshall is to receive a prize of 175,292 Swedish kronor ($33,840) from the funds set up under the will of Alfred Nobel, inventor of dynamite.

Schweitzer, 78, is to get 171,570 kronor (about $33,200). Fluctuations in the funds' earnings account for the difference.

CANADIANS CONSIDERED

Candidates for this year's prize included Prime Minister St. Laurent and External Affairs Minister Pearson of Canada. Pearson had been nominated for his work as president of the United Nations General Assembly.

Nobel's will specified that the peace prize should go to the candidate "who has worked the most or best for promoting brotherhood among people, and for the abolition or reduction of the standing armies, and for the establishment and spread of peace congresses."

Marshall won renown as the U.S. chief of staff in the Second World War. He was called from retirement three times in the following five years.

He was sent by former president Truman to China on a fruitless mission to end the Chinese civil war which the Communists eventually won. Then he was named secretary of state. Later he was secretary of defence.

Schweitzer is long renowned as a medical missionary, musician, philosopher and doctor. He enjoyed a wide reputation when he went into the African jungles 40 years ago to serve humanity as "man to my fellow man." He and his wife established a hospital at Lambarene, in French equatorial Africa.

Schweitzer has been called the world's "greatest living missionary," a group of prominent artists, writers and musicians of 17 countries in 1950 named him "the man of the century."

Uninvited Visitor Hawk Breaks In

LAKEVIEW, Ont. (CP) — A big hawk with a starling clutched in its talons crashed through the living room window of Mrs. Ernie Lemon's home Friday.

The starling dropped to the floor and dashed behind a chesterfield. The hawk, which had a three-foot wing spread, headed into the kitchen.

"I called the police and when I opened the door for them the starling flew away," Mrs. Lemon said.

Police stuffed the hawk into a shopping bag and released it in a field near Lakeview, about five miles west of Toronto.

Mrs. Margaret Boyle

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — Funeral services were conducted this afternoon for Mrs. Margaret Boyle, a resident here for many years, who died at Beaver Hall convalescent home Thursday night. She was 84.

The Rev. D. M. Smith, of St. John's United Church, officiated at services from the Bennett funeral home to Mt. Pleasant cemetery where burial took place.

Pallbearers were Harry Redden, Marshall West, Forrest Dennis, Vince Farrell, R. McGee and William Nicholas.

Born in Newbury near London, Ont., Mrs. Boyle received her early education in that district. She came to Campbellford as a young Salvation Army captain and married Jarvis Boyle of this community. Her husband died about 20 years ago.

She later joined the Methodist Church and became a member of many of the women's organizations.

Surviving is one daughter, Mrs. Harry Atkinson (Ruth), of Campbellford, and two nieces, Mrs. Jack McDonnel, of Detroit, and Mrs. Alfred Brumwell, of Peterborough.

High-Ranking Russians Watch Reds Try To Force Confessions From PoWs

WASHINGTON (AP)—A former war prisoner reports that many high-ranking Russians visited a North Korean camp where the Reds were trying to wrest "confessoins" and information from captured Americans by starvation and other maltreatment. The Russians made no attempt to conceal their nationality, he said, apparently thinking that none of the American prisoners would ever get back home. The story is told by Capt. William M. Preston of Batavia, N.Y., in a four-hour film recording by 15 former prisoners exhibited Friday to newspapermen, motion picture and television representatives.

The film, part of which was shown early this month to the United Nations General Assembly by the United States representative, Henry Cabot Lodge, represents another round in the American psychological battle with the Communist camp to refute "confessions" wrung from prisoners and spread worldwide by Red propaganda.

UNSHOWN FILM

The UN assembly saw a film recording of the statements of 10 of the men. But in the showing Friday the recordings of five other men were shown as well.

An official interrogator announced, concerning the latter, that "in spite of pressures brought to bear, these men, like many, many others, refused to succumb to the pressure."

Capt. Preston presaged his statement with the comment that the treatment he received was "brutal," that the enemy sought to wear him and the others down physically and mentally to the point where they would make statements and give information wanted by their captors.

Car Rolls Over Three Times, Boy, 15, Hurt

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — A 15-year-old Campbellford boy, Dick Beattie, is in Campbellford Memorial hospital suffering from shock and a slight concussion as a result of a car accident about seven miles west of Campbellford early Friday evening.

The accident happened on the Godolphon road, about three miles west of the Campbellford-Hastings road. Beattie was coming down a long hill when his car went out of control in the loose gravel. Police said the car rolled over three times after it went off the road.

After being examined at the scene by Dr. W. W. Baker of Campbellford, the injured lad was removed to hospital by Bennett's ambulance for further treatment and observation. His condition is good. OPP Constable George Rose investigated.

Reach Quarter Mark In Lindsay Campaign

LINDSAY— (ENS)— Lindsay community chest total, according to Campaign Manager Jasper Forman, has now recahed about one-third of its objective, two weeks after the campaign opened.

About $4,200 of the $12,500 objective has been turned in to the chest office, said Mr. Forman. Other contributions may not have been reported, as yet, by canvassers and other workers.

Briton Smuggles Slave Girl To Freedom

MIDDLESBROUGH, Eng. (AP) A smiling Iraqi slave girl and the handsome Englishman who smuggled her to freedom were married today. And it appears that love has found a way to foil immigration laws.

Raven-haired Jean Kawahkib, who once swept floors in a Basra coffee house, walked out of the local jail Friday night and down the aisle of the parish church this morning. Her bridegroom was Thomas Flynn, 22-year-old ship's steward who got her out of Basra disguised as a boy.

Both are on bail from prison—Jean to appeal a two-month sentence for illegal entry and Tommy to appeal a three-month stretch for helping her.

TO GET CITIZENSHIP

To get to Britain, Jean spent 44 days locked in Tommy's tiny cabin aboard the freighter Queen Maud. They tried to marry in Basra, but couldn't get permission.

Jean, who says she was once sold on an Arab slave market, was a candidate for deportation after a British court imposed the jail sentence. But legal authorities said today's wedding offers a sure road to British citizenship.

U.S.-Japan Dissatisfied With Agreement

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The United States and Japan have agreed on a new expansion of Japanese defence forces with American weapons and equipment—but there are signs of some dissatisfaction on both sides.

Japanese officials contend the build-up will be too slow to please American officials.

Apparently the Japanese would have been willing to go for a larger total if the U. S. had promised substantial economic assistance. But Washington was unwilling to do this.

Instead, an official statement jointly issued late Friday said the U. S. would sell Japan $50,000,000 worth of surplus food—probably rice and wheat—for Japanese yen. The U. S. will use these yen to promote a defence industry in Japan by buying arms and military equipment there and by direct investment.

4 WEEKS OF NEGOTIATING

In four weeks of negotiations, American representatives argued that Japan needs ground forces—aside from sea and air forces—totalling 325,000 to 350,000 men as soon as possible. The present Japanese national safety force, armed and equipped by the United States, totals only 110,000.

The Japanese are understood to be thinking in terms of 180,000 men in ground forces over the next three to five years.

Bobby Holmes Wins Cup For Oratory

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — The oratorical contest for Campbellford elementary school pupils was held in the high school auditorium Thursday night with a large crowd in attendance.

Twelve contestants took part. The contest was sponsored by the Home and School Association. The Northumberland trustee and ratepayers association are the sponsoring parent body.

Elimination contests were held in the schools, and the 12 contestants on Thursday night were the winners of this preliminary contest. Sid Hoping, chairman of the public school board, was chairman for the evening.

A program of vocal and instrumental numbers by school pupils was also presented.

Karen Ames and Dennis Hopping each sang solos and Dale Miller favored with instrumental numbers. Marie Brethour and Sandra Rowe also gave instrumental numbers and David Masterson, Eddie Collins and Duncan Kerr formed a violin trio. Billy Tatham and John Beatty gave piano solos and dance teams of Nancy and Margaret Peake and Brenda Holmes and Joanne Jacobs, also performed. Margaret Gardiner gave a solo dance number.

RECEIVE PRIZES

Mrs. Harry Burgess presented each of the 12 contestants with a book, as a gift from the home and school association. Mr. Hopping thanked the contestants and expressed his appreciation to the home and school association and the staff of the public and separate schools for their co-operation and interest in the elimination contests.

First prize winner for his talk on "Who Killed the Dragon?" was Bobby Holmes of Campbellford separate school. W. A. Hogle, president of the Northumberland county Liberal association, presented him with the Senator Fraser cup, symbolic of first place in the contests.

In the second place was Mary Wilson, also of Campbellford separate school, who spoke on "Louis Braille". She received the Campbellford board of education cup from Dr. W. W. Baker, chairman of the board of education. Shirley Baker placed third with her talk on "Soap" and was presented with the town council cup by Mayor Ralph J. Locke.

Bobby Holmes will go to Cobourg November 6 to compete in the county finals.

Man Hunted On Club Grounds Was Fined $10

LINDSAY —(ENS)—, William Daynes, Lindsay, was fined $10 and costs of $11.70 in magistrate's court here friday when he was found guilty of illegally shooting on the property of the Emily Creek Hunt Club, a private organization owning 1,100 acres of land in Emily township, south of Sturgeon Lake.

Daynes and his brother, Duncan, were originally charged with the ofefnce on complaint of the officers of the club, but the charges against his brother were dismissed when Darwin Kimball of Bobcaygeon, manager of the land, admitted in court he had made a mistake in identity.

SHOOTING WITH COUSIN

Daynes told the court he and his cousin, James Butts, had been shooting on Emily Creek which runs through the club lands. He contended that the creek was navigable waters, and therefore open to any one who wishes to use it. He also denied having landed on the club property. Kimball and his brother, Dawson, who assists him, told the court they had found Daynes and Butts on the land, shooting at stumps in a posted area. Daynes then replied that he had been told by Lands and Forests officers that signs probiting hunting and shooting in a private area applied not only to the outsiders coming into the land but also to the owners of the land.

Magistrate Gee, in accepting the story of the Kimball brothers commented that the status of Emily Creek, and the legality of using the part of it within the club property, should be cleared up before another hunting season. He ordered that Dawson Kimball should pay Duncan Daynes $3 of the costs assessed against William Daynes for Duncan's attendance at court on false identification.

7 Coronation Medals Received In Lindsay

LINDSAY (ENS)—To date, seven Lindsay people have received Coronation medals and citations from Buckingham Palace. The awards have been received in the last week.

Mayor Charles Lamb, who commented he supposed the award was for his long years in the town's top executive post, was one of those honored.

Other civic leaders were oPlice Chief John Hunter, Fire Chief Alex Wiley, Fire Department Capt. William Spencely and Major E. G. Jones.

Two Lindsay school teachers of long service, Miss Catherine Haugh, and Mrs. Jeff Edwards, also received medals.

Lift Ban On Use Of Nickel, Nickel Alloys

PARIS (Reuters)—The Organization for European Economic Co-operation today lifted the ban on the use of nickel, nickel alloys and nickel plating for manufacture.

Improved nickel supplies allowed OEEC to release member countries from a common decision taken in May last year and restricting the use of nickel, an OEEC spokesman said.

Member governments now will be free to make their own arrangements.

Newlyweds Honored

BAILIEBORO (ENS)—Mr. and Mrs. Keith Finnie were honored in Centreville community hall when a large number of friends gathered to extend good wishes after their recent marriage.

Harry Campbell was chairman for a short program of duets, songs and readings. Gerald Anderson read the address and L. Larmer, Noble Beebe, Robert Fisher and Allen Eagleson presented a studio couch, two lamps and a table. The groom made a suitable reply.

Missionaries To Hold Convention Here

Missionaries from Africa, British West Indies and the North West Territories, as well as representatives of the Pentecostal Church in Quebec will attend the annual missionary convention at the Peterborough Pentecostal church November 1 to 8.

Each missionary present will describe his adopted country's spiritual needs. Services will be held each evening at 8.00 o'clock. The slogan of the convention will be "The Challenge of the Unfinished Task."

On Wednesday the speaker will be the Rev. J. Spillenaar who, with his airplane, presents the gospel to the remote Indian settlements of Hudson Bay area.

On Thursday night the Rev. E. C. O'Brien will speak and show pictures of the Youth for Christ revival campaign in Japan in which he took part during August along with 1,000 evangelists.

The Rev. George R. Upton, missionary secretary of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada, will be in charge of the convention. On Saturday evening he will present the sound film, "I Was a Witch Doctor."

Is This A High Standard Of Living?

A young Toronto mother of three children has been charged with murdering her year-old daughter. Police say that the mother had beat her baby's head against a table to stop it from crying while she was giving the baby a bath. The mother, the father and the three children—the eldest aged three—lived in two rooms on the third floor of a building on Toronto's George street. After the arrest of the mother the other two children were cared for by a woman living on the ground floor of the same building. This neighbour, her husband and their five children also live in two rooms.

* * *

One may ask what fathers do with their wages and mothers with their monthly baby bonus that the most accommodation they provide for themselves and their children are two rooms in a slum? One may also ask how high is our vaunted standard of living in Canada which provides such living conditions? What kind of society is it which tolerates this? The two children of the accused woman have now been put under the care of the Children's Aid Society. That aid comes too late, of course, to save the one-year-old child whose head was beaten in.

* * *

Living conditions such as these—in Toronto or elsewhere—lead to disorder and crime.

You Need Only Five Dollars And Luck

What is the oldest white settlement in Ontario? What is the Province's only salt water port? Your guess of the second may be right—Moosonee or Moose Factory on James Bay. Did you guess that it is also the oldest white settlement? It was established in 1671 as a Hudson's Bay Company trading post, and has continued its small and variable existence ever since.

Because Moose Factory at the mouth of the Moose River was also a seaport, it provided the fur-trading company with transport of goods directly to Europe from the heart of the fur trading region. Two company ships came out each summer from the Orkney Islands with iron kettles, firearms, cloth and trinkets, and returned with their holds full of furs. The fur trade continues, though less heavily, but now the world markets for the Clay Belt furs are reached by train to Montreal. The Ontario Northland Railway is the link.

Ontario statisticians surveying the Clay Belt region point out that the fur trade is still important there, although everybody knows that mining and forestry far surpass it. There are still not enough people in the district to drive out all the fur-bearing animals—only 134,000 in the 37,205,120 acres of it, stretching from James Bay down to Nipissing, Sudbury and Algoma.

In the old days of the Company neither settlement nor industry was encouraged; in times since (it was 1878 when the Cochrane district was brought into Ontario) weather and soil have continued to discourage agriculture, and the ups-and-downs of forestry and gold mining have not tended to increase permanent settlement at the rate population has grown in other parts of Ontario. In the decade 1941-51 the population of the Clay Belt area increased only 1.9 per cent. over that in the preceding decade. Half the people, by the way, are of French origin.

The discovery of gold at Porcupine in 1909 created a new era for this northern territory; people came in, branch railway lines were built, and prospectors like Ken Hollinger, Sandy McIntyre, Harry Preston, the Timmins brothers, W. A. Wright and Harry Oakes, struck it rich. The only qualifications prospectors needed—or still need—are to be possessed of five dollars for the license and to have lived eighteen years. Luck was—and is—also required, especially by amateurs. Among the Harry Oakes and Timminses were 99,898 licensed prospectors all told in the years between 1918 and 1949; the mineral hunts of most of them ended in failure.

Owing to successful prospectors the Cobalt district became one of the world's greatest silver producers. But silver, like the gold in the area, is subject to fickle markets and prices. It is fortunate for the area now depressed around gold mines, that cobalt is in demand, having been used during the war for hardening cutting edges of machine tools, and now in jet engines for parts subject to great heat. The gold is still worth money, of course; in 1951 the region produced 1,912,097 ounces of gold worth $70,833,508. The most interesting new development is the open pit asbestos mine in the Porcupine area, which opened for operation in 1950. In 1951 more than half a million tons of material were processed or moved to get 26,587 tons of asbestos worth about three and three quarter million dollars.

After the Great War one heard much about the wonderful farming opportunities in the Clay Belt. There are two Clay Belts—the Little Clay Belt in Temiskaming (including New Liskeard and Kirkland Lake) and the Great Clay Belt stretching northwest from Cochrane. However, even in the Clay Belts the soil is not as good as that in farming areas of Southern Ontario—too much clay, too little good drainage. Rainfall is not as heavy as good crops require and the growing season can last as few as ninety days. Cattle (for milk and beef) are fairly profitable, to supply the settlements and towns, and the grass in the Clay Belts gives them good fodder.

The industry next in importance to mining is forestry; the Clay Belt sustains the finest pulpwood forests in the Province. The chief conifers are black spruce, balsam, white spruce and jack pine. Few of the trees grow to saw-log size because of the climate. One notes with interest that hardwoods are gaining on the soft woods, because the latter are cut for pulp, the former are left standing. It is suggested that a new industry or technique be developed in manufacturing so that the whole allowable cut in forest stands can be used.

The newsprint industry is a big employer. There is one mill at Iroquois Falls (a company town) which makes more than 800 tons of newsprint every working day. Another plant, at Kapuskasing, produces 750 tons of newsprint a day. We hasten to dissociate this newspaper from the greediness which gulps down thousands of trees (in the form of newsprint) every day; as a matter of fact, it is the New York Times which gets nearly all of the output of the Kapuskasing plant.

The people of the Clay Belt Region are a somewhat different species from their southern Ontario brethren, although they must be presumed to be as Christian. In fact, the Diocese of Moosonee is seated right at Moosonee.

The Taint Is Everywhere

Recently the Toronto Board of Education discussed whether or not it should accept some scholarships for high school students which had been offered by a company of distillers. Two members of the Board wanted to refuse the offer because the money was "tainted."

Some people will condemn such thinking as old-fashioned. It is not even that. We knew a very old-fashioned man, now dead for some years, who was a devout Methodist and who collected a great deal of money for the use of his church. He never failed to call on the tavern-keepers and the distillers, and he always got something from them. When anyone suggested to him that such money was tainted his reply was invariable: "Any money that is put to the Lord's work is redeemed." We think that he showed admirable common sense.

It is much too late for anyone to pretend that beer money and whisky money is tainted money, and should not be accepted by the godly folk of Ontario. We are all of us tainted through and through if any taint attaches to money which is derived from liquor. The Government collects huge revenues from its liquor monopoly, and distributes those revenues through schools, hospitals, highways, public health services and every sort of government agency. Does anybody really think that money so spent carries a taint with it because it has been realized through trade in liquor?

Of the honesty of the government liquor trade we shall say nothing here. We have pointed out many times that the government administers this monopoly with a rapacity which would be considered abominable in any private business. Every principle of fair dealing and legitimate profit is set aside when the various Canadian governments set to work to put taxes on liquor. But the money realized by these means is, upon the whole, well used and benefits the public.

Let us forget about "tainted" money. If there is such a taint we have all developed an immunity to it.

NOTES AND COMMENT

A Florida woman recently told her husband a joke which sent him to hospital with hysteria. Is it simply that he is an ideal audience, or should this woman be picked up by a TV sponsor?

The Brantford Expositor says that the pig is, at heart, a fellow of delicate feelings. And a lesson to us that if we have any delicate feelings, it is not a bad notion to give some outward sign of the fact.

An American woman suggests that there will soon be a new type of medical specialist, called an alcohologist, to deal with chronic drunks. Surely something fancier could be found in the way of a name? How about "Corrector of Temporary Personality Imbalance"?

LONDON LETTER

Churchill Can't Keep Promise

By ROBERT MILLER

THE ANNOUNCEMENT by the Premier, Sir Winston Churchill, that the Government will not restore the University seats which were abolished by the Labour Party, was not unexpected, even though a promise to restore them was given by the Conservatives at the last election.

The only real argument for giving the Universities their own representatives is that it enabled the independent non-Party man to get into the House of Commons. No one, I think, would deny that Parliament recruited a number of notable people who would never have got into the House but for the Universities. There was, for instance, Sir Alan Herbert, who not only enlivened many a dull session by a witty speech but was responsible for a famous Bill that completely changed the divorce laws of this country.

✧ ✧ ✧

OTHER well-known people come to mind—Mr. Wilson Harris, until recently Editor of the weekly London journal, "The Spectator," and Sir Arthur Salter, the economist, who has since gone to the rarified atmosphere of the House of Lords. Above all there was the late Irene Rathbone, one of the most lion-hearted women who have sat in Parliament. No one who was there during the war is likely to forget the way she turned on Mr. Aneurin Bevan for his attacks on Mr. Churchill. So crushed was Mr. Bevan by her angry but dignified protest that it was some time before he got over it.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT the argument against restoring the University seats is surely overwhelming. Restoration would have given the Labour Party a perfectly legitimate excuse for saying that the Tories were trying to "rig" things, since although the University Members belonged to no Party, they usually voted with the Conservatives.

The question would become a purely Party issue. In that kind of atmosphere, how could the University Members have voted as independent people? How could they have avoided feeling more sympathetic to the Tories? And how, finally, can one defend special representation for the Universities in a society that has accepted the principle of "one person, one vote?"

✧ ✧ ✧

THOSE WHO BELIEVE that an American recession is on the way have been quoting a recent issue of New York's "Wall Street Journal." That August periodical refers to the "creeping recession which has been under way for some four or five months," and adds that it is "not yet at an end." These words are not quite so ominous as they sound. A recession today has not the same meaning as it had before the war. What is happening in America is that economy is, for the moment, no longer expanding as it has done almost ceaselessly during the last decade.

✧ ✧ ✧

EVER since Britain's Conservative Government came to power in 1951, Labour economists in this country have been dolefully prophesying an American slump. During the first six months they said that Britain would certainly have a million unemployed; and there was hardly a Labour Member of Parliament who did not believe that his Party would soon be called on to rescue Britain from an economic crisis. Two years have passed since then, and these warnings have become a little blunted in the process.

As the "Wall Street Journal" shows, however, there are signs that the American economy is now wavering a little. Steel output is not so high as was expected, and loans from the banks have not been expanding as they usually do at this time of the year. Not all the signs are bad. There has been hardly any slackening in business activities, and the Stock Market seems to have got over its September attack of nerves.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHAT is the British Government's reaction to all this? Informed circles do not deny that there may soon be a small American recession: indeed, Ministers admit that it has been going on unobserved for some little time. All the same, I can find no trace of alarm or despondency. Ministers admit that Britain would be one of the first countries to be hit by an American recession; on the other hand they believe that this country is in a better position to stand up to it than in 1949, when Britain was forced to devalue the pound.

In 1949, they say, financiers all over the world were talking down the pound, and for this reason the first sign of crisis produced a rapid and increasing drain on the gold and dollar reserves. They could hardly be human if they did not think that, thanks to their efforts, there is now far greater confidence in Britain's financial and economic strength.

There is another reason for the Government's confidence. For three months, secret economic talks have been going on between this country and America and the British Commonwealth. While no firm agreement has been reached in the sense that a document has been signed by the three parties concerned, I understand that everybody is determined to act immediately there is another crisis. The steps that could be taken have, I am assured, been already discussed and Ministers evidently believe that a united policy would be put into effect within a short time.

✧ ✧ ✧

SIR WINSTON Churchill continues to astonish everybody. The other day I was on my way to the Foreign Office when Mr. John Foster Dulles, America's Secretary of State, and M. Bidault, French Foreign Minister, came out of the Premier's house at 10 Downing Street and stood smiling affably at the crowd of photographers. Through the open door one could see into the familiar ante-room and then the long passage beyond. The last farewells were said and the two distinguished visitors moved towards their cars. But the man who fascinated me was Sir Winston. Turning back into the house, he proceeded to walk at a brisk pace down the passage. A stranger would never have guessed either that he was nearly eighty years old or that he had just been through a serious illness.

✧ ✧ ✧

HIS BEHAVIOUR in the House of Commons is equally surprising. One would have thought that now he could have taken things easily, especially as other Prime Ministers have never felt compelled always to answer questions personally addressed to them. But Sir Winston still obstinately insists on coming to the House at question-time. He is, in fact, as active as ever he was. During the debate on the situation in British Guiana, for instance, he listened to the whole of the speech by the Colonial Secretary, Mr. Oliver Lyttelton, and then returned later in the evening to record his vote.

One other point struck me as I watched him last week: Sir Winston, despite his age, gets to his feet a good deal faster than some other Ministers I could name.

COMPLAINTS OF CIVIC ARENA

SIR: Who do you think paid for the Civic Arena to be built for the children's enjoyment? Well our parents donated for the Arena.

The price of 50 cents per person is highway robbery. 35 cents was enough before.

Don't you think it would be cheaper to pay an extro 10 cents and go to a show and get more for your money?

A person goes to the Arena, pays 50 cents to get in, buys a drink or something to eat and then pays their way home on a bus. The children getting allowances would have theirs spent all in one night.

Look at the poor hockey players, they have to pay $10.00 an hour. Look at the money your getting. Don't you feel like Thieves?

If a person couldn't skate and wanted to go down and watch he has to pay 25 cents when he should be able to get in free.

Down in Lindsay skating is only 35 cents for adults, 15 cents for children and free for spectators. A smaller town than Peterborough and they know a reasonable price.

Peterborough should be ashamed of the prices they charge.

The Arena which people thought would be a big one is no bigger than a small barn for the size of Peterborough.

People pay to skate and if they are skating a little too fast they are kicked out maybe for a night, a week, and sometimes for a year.

For the 50 cents we have to pay you would think they could buy new records instead of the same old ones such as "So Long, It's Been Good to Know You," and "Good Night Irene."

I hope Peterborough isn't proud of their Arena because I don't think the citizens are.

TEACHING AND I.Q.

SIR: The Globe and Mail's reprint (from your editorial page) on psychologists and their "I.Q." is appreciated.

You are doing a real service in pointing out the changeability of children—especially in adolescence!

This testing business tends to shove kids into particular courses and that Teutonic idea is opposite to the ideals that build up this "American" part of the world.

Real psychologists are in perfect accord with your views. So are experienced teachers. Dale Carnegie says in his "Instructors Creed:"

"I shall make a part of my creed these inspiring words uttered by the immortal William James, the father of modern psychology.

"Let no youth have any anxiety about the upshot of his education, whatever the line of it may be. If he kept faithfully busy each hour of the working day, he may safely leave the final results to itself. He can, with perfect certainty, count on waking up some fine morning to find himself one of the competent ones of his generation in whatever pursuit he may have singled out."

Sincerely,
FRED RICHARDSON.

SEEKS INFORMATION ABOUT THE SHEARER FAMILY

SIR: I wonder if you would help me to locate some members of the Shearer family. I believe there are some living in your district. My grandfather, James Shearer, lived to be 90 years or more. I do not know the I do not know the first name of my great grandfather. I would like to know, and if possible, I also would like to know when he first came to Lakefield and settled there. He came to Canada over 100 years ago. My mother, Jane Shearer, left there in the early part of this century and came to Toronto. I was born in Toronto Judy 27th, 1909. I have never known my father who left mother before I was born. She died in June, 1947. So you see, I must trace my family on my mother's side. I have never seen any of them except my uncle Albert in Syacuse, N.Y. But I was too young to remember. And uncle Bob who lived in Toronto and died in 1932. I have a very good reason for getting in touch with my relations as I have been very lonely. I wonder if they would care about me. If you are interested I will tell you more about myself. Hoping you will give this matter some consideration, I remain very truly yours,

(Mr.) NORMAN SHEARER,
74 Howaland Avenue,
Toronto, Ontario.

Bible Message

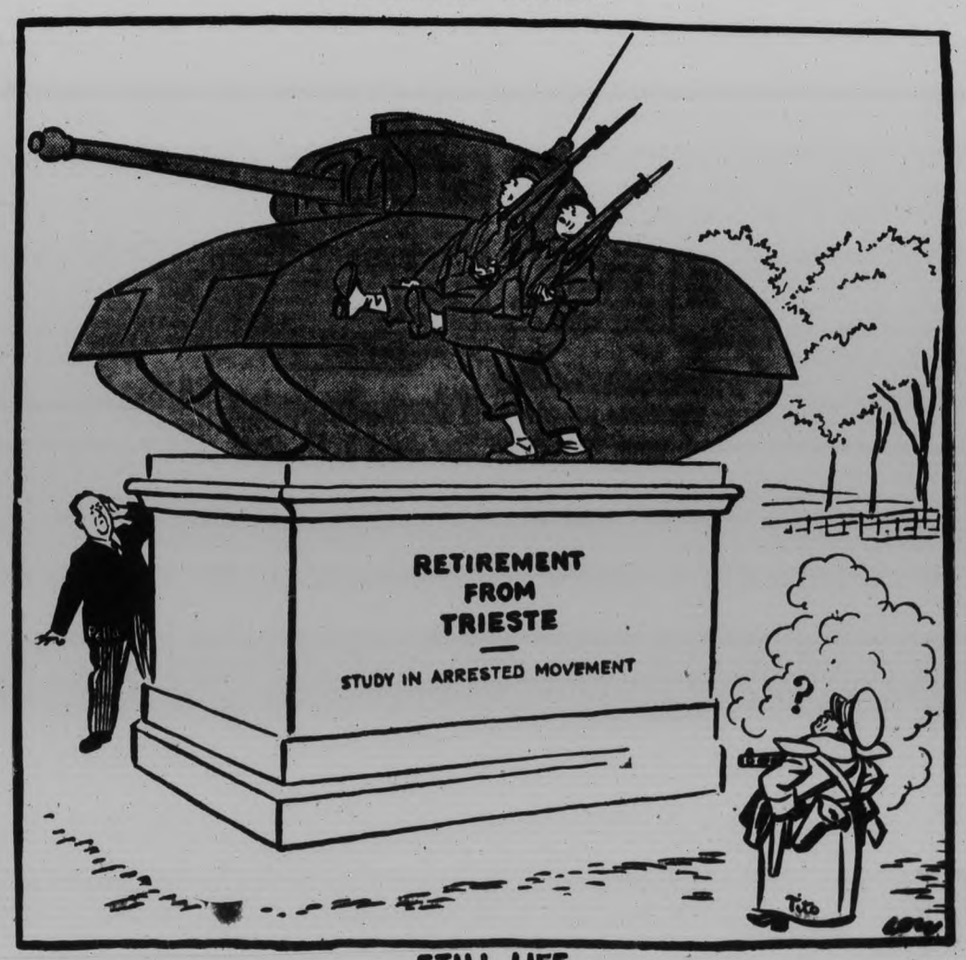
(From the Authorized Version)

Therefore, my brethern dearly beloved and longed for, my joy and crown, so stand fast in the Lord, my dearly beloved . . . Rejoice in the Lord alway: and again I say, Rejoice. Let your moderation be known unto all men. The Lord is at hand.

Be careful for nothing; but in every thing by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God. And the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus.

(Phil. 4: 1, 4-7).

✧ ✧ ✧



Look unto me, and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth: for I am God, and there is none else. I have sworn by myself, the word is gone out of my mouth in righteousness, and shall not return, That unto me every knee shall bow, every tongue shall swear. (Isa. 45:22,23.)

Presbyterian Pinch

from "His Dominion'

Generally speaking, Canadian Anglicans were sympathetic towards the scattered remnants of Presbyterians, left homeless in 1925. The Anglicans felt that some spiritual principle was involved; some ministerial and apostolical requirement. True, the same Anglicans wondered why union services, without embarrassment, took place during the summer; wondered why a declaration and a prayer seemed sufficient to correct the commissioning of a Baptist Minister when he entered the Presbyterian Church. But it was not our business, and we were glad and privileged to help in a crisis if only by the aid of a few metrical psalms. Much to our chagrin, we received a copy of the "Presbyterian Record" of May 1953, with the front cover displaying a picture of Westminster Abbey. From the same page, we learn that the Abbey is noted as the place where the "Westminster Confession of Faith; shorter and longer catechisms were formulated." These events took place when the Dean and Chapter were exiled, and when the Book of Common Prayer was prohibited, and an attempt was made to do away with Episcopacy and substitute Presbyterianism. A very factual account of some features of the coronation programme occurs on the inside pages, but it does seem a pity that the "period of the confiscation—no bishop: no king"—should be pointed out, when the Coronation was in people's minds.

Old Days Not Beyond Recall In Postcard Album Hold-All

WHEN BORED WITH RADIO, BRIDGE OR TV
TRY THE DELIGHTS OF GRANDMA'S CV*

(*Collected Views)

In the dear old days our parents and grandparents had various ways of devising family evening fun. Not the least of these was the collection and compiling of picture postcard albums. You could mail a postcard anywhere in Canada or the United States for one cent, to Britain or foreign lands for two. These collections are not to be confused with family snapshot albums which were strictly personal.

You may be lucky enough to find a postcard album in your attic. Bring it downstairs some evening when all members of the family have become bored with radio programs, TV, movies, cards or gossip. If an elderly relative is in the mood she will be mistress of ceremonies and, in looking over the collection, the family will learn something of their hometown and district as it looked 40, 60 years ago. It's fun.

The sophisticated young ones will snicker over the fashions but will be interested enough to compare them with those of today. Father will see Main Street again as he remembered it as a boy, perhaps some place where he went to school, where father bought him his first suit. Mother will recall the steamboat trips she took to the lakes, the sparking that went on on dark homebound trips. Uncle Willie remembers the old baseball club and will rack his brains to recall their names and the positions they played. Aunt Maud sees a picture of the old church where she was married. And cousins will see . . . but the possibilities are endless.

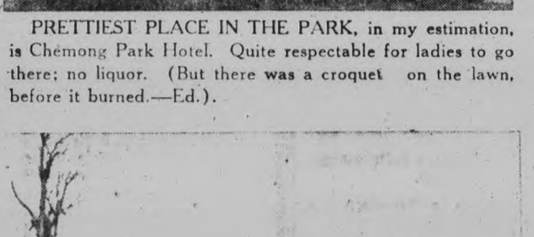
Granny of course holds the information key to every picture and can enlarge on things that happened at places when she was a girl.

The pictures on this page were lent to the Examiner by Mr. Albert Troop of Burnham St., from an album prepared by Miss Gussie Griffin of Lakefield who now lives near Gananoque at the hearty age of 93. Many recall how nimble Miss Griffin was with her hands.

She not only collected local photos and postcards but took photos herself. She also fashioned miniature paddles and worked with red cedar roots, turning them into hatracks, jardinieres, and so forth.

The postcard pictures on this page had no writing on backs of the originals and the captions, aside from accurate pinpointing of scene names, are our own, written in the terse, friendly message form used in those days on the limited writing space.

Mrs. Lavenia Jameson, 92, of 544 Harvey St., in the picture at the top left, kindly consented to pose with her postcard album to enhance the mood of our picture postcard story of 1900-1907.



PRETTIEST PLACE IN THE PARK, in my estimation, is Chemong Park Hotel. Quite respectable for ladies to go there; no liquor. (But there was a croquet on the lawn, before it burned.—Ed.).

ROLLAND STRICKLAND, Esq., entertained a few of us at his fine Lakefield home last week. (It was burned some years ago.—Ed.).

CAPT. PAT YOUNG let a few of us sit on the front deck of the "Empress" on the way to the cottage. Saw the Collins' at Juniper.

A SMART TURNOUT was made by the P.C.I. cadets at the Riverside Ball Park. They carried real rifles and bayonets. Dangerous, don't you think?

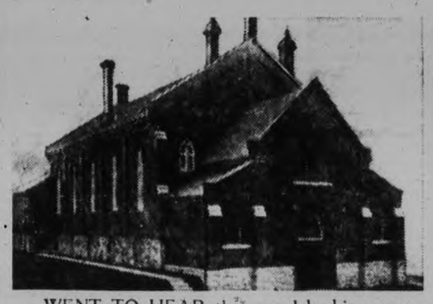
THEYR'E WORKING full tilt at the Cavendish Company mill, Lakefield. We hope the safety screen on the waste burner is sound; if not it could burn the plant. (It did.—Ed.).

THE APSLEY STAGE is more comfortable now with a shade on top. Made the trip in twelve hours last week; rough going in places.

WENT ON THE "ESTURION" to Juniper Island regatta on Saturday. Had lots of fun going, there and coming home. Harry is quite a card, don't you think?

SOMETHING WENT WRONG at the Burleigh Locks. We watched a diver going down to work. It was absolutely thrilling!

THERE WAS SO MUCH SNOW when we went to Lakefield the other day, behind the snow plow, we were half an hour late.



YOU KNOW WHO THIS IS. The proud owner-master of the "Maida Vale" on deck as the launch went through Lovesick Locks.

PETERBOROUGH IS BECOMING heavily-industrialized. The new Quaker Oats milling plant is very busy these days. (It burned in December, 1916, and 16 people lost their lives in the fire.—Ed.).

ARTHUR CHOATE of Warsaw has opened a store at McCracken's Landing, Stony Lake. We called there for groceries on Tuesday.

WENT TO HEAR that good-looking new minister on Sunday, both morning and evening services. (Murray Street Baptist Church is now the Canadian Legion Hall.—Ed.).

YOU OUGHT TO SEE THEM play ball. Forget some of those in this picture but can see Arthur Johnston and Chris Graham.

NICK NICKELS

When a deer comes into a hunter's gun sights and the thrill, excitement, or what have you, makes the weapon wobble all over the place, the condition is called BUCK FEVER. In the Kawarthas it takes many forms and gets in the blood stream weeks in advance of that hunt . . . .

Next to the opening of the trout season on May 1, following a winter of enforced idleness, I don't know of another phase of outdoor sport that causes as much excitement as deer hunting, or in the preparation for it.

We hear of very few fishermen that get tuckered out on opening day but casualties on the deer front are legion, not in the fatalities which are deplorable, but in the sudden wear and tear on the human frame.

A lot of my flabby friends sprang from their desks on Friday evening to rush home and get ready for deer trails. None of them have given their health a thought since they bought their last life insurance policies ten, twenty years ago. They have forgotten about their tired tickers and high blood pressures, their eyesight that has been giving them trouble for the last while or their capacities to swill hard drinks like they used to with the boys.

Nor have they done any shooting since they locked the deer camp door last fall. It is against the law to shoot—even target practice—on Sunday, so, by dawn's early light on Monday morning they are going to be in a bad way.

But you can't stop them in their mad rush to the woods; they will be behind every piece of cover or stalking out into the open line of fire with a deer carcass over their shoulders, just asking to be potted.

What have their dogs got to look forward to?

We doubt if they have had any conditioning either. They will be run to death. And before they start their kind masters will remove their tagged collars for fear they will get snagged up somewhere and hang themselves. Too few hound owners give thought to marking their animals by a light metal tag fastened to the dog's ear, the owners initials clipped in the animal's hair or tattoo marks inside the ear.

Dogs wilfully lost, because of lack of identification, result in hungry animals killing deer all through the winter that have to be shot by conservation officers after they have done great damage to wintering deer herds.

Then there's the weather. It can be too warm to keep game. There can be an early heavy snowfall within the first few days which may mean good tracking for the few well-conditioned hunters but a deadly condition for the softie. It may also get so cold that entire camps of hunters are imprisoned behind coverings of first ice.

There will be all sorts of excuses if game is hard to get. I've heard forerunner stories on the street, such as:

"It should be alright in the Haultain area this year; there is no road blasting going on".

If deer are scarce again this year in your old stamping grounds did you ever think that Tent Caterpillar infestation has anything to do with it? I do.

If the bugs eat off all the browse for fawns in early June and July the does are going to travel to areas that provide plenty of food for their young, and themselves. If any of you fellows shoot in a chewed over area and have little luck, tell me if this observation has merit.

But ahunting they will go and nothing but the same old routine will get it out of their systems. Their eagerness to bring home something for the pot/locker is natural, and even praiseworthy, as long as it does not lead them to disregard the law or endanger another hunter's life.

Cam Rowatt can be singled out for special mention for his great effort in arranging the sixth annual convention banquet of Zone 5, Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters, held last weekend in the city. He was also elected secretary of that group for the fourth year running. Members of the Peterborough Fish and Game appeared to stay away from the affair in great droves.

Among district migrants to Moosonee and the great goose hunt were Glenn Varty of Belmont township, Bill Montgomery, Roseneath, Doug Langford, Warkworth and Hilton Harris, Cobourg. They had tide troubles in a canoe manned by guide Johnny Smallboy, but all kinds of fun, as it appears to them now, and geese aplenty.

Pontiacs And Petes Draw In 7-7 Overtime Tussle, Open OHA Senior Schedule

Orillia Pontiacs and the Petes drew 7-7 in overtime here last night before 1,200 fans to open their OHA senior "B" schedule with a sizzling scrap. Petes came from behind in the second period to take a two-goal lead, but Orillia cashed in on a local penalty late in the third to sew it up, and they tied it again in the extra inning after the Petes had counted a marker. It was a speedy, close and exciting game, rugged in spots but generally clean. Orillia drew 10 of the 16 penalties, mostly of a minor nature. Curly Mason got a 10-minute misconduct in the overtime chukker for arguing too strenuously when Referee Doug Calhoun of Oshawa failed to call an offside on Orillia.

While the players weren't in as perfect a condition as they will be later in the schedule, and there were some rough spots seen, yet it was a fine early-season fixture and indicates that Petes and Pontiacs will be pretty well matched in this campaign. Petes led 1-0 in the first frame and had a 5-3 bulge to end the second. But they were outscored 3-1 in the third, and each side lit the lamp once in the extra 10-minute period.

Coach Eddie Redmond, Denny Peterson and Bill Crowley each scored two for the locals with Toodie Greenlaw getting the other. Two assists each went to Bert Hill, Ron Belisle and Curly Mason, and one apiece to Don Floyd, Keith Montgomery and Doc Prentice. Crowley's speed fooled two loafing Pontiacs once as Bill tore in to steal a loose puck from them and bang it home. Jack Donlevy played a steady cage game for the Redmond squad. Chum Fryia was out from a mild concussion in the previous game.

LED PONTIACS

Ab Bowen scored two and aided on three more in a starry role for the Pontiacs. Single goals went to playing coach Vic Gregg, Murray Richardson, Russ Aitkin, Dan Macdonald and Clary Payne. High on assists was Al Shewchuck with four, while Richardson and Aitkin had two each, singles going to Payne and Windsor.

During the intermission between the second and third periods of this hockey game, the B'nai B'rith car was drawn for and won by T. R. Canden. Also, the lacrosse Trailermen's draws were made with the oil burner being won by Les Hooks, and the trailer by R. Fairs.

The Petes' next home game is against Belleville this coming Monday night at 8.30 in Civic Arena, their only local tilt of the week.

Teams:

Orillia — Goal, Shropshire; defence, Pearsall and Shewchuck; centre, Bowen; wings, Richardson and Macdonald; alternates, Payne, Aitken, Windsor, McCrone, oWods, McLeod, Noreno and Gregg.

Petes — Goal, Donlevy; defence, Armstrong and Montgomery; centre, Hill; wings, Crowley and Prentice; alternates, Munroe, Redmond, Leonard, Greenlaw, Mason, Belisle, Peterson and Floyd.

Referees—D. Calhoun and J. Crombie.

The summary:

FIRST PERIOD

Petes—Greenlaw (Mason) 2:39
Penalties — Woods Peterson, Gregg, Shewchuck, Hill, Crowley, Macdonald.

SECOND PERIOD

Orillia—Macdonald (Bowen, Richardson) 3:18
Orillia—Payne (Aitkin) 5:07
Orillia—Aitkin (Payne, Windsor) 5:15
Petes—Peterson (Belisle) 5:28
Petes—Redmond (Prentice, Mason) 10:42
Petes—Crowley (Montgomery) 15:12
Petes—Crowley (Hill) 18:50
Penalties — Montgomery, McLeod, Shewchuckx, Pearsall.

THIRD PERIOD

Orillia—Bowen (Shewchuck, Richardson 0:26
Petes—Peterson (Floyd, Belisle). 4:32
Orillia—Bowen (Shewchuck, Aitkin) 15:18
Orillia—Gregg (Bowen, Shewchuck) 16:44
Penalties—Windsor, Armstrong.

OVERTIME

Petes—Redmond ((Hill) 1:15
Orillia—Richardson (Bowen, Shewchuck) 1:39
Penalties—Gregg, Mason, Aitkin.

SCORING THRUST THAT FAILED—There was plenty of scoring Friday night when Petes and Orillia tied 7-7 in their first game of the season in Peterborough, but there was no goal on this play. Bill Crowley (behind the net) picked up the loose puck as playing coach Ed Redmond (right), stickless, held off an unidentified Pontiac player. John Donlevy keeps his eye on the Orillia player.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Just for the record, we have the first committee slate for the proposed Memorial Centre. On Nov. 3, 1943, Mayor James Hamilton presided over a large public meeting in the council chambers and this provisional committee was selected to nominate officers and consider the financing of an artificial ice arena here: Ald. Herb Bradburn, Fred Cripps, Bob Abbott, J. E. Thomas, Ald. Rollie Glover, G. A. Macdonald, Ted Weir, Bill Johnston, Charles Cummer, Lew Ingram, H. L. Garner, J. R. Marshall, Ald. Adam Sands, Mort Riddell, Dick Raine and Jim Dutton Jr. The meeting was of the unanimous opinion that the city required such a project soon and we're glad to see 10 years later, that concrete action will be taken within the next year. A lot of unfortunate delays have occurred.

PMLA executive did it up brown last e'en at a fine dinner for officers, coaches, managers and a few guests. They were winding up another good year when several hundred boys from peewee age up were kept busy in supervised lacrosse competition. A grant from the Rec. Commish, a life-saver tag day and a percentage of senior OLA gates here keep this excellent minor sports organization going, and many citizens will vouch for its value. Executive this year consisted of Prexy Ken Kingston; vice-presidents, Barney Dundas, Len Symonds and Walt Murphy; secretary, Roy Renwick; treasurer, Keith Sedgwick; conveners, Walt Firth, bantam; Mac VanAllen, midget; John Parry, juvenile. Managers and coaches, too, rate much credit. Junior players Bob Allan and Bob Curtis did fine putting their peewees into OLA finals.

Three Squads In Action

Three Peterborough football teams are in important playoff action today and games should be just about over when this paper rolls off the press. St. Peter's go in Belleville in a sudden-death junior "B" game for the lakeshore and Bay of Quinte titles—and for COSSA honors if no further competition offers in this category. PCVS seniors played Oshawa CVI this aft in Riverside in a sudden-death game for the lakeshore championship and the right to go into COSSA playdowns of the "A" variety. A COSSA rule made Oshawa Combines cut down to a team from one school and settle honors in this sudden-deather. Our Orfuns open ORFU intermediate "A" finals in Oakville today with the return game here next Saturday aft, points counting.

Scribe Gordon of the Cobourg weekly says that after the Ghosts blew two early placement attempts he went out and shot himself—"it's easier that way". However, he must have tickled the typewriter a bit ere the suicide as he wrote: "The Orfuns outplayed, outgambled and outslugged the Ghosts during the final 57 minutes and were the better team in each and every department. One man, Jim Milligan, possessed of a violent hatred for the Gallopers, led his team to the one-sided victory that could have been bigger on the scoreboard . . . Bark had a good kicking day . . . Orfuns won on the strength of Milligan, Huntley, Naismith, Jensen and a strong front wall . . . In general the Gallopers looked bad because they were up against a stronger, better balanced club.

Lakefield Ready To Go

Lakefield Indians of the OHA intermediate lakeshore loop open their schedule next Wednesday in Port Hope. Bowmanville opens the same eve in Lindsay. Lakefield goes to Bowmanville on Nov. 10, with Orono vs. Lakefield here two nights later. Frank Buckland is expected to have the complete schedule drafted by the end of week. Bowmanville has to take second place at home to Oshawa Truckmen, who lost their arena in the recent fire. Cobourg also is without an arena until well out in December. Lakefield will use Peterborough ice at least until they have natural ice at home, and perhaps even after that. Schedule runs till the middle of February with semi-finals best-of-five and finals best-of-seven. Six clubs in.

* * * * * *

After seeing that lively senior "B" puck scrap here last eve when Orillia Pontiacs and the Petes drew 7-all in overtime, we expect all those 1,200 fans and some more will be on deck Monday p.m. when Belleville Memos meet Eddie Redmond's men. Petes came from behind nicely with four straight goals in the second period for a comfy lead but a penalty to Army Armstrong late in the third period proved costly and the Pontiacs whipped in a brace of markers to send it into overtime. Each side counted once in the extra heat. The boys were stepping fast, bumping briskly and turning in some nice hockey for so early in the semester. Looks like a lot of keen action in this group race right from the start. Leading point-getting for us in this fray were Redmond, Bill Crowley, Denny Peterson, Curly Mason and Ron Belisle with two each. Bowen, Aitkin and Shewchuk stood out for Orillia. Both goalies kicked out plenty of hot rubber.

Dese, Dem And Dose

Pewee and bantam baseball city champs have a windup dinner at 6:30 next Tuesday eve in the YMCA . . . Should be some local basketball activity shortly as football will be fading soon from the scene . . . Entries for the minor puck association here close at a meeting at eight Nov. 1 in the King George Hotel . . . Jim Ruttan of Trent River has been sent by Boston Bruins to play junior "A" hockey from New Liskeard . . . AHL plays overtime to settle tie games and last year only four per cent of the contests played resulted in draws . . . Aldo Guidolin of New York Rangers hails from an oddly-named little Ontario town called Forks of Credit . . . No OHA junior "B" group lined up as yet for this area . . . Church Hockey League is being re-organized and should be playing ere the end of Nov. . . . Still seems to be some confusion o'er that icing-the-puck rule which keeps changing from year to year . . . Curly Mason was pretty peeved at Ref Doug Calhoun late in last night's fray and argued himself a misconduct penalty . . . Kingston edged Belleville 6-5 last night; don't know whether Jake Wade was in on the scoring for the Memos or not . . . Happy Hallow'en, and no soap!

Filchock Says Western Team To Win Cup

By WILF CHISLETT

REGINA (CP)—Fearless Frank Filchock says "the team that wins in the West this year will win the Grey Cup" but not even the most hopeful of fans concedes him a chance of carrying the Prairie banner East.

The old warrior leads his Saskatchewan Roughriders into the second game of the Western Inter-Provincial Football Union semi-final here today against Winnipeg Blue Bombers and what appeared to be insurmountable odds—a 38-point deficit in the two-game total-point series.

Only a miracle could recoup the stunning 43-5 loss the Riders suffered in Winnipeg Wednesday night in the first game of the series and send Saskatchewan into the final against Edmonton Eskimos.

BIG CROWD EXPECTED

A crowd close to the record of 15,565 set here Thanksgiving Day was expected for the game despite a forecast of near-freezing weather and possible snow.

Filchock made his prediction Friday night after the Riders watched a film of the first semi-final game. He didn't say Saskatchewan couldn't pull the football upset of the year against the Bombers although he admitted it was "going to be tough to get all those points back."

Filchock said his team was in "pretty bad shape," but "We're going out there and really play ball." He tolled off the list of the injured: End Harry Lapman, bad knee; tackle Martin Ruby, sore ankle; halfback Johnny Harper, head injury; halfback Fred Hamilton, sore side, and end Mac Speedie, sore back.

Add to this Stan Williams, Mel Aull, Art McEwan and Scotty Bissett, players sidelined from earlier games along with quarterback Glenn Dobbs, still hobbling on a gimpy leg.

Winnipeg has most players in good shape. The only switch from Wednesday is expected to be a substitution of tackle Roger Savoie for Ross McCallum.

Canada Places Second At Show

HARRISBURG, Pa. (CP)—Canada finished second in Friday's final low-score event to take runner-up honors in the three-day international low-score competition at the Pennsylvania National Horse Show.

Canada had 12 faults on three knockdowns, four more than the winning United States riders, to finish with an aggregate of 21 faults.

The United States team, with the lowest fault total of 16, won the 104th Cavalry Trophy for the low-score championship.

Third was Ireland with a total of 22 faults and England was fourth with 27 faults.

Leading the Canadian team was 18-year-old Shirley Thomas of Ottawa, who rode White Sable, followed by W. R. Ballard on Skipacross and Lt.-Col. Charles Baker on Anchors Aweigh.

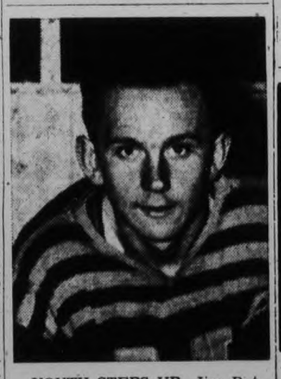
Bitter Dispute Erupts Again

QUEBEC (CP)—One of last season's bitterest hockey disputes smouldered back to life Friday as the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association found itself embroiled in the case of an 18-year-old goaltender, reported reluctant to leave home.

Parties to the dispute are Quebec Citadelles, the outcasts of Quebec junior hockey, and the Frontenacs, who have succeeded them in the Provincial Junior Amateur Hockey Association. Both clubs claim the services of Jacques Marcotte, a Citadelle last spring and a Frontenac this fall.

Backing Frontenacs is the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association, still bitter over its suspension by the CAHA last spring over a similar case involving Ron Atwell of Montreal Junior Canadiens.



BEHIND CITADELS

Behind the Citadelles now playing in the Ontario Hockey Association's Junior A loop, is the CAHA, which declared that Marcotte must return to his old club.

Secretary-manager George Dudley of the CAHA announced Friday that a telegraphic vote of branch executives had awarded the goalie to the Citadelles. President Frank Byrne of the OHA club announced he would sign up the youngster as soon as possible.

Meanwhile, Hon. Gerald Martineau, honorary president of the Frontenacs and a member of the Quebec legislative council, retorted that Marcotte would wear a Frontenac uniform when his club plays again Sunday.

In Montreal, Martin Conway, QAHA president, said Friday night that the CAHA had no right to award Marcotte to anybody and that it is the QAHA's prerogative to decide whether a player may be transferred out of the Quebec branch.

YOUTH STEPS UP—Jim Ruttan, 17-year-old puckist of Trent River, has been sent to play junior "A" hockey with New Liskeard by Boston Bruins. Jim was the only one of five district prospects to make the junior "A" grade after the Boston tryout camp. In his first trial at Oshawa he was one of the many boys to lose all his equipment in the arena fire. Jim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Ruttan. He attended public school at Havelock and at the Norwood District

Owen Sound Edges Hamilton Tabbies 3 - 2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

If nothing else, the results of Friday night's games in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series wandered from their regular pattern.

Hamilton Tigers, undefeated in their first four starts, were bested for the first time this season when the pesky Owen Sound Mercurys waltzed into Hamilton and edged the Tabbies 3-2.

The other surprise was the 7-0 pasting Sarnia Sailors gave Chatham Maroons for their first victory of the season. They had dropped the first four games.

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A southern group, Sudbury Wolves moved back into second place with a 6-1 nod over Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Indians in Sudbury.

The Mercurys struck fast in Hamilton, taking a 2-0 lead before the game was two minutes old.

Buck Forslund drove home a loose puck after 29 seconds of the opening period to give the Mercuries a lead they never relinquished. Harry Kazarian made it 2-0 50 seconds later. Bill McComb fired the winner in the third. Frank Liscombe and Eddie Busch counted for the Tigers.

In Sarnia, the outcome was never in doubt.

Art White and playing-coach Les Douglas fired two each for the winners. Singles went to Chuck Glaab, Jerry Horton and Vern Gardiner.

FIFTH LOSS IN ROW

In the NOHA the Indians suffered their fifth consecutive loss. Tatters McLellan and Yacker Flynn netted two each to lead Sudbury goal-getters. Gordie Heale and Hub Beaudry fired one each. Laurie Peterson saved the Michigan entry from a shutout.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, undefeated in three tries, travel to Stratford to clash with the Indians, and the last-place Niagara Falls Cataracts play host to Hamilton in Saturday games. The Indians will tackle the Bulldogs of Windsor Sunday in Windsor.

In the NOHA, North Bay Trappers go to Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., for a Saturday session with the Greyhounds and cross the border to meet the Indians Sunday.

TWO SPORTS ENTHUSIASTS

TORONTO (CP)—A couple of real sports enthusiasts, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Waghorne celebrate their 65th wedding anniversary today.

Waghorne, the "grand old man of Ontario lacrosse," says he's 85. Mrs. Waghorne won't admit her age.

The former Mary Louise Heffernan, she married the young athlete shortly before her 18th birthday "and I've been with him everywhere since."

She followed his career in lacrosse until he quit at 34. Then it was lacrosse and hockey refereeing until he was nearly 70. He also held a long string of sports executive positions.

Waghorne was instrumental in founding the Toronto Lacrosse-Hockey League, forerunner of the Toronto Hockey League of which he was president for many years. He also headed the Canadian Lacrosse Association and the Ontario Lacrosse Association.

He estimates he has refereed 2,400 hockey games, mostly in the OHA, and 1,500 lacrosse contests.

RICHARDS HAS 4 WINNERS

NEWMARKET, England (AP)—Sir Gordon Richards, Britain's star jockey, booted home the first four winners at Newmarket horseracing track Friday and brought his total of winning mounts this season to 185. Richards has ridden 200 winners each season since the end of the war. He has 11 more racing days to do the trick again this season.

All-Canadian Teams Play Intermediate

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Intermediate football, where Canadians don't have to jostle with United States imports for playing positions, now is in the midst of eliminations aimed at bringing champions of Eastern and Western Canada together Saturday, Nov. 21 for the Dominion title.

In the West the field is reduced to two—St. Boniface Legionnaires, 1952 Canadian titleholders, and Fort William Redskins, champions of the Thunder Bay League. St. Boniface won the Manitoba title this week. The two teams meet Nov. 8 at Fort William in a sudden-death game to decide the Western champs.

In the East five teams are in the running, two in Ontario and three in Quebec.

In Ontario, Peterborough Orfuns and Oakville Black Knights open a home-and-home total points series today at Oakville. The second game will be at Peterborough next Saturday. The winner will enter the sudden-death eastern final at the home grounds of the Quebec champions Nov. 15.

WIND-UP IN QUEBEC

In Quebec, the four-team league winds up its schedule this weekend, with Verdun Bulldogs playing at Ottawa Seconds today and St. Aloysius Orfuns at Lakeshore Flyers of Valois, Que., Sunday. With one game apiece left to play, Lakeshore and Verdun are tied for first place with St. Aloysius two points behind, Ottawa is out of the running.

The Quebec playoff schedule has not been announced but it is expected a winner will be declared by Nov. 7 to meet the Ontario champions.

The East-West game will be played in the East, one week before the Grey Cup game. At stake is the Ferguson Trophy, first awarded in 1927. Last year the big game was played in the West for the first time and St. Boniface downed Peterborough.

Virtually all players on the contending teams are Canadians.

Canadiens Have Longest Injury List In NHL But No One Sheds Tears

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Canadiens have the National Hockey League's longest injury list, but few tears are being shed on their behalf. The Stanley Cup champions travel to Chicago for a date with the last-place Black Hawks tonight without centres Dickie Moore and Jean Beliveau and defenceman Doug Harvey. But they own a four-game winning streak, the longest of the season, and a four-point bulge over their nearest competition.

The history of the Habitants is studded with occasions when substitutes proved the undoing of the opposition. The most recent example was Thursday night's performance by Tom Johnson, who switched from his defence spot to centre and scored the two goals that beat Toronto Maple Leafs 3-1.

Even with the loss of all-star defenceman Harvey, who suffered a knee injury in the late stages of the Toronto game, coach Dick Irvin considered himself so well stocked with blue-liners that he called up a centre, Gerry Desaulniers of Montreal Royals, as a replacement.

AT REGULAR POST

That means Johnson will be back at his regular post with Jim McPherson, Butch Bouchard and Dollard St. Laurent. Desaulniers will join Elmer Lach, Ken Mosdell and Paul Masnick, another promoted Royal, on pivot duty.

Irvin hopes his makeshift forward alignment will work well enough to handle the Hawks, who have won only once in nine tries, and perhaps even penetrate the defences of the second-place Red Wings, whom they meet in Detroit Sunday.

The Wings, the last team to take Montreal's measure, clobbered the Canadiens 4-0 on their last visit but have dropped 4-1 and 1-0 decisions to them on the road.

Before tackling the league-leaders, the second-place Wings entertain the troublesome Boston Bruins the club that knocked them out of the Stanley Cup playoffs last spring.

Toronto Maple Leafs, tied with the Bruins for third place, engage New York Rangers in a home-and-home set, starting in Toronto Saturday night. The Rangers didn't win a game in Toronto last season and have a tie to show for their first visit this fall.

Kitchener Edges Guelph 5-4 In 'Junior A'

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Guelph Biltmores, a potential charge of TNT that could have exploded into a four-point lead in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A standings, have had their fuse snuffed out.

The Biltmores, tied with Toronto Marlboros and St. Catharines Teepees atop the nine-team circuit, could have forged ahead this week when they played two scheduled games while their first-place rivals first chance against Barrie Flyers Wednesday and Friday night were decisioned 5-2 on home ice by Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts.

In the only other game Friday night Hamilton Tigers bounced Barrie Flyers, last year's Memorial Cup winners, 4-2 in Barrie.

Although the Biltmores remain tied for league-leading honors, both Marlboros and St. Catharines have the jump in games played. Guelph has split 10 games evenly. Marlboros have played only six, winning five of them, and St. Catharines have taken five out of seven.

THREE FOR HICKS

Greig Hicks rammed home three goals and chalked up three assists to lead the Kitchener assault. Gary Collins and Roy Greenan notched the other goals for Kitchener. Ed Shack and Bob Forhan replied for Guelph.

In Barrie Earl Larouche, Ed Louttit, Ted Reid and Bill Stewart shared the Hamilton scoring. Jim Robertson and Johnny Martan counted for Barrie.

Saturday action will pit Marlboros against the Black Hawks at Galt, Toronto St. Michael's College Majors against the Tigers in Hamilton and Barrie against the Teepees in St. Catharines.

Sunday Quebec Citadelles welcome Kitchener and St. Catharines and Galt head for Toronto to battle St. Michael's and Marlboros respectively.

ROMEO, JULIET TOGETHER

STRATFORD (CP)—Romeo and Juliet will play hockey together every Saturday. Romeo Public School and Juliet Public School lacked players to form teams by themselves. But by pooling their forces, they found they could enter a strong team in the Rotary-YMCA League which includes some 300 school children.

Like other school districts, Romeo and Juliet were named after characters in the plays of Shakespeare, from whose English birthplace Stratford gained its name.

Panthers Refuse To Play Ghosts For "B" Title

TORONTO (CP)—Bill Fry, Intermediate Ontario Rugby Football Union secretary - registrar, announced Friday night that Hamilton Panthers had said they would not play Cobourg Galloping Ghosts for the Intermediate B championship.

The Panthers were to play host to the Ghosts in the first game of the two-game, total-points series. The title is decided between the second-place teams in the eastern and westrn groups.

Oakville Black Knights, who finished ahead of the Panthers in the western group, meet Peterborough Orfuns in Oakville tonight in the first contest of a two-game, total-points series for the Intermediate A title.

No reason was given for Hamilton's withdrawal.

Tangled Canadian Dispute Nearing End With Japan

By JACK MACBETH

OTTAWA (CP)—A tangled international dispute concerning the jurisdictional status of Canadian troops in Japan appears to be nearing settlement.

Informed sources say a United States-Japanese agreement probably will provide the key to solution of an impasse which has beset Japanese and Canadian negotiators for more than a year.

The trouble began, not when Canadians first went to Japan in 1950 to fight the Korean war, but following the Japanese peace treaty of April 1952. Until that time Canadian and other UN forces in Japan enjoyed the same privileges and immunities as American occupation troops.

This meant that if they committed a crime against Japanese persons or property, they would answer only to their own army discipline.

STATUS CHANGED

But, from the effective date of the peace treaty, the Japanese began to insist that all UN forces except Americans be placed under the criminal jurisdiction of Japanese authorities. Commonwealth countries, including Canada, wanted no part of such a scheme.

Under a bilateral agreement between Japan and the United States, American troops as security forces were to continue to enjoy their occupational privileges and immunities until such time as a new agreement was reached.

A clause in the original agreement said a new one must be drawn up as soon as a jurisdictional understanding was reached among member forces of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. It was to be patterned after the NATO accord.

The arguments between Japan and the Commonwealth, in 1952, were these:

Japan claimed that UN forces should not expect to be given the same consideration and privileges as the Americans, who were there to "protect" Japan.

WANTED SAME TREATMENT

The Commonwealth countries said they would not settle for anything less favorable than the treatment accorded U.S. forces.

While Commonwealth and Japanese negotiators tried in vain to resolve the dispute, jurisdictional relations were for the most part smoothed out by restraint on both sides.

Commonwealth troops were told to be extremely careful in their off-duty behavior, and Japanese police were ordered not to interfere unless absolutely necessary.

Last summer, a NATO "status of forces" agreement was reached. Almost at once, the Japanese reminded the United States of the pertinent clause in their original agreement. A new one was signed recently with similar provisions to those of the NATO accord.

Under the new agreement, U.S. soldiers who commit crimes against Japanese persons or property can be arrested and tried by Japanese authorities.

Now, say the same sources, the Commonwealth position probably can be reconciled with Japanese demands. Negotiations are expected in the near future.

Britain Regaining Position Among Top Sports Nations

By STERLING SLAPPEY

LONDON (CP) — The 1952 and 1953 sports seasons prove that Britain has crawled a long way back toward her old position among the top sports nations in the world.

Biggest improvements and the best showings have been made in track, especially among milers, middle distance men and the long range boys.

In the last year, Jim Peters has bettered several marathon marks, although there is no recognized record because of the difference in course. His present world's best figure for the 26 mile 385 yard grind is two hours 18:34.5. Gordon Pirie recently set the world six-mile mark of 28:19.4. Pirie also has set new British marks for the mile and a half, two, three, four, five and six mile races.

Britain's four-mile relay team of Bill Nankeville, Don Seaman, Roger Bannister and Chris Chataway holds the world mark of 16:41 after a 1953 performance. The 6,000-metre relay team holds the record of 15:27.2.

Bannister did a 4:03.6 mile this summer.

GOLF BETTER

Great improvement in British golf has been shown. Early in October Britain lost in Ryder Cup matches to United States professionals, 5½ to 6½. Had two final-round, three-foot putts dropped for the youngsters, Peter Alliss and Bernard Hunt, Britain would have won.

Among the amateurs, Britain again lost in Walker Cup play. But, for the first time, Britain's Curtis Cup team of women amateurs defeated the American, 5 to 4, at Muirfield in 1952.

For the first time since 1932 England won a test cricket series against Australia last summer.

Marcel Boussac and the Volterras of France, and the foreign-bred horses of the Aga Khan, were sweeping most of the important races on British tracks for several years after the Second World War. But, during the last two seasons, British and Irish horses have made a huge comeback.

SOCCER WINS

There have been recent soccer victories over Austria, France, Belgium, Chile and Switzerland.

In many other sports, such as motorcycle racing, auto racing, horse show jumping and figure skating, Britain has come up with new star performers.

But Britain is still deeply deficient in two major sports, tennis and boxing.

Other than middleweight Randy Turpin and possibly one or two others, Britain has not a single world calibre fighter.

In tennis the situation is about as dark, but the Lawn Tennis Association at least is at work on the problem. A scheme to provide competition for Britain's better youngsters is backed by the association.

Prisoner Repatriation

MOSCOW (AP) — Tass, Soviet news agency, today said a Japanese Red Cross delegation which has arrived here will negotiate for the repatriation of Japanese war prisoners who were "released ahead of time from punishment for war crimes, as well as those who have served their sentences." The five-man Japanese delegation had its first meeting Friday with the Soviet Red Cross.

SCORES SIX TOUCHDOWNS—Fullback Lorne Benson of Winnipeg Blue Bombers carries the ball on a scoring spree against Saskatchewan Roughriders in a Western Interprovincial Football Union playoff game at Winnipeg. Benson made six touchdowns as Winnipeg flattened the Roughriders 43-5. To prove the going wasn't easy, Benson picked up a blood-spattered nose along the line.

Wife Abducted On Orders Of Husband

CHICAGO (AP)—A woman who escaped from an ex-convict after her abduction which police said was planned by her husband says: "I still love him (the husband) and will stand by him."

Mrs. Rosemary Anderson, 27, appeared at the suburban Morton Grove jail Friday with her father-in-law, who posted $3,000 bond for release of her husband, Frank T. Anderson Jr., 26.

Held in jail is John Nowicki, 26-year-old ex-convict and an employee of the Chicago Cutting Die Co. Anderson is secretary-treasurer of the firm, which is owned by his father.

Both men have been charged with conspiracy to commit a crime. Nowicki also has been charged with robbery in connection with stealing Mrs. Anderson's car and $80 from her purse.

TRIED TO SCARE WIFE

John P. Reed, assistant state's attorney, said Anderson told him "domestic difficulties" led him to plot the abduction to "scare" his wife.

Reed said Anderson told him his specific complaint was that his wife went out too often in the evening, leaving him alone.

The Andersons have been married seven years and have three children.

Reed said Anderson had telephoned Nowicki Wednesday and told him where his wife would be Wednesday night. Nowicki hid in Mrs. Anderson's car and when she started the car to drive to her home in suburban Northbrook, he announced a robbery. After driving about a mile, Mrs. Anderson jumped from the car. Nowicki was captured by police after he rammed the car into a tree.

BEFRIENDED HIM

Nowicki was quoted by police as saying Anderson befriended him after his release from prison in 1951, and there "wasn't anything" he wouldn't do for Anderson "in appreciation" of giving him a job as a metal polisher in the tool factory.

Police said suspicion that a plot was involved followed Anderson's offer to provide bail for Nowicki.

Lakefield Cadets Best In District

LAKEFIELD (ENS) — Lakefield District High School cadet corps was classed first in Peterborough district and second in Eastern Ontario, according to the report of the cadet inspector, Principal J. E. Stephens informed the board.

Tentative dates for the official opening of the school have been set for either November 23 or 30, depending on when the special speaker would be available.

A request from Mrs. S. Burger and Mrs. C. Coons that the board should reconsider their decision regarding the Home and School Association's use of the school twice a year was laid over for consideration by the new board.

It was decided that Miss Helen Spanis should be granted increment withheld at the beginning of the term, retroactive to September 1.

Trustees W. Whetung, N. A. Moore and E. Pearson with principal Stephens were authorized to purchase cafeteria equipment. Mr. Stephens, Mr. M. Tucker and Mr. Whetung were named a committee to purchase drapes for the home economics room and some of the teachers' requirements for classrooms.

The students' administrative council were authorized to purchase a piano, with the two old pianos to be used as part payment, the village council to pay the difference.

Authorization by the board for new text books to be used in Grade 13 chemistry was confirmed.

The treasurer was authorized to pay transportation accounts for October.

Hydrofoil Boat Gains Importance 30 Years After Bell's Death

WASHINGTON (CP)—One of Alexander Graham Bell's scientific developments, far removed from the telephone that made him world-famous, has gained importance in 1953, more than 30 years after his death.

It is the hydrofoil boat, a strange-looking craft with a series of foils arranged beneath the hull on which it will ride up out of the water at high speed. Bell developed the craft and tested it in Nova Scotia 34 years ago.

The National Geographic Society reports that the United States Navy now has an active development program under way and has built a number of experimental models of the boat Bell originally built.

AHEAD OF HIS TIME

"Dr. Bell's work in this field, and in so many others, was years ahead of it's time," a navy spokesman said. "In his day the navy had no application for the speeds so vital in 1953. Now we have uses for hydrofoils and we find that much of our preliminary work was brilliantly done for us years ago by Dr. Bell and his associate, the late Frederick W. Baldwin."

Few remember the Bell-Baldwin "hydrodrome No. 4" which roared over the waters of Nova Scotia's Bras d'Or lakes in 1919 at a speed of 70.86 miles an hour, a record for boats at the time. Driven by air propellers on two 350-horsepower motors, the 60-foot craft rode on hydrofoils and was the culmination of work begun by Bell in 1909.

Dr. Bell believed that a boat equipped with foils which would push the hull out of the water at high speed would be faster because there would be less friction.

The inventor died in 1922 and hydrofoil research languished in the United States, though Baldwin continued it in Canada. Germany produced a hydrofoil patrol boat during the Second World War that could make 65 miles an hour but showed a tendency to capsize. Since the war Sweden has built a 35-knot hydrofoil ferry boat.

UNDERWATER DRIVE

Dr. Bell wanted to drive his boats with underwater propellers to take advantage of water's heavier-than-air density but was never quite able to solve the problem. He correctly predicted, however, that it would be solved. The U.S. Navy's current experimental hydrofoil boats have underwater drives.

As far as is known, HD-4's 70 miles an hour still stands as the speed record for that type of craft. The HD-4 herself is still in existence at Dr. Bell's old home, Beinn Bhreagh, Baddeck, N.S., on the banks of the Big Sault lake which once echoed to the thunder of her engines.

Kingston Edges Belleville 6-5

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two close games featured Ontario Hockey Association Senior B competition in the eastern Ontario grouping Friday night. The 1952-53 champions, Kingston Goodyears, edged Belleville Memos 6-5 in Belleville and Orillia Pontiacs gained a 7-7 draw in Peterborough.

Kenny Partis, veteran centre, scored the winner for Kingston with a minute to go after Memos had come from behind with two goals in 41 seconds in the third period.

Ducks Invade Jet Runway Of Airport

VANCOUVER (CP).—International airport, sprawling over the rich delta land near here, has again taken on something of a "wartime" appearance.

This time the enemy is the ordinary wild duck, and airport workers have declared open season.

Ducks by the thousands have been coming in for landings and taking off. Their favorite landing area is at the end of the new 8,600-foot jet-age runway which cost more than $1,000,000 to build. The ducks pay no attention to airplanes. In one week, two Trans-Canada Air Lines planes were grounded for compulsory checks after flying through flights of ducks.

One four-engined North Star was held up for 19 minutes while ground crew plucked feathery remains from engine and exhaust pipes.

OLD ROOSTING SPOT

The trouble came when the huge runway was extended 4,000 feet, butting through the centre of an oat field, long a roosting place for ducks.

Game regulations permit special shooting permits for areas where ducks are causing damage, but allow shooting only during daylight. The airport's problem gets serious at night, when the ducks come in to roost, or when the weather is bad and they seek shelter.

Maintenance crews have fired Very rockets among sitting ducks and nothing has happened. Jets scream low over flocks and they go right on feeding. Crash trucks, sirens screaming, have been driven back and forth across the runway just before airliners are due to arrive.

There is one more avenue open to the airport administration. They are investigating a siren reported to make a weird and thunderous noise that can't help but scare away the ducks.

And the beauty of it is, the tone is too high-pitched to be heard by human ears.

SEVENTY-ONE BLOOD DONATIONS is the total contribution to the Canadian Red Cross Society blood bank by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Smith, of 292 Lake St., he the top male donor in Peterborough and his wife the second top woman in the city—first is Miss Betty Castle, of 408 Wolsley St. Peterborough's busy branch holds two clinics a week the year 'round. Mr. Smith has given 41 blood donations, starting in December, 1942; Mrs. Smith has completed 30 contributions since February, 1943.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

7 Leans Years Then Boom For Coal Men

By JOHN MOODY

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The United States' biggest commercial coal producer says the greatest boom in the industry's history lies ahead—but operators must survive seven more lean years to enjoy it.

Joseph Pursglove, research and development vice-president of Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Co., says electric firms in the United States will be demanding coal in unprecedented amounts within a decade.

The coal business, he says, suffered hard blows in the last eight years as railroads and home consumers swung to oil and natural gas. He estimated that last nearly 50 per cent of the normal market.

Little improvement can be expected in the next seven years, Pursglove says, but after that coal will have a positive future.

The electric power industry is growing, but not fast enough to take up the slack being felt by coal men, according to Pursglove. However, electric utilities are learning more and more that cheap water power is getting scarcer in the United States and of course coal is taking over, he says.

During the lean years still to come, Pursglove says coal men must use "ingenuity and determination" to stay in business.

FREE OF RAILROADS

He says coal men are no longer tied to the apron strings of the railroads and can transport much of their coal by truck.

River barges also are being used more and more with the trucks taking care of the shuttle service, he says, adding:

"And of course coal by pipeline is still a promising idea."

In that system coal is forced through pipes usually by high water pressure.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT—A special camera with a millionth of a second exposure records the distintegration of a steel tower by an atomic fireball an instant after it was set off in Nevada. The camera that caught the exploding fireball is called the Rapatronic. It has an electronic shutter and no mechanical moving parts.

Women's Stock Exchange In Early Days Of Calgary

EDMONTON (CP)—"There was even a Calgary women's stock exchange," said D. I. Istvanffy of Edmonton, chief statistician for the Alberta government, in an address to the Alberta Historical Society.

"Real estate offices blossomed out overnight as oil brokerage houses," he said in recalling the 1914 Turner valley oil boom.

"Second hand shops displayed posters prominently in their windows indicating a willingness to deal in stocks and bonds. Amost overnight Calgary could boast of more than 160 brokers' offices, where in 1913 there had been only 14.

"There was even a Calgary women's stock exchange. Printing houses worked overtime turning out share certificates in nonexistent and unlocated wells.

"If the crest of one company's bonds showed one gusher, that of its competitor was certain to show two. There was a mad rush to file on leases in the Turner valley area."

VALUABLE EXPERIENCE

Mr. Istvanffy, a student of the history of Turner valley which has produced more than 100,000,000 barrels of oil, said it was a proving ground for legislation, drilling techniques and conservation methods before the north-central oil booms began in 1947. The Turner valley field is 30 miles south of Calgary.

Here is how he describes the first Calgary oil boom which occurred in 1914:

"It was on a Thursday night that the news of the big Dingman strike was reported. On Friday every available motor vehicle in Calgary was forced into service carrying hundreds of men to the foothills to the Dingman well.

"Enough was seen to enable the pilgrims from Calgary to return home with the most optimistic reports of the discovery and stimulated with determination to make their city the greatest industrial city on the map.

"The whole downtown district was swathed in cotton streamers bearing the names and prices of new issues of stock.

"The main streets where the oil companies had established themselves were the scene of the wildest and most irresponsible kind of delirium. All day long men and women jostled each other in an attempt to gain entrance to the oil brokers' offices where shares must be purchased. Shares were sold all the way from 10 cents to $1.25 each.

"In the ticket office of one of the railway companies, an oil company had succeeded in renting a small space for stock-selling purposes. People were lined up for yards outside the door trying to get in to spend their money.

"Selling of railway tickets had been side-tracked entirely. Wastepaper baskets stood about the floor conspicuously filled with cheques and paper money. The entire staff was receiving money from the crazy mob who merely demanded shares and receipts for its money."

Memory Of Canadian Sea Hero Honored

PICTON, Ont. (CP)—The memory of the first Canadian sea hero was honored here recently by striking a ship's bell in Hallowell township chambers.

In a simple service of commemoration conducted by Capt. John Hearn of the Salvation Army and attended by municipal officials, representatives of the Royal Canadian Navy and the Navy League, tribute was paid to Admiral Sir Benjamin Hallowell, a contemporary of Nelson and a hero of the Napoleonic wars.

Ben Hallowell was born in 1760 in the township which bears his father's name. The bell which mayor Harvey J. McFarland of Picton struck at the start of Navy Week is inscribed "HMCS Hallowell." It belonged to a Canadian Navy frigate of the Second World War.

IN SHIPS OF THE LINE

But the frigates Ben Hallowell knew were the sailing ships of the line of Admiral Lord Nelson and his deeds won him an enduring place in the history of the British sea service.

As a youth he left his home to join the Royal Navy. He rose to the rank of captain, in command of his own ship of the line before he was 35.

A giant of a man—he stood six-foot-four in his socks—Hallowell fought at the battle of Cape St. Vincent in 1797 and his 74-gun Swiftsure was one of the small fleet that scoured the Mediterranean and then crushed the French at Aboukir bay, Aug. 2, 1798.

For years Hallowell served with distinction in many ships in the Mediterranean and off the coast of Africa.

ABSENT AT TRAFALGAR

Under Lord Nelson's command he took part in the chase of the French fleet to the West Indies in May and June 1805. But the gallant Canadian seadog had no part in the battle of Trafalgar later that year. At that time he commanded the Tigre, one of the ships detached to Gibraltar.

At Cape St. Vincent he served in HMS Victory, the flagship of Admiral Sir John Jervis.

When Sir John decided to engage the enemy, although outnumbered, big Ben Hallowell gave the astonished admiral a hearty slap on the back.

"That's the stuff, Sir John," he cried. "It's a damned good licking we'll give them too."

Hallowell's prophecy was fulfilled. In honor of the victory Sir John was created Earl St. Vincent.

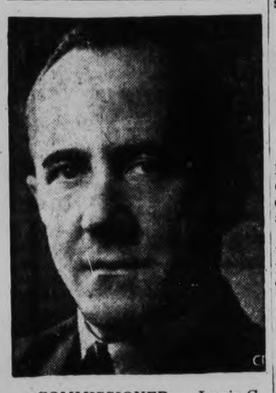
COFFIN FOR NELSON

To commemorate the victory at Aboukir bay Hallowell had a handsome coffin made from the mainmast of the French flagship L'Orient which had been destroyed by the Swiftsure. He presented it to his friend Nelson with the wish that it would not be used for years to come.

Nelson was delighted and had the coffin set up behind his chair at table in HMS Vanguard but his seamen took a doubtful view of that.

"We'll have hot work of it now," one remarked, "'Tis plain the admiral intends to fight till he is killed and there he is to be buried."

There was truth in his prediction. Nelson was killed in the moment of victory at Trafalgar but he lies buried with Britain's great in the coffin presented to him by his friend.



Hallowell continued to rise in the service. He was knighted in 1819 and was made an admiral in 1830. He died in 1834.

Convict Indian Of Manslaughter

KENORA (CP)—An assize court jury Friday convicted a 25-year-old treaty Indian of manslaughter in connection with the death of another treaty Indian July 12.

Samuel Keesick was charged with murder in the slaying of Alec Fisher, 33, at Delaney Lake. The jury found him innocent of murder. Keesick was remanded for sentence at the close of the sittings.

Fisher died following a fight at the Indian encampment about 40 miles north of here where both men were employed at the lodge as guides. He died from wounds caused by a heavy stick wielded during a fight following a drinking bout.

COMMISSIONER — Louis C. Audette, 46, becomes chairman of the Canadian Maritime Commission January 1. He will succeed Jean C. Lessard. Mr. Audette, born in Ottawa, was a lawyer in Quebec City and served in the navy during the Second World War before joining the commission in 1947. He will be the first full-time chairman in almost three years.

Downey's Pub Sold Again But Pickets Go On Forever

DUN LAOGHAIRE, Republic of Ireland (Reuters)—Downey's pub changed hands Friday, but its pickets apparently go on forever, just as they have for nearly 15 years.

Patrick Neville, brother-in-law of the late owner, James Downey, paid £8,000 ($22,400) for the scene of the world's longest strike and, because of it, the most famous barroom in Ireland.

Mrs. Downey, who took over when her husband died last May, sold the pub because she grew "heartily sick" of seeing the daily picket parade outside the place.

Neville said he didn't know whether the strike would continue. "Sure, and I haven't made up me mind yet," he explained.

LONGEST CAMPAIGN

The union movement's longest campaign began March 6, 1939, when Jim Downey fired a bartender and refused to take him back.

Next morning, the Irish National Union of Vinters, Grocers and Allied Trade Assistants set up a picket line. They've been there ever since.

Once the picket line became a permanent fixture, Downey discovered he had inadvertently stumbled on a unique and valuable advertising gimmick. His place did a rousing £92,000 business annually.

STRONG FRIENDSHIP

During the long association, Downey and the pickets developed a strong friendship. He'd send them out drinks on holidays and anniversaries of the strike, as they plodded endlessly. If a picket was late, he quickly telephoned union headquarters and told the union to get its men on the job.

The bartender who was fired? He too has long since died.

Worked With Reds

BERLIN (AP)—A United States military court today sentenced a United States army private to 15 years at hard labor after he admitted working with Soviet secret police agents to obtain military information in the U.S. zone of Germany. The soldier, Robert W. Dorey, 20, of Somerville, Mass., pleaded guilty to affiliating himself with the Russian and East German secret police.

Alfred de Marigny Felt Under Gestapo In Canada

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Alfred de Marigny, whose name was emblazoned in headlines 10 years ago, is leading the simple life of a salesman here, happy that he is about to become a United States citizen.

"It is wonderful to live and work in peace in a decent, respectable country," said de Marigny. "I am proud that this country may grant me citizenship."

Ten years ago de Marigny was acquitted of a charge of murdering his Canadian father-in-law, Sir Harry Oakes, in Nassau. But the jury which freed him of the charge recommended that he be deported. The colonial government ordered him out, and with his wife, Nacny Oakes de Marigny, he sailed in a tiny boat over stormy seas to Cuba.

Nancy later had her marriage annulled. Freddie wandered to the Dominican Republic, to Canada and finally to New York.

He is married now to Mrs. Mary Taylor de Marigny, a niece of Byron C. Taylor, former United States envoy to the Vatican. They are living in a rented house here but plan to build their own home.

Freddie is working as a sales trainee for the Ludman Corp., maker and distributor of aluminum windows and awnings.

"I am happy here," said de Marigny. "I have a very good sales job with a good firm. They put you to work, give you a fair break and it is up to you to prove how good you are.

UNPLEASANT MEMORY

"Everything about my five years in the United States has been good. It is fair, and it is democratic. I work, I live a simple, normal life at my job and in my home. My wife is a graduate nurse. She is from a fine family and gives her services to the poor in the clinic. I have had many troubles and she is very understanding.

"The memory of my stay in Canada is—let us say, unpleasant. They have a rule, article 26, which forbids British subjects from becoming Canadian citizens unless they were born in the British Isles. I had a feeling that I was under a Gestapo and had no rights. It was a little Gestapo, not vicious, but it was there.

"Here one is given a public hearing, with a fair chance to defend one's self."

(De Marigny apparently referred to provisions making it easier for some British subjects to obtain Canadian citizenship than others. Any applicant meeting the requirements may become a Canadian citizen.)

De Marigny says he plans to make Miami his permanent home. He was born of French parentage on the British island of Maruitius, in the Indian ocean.

Car Research Laboratories Resemble Modern Hospitals

(Editor's Note: This is the first of two articles written by the Examiner's telegraph editor following a visit to the laboratories of the Chrysler Corporation in Detroit.)

By JEAN E. STENTON

The Chrysler Corporation Engineering Division in Detroit, where most of the research work is done on the products of the company's vast automotive concerns, resembles a huge, smoothly functioning hospital. Only the patients are machines or vehicle parts instead of human beings. In the laboratories they are guarded and symptoms noted as carefully as with any hospital invalid.

Every night all floors, work table tops, etc., are scrubbed down with a strong germicide solution to ensure no chemicals in the air can cause an explosion or produce other harmful effects. The equipment being tested and the machinery for testing is so spick and span it shines. Huge windows and light colored walls, along with the atmosphere of quiet efficiency from the more than 4,000 employees who seem to know their work thoroughly, add to that impression. This is typical of the set-up in most large automotive industries.

The X-ray room is known as the Radiographics Lab. Here they X-ray—not chests or broken bones—but such things as shock absorbers, mufflers, oil filters, spark pulgs, etc. They may be moving or stationary. The engineers and technicians study the spark plug flame rate of gas and the X-ray treatment reveals the weaknesses in steel in the same way it does in the human body.

TAKE NO CHANCES

Nothing is left to chance before a car is turned out as a complete unit. Research workers are constantly seeking improvements. In the Glass and Ceramics Laboratory one of their problems is seeking to reduce the degree of cracking and splintering in car windows. The side windows in a car, which are not as strong as the windshield, are made up of two squares of glass with a strip of plastic between. It has been found that if such panes are broken, the fine pieces of glass largely stick to the plastic, thus eliminating the risk of serious injuries.

To test these, a square of the window glass is placed flat in a shute with glass sides. Then a half-pound steel ball is allowed to drop 10½ feet. The glass cracked but there was very little that did not adhere tightly to the plastic.

The Thermostat Control test is a fascinating thing to watch. A large machine with a wide circular tub is used. This tub is divided across the centre by a bar and on one side the water is 190 degrees and on the other 100 degrees. The metal thermostats look like an enlarged version of the metal tea strainers which used to be popular. They hang from hooks on long arms and are jerked up and down as they move briskly around the circle, opening and snapping shut with the difference in water temperature.

DO OTHER JOBS

The Engine Cooling System lab does other things beside check thermostats. Radiators are another of their headaches. They may be testing new radiators or they may be making comparative tests of the new radiators versus the ones in production. The technicians examine various types of water from across the country because the chemical composition of water varies in different localities and this may affect the car when used in some area.

Some people see pink elephants or count sheep when they go to bed. But the people in the section where windshields are studied, have been known to see windshields and their wipers cavorting around.

TOUGH WORKOUT

Five or six frames holding regular windshields have been set up in this laboratory and there are two aluminum bands on the windshield to simulate the snow load. They run them an overall period of 200 hours in the test, running two minutes, then stopping and restarting to increase the strain. This is much more wear and tear than any driver is likely to give them. But everything is done to detect flaws which might develop after a car has been driven several thousand miles.

The wiper blades are tested separately in a second operation. A windshield is coated with a granulated substance which has been dampened. Then the blades are put to work, sometimes electrically and sometimes operated by hand.

Some of the staff wandering by one of the laboratories during the last hot spell around 100 degrees, wondered if they had succumbed to sun stroke. While the water dripped off their faces they saw a couple of cars with several inches of frost coating the roofs being inspected by men in heavy parkas and thick leggings. But it was only the boys from the Cold Weather Rooms.

60 BELOW ZERO

There are two test rooms here. One is used for engines and the other will take a whole car. The temperature used sometimes goes as low as 60 degrees below zero. They obesrve such things as how the finish stands up in the cold, whether the engine starts easily, the pickup etc. There is a microphone set up between the test room and the control panels. A car can be checked here for everything, just as if it were on the road. Sometimes it may only be in the cold room for two hours or it may be there two or three days depending on what test is being conducted.

Fade-ometer tests are part of the work done by those in the Rubber and Plastics Laboratory. One of the things which must be watched is the danger of rubber moulding cracking on such things as the back window of a car. So tests are conducted which subject that rubber to what would be the equivalent of leaving the car in the sun for 48 hours straight to see how much it can take before cracking. The moulding which is finally used will be able to stand much more heat than any driver will subject it to.

METAL TEST

A sample of every type of metal used in a vehicle is checked in the Metallurgical Fatigue Test lab. Here they test certain cross sections of steel to try to find out the amount of force necessary to break them. Springs, axles, driveshafts and pistons are also given a workout here. There are no operators for all these machines. They run till the steel breaks or the rubber weakens. It is perfectly recorded on the controls and the machines cut themselves off when the breaks occur.

These are only a fraction of the interesting behind-the-scene operations of the modern automobile a customer purchases. In the Mechanical Life Test Laboratory a wheel and shaft getting a life test may run a month at a time till something fails. It operates by itself and readings are taken regularly of the controls. In the Electronics Lab they test the effects of vibration on the engine encountered on different roads. The aim is to reduce the vibration period below the idling speed of the engine. In the Dynamometer Laboratories they test engines to see if they are developing the horsepower they are supposed to and to see how well built they are. They study the overall efficiency of the engine under various speed conditions. Comparison tests are made with competitors' engines too. This department has a Quiet Room to determine the vibration causing extra noises in the engine.

ALTERNATE CHANGES

The matter of styling is an important one. Two of the main items that haunt all designers, planners and executives are customer appeal and production costs. It takes from six months to a year for slight changes. Major changes on an engine generally require three years of work and other major changes can involve up to six years. There is never a big body change and an engine change at the same time. Big body changes occur every three to five years, depending on market conditions and competitors. In between major alterations usually only such things as trim, upholstery color changes etc. are made. Enormous production costs are involved in a changeover. For example in 1949 this company spent $92,000,000 just for body dyes for all its products.

One of the things which is especially noticeable here is the large number of young men in charge of this important work. This is explained by the fact that Chrysler is a young company which really only began hitting its stride in 1924. Until the war they had only a few hundred doing research work. With the great expansion that occurred they have had to draw on younger men to fill the gaps.

Canadian Manufacturers Not Aggressive Enough

DRUMMONDVILLE, Que. (CP) Many Canadian manufacturers are not aggressive enough in selling their goods abroad, J. D. Ferguson, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, said Friday night.

In an address prepared for delivery to the Drummonville branch of the CMA, he commented:

"It is true that export markets are not as easily or readily available as they were in the past and success in export sales demands a high degree of initiative, energy and perseverance.

"But those who make a study of export say opportunities do exist, particularly in Latin-America, and that there is still a surprising volume of business available to Canadians even in the dollar-short countries.

FIRMS MISS BOAT

"CMA officers feel that many Canadian firms fail to follow up business opportunities drawn to their attention by Canadian trade commissioners. They do not take advantage of the opportunity to get first hand reports on overseas markets by interviewing these trade commissioners during their Canadian tours and generally do not avail themselves of the comprehensive services of Canada's foreign trade service.

"Export business is important to Canada's economy and will be of increasing importance to individual firms and industries as expansion of their productive capacity outstrips the growth of domestic demand. This is a time when we must not allow any opportunities to pass us by."

Trade between all countries of the free world has, on the whole, expanded considerably in the last decade, Mr. Ferguson said, "and it is to be hoped that Canada, as well as other countries, will adopt sound constructive policies which will permit a continuation of this trend."

However, to establish a sound trade situation "the United States must take the lead in opening up its markets to imported goods." Such action would, in turn, enable other countries to remove their quota and exchange restrictions on imports.

At present, judged by 1951 and 1952 figures, the United States is, he stated, selling to other countries $5,000,000,000 worth of goods more than she is buying from them.

"In trade, the free world has a hot potato in its lap that only the United States can pick up; and I don't think Uncle Sam would burn his finger if he did pick it up. He will certainly have to if he is in the business of international co-operation to stay.

"When the United Kingdom was the world's creditor nation, her policies were appropriate. She became a creditor through the export of capital for resource development in the far-flung spots of the globe. That development created trade and in that trade Britain was just as active a buyer as an exporter."

No Payment Made On Uninsured Cars

SARNIA (CP) — No payments will be made from the Sarnia tornado relief fund for damage to automobiles on which no insurance was carried, the tornado relief committee decided Friday.

But payments amounting to 30 per cent of the claim will be paid in cases where an automobile was insured for public liability and property damage but not covered for tornado damage.

The committee agreed that drivers who carried no insurance did not deserve any compensation from the tornado relief fund.

Tasty, Graceful Grayling Common In North Manitoba

By DAVE STOCKAND
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — You don't know too much about sports fishing? Small matter if it's Arctic Grayling you're after.

The grayling, a fighting fish of silver beauty, will rise to any lure. Its numbers are countless and it makes a good meal.

The grayling are natives of the north, of the waters flowing into Hudson Bay and the Arctic ocean.

TRANSPORTATIION TOUGH

Northern Manitoba is grayling country. The Manitoba government bureau of travel and publicity says the fighting fish with the big dorsal fin are gaining popularity with sportsmen—and gives some of the credit to obstacles thrown up by the land.

"Camping and guiding arrangements must be made well in advance of the actual jaunt into greyling country," the bureau says. "Most grayling fishermen travel by chartered plane. But some go as far as they can by rail and take to canoes for the rest of their transportation.

"The grayling are there—they've just hard to get at. And if that isn't a challenge to the eager angler, what is?"

HALF-CENTURY HUNTER

Chief Justice E. A. McPherson thus describes the changes which have taken place during the 50 years he hasn't missed an opening day of the duck-hunting season on Manitoba's Delta marshes.

"The ducks have decreased considerably in number and the number of hunters has increased."

"When I started shooting the limit was 50 birds a day and the season was longer," recalls the chief justice, who bagged his first duck 59 years ago. "Now the limit is 10 each day and the season is shorter."

Nevertheless, he isn't worried about coming back empty-handed in future shooting seasons. He says: "It's true there aren't as many ducks today as there used to be, but there are still lots of them."

On opening day this year the judge got his limit in about two hours.

GETS ANNUAL QUOTA—Manitoba's Chief Justice E. A. McPherson hasn't missed an opening day in the duck-hunting season on Delta marshes, near Winnipeg, for 50 years. When he started hunting, he said, the quota was 50 birds a day, it now is 10.—(CP Photo.)

Lay Off 800 In Changeover

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Some 800 Ford of Canada employees will be laid off during the annual change over to new models, it was announced Friday.

Robert S. Bridge, vice-president in charge of manufacturing, said in a letter to employees that some of those laid off will be out of work "for only a few days."

The letter said the payroll at the Windsor plant will be as large or perhaps even larger than it was Oct. 1.

The model changes will be completed about five weeks after the first plant winds up passenger car assembly next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Production of some 1954 model cars will start about Nov. 19 and truck production will resume Dec. 9. Other models will start rolling off assembly lines at Windsor and the new plant at Oakville, Dec. 14.

Apsley WI Sponsors Progressive Euchre

APSLEY (ENS)—The Women's Institute put on the first progressive euchre party of the season in the public library. Seven tables were played.

Prizes were won by Mrs. N. Reddick, ladies first, and Mrs. N. Reddick, ladies consolation. Thomas Staples and Dan Whitmore tied for men's first- prize and T. Staples won in a draw. Men's consolation prize was won by Jimmie Reddick.

Sandwiches and tea were served

The library presents a pleasing appearance with new cupboards and stove and freshly painted woodwork.

Egg Prices Drop

KITCHENER (CP)—The price of grade A large eggs has dropped to 64 cents a dozen from 81 during the last two weeks. Egg suppliers said such a sharp drop at this time of year is unusual. One grader said recent warm weather may have started pullets laying earlier than usual.

CANADIAN EAGLES

Two species of eagles are found in Canada—the golden eagle of the West and the bald eagle in both West and East.

DEATH IN THE FOG—The battered and charred wreckage of one of the four engines helping a DC6 British Commonwealth Pacific Airlines plane wing its way from Australia to the United States lies on a hillside 25 miles south of San Francisco, after the plane crashed while preparing to land in thick fog. All 19 passengers and crewmen died in the flaming wreck which started fires over a half mile area of dense bush and redwoods.

Value Of Petroleum Multifplied 12 Times By New Industry

By STEVEN V. DAVID

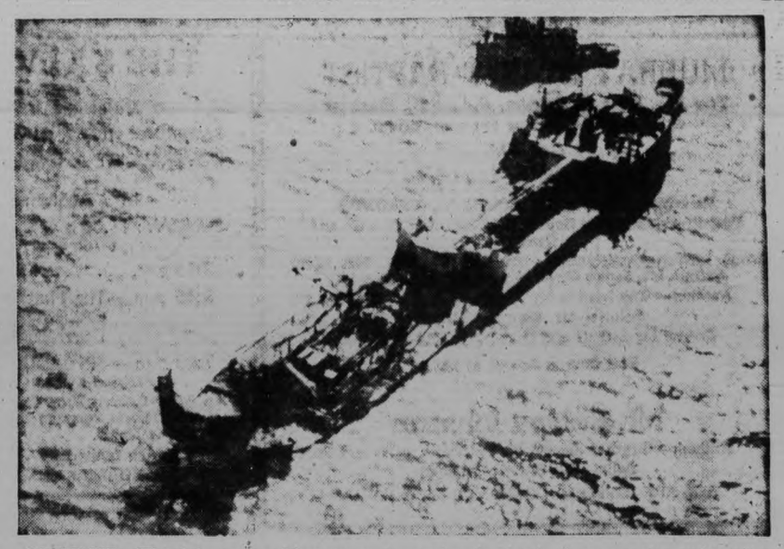
NEW YORK (AP)—The dynamic United States petrochemical industry, busy making a host of chemicals from crude oil and natural gas, has stepped brisky into the ranks of industries selling more than $1,000,000,000 worth of products a year.

It was fast work. From an experimental 75 tons of chemicals produced from oil by one company in 1925, the industry has grown to embrace 79 chemical companies and 58 oil refiners in the U.S. and Canada.

There now are 60 new plants in the planning or building stage. Already, more than 2,500 of the 7,000 chemical compounds regularly produced start with petroleum. Last year, in producing 8,500,000 tons of petrochemicals, these companies supplied a quarter of all U.S. chemical requirements.

And by 1975, experts say, petrochemicals should be supplying half of these requirements.

By intricate chemical engineering, crude oil and gas are taken apart and reassembled to produce flexible plastics, rubbers, synthetic fibres, insect killers, pain-relieving drugs and many other items. However only about 150 of the 500 suspected hydrocarbon compounds have been separated from crude oil.



Extracting these "building blocks" for chemicals multiplies the value of petroleum 12 times, whereas refining the same oil for fuels increases its value only 2½ times. And although an enormous volume of chemical intermediates now is being produced, only about one per cent of oil production winds up in chemical containers.

LOOK TO FUTURE

"With an abundant supply of raw materials at hand," says Dr. Leland I. Doan, president of Dow Chemical Co., "the industry can look forward to greatly accelerated expansion in numerous fields, including plastics, synthetic rubber, automotive chemicals, synthetic fibres, protective coatings and detergents. This expansion, I feel, will have the notable effect of continually improving our standard of living."

President Richard C. McCurdy of Shell Chemical Corp. points out that Shell is about to put two new petrochemical plants in operation and start construction of a third, and adds:

"This kind of continuing expansion is the best evidence we can offer as to our views of the future of the industry."

BLEW UP—This lake tanker blew up as she lay anchored near a South Chicago breakwater, the explosion and resultant fire causing the death of one seaman and injuries to nine others. The 253-foot Blue Comet was carrying 580,000 gallons of gasoline.

Manitoba Diggings Reveal Fresh Indian Information

MONTREAL (CP)—Recent excavations at Lockport, Man., by a National Museum archaeological expedition shed new light on Canadian history prior to the arrival of the white man.

The excavations, some 18 miles northeast of Winnipeg, indicate that Indians may have come to Canada much earlier than was supposed by some authorities.

Jerzy Zaborski, a member of the archaeological party, said here the excavations disclosed five Indian villages, built one on top of the other.

The earliest village, which may date back 10,000 years, was inhabited by a primitive type of Indian who did not produce any pottery.

These early inhabitants were chiefly hunters and casual food gatherers.

PATIENT WORK

Extremely careful and patient digging was required, and "the most profitable place was an ancient garbage dump," he said.

"The most valuable objects found in such dumps are fragments of pre-historic pottery, arrow-heads, spear-points and some bone tools."

Mr. Zaborski said Canada's early history has built up by archaeological research. Archaeologists attempt to describe what tribes lived in Canada, their material culture and the make-up of their social and political organization.

He said that one of the most interesting sites was in the Whiteshell park on the Winnipeg river where large boulder mosaics representing a thunderbird, a snake and a turtle were found.

"The Indians came to the New World from northeastern Asia in many waves of migrations," he said. "They came through Alaska across the Bering strait. Some of these came to Manitoba leaving few traces before proceeding farther south.

"Other tribes remained in what is known today as Manitoba, living there until the white man's conquest of the land."

Cattle Prices Up

LUCKNOW (CP)—The second annual Scotch shorthorn sale sponsored by the Huron-Perth Shorthorn Club was held Friday. Buying was brisk, with prices up slightly over last year. Thirty-two head of cattle sold for $9,740, an average of $304.40 each.

Hallowe'en Party Success At Lakefield

LAKEFIELD (ENS) — The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion held a successful Hallowe'en party in the Legion hall, festive with its newly decorated walls and drapes.

Following a grand march, prizes were awarded to Mrs. J. Barnes for the best fancy costume and to Mrs. A. Jessup for the best comic costume. Judges were Mrs. Harold Wilford, Mrs. William O'Brien and Mr. C. Sisson.

Cards were played with prizes going to Mrs. Ted Wickett, Mrs. Walter Chappell, Almond Soles and Bob Brattain.

"A Ghost Walk" was a novel feature of the evening and was in charge of Mrs. Garnet Samis, Mrs. Theo Graham and Mrs. M. Calberry, president of the Auxiliary.

Dancing was enjoyed to music by Thomas Sullivan on the violin and Mrs. Hilliard McCracken at the piano.

Lunch conveners were Mrs. Samis, Mrs. T. Graham and Mrs. Beverley Graham.

Drowned In Swamp

GRAVENHURST (CP) — Roy Vanatta, 14, of Gravenhurst was drowned Friday in White lake, about three miles southeast of here, while he and his 11-year-old brother Leonard, were wading through a swamp to reach an island. Leonard said his brother slipped off a ledge and fell about six feet into eight feet of water.

Flin Flon Chamber Of Commerce Thumping For New Province

FLIN FLON, Man. (CP)—This border-straddling mining town—a birthplace of other unusual ideas—has come up with a dilly this time.

Brainchild of Flin Flon mining engineer Lew Parres, it would create a new northern province west of Hudson bay, including the Northwest Territories and the Yukon.

The new province would hack big chunks out of northern Manitoba, northern Saskatchewan and northern Alberta. The remains of those three provinces would be patched together into one province.

There would thus be two provinces between Ontario and British Columbia, cutting the total number to nine instead or 10.

The Flin Flon Chamber of Commerce has taken up the idea, but local residents receive it with mixed feelings.

YES, BUT HOW?

Contractor Ole Sorenson, asked his views on the project, removed his cigar just long enough to say: "How?"

"An utterly impossible, ridiculous nightmare," said lawyer Lorne Ferg.

Archie Donaldson, jolly, red-haired butcher, believed it was a good idea.

C. H. (Bucky Witney, lanky chamber president, called it a highly imaginative idea and said he planned to fight for its adoption at the Winnipeg convention of Manitoba chambers Nov. 18 and 19.

Mr. Parres' idea is to take the mining country out of the hands of a largely farmer-elected Manitoba government and form a province—to be called Pre-Cambria—where miners, trappers and lumbermen can run their own affairs.

Mr. Witney agrees that "northern people should have more to say in northern affairs."

Flin Flon, spotted strategically on the border between northern Saskatchewan and Manitoba, came up with another news-making idea not so long ago. It threatened to secede the section of the city in Manitoba from that province unless a highway was built in from the south. Flin Flon now has the highway.

How far this idea will go can not yet be determined.

F. L. Jobin, member of the Manitoba legislature for The Pas, another northern area, carefully commented:

"The favor with which Mr. Parres' proposal has been met by people of the North would seem to bear out the contention that at least they believe the North has not got a fair deal from the governments. . . . Personally, I am more or less of the same opinion."

Navy's Role Won't Change In New War, Canada Tougher

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—Existence of the atom bomb has not changed basic naval strategy or tactics as far as Canada is concerned, says Vice Admiral E. R. Mainguy, chief of the naval staff.

The navy's role in any future war, he says, would be the same as in the Second World War: Protecting convoys and finding and killing enemy submarines.

The Russians are known to have more than 300 subs compared to the less than 60 with which the Germans started the last war. And, adds Admiral Mainguy, the Russian should not be underestimated as a "land animal" only.

"CANADA TOUGHER TOO"

But if Russia posed a greater threat at sea, Canada was far better prepared for naval warfare than she was in 1939, the 52-year-old admiral said in an interview.

"The Russians might be tougher than the Germans, but we're tougher, too. We'd give a good account of ourselves."

The admiral reviewed how the navy stands today:

1. It hopes to hit its 100-ship goal by the end of next year, though the ship-building program now is behind schedule. However, it does not expect to reach its target of 21,000 men by then. The navy now has a complement of 15,000. It is forced to reject 60 per cent of applicants. In 1939, the navy had 16 ships and 1,585 officers and men.

2. The navy hopes for a 12,000-man reserve by the end of 1954, giving it 33,000 men to sail 100 ships and man shore establishments in event of war. Unless there is a war, about two-thirds of the 100 ships will be kept in reserve.

COSTS INCREASE

3. The navy hopes to evolve a cheaper escort vessel. Five of the Canadian-designed and Canadian-built escorts have been launched, three are to be launched before the end of this year, six more next year. Original estimate on the prototype escort was $8,000,000 but this has since soared to $15,000,000. The escorts built after the prototype are expected to cost less.

4. The new aircraft carrier Bonaventure, now under construction at Belfast, won't be ready until late 1956, when the Magnificent will be returned to the Royal Navy. By that time, the Fleet Air Arm will have converted to jet aircraft, meaning that conversion will probably start late next year. The Bonaventure will have the new angled flight deck which should result in a smaller loss of planes in deck landings.

5. Two reserve navy squadrons have been established but the navy does not intend to put increased emphasis on its air arm. It wants a reserve of fliers in case of war. There now are two active squadrons, one aboard the Magnificent, the other in support at Dartmouth, N.S.

ENLARGE HAMILTON BASE

6. The navy will enlarge its reserve base at Hamilton and carry out reserve training in the summer on the Great Lakes, thus taking some of the heavy summer reserve crush off Halifax and Esquimalt, B.C. This should start next year.

7. The navy intends to keep its cruisers, the Quebec and Ontario, for training purposes. Because they are roomier than destroyers, more men can be trained faster.

8. The senior service is working out the kinks which developed after the Second World War. From 16 ships and a complement of 1,585 in 1939, the navy expanded to 956 ships and 93,000 men at its wartime peak, then contracted to 54 ships and 8,813 men by 1949.

1949 "INCIDENTS"

In 1949 a series of "incidents" or "temporary mutinies" occurred aboard the Magnificent, Ontario and the destroyers Athabaskan and Crescent. The result was a report by a three-man commission comprising Admiral Mainguy, not then chief of staff, Louis C. Audette and Leonard W. Brockington.

Admiral Mainguy says many of the report's 30 recommendations already had been or were being carried out by the navy at that time but that the report hurried up the process.

One of the chief reforms dealt with training of officers. Previously officer cadets trained with the Royal Navy for four years. When they returned to take commands, they found they were dealing with men of different temperament and relations between officers and men were often strained. Now the navy trains its own officers, putting emphasis on leadership, and then posts them to the Royal Navy for 18 months. Relations between officers and men, says Admiral Mainguy, have improved tremendously. Since 1949, there have been no "incidents."

SUPREME COURT OKAYS HER—Mrs. R. Belladonna Villines Coenen relaxes in her home at Arlington, Va., after being admitted to practice before the Supreme Court. She caused quite a stir when she walked into the court wearing a tight-fitting knit dress. Newsmen and court employees rushed to see what would happen when she appeared before the cou . She took the oath, paid her fee and wondered why she attracted all the attention.

CORONATION MEDALS

Three Post Office employees have receive the Queen's Coronation Medals. They are Assistant Postmaster Claire Stuart, and Postal Clerks Ernest Mesley and Gordon Fallen.

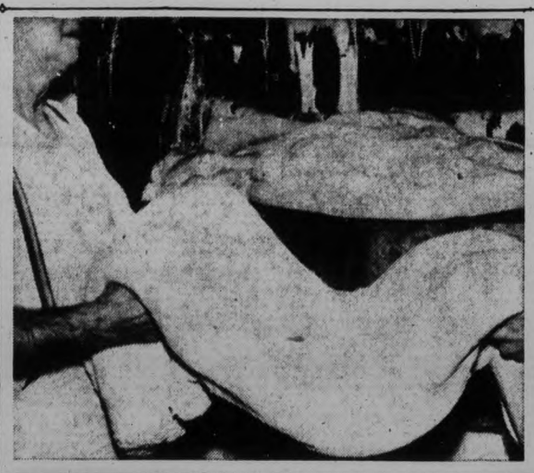
TWO FIRE ALARMS

Two of the minor alarms phoned into the fire hall Friday were: a stubborn chimney fire at the home of J. C. Barnett, 525 Albert St., that required three handpumps before the chimney became unplugged; and a flooded oil heater at the home of T. W. Stanley, 584 Patterson St.

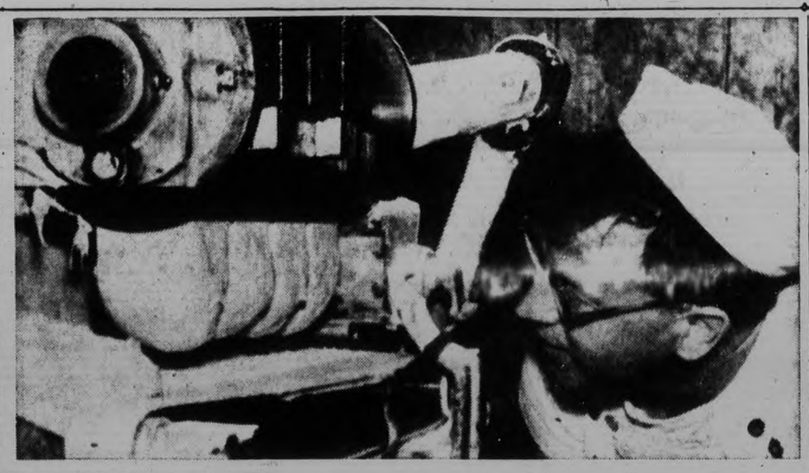
CHILDREN START FIRE

Children playing with matches are believed to have started a rubbish fire on Friday that threatened a garage, owned by G. Chamberlain of 185 Murray St., with fire. The flames spread from a pile of leaves and rubbish and scorched the garage. Firemen used a handpump to put out the blaze.

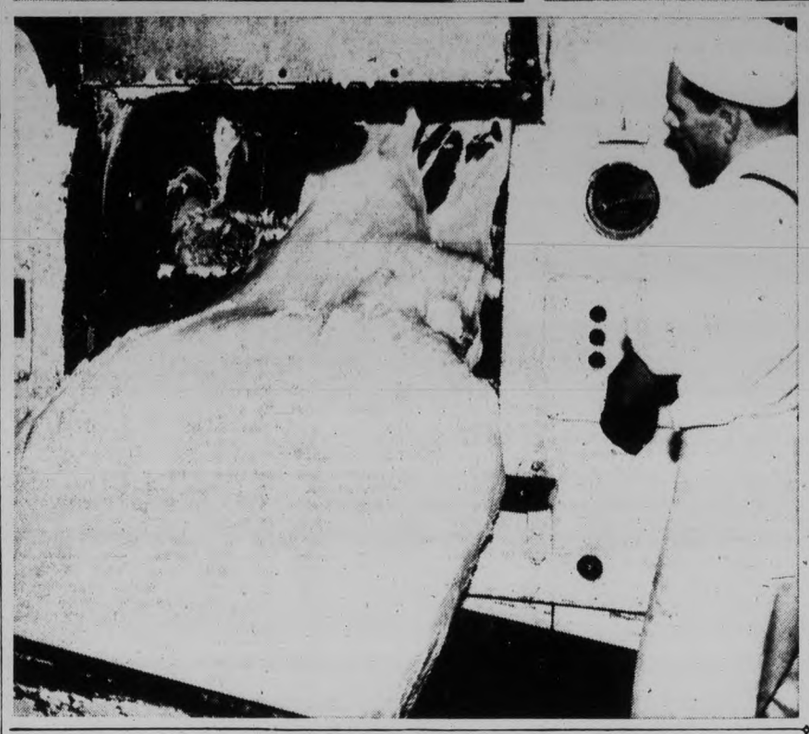
PRESSING THE SEASON



A small boy in the vicinity of Albert St. and Monaghan Rd. was seen playing happily with his fellows this morning in his bare feet. From the way he lingered on the warm pavement he appeared to be savoring the last chance to go without footwear. "Feels good", he told the reporters when asked if he didn't think it was too late for that sort of thing.



VALUABLE SUGGESTIONS



CGE at a recent meeting announced distribution of $514 among its employees as awards for suggested improvements in operations. Tom McNeil received $119 for his suggested changes in tank heater fittings to reduce the number of junction boxes. Tom Sargison was awarded $116 for proposing a master drawing of standard tool designs. Suggested changes in wiring technique for outdoor metalclads brought Charlie Osborne $105. Six others received smaller awards.

THREE VEHICLE MIX-UP

Two trucks, one parked, and a car combined to sustain damages of $100 in an accident on George St. Friday. Ronald Dunn, 19, of 796 George N. was pulling his truck out of a parking space when he saw a car driven by James Walters of Port Hope passing. He tried to avoid the car, didn't, and in the process, struck a truck parked ahead of him.

Work In The City

Bread and water isn't our daily diet, but bread certainly plays a large part in the daily meals. It forms such a large part in Peterborough family meals that the Wonder Bread Co., just one bakery in the city, makes no less than 10,000 loaves a day. At 1 a.m. bread-making begins as early workers fill troughs with sponge, the dough in its first stage, held by worker (TOP LEFT). Later bakers begin the second stage of mixing into the sponge flour, water, milk, salt, and shortening. Finally the dough comes out of the mixer (LOWER LEFT) into the trough. From there it's sent through another machine which cuts the dough into the loaf size (TOP RIGHT, photo). Then the loaves go through a series of processes which help make the dough rise, prior to entering the huge electric ovens. The bread comes out in trays golden brown, with an odor that makes you picture a warm slice, well buttered.

Labor Candidate Glenn Price Runs For Council

A second candidate has announced that he will run for city council as the approved nominee of organized labor.

He is 28-year-old Glenn Price of 541 O'Connel Rd., president of the Peterborough Trades and Labor Council (TLC) and a member of Local 248, International Typographical Union (AFL-TLC). Mr. Price is married, has three children, and is a linotype operator on The Examiner.

So far the only other candidate for alderman is William Triggs, secretary of the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL) and president of Local 293, United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO-CCL). Both men will receive the support of the two labor councils and their affiliated locals.

PLATFORM

A four-point platform has been drawn up by the two councils and the two candidates have endorsed it. The points are:

1. Erection of the Memorial Centre this coming year.
2. Increased industrial development in the city.
3. Drawing up and putting into effect of a practical city plan.
4. A change in the city's election law that says a voter must mark his ballot for at least four of the five vacancies on council.

The union members contend the present system is undemocratic. If they want to vote for one only, then they feel they should have the right to mark their ballot for one only.

Mr. Price has two strings to his political bow. He is making a particularly strong bid to get not only the vote of organized labor but also the vote of people in the south end of the city.

"At present we have nobody on city council—not even a candidate—from the southend," he said. "There are 15,000 people living south of Lansdowne St. now and I think they should have some voice in civic affairs. It's only fair they should have a spokesman—somebody who lives there and knows the particular problems of that district.

"While I'm making my election appeal directly to the working people of Peterborough, particularly the trade unionists, and also to residents of the southend, I'm not forgetful of others in the city. If I'm elected to council I will do my best to act in the best interests of the city as a whole."

BORN IN HAVELOCK

Mr. Price was born in Havelock and educated at the village's public and high schools. He received his apprenticeship as a printer there and came to Peterborough in 1943.

During the Second World War he served in northwest Europe with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. He enlisted in the infantry regiment at the Peterborough Armories. After the war he worked here for a short time and then moved to Tweed for a couple of years. While in Tweed he was secretary-treasurer of the Legion.

He returned to Peterborough in 1949, working as a linotype operator. Since then his main public activity has been union affairs. He was one of the initiators of the Peterborough Trades and Labor Council, composed of AFL-affiliated union. Besides being president of that body, and active in his own local, he is secretary-treasurer of the Peterborough branch of the Allied Printing Trades Council.

Mr. Price is married to the former Clarice McVety of Warkworth. They have three children —Connie 6; Grant 5, and James, three months.

He is a member of the Confederation school Home and School Club and a member of Grace United church. During the fund-raising drive for the new church he is one of the team captains.

Parked Truck Rolls Into Otonabee

Headlights were played out over the Otonabee river Friday night as two wrecking trucks worked to pull a half-ton hydro truck out of the water.

The truck had been parked on an incline, north of the dam and on the east side of the river, about 4 p.m. while Hilliard McCracken, manager of Lakefield hydro, went to read some meters.

Either the brake was not on or it slipped, because the vehicle rolled slowly down the incline into the river where it was covered by six feet of water.

The truck was undamaged except for a headlight. And it needed a thorough drying out.

Apples Crowd Market Stalls

Apples crowded today's market, with 6-quart and bushel baskets of every variety on view at almost every stand. Snows and Baxters were selling at 60 cents a basket and $3 a bushel, while MacIntosh reds and Spys were selling for 75 cents and $4. Greening apples were 65 cents a basket.

At one stand a large variety of apples was set off with two crates of oranges, selling at 25 cents a dozen.

Potatoes were also in abundance and were selling at 25 cents a small basket, 55 cents for a large basket and $1.40 a bag.

Egg prices were down considerably compared to a few weeks ago. Grade A, extra large were 60 cents a dozen with large, 55 cents and medium, 50 cents a dozen. Chickens were selling at 45 cents a pound and capons, 50 cents a pound.

A few baskets of local pears were selling for 90 cents.

PUMPKINS

Jack-o-lantern size pumpkins were a rare commodity at the market square today. A few large ones were selling at 30 cents apiece.

Good heads of cabbage were selling at 10 cents and cauliflower ranged in price from 5 to 25 cents apiece. Plenty of frost nipped turnip and parsnip was on hand. Turnips were 5 and 10 cents apiece and parsnips, 60 cents a 6-quart basket.

Onions seemed to be having a fine sale, ranging between 40 and 50 cents a basket.

Cars Collide Near Apsley

A car and a truck were in sideswipe collision Friday night on the Coe Hill road, north of Apsley. Neither driver was injured but there was $700 damage.

Ralph Fitzgerald, 35, of Apsley, was driving his 1952-model car east on the road when he came into collision with the westbound 1940-model panel truck, driven by Leslie Lindsay, also of Apsley. Damage was mostly on the left side of both cars.

OPP Constable Jack McKendry of Apsley investigated.

George Smith Dies One Year After Retiring As Fire Chief

Almost exactly a year after he retired as chief of the Peterborough fire department, George William Smith, 54, of 193 Reid St., died suddenly Friday in Civic hospital. Death came at 3:15 p.m., a day after he suffered a stroke at home and had to be taken to hospital. For the last three years he has had a bad heart condition.

GEORGE W. SMITH

The former Peterborough chief was a veteran of 29 years on the city fire department. He joined it in October, 1923, and because of his ill health he resigned Oct. 31, 1952. However he was kept on salary for the next six months, acting in an advisory capacity to Assistant Chief Stewart Foster.

SUCCEEDED GIMBLETT

Chief Smith was deputy chief for about 15 years and when George Gimblett Sr. retired in December, 1947, he took over as acting chief. His promotion was confirmed in September, 1948, and he continued in office until his heart condition forced him to retire in 1951.

Altogether he was head of the Peterborough department for five years. His most exacting trial was the Zacks building fire on May 19, 1951, in which three of his regular firemen and one volunteer firemen were killed.

He was a big taciturn man who took his responsibilities with the utmost seriousness. He confided in few people and kept pretty well to his family circle. Acquaintances knew him as "a loner".

SOLE INTEREST

Thinking back over the many years he had worked with the former chief, Chief William Sorrie said today: "He was certainly a conscientious fireman—that was his sole interest. When a fire broke out he drove himself to the utmost—perhaps too hard. To show an example to his men he refused to send them anywhere that he would not go himself. Firefighting was his life.

George William Smith was born 54 years ago in London, Ontario, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith. He was educated in London and when still a youth joined the regular army.

On the outbreak of war in 1914 he was already in the medical corps and he went overseas. He remained in the Canadian army until 1919 when he was discharged.

He worked for a short time in London and then in 1923 he came to Peterborough and joined the city fire department. In that 29 years he worked his way from the bottom to the top rank.

Left are his widow, the former Lillian Matthews, and four sons, Edward H., James D., Donald G. and Alan J., all of Peterborough. A daughter, Florence Irene, died in 1949.

He was a member of All Saints' Anglican church.

Details of the funeral have not yet been completed. The body is resting at the Nisbett funeral home and the funeral service will be 2 p.m. Monday at All Saints' church, the Rev. Maurice P. Poole officiating.

Pallbearers will be city firemen, and uniformed city police will also be present. Fire Chief Gerald Vance of Belleville and a squad of Belleville firemen, and perhaps some other out-of-town firemen are expected. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

Woman Parachutes From 26,500 Feet

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—A 29-year-old mother today claims an unofficial United States altitude jump record for women after parachuting from 26,500 feet.

"It was a real thrill," said Mrs. Clara Pichardo-Hyers of Los Angeles after landing in a cotton field five miles southeast of here Friday.

Mrs. Pichardo-Hyers dropped 15,000 feet before opening her parachute.

Associates said she bettered the U.S. women's altitude jump mark by 5,500 feet but that the existing women's free-fall record is 19,000 feet. The world altitude record for women is 30,000 feet and is held by a Russian, they added.

Dies From Injuries

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — William Sparham of Barrie, a 66-year-old retired bank manager, died today from injuries received in a two-car collision near here last Wednesday. Five other persons suffered injuries in the crash. Barrie is 50 miles north of Toronto.

All City Activity To Mark Time For Deer Hunt

From the number of reports of local and district citizens who are going out on the deer hunt which opens on Monday, it would seem that commerce and industry in Peterborough will be just about crippled. It is not that drastic, however, but the sport causes as much excitement in these parts as the opening of the trout season on May 1. Most men who are able try to get away to their favorite bit of hunt country for a few days, or a week.

Even the machinery of Peterborough's civic affairs will grind to a full stop. There will be no regular Monday evening council meeting on November 22 and no committee meetings through the week have been scheduled.

LOOKING SOUTH

Everyone is going north but some hunters have their eyes on the increasing herds in South Monaghan township. Department of Lands and Forests men warn that hunting is closed in that section and it will be heavily patrolled.

Other sections in the county south of Highway 7 will have a four-day hunt, from November 4 to 7, inclusive.

At the Cochrane Hunt Club the following citizens will spend the first week, at least: Dr. Herbert Young, Clare Collins, Dr. Stanley Yule, Dr. Kenneth Milne, Bud Fortner, Ivan Lillico, Graham Ferguson, Ken Slater of Lakefield, and Dudley Young of Toronto.

South of Long Lake members of the Trout Lake Hunt who will be hunting are Alex Elliott, Dr. Ralph Honey, Dr. Harold Long, Max J. Swanston, Roy Brown, Stanley Payne, Vern Ferguson and Stanley Richardson of Lakefield.

Some Kiwanians are already at their new camp on the Cheddar Trail, south of Paudash Lake, getting it ready. Others who will join them over the weekend are Gordon Hancock, Ed de Nure, Charles Huffman, Alderman Harold Rehill, Stan Longhurst, Dick Raine, Dennis Fitzgerald, Johnny Wolstenholme, Jack Sinclair and Jim Collins of Ottawa.

KETCHECUM CLUB

Members of the Ketchecum Hunt Club who will be on their watches under hunt master Dr. S. Y. Walsh are: Jim Turner, Mayor Hugh Waddell, Vincent Eastwood, Stewart Munro, Tom Gentles, Max Comstock, Jim King, Gordon Dobbin, Jim Gillespie, Clarence Simpson, Alderman Jack Dewart and Joe Wright of Nephton.

Some city firemen will go to various camps; they will be Assistant Chief Stewart Foster and firemen Ed Wigg, Fred Ray, Pete Nicholson, Maurice Fraser and Joe Astles. There will also be five city policemen away hunting on the first week and three on the second.

The formidable front of industrial huntsmen will be, as usual, headed by men of the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Company with 75 from the plant and a few executives headed by president C. B. Neal; others are expected to join him from Toronto and the United States. Alderman S. J. Black will probably be hunting on Mr. Neal's limits.

Annual holidays are now being taken at the Quaker Oats Company, and workers and executives are expected to go hunting. Peterborough Canoe, Western Clock Company and Canada Packers expect to lose from 10 to 20 workers to the deer camps.

RESULTS

Results of the hunt will start trickling into town by next midweek, or later. Back country people report seeing deer in fair numbers and more bears than in many past seasons. The shifting elk herd, about 20 animals, may or may not be in the northern part of the county. Conservation officers have not seen them for some time. One elk, or one deer, is legal shooting, but not one of each.

The department will man shifting road-checking stations this year and will weigh carcasses, for the first time in this district, this year. They will also gather pertinent data about where animals were shot, and so forth.

Tolerate Fun Not Destruction

Funmakers will be tolerated; lawbreakers will be prosecuted.

That just about sums up the city police attitude toward tonight's Hallowe'en celebrations. And just to see things don't get out of hand, extra policemen will be available to keep their eye on things.

Though destructive tendencies have been pretty well curbed in the past few years, citizens have nevertheless been cautioned by Deputy Chief of Police John Naples to control themselves.

Anyone failing to follow this advice is likely to end up testing one of Peterborough's famous clean, warm cells.

Floors Form Foundation For Interior Beauty Of Home

Perhaps no one feature of the home has more to do with imparting that sought-after air of distinction and charm than have floors, for floors are the very basis of interior decoration. In building a new home or remodelling an old one, floors should form the foundation of interior beauty.

Of primary importance to lasting floor satisfaction is the correct laying of the sub or under flooring. Usually the sub flooring is laid diagonally, allowing the finish flooring to be laid either way of the room. For best appearance, finish flooring is laid the long way of the room. Hardwood flooring should never be laid over a sub floor which is not reasonably dry—and preferable square edge, rather than tongue and groove.

Too much stress cannot be placed on the necessity of having the sub floor well nailed. A poorly nailed sub floor is very often the cause of squeaky floors after the hardwood is laid. The sub floor should be well nailed at every joist. Flooring boards should not be over 8" wide.

In downstairs rooms particularly, a good quality moisture proof paper, either waxed or creosoted, should be laid between the sub and the hardwood floor, being sure that the paper overlaps a few inches at all edges. Building paper is not recommended because of its porous nature. It is more apt to blot up and retain moisture rather than repel it.

INSULATE OVER FURNACE

In rooms directly over the furnace an insulating paper or board should be laid under the hardwood flooring. Where this is not practical, the insulating board may be nailed to the cellar ceiling over the furnace. Heat from the furnace having direct play on the sub floor, has a tendency to shrink and take the life out of the flooring.

In starting to lay the hardwood flooring, the first strip should be laid square with the side wall, and the piece face nailed, the nails countersunk and filled in with filler during the filling of the floor. The following strips are nailed through the tongue, nails having been driven in at an angle of 45 to 50 degrees. Care should be taken that the edges of the flooring are not bruised by the hammer; if necessary, a nail set should be used. Hammer marks are imposible to remove by scraping or sanding.

Do not drive the hardwood floring up too tightly, just sufficient to close the joints. Care should be taken to see that the ends are well butted before nailing. Care should also be taken to stagger the end joints so that they do not come too close together. Do not start the first strip too close to the wall but leave a space all around the room of approximately ½" to allow for expansion. The space is covered by the quarter round.

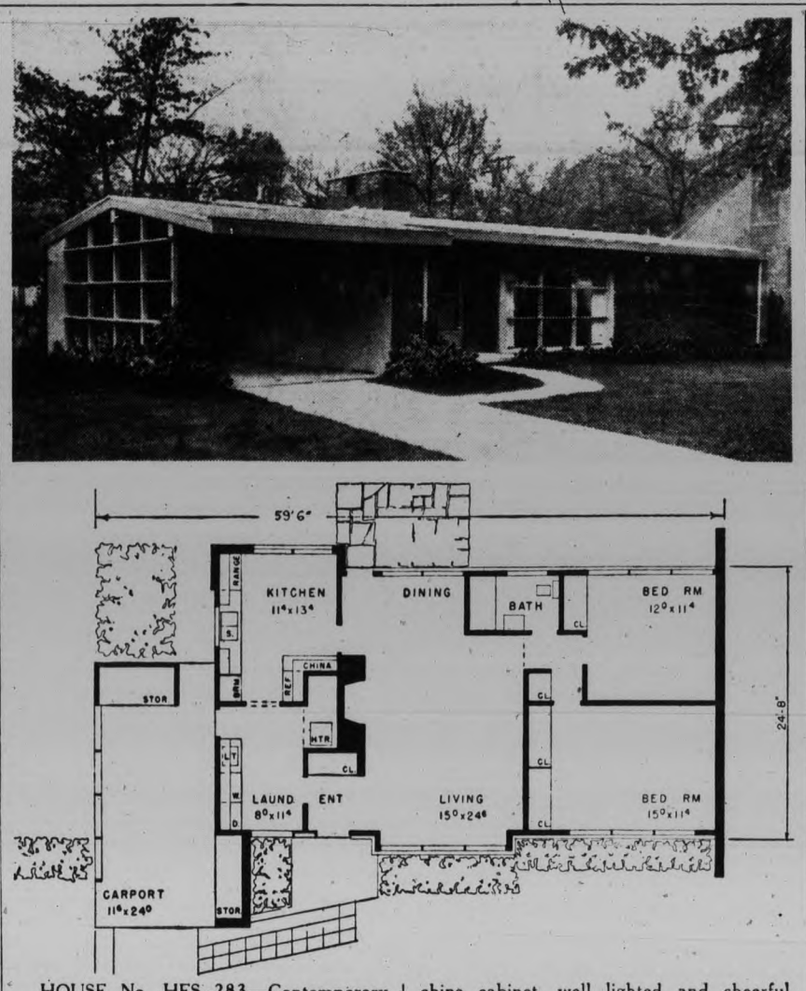

Figure 2 shows three methods of nailing the quarter-round molding in place. In A it is nailed to the baseboard, and any shrinkage will cause a crack to open up between the shoe molding and the floor. In B it is nailed to the floor, and the shrinkage of the floor will cause a crack to develop between the shoe molding and the baseboard. If it is nailed directly to the subfloor as shown in C, any movement of either the baseboard or the flooring due to seasonal moisture changes is less likely to affect the shoe molding and open up unsightly cracks along it.

SHOULD BE WELL NAILED

It is highly essential that hardwood floors be well nailed. Nails should be spaced 6" to 8" apart and for ⅜" and ½" flooring 1½" finishing nails should be used. For 13/16" flooring 2½" flooring nails spaced 10" apart are used.

All hardwood flooring is tongued and grooved on both sides and ends. The run of the grade of such flooring includes strips of various lengths. They are so accurately manufactured that they fit perfectly both sidewise and across the ends. In the finish floor laid over a subfloor, end joints do not necessarily have to come over the joist or bearing point, since the combination of the properly installed subfloor and the side-and end-matching of the flooring strips afford support to the finished floor. Such joints, however, should be staggered to avoid having several of them closely grouped together.

It is good practice to sort over the flooring strips before starting to lay the floor and lay aside the shorter lengths. These can be used inside closets, in hallways, or other places where they will be less conspicuous, leaving the longer lengths for the larger areas.

HOUSE No. HFS.-283—Contemporary in design and workmanship, this two-bedroom bungalow with carport has several economical up-to-the-minute construction features. Of brick construction, it features a huge 13' bay window. A clear-through living-dining room with adjoining terrace, a large nook area in the kitchen with built-in china cabinet, well lighted and cheerful laundry, a spacious master bedroom, generous closets and large carport storage areas all help to make this a very desirable design. Contains 1,232 cubic feet—or 12,381 square feet excluding garage. Low pitch roof is surfaced with 3-ply built-up roofing. The Movie Column

3D's Rise, Fall Runs Course, Novelty Wanes

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The rise and fall of 3D appears to have run its course.

Enthusiasm for thhe stereo "three dimensional" films that require glasses now is limited to a few film-makers who think such movies have a permanent place in programming.

When a new musical opened in Los Angeles a couple of weeks ago, only one of the seven theatres showed it in 3D. Of the 23 pictures shooting in Hollywood today, only three are the stereo type. MGM recently previewed "Kiss Me Kate" in two dimensions, although it was made for three. This film and many others are being offered to theatres for 3D or ordinary projection and most are taking the latter.

Opposition to 3D has come from studios, theatres and the public. Here are some of the reasons:

Studios—3D filming is more expensive; it costs twice as much for prints, since two strips are needed.

Theatres—3D requires special projection, handling of glasses.

Public—Glasses and intermissions have been burdensome; upped admission prices are resented; quality of 3D pictures has been poor.

Most producers now are agreed that 3D will be limited to a few films, usually science fiction or suspense movies in which depth adds to the frightening effect.

It's too bad that Hollywood never really gave 3D a chance to prove itself. But it was used principally to scare audiences by throwing things at the camera. And the studios ground out 3D films of such poor quality that they would have died in normal projection.

Perhaps some day the potential of depth movies will be realized. But that day may not come until some method is devised without glasses.

Your Garden:

Clean Up Your Garden Before Winter

Written for NEA Service

The smell of burning leaves brings to mind the necessity of cleaning up the garden as well as the lawn.

Every endeavor should be made to get rid of all rubbish not useful on the compost pile. It is better, and easier too, to do this important cleaning chore now rather than in the winter.

It is especially important that much of the faded summer-flowering material like petunias and marigolds be cleared from the beds so that the blub planting can go ahead. Narcissus, daffodils, hyacinths and crocus should be planted as early this month as possible. Tulips can wait until November.

Removal and burning of diseased rose leaves is imporant, says L. M. Massey, pathologist. Cornell University. The learned doctor says "Blackspot fungus does not die when the diseased leaf falls to the ground but lives in the leaf over the winter."

Spores may be produced during the winter in the lesions in these old leaves and serve as source of infection in the spring. The winter spores are shot into the air when mature and under mois conditions. They are windborne.

The summer spores produced in the old leaves on the ground are released when mature, but probably reach the new leaves only by splashing water. The grower will want to keep in mind that the fungus dies when the diseased leaves decay and that it seems improable that leaves are sources of disease beyound the first summer.

It cannot live in the soil or in the mulch. No safe and effective ground spray has been found so far that will penetrate into the old leaves and kill the fungus. So clean up your rose-beds.

While you are cleaning your garden you had better check the condition of walks, fences, steps, and other garden structures subject to winter damage.

A loose brick or stone in a path or steps becomes hazardous in the winter when frost comes. If your fence posts are not set in concrete and are out of plumb, straighten them now and tamp the earth well around the base of each post.

AVOID countless headaches clean up your garden before the winter sets in.

Gardening Questions

Q—Which evergreens are best suited for a hedge with an ultimate height of eight to 10 feet, and a maximum with of five feet?

A—Arborvitae, thuya occidentalis pyramidalis, is best for a tall, narrow hedge. Plant in a well-drained, loamy soil, spacing evergreens three to four feet apart.

Q—Are blueberries and huckleberries the same?

A—Blueberries, botanically, are listed as vaccinium, while the huckleberry is a specie of gaylussacia. Blueberries are large and the seeds are so small as to be scarcely noticeable. The fruit of the huckleberry is easily distinguished by the ten large bony seeds.

Q—When is the best time to transplant lily of the valley, and how often should it be divided?

A—Fall is the best time to do it. It is advisable to divide the plants every three or four years. Select the strong crowns.

Film Discussion Held By Junior Farmers

NORWOOD (ENS)—The Junior Farmers met with a good attendance.

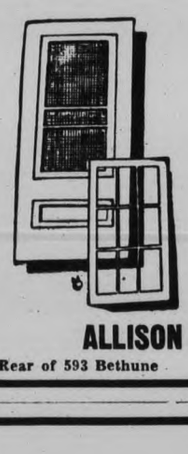
The meeting opened with singing. Ken Best, assistant agricultural representative, showed a film on Canada.

Harvey Cuthbertson, delegate to the provincial junior farmers' camp, gave a report on his week there. Another film was shown. A discussion of this film followed.

Miss Mary Wood from West Peterborough Junior Farmers, conducted games with the help of Harvey Cuthbertson. Lunch was served.

Cordova Church Holds Anniversary Services

MARMORA (ENS) — Cordova United church observed its anniversary on Sunday with the Rev. H. E. Beare of Springbrook as guest preacher morning and evening.



The congregation was joined by members of Marmora, Zion and Havelock United churches.

The choir sang special music, with Mrs. Harry Bowen at the piano. The guest soloist at both services was Miss Donna Carlisle.

The front of the church was decorated with bouquets of snapdragons, pansies, ferns and house plants.

Good Outlook

WINNIPEG (CP)—Crops in India this year are good, despite damage from floods in some areas, said M. R. Bhide, joint secretary to the ministry of food and agriculture at New Delhi, visiting here. He is with a four-man mission studying co-operatives in Canada.

MASS MURDER by the Commies took 300 civilian lives in one swoop near Hamhung, Korea, when the political prisoners were suffocated in caves (background). Here bodies await identification. These are some of the atrocities with which the United States is charging Red forces in Korea.

Privy Council To Hear Case On Road Traffic

By ARCH MacKENZIE

LONDON (CP) — The judicial committee of the Privy Council next week will hear arguments from a group of Canadian lawyers on whether the federal government or the provinces should control road traffic which crosses provincial and international boundaries.

The case could lead to putting long-distance truckers under control of the board of transport commissioners—as the railways are.

There is no question of the province's right to control highway traffic within its boundaries.

Six provinces are appealing a Supreme Court of Canada ruling handed down two years ago. In effect, the decision found in favor of the federal government controlling inter-provincial and international road traffic.

ALIGNED IN APPEAL

Aligned in the appeal are British Columbia, Alberta, Ontario, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. Opposed are the federal government, the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Canadian National Railways and the Mackenzie Coach Lines of Lewiston, Me.

The case arises from a dispute between the coach lines and the New Brunswick motor carrier board.

The commercial firm challenged the right of the provincial body to regulate its operations in New Brunswick on a run between Maine and Nova Scotia. The Supreme Court upheld the coach line, and thereby, the case for federal trans-border road traffic control.

TO INFLUENCE ACTION

Whatever decision the Privy Council may reach is expected to influence any future federal action on long-distance road haulage control. The government has always maintained it held such control, but it has not exercised it.

The railways want federal control of long-distance road haulers. The fast-growing road business—worth roughly $50,000,000 annually—has bitten into rail preserves. They feel federal control would give them a greater measure of protection competitively.

WISE HOMEOWNER, using a spray gun to paint an acoustic tile ceiling, applies a dark color to absorb light streaming in windows.

Ceilings Need Consideration For Color And Material

It seems that we rarely give much thought to the ceilings in our homes. We concentrate on the walls, reasoning that they are important because they're seen no matter which way we turn.

Being the largest uninterrupted surfaces in the rooms, in most cases, ceilings bear some careful attention.

Indirect lighting at night illuminates them fully, revealing the slightest imperfections. In daytime ceilings serve more than one essential function.

In dark rooms they are employed as light reflectors to make the most of all natural light that enters. In overbright rooms that sometimes glare in the sunlight, ceilings can serve as light absorbers.

If you have a too-dark room, you'll do well to consider the amount of light reflected by color before deciding on your ceiling's hue.

White reflects at least 80 per cent of the light falling upon it. Light ivory has a 70 per cent rating; apricot beige, about 65. Lemon yellow is slightly farther down the scale, white ivory reflects about 60 per cent and light buff, 55.

Light green and pale blue have ratings about 40 per cent and deep rose, with 15 per cent, is next to dark green, which has less than 10 per cent reflecting power.

To be sure light is reflected evenly, it is wise to use flat paint on ceilings of all rooms except the bathroom and kitchen, where it's best to apply a gloss or semi-gloss surface.

Ceilings can also serve you as sound absorbers. Sound rebounds from the hard surface of glass walls and picture windows and from stone floors and floor coverings.

Many rooms don't offer enough sound-absorbing qualities in upholstered furniture, deep carpets and heavy draperies.

Acoustic ceilings solve the problem, but must be carefully painted so the sound-trapping cells are not covered, thus impairing the acoustic properties.

Paint acoustic tile with either brush or spray gun, preferably the latter, if you have one. Pick the clogged cells open with a pin.

Use a flat paint, thinned slightly, but talk to your paint dealer about it first. Some paints can't be thinnned successfully.

Would Subpoena Parole Board

TORONTO (CP) — The legislature's committee on reform institutions Friday heard a suggestion that it subpoena members of the parole board to appear before it Monday.

The board asked previously for a meeting with the board and one was arranged for next Monday.

Then Col. Hedley Basher, deputy reforms minister, said Friday at least two board members will be in Ottawa Monday. Opposition Leader Farquhar Oliver said:

"If necessary, the committee has the power to issue pieces of paper which will bring them here.

"That's right," said chairman W. J. Stewart. "We could subpoena them, but they asked to see us."

After seing the parole board in action at Guelph recently, committee members said the board could do a better job. The board then asked for the meeting with the committee.

Seek Package Deal For Pressmen's Union

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Printing Pressmen's Union (AFL) announced Friday that it is seeking a package deal, equivalent to 25 cents an hour, for its 900 members in the Toronto printing industry.

Union officials said a statement of demands emphasizing an industry-wide contributory pension plan, was presented to employers.

A reduction in the work week from 40 to 37½ hours with the same take-home pay, and three weeks vacation after 10 years were among the other demands.

The old agreement which expired Oct. 15 provided a basic hourly rate of $2.

Sentenced For Theft

WOODSTOCK (CP)—Henry Elliott, 24, of Lucknow was sentenced Friday to three years in penitentiary after pleading guilty to 16 charges of theft and of breaking and entering. He was remanded a week on a charge of shooting with intent to do grievous bodily harm and of armed assault. Biggest theft charge was that of stealing a safe containing $1,000 at Teeswater.

Try To Arrange Weekend Meet

WINDSOR — (CP)— Mayor Arthur J. Reaume said Friday he will try to arrange meetings during the weekend between striking carpenters and construction firm officials in an attempt to settle the strike which has halted work on 85 jobs in the Windsor district.

The strike started Tuesday when 750 members of Local 494, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners (AFL) failed to report for work. Later some 4,000 other building trades workers refused to cross picket lines.

The mayor said the carpenters and contractors are so close on general terms and yet so far apart on details that the situation could become much more serious unless someone moves to bring them together.

The union has been negotiating for more than 10 months for a new contract. They recently reduced earlier demands and accepted an 18-cent hourly pay increase recommended by a conciliation board. The boost would be granted during the next two years. Carpenters now get $2 an hour. Various construction firms agreed to a 15-cent increase.

Union Takes Contract With N.Y. Publishers

NEW YORK (AP)—The Newspaper and Mail Deliverers Union has accepted a contract offer by the Publishers Association of New York, wiping out the threat of a strike tonight at midnight.

The independent union earlier had authorized a strike which would have tied up deliveries of nine New York newspapers unless agreement were reached.

The new contract includes an increase of $1.90 a week in the average wage of $91.12, plus other benefits.

The association represents the Times, Harald Tribune, Journal American, Daily News, Daily Mirror, Post, World-Telegram and Sun Long Island Star Journal and Long Island Press.

Labor MP Gives Up Seat In Parliament

LONDON (CP)—W. J. Field, 44-year-old Labor member of Parliament who was convicted of soliciting men for an immoral purpose in Piccadilly, Friday gave up his seat.

The London Gazette announced he has been appointed a steward and bailiff of the Chiltern Hundreds — a nominal appointment which merely means he is vacating his seat in Parliament. A member of Parliament cannot resign.

Field's departure from the Commons means a by-election will be called in North Paddington which has been represented by Labor since 1945.

Milk Price Down

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Indications of a 10 cent a hundredweight drop—to $4.50—in the price paid milk producers appeared Friday night at the annual meeting of London Milk Distributors' Association. Such a drop would not affect retail prices.

Rubber Strike Called

WELLAND (CP)—A walkout Friday by several hundred employees at the General Tire and Rubber Company, Stokes division, will cause the plant to be closed down, officials of the United Rubber Workers Union of America (CIO) said. The walkout was the result of 18 women employees being laid off for one week. Union officials said it was a disciplinary action by the company after the women attended a union meeting during working hours last Wednesday. About 450 persons are employed at the plant.

Horticultural Merit Award Presented

OMEMEE (ENS)—Mrs. Vivian Raffan of Lindsay, who until two months ago lived in Omemee, was proclaimed winner of the horticultural award of merit for 1953 at the annual supper held by the Horticultural Society Thursday evening in Christ Anglican church basement.

Attending with her son Donald, Mrs. Raffan was unaware of the honor to be bestowed upon her.

More than 100 members and guests were present. Chrysanthemums, asters and delphiniums supplimented by bowls of fruit and Hallowe'en decorations including a lighted jack-o-lantern on the head table decorated the tables.

President Wesley Wilson was master of ceremonies. The Rev. A. W. Smith, rector of Christ church, said grace and welcomed the society.

Mr. Russell Heard of Woodville director of district 4 and Mrs. Heard were head table guests. He presented the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt as the new director of district 4 for the coming year.

NEW DIRECTOR

Mr. Zufelt was to present the award to Mrs. Raffan but, since the certificate had been delayed, he could only assure her of delivery on its arrival. He spoke of her marvellous accomplishments in horticulture, in spite of what many would have considered great odds, and of her work for the society. Mrs. Raffan thanked the society for the unexpected award.

There were two periods of community singing, led by Bill Weir, and two solos by Ronald Bullock, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Howard Bullock. Three films were shown by Mr. Weir, Nature's Sanctuary at Point Pelee, Roots of Plants and the Call of the Kawarthas.

Lucky draw door prizes went to William Callingham and Miss Hazel Wilson.

NATO Stresses Good Relations

PARIS (Reuters) — Information officers from the members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization have stressed the importance of good relations between NATO soldiers away from home and the populations of the countries in which they are stationed.

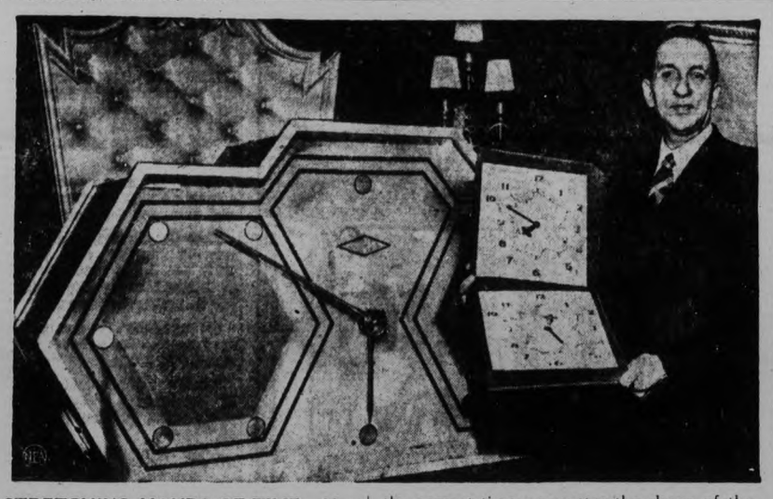
The few "disagreeable incidents" which have occurred between troops and civilians have received publicity out of proportion to their true importance, they stated in a report which will be considered by the NATO council.

The conference recommended that each country playing host to foreign troops should inform its people why the troops are stationed there. The information officers also urged that troops be given full orientation courses about the country to which they are being sent.

Regrets Shooting Sentence Reduced

ROME (CP)—Antonio Pallante, Sicilian student who shot Communist chief Palmiro Togliatti five years ago, won a reduced sentence today from Rome's court of appeals after saying he "profoundly regretted" his deed.

The court reduced Pallante's original 13-year, eight-month sentence to 10 years and eight months and remitted three years of the reduced term. That leaves Pallante only two years to serve. He already has served five years since he seriously wounded Togliatti.



At the trial Pallante defended his action by saying he wanted to save Italy from the civil war he thought Togliatti was fomenting.

Ex-Gov.-General's Son Under Arrest

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — Patrick Baker Duncan, 34, son of a former governor-general of South Africa, today began a 100-day prison term at hard labor for breaking racial segregation laws.

Entering prison near here with Duncan were Mrs. Winifred Troup, 41, housewife and social worker, and Miss Betty du Toit, labor official removed from her post under the Suppression of Communism Act. They will serve 50 days each.

The three, all whites, were sentenced for entering a segregated African location, an action forbidden to Europeans if it is "calculated to encourage non-Europeans to defy the law."

STRETCHING HANDS OF TIME—Not resricted by orthodox clock faces, Georges Gehel has invented clock hands that extend and retract in telescopic fashion to indicate the correct time no matter the shape of the clock's face. The application of the French inventor's "timely" idea is evident in the large clock above. Gehel is shown in Paris, holding other clocks of his design.

Bethany Potato Grower Wins Durham County Prize

MILLBROOK (ENS) — Earle Weatherill of Bethany won the $100 gold watch for the highest number of points growing potatoes in the Durham county 500-bushel potato crop.

The presentation was made at the club's annual turkey banquet in St. Andrew's church hall Friday evening.

Mr. Weatherill won his honors as "potato king" of Durham county for 1953 growing Sebago potatoes. His yield was 520 bushels to the acre. The quality was such that he scored 171 points out of a possible 200.

Fenton Fallis of Pontypool, last year's winner, stood fifth, growing Chippewas. His yield was the highest for this year—599 bushels to the acre, but since the quality was not so good he scored just 158 points out of 200.

AVERAGE YIELD

The club's average yield for 1953 was 365.5 bushels to the acre. The highest average yield since the club was started in 1944 was in 1948 when it was 534 bushels to the acre. That year's award for first place went to Delbert Olan of Millbrook, reeve of Cavan township, whose yield was 760 bushels to the acre—a record that has not yet been beaten. The lowest average yield for the club was 289 bushels in 1945. Alfred Johnson of Pontypool, the club's first winner in 1944, stood seventh this year.

A. E. Summers, agricultural representative for Durham county, called attention to the fact that this year was the second one in which there had been a winner of the second generation. In 1951 Albert Olan of Millbrook won the award for first place just three years after his father's win. This year Earl Weatherill won it four years after his father Milton had been declared winner in 1949.

In the Durham boys' potato club the winner was Ralph Porter. The award of a pen and pencil set and $5.50 in cash was made to his brother Kenneth in his absence. Kenneth himself stood third and won $4.50. In second place, winning $5.00, was Laverne Morton and Melville Wood, leader of the club, made the presentation.

Centring the head table was the trophy for the potato judging team for Durham who won the Ontario championship at Guelph. The boys winning the trophy were Maurice Hallowell of Orono and Kenneth Buttery of Bowmanville, who were introduced to the gathering.

Among the guests at the head table were John James, MP, and Mrs. James, the Hon. Major John Foote, MPP and Mrs. Foote. According to custom, last year's winner, Fenton Fallis acted as chairman for the evening.

GUEST SPEAKER

Guest speaker was Dr. N. H. High of Ontario Agricultural College, director of the two-year diploma course. Dr. High said that civilization as we know it had its beginning when one man began to grow food enough for others so that they could specialize in some other field. He said it showed a high degree of civilization and cultural achievement to grow 500 bushels of potatoes to the acre.

Agriculture, he said, was basic to mankind. Only 15 per cent of the ponulation was engaged in agriculture where formerly 90 per cent were. This meant that the 15 per cent have a much greater responsibility now than the larger number had formerly. Fluctuation of farm values and the resulting instability were hard to overcome.

"A farmer is a gambler in the sands of time," he said. He suggested that greater interest in farm organizations was one way to meet the challenge and to accomplish the stabilization of agriculture.

Dr. High was introduced by Jay. W. Brown, assistant agricultural representative for Durham, and thanked by Melville Wood.

Five-year-old Billie Wade performed on his drums, accompanied at the piano by his mother. Billie also sang solos in his drum major costumes.

A whole roast turkey, auctioned off by John James, went to Major Foote for $15.

The presentation of prizes was made by E. A. Summers, with R. E. Gooden of the crop improvement branch of the department of agriculture assisting.

STANDINGS

Following are the club members giving the order of their standing with the variety of potatoes grown, the estimate yield in bushels per acre and the total final score and yield for marketable potatoes:

Henry Blakely—honourary life member and still "Potato King": 1 Earle Weatherilt, Bethany (Sebago) 520, 171; 2 Melville Woods, Millbrook (Kennebec) 423, 164; 3 Charles Weatherilt, Bethany (Sebago) 451, 160; 4 Delbert Olan, Millbrook (Chippewa) 509, 159; 5 Fenton Fallis, Pontypool (Chippewa) 599, 158; 6 Albert Olan, Millbrook (Sebago) 507, 151; 7 Alfred Johnson, Pontypool, (Katahdin) 311, 146; 8 Ernest Cavano, Pontypool (Chippewa) 265, 145; 9 Hector Morton, Cavan (Sebago) 276, 144; 10 Leonard Porter, Pontypool (Katahdin) 272, 134; 11 Ronald Pomery, Pontypool (Katahdin) 338, 133; 12 John Payne, Pontypool (I.C.) 268, 130; 13 Donald Lowe, Cavan (Katahdin) 262, 129; 14 Edgar Beer, Bethany (Chippewa) 347, 128; 15 Clifford Curtis, Pontypool (Sebago(195, 123; 16 Earle Argue, Pontypool (Katahdin) 335, 122; 17 Harvey McGill, Enniskillen Chippewa) 337, 121.

In the boys' potato club the standings were: 1 Ralph Porter ($5.50); 2 Laverne Morton ($5.00); 3 Kenneth Morton ($4.50); 4 Cameron Porter $4.50; 5 Ken Buttery ($4.50); 6 Douglas Olan ($4.50); 7 Kenneth Olan ($4.50); 8 Ronald Fallis $4.50; 9 Bert Werry ($4.50); 10 Lewis Neals ($4.50); 11 Allan Johnston ($4.50); 12 Ray Finney and Garth McGill (tied), ($4.50); 13 Maurice Hallowell ($4.50); 14 Keith Fice ($4.00); 15 Alan Dayes $4.00); 16 Clifford Dayes ($4.00.

2 Schools Closed Because Of Damage

CHATHAM (CP) — Police said today two schools in the Lambton-Kent border area were forced to close Friday because of a mess made by "young adults."

Mashed chalk, crayons and pencils littered classroom floors. Teachers told pupils to stay home until repairs were made.

A third school, in the Camden area, had 27 windows smashed.

"This wasn't the work of youngsters on some pre - Hallowe'en stunt," police said.

Auto Shop Explosion Destroys Part Of Block

ANACONDA, Mont. (CP)— An unexplained explosion in an auto body shop rocked this city of 12,000 early today and started a fire that destroyed a downtown quarter-block housing four businesses. Damage was estimated at $850,000.

Ehlman Johnson, 23, and his father, Henry, 53, were closing up the shop when the explosion occurred. The son was burned and both suffered shock.

Brewin To Run As CCF Leader

TORONTO (CP) — Andrew Brewin, 46-year-old Toronto lawyer, said today he will run for leadership of the Ontario CCF party at the party's convention here Nov. 21-22.

He was considered a leading candidate for the post when party leader E. B. Jolliffe resigned last August.

Mr. Brewin was president of the Ontario CCF in 1946-48 and was an unsuccessful candidate in one provincial and three federal elections.

Born in England, he drafted the Saskatchewan Trade Union Act and advised the Saskatchewan government on setting up its provincial automobile insurance scheme.

Morganston WA Holds Meeting

WARKWORTH —(ENS)—The regular monthly meeting of the Morganston Women's Association was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Carman Bray.

The president Mrs. H. George presided over the meeting. Mrs. Glenn Clarke was devotional convener. The scripture reading was given by Mrs. Ewart Huycke. Miss Beatrice Bird gave a reading entitled "The Tender Shepherd" and the lesson thoughts were given by Mrs. Glenn Clarke and Miss Eunice Turney and Mrs. T. Dodge sang a vocal duet.

It was decided that the WA would serve lunch at the auction sale of Ernest Campbell and a committee was appointed to arrange for the lunch composed of Mrs. Jack Carr, Mrs. C. Bray, Mrs. R. Robson and Mrs. Gerald Philp.

Plans were made for the Calf Club banquet which will be held the last of November. The committee in charge of buying the turkeys is to be composed of Mrs. Don Massey and Mrs. Harold Fitchett and the committee for getting the chairs is to be Mrs. Harold Doidge and Mrs. Lorne McComb.

It was decided to write away for prices on silverware and to make the purchase to be for use at the banquet.

The committee for the menu for the banquet is as follows: Mrs. Ewart Huycke, Mrs. Bertram Fitchett, Mrs. C. Bradley and Miss Beatrice Bird.

The price per plate was set at $1.50.

On November 6th a pot luck supper and bazaar will be held with the price set at 75c adults and 35c for children; Mrs. E. Redden and Mrs. C. Herrington were appointed salesladies at the bazaar table.

Each member is asked to bring a meat dish.

Mrs. Ewart Huycke and Mrs. Kenneth Jones, the program conveners, presented the program. Readings were given by Mrs. Gerald Philp, Mrs. Borden Carr, Mrs. Don Massey and Mrs. Robt. Robson and a vocal solo was given by Mrs. Darling.

After the benediction lunch was served by the hostess and the lunch committee.

Will Punish Builders Without House Permits

MOSCOW (AP)—The council of ministers of the Georgian SSR has issued a decree ordering trial and punishment for all persons guilty of building houses without written permission.

The decree by the governing heads of Stalin's home republic was published in the latest edition of the official newspaper, Dawn of the East.

The paper charged that during the last two months, in Tbilisi alone, there have been more than 300 cases of unwarranted building without written permission or gross violations of building regulations and norms.

Hong Kong Veteran Dies After Brawl

WINNIPEG (CP) — One man was fatally injured and another suffered knife wounds in two separate brawls Friday night.

Joseph McLeod, 40, a Hong Kong veteran, was found lying in the street suffering from head injuries. He died today in hospital.

An unidentified man suffered knife wounds in a pint-sized riot that smashed up the interior of a north end house. Several men were taken into custody.

Will Wind Up Debate On Germ War

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) The United Nations political committee strove today to wind up its bitter East-West debate on germ warfare. It is expected to dump the touchy issue into the lap of the disarmament commission.

The debate, highlighted by United States charges that the Russians ran a torture centre in Korea to wring germ warfare "confessions" from captured American airmen, was slated to reach the voting stage today.

Balloting was on two resolutions:

1. Russia's demand for an assembly call to all countries which have not done so to ratify the 1925 Geneva convention against bacteriological warfare. This was aimed at the U. S., which has refused to ratify it, demanding more than paper promises to stop such practices.

2. A five-power proposal to pass on to the disarmament commission both Russia's proposal and records of the committee's germ-warfare debate. Those supporting the resolution made it plain it was not intended to show they placed any credence in Russia's germ charges.

WANT EARLY HEARING

The debate neared an end as the U. S. speeded plans to get an early assembly hearing on a related matter—its charges that Reds in Korea committed atrocities against American and other Allied captives.

It is expected the U. S. request will be debated in the UN steering committee Monday and that the General Assembly will be asked next week to decide whether to take up the item at this time.

Observers predicted the assembly will agree to take up the item and will turn it over to the political committee where the UN's top political problems are handled.

In the Security Council, Syria launched its complaint against diversion of Jordan river water by Israel for a power plant project. Syria's Farid Zeineddine, without naming the U. S., criticized big-power aid for Israel.

Three Killed In Collision

CHATHAM (CP)—Three persons were killed and a youth was severely injured today when a car and transport truck collided a few miles east of nearby Thamesville.

Names of the dead were not immediately available. Police said they were riding in a car bearing Michigan licence plates. The youth was identified by hospital attendants as Caesar Pons of Windsor. He suffered leg injuries.

The truck driver, Carl Taylor, 28, of Windsor, escaped injury. The car was wrecked.

The dead were taken to the morgue at Thamesville, about 15 miles northeast of here. Constable W. J. Shrubb of the Ontario Provincial Police said he believed the dead were all Michigan youths.

Warkworth Men Seek To Keep School Area

WARKWORTH —(ENS)—The regular monthly meeting of the Warkworth Business Men's Association was held at Carlaw's hotel with a good attendance.

It was decided that a recommendation be made to the village commissioners regarding the collection of garbage.

It was decided that matters pertaining to the establishment of a new dairy be held over till a later date.

It was thought advisable to discuss more fully at a later date the problems pertaining to the cleaning of the local cemeteries.

The date December 18th was set for the annual turkey bingo and a committee was appointed to make the arrangements.

Considerable discussion was held regarding the school question which resulted in a motion calling for a united effort to do everything possible to keep the local school and to take any necessary steps to ensure the area being left as one. A copy of this recommendation is to be forwarded to the department.

Archie Ward of Port Hope, guest speaker emphasized the importance of proper road engineering, their building and their maintenance.

Enemy Sabotage Rings Broken–East Germany

BERLIN (AP)—The East German Communist government claimed today that large espionage, sabotage and terror groups operating under U. S. guidance in the Soviet zone have been wrecked within the last few days.

Arrests were made in East Berlin, at Halle, Cottbus, Potsdam and some other places, the ministry of the interior said in a communique. It claimed also that radio transmitters of American origin, weapons and "secret instructions" have been confiscated.

The arrested persons, whose number was not revealed, were described as agents of the American and the West German secret service.

PoW Beaten To Death Indian Forces Reveal

PANMUNJOM (AP)—A North Korean prisoner-of-war was beaten to death Thursday, the Indian command said tonight.

A second PoW was badly injured nd is being treated in hospital.

A court of inquiry will be held.

STRONG HAND—Pat Smythe was expected to be the toughest to beat—among men as well as women—in the jumping department of the National Horse Show. A member of the British team, she is shown with her great jumper, Prince Hal.

Urge Teachers To Select Students For Colleges

OTTAWA (CP)—Principal W. A. Mackintosh of Queen's University Friday night urged high school teachers to select students worthy of university education and develop their talents.

Such selection was necessary, "not only because of the great numbers who are going to be knocking at university doors, but because the future development of Canada is going to need talent, skills and learning."

"We have to concentrate on talent, encourage it in aptitudes which will make that talent blossom and bear fruit," Dr. MacIntosh said at the annual meeting of the Ottawa district of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation.

MUST HAVE PEOPLE

The huge amounts of money invested in Canadian development would fail "if we haven't got the people to man the development."

Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa, who also spoke, said that despite problems of educational costs, there must be no economies in teachers' salaries.

Vietminh Forces Lose 658 Men

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—The French high command announced today that Communist-led Vietminh forces lost 658 killed in ambush attacks against French and Viet Namese troops pushing an offensive outside the southern rim of the Red river delta.

The command said that was the exact figure for the entire offensive operation which started Oct. 15. An army spokesman said French and Viet Namese forces captured 105 Vietminh troops.

The command announcement sharply contradicted information released in Saigon to the effect that Vietminh Division 320 had lost half of its effectives and was disorganized.

College Refuses To Evacuate Towns, Cities

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — University of Western Ontario today refused to evacuate towns and cities in Ontario in which it has set up extension classes. Other Ontario universities are complaing that night classes are being duplicated by two unversities operating in the same centres.

Dr. S. F. Maine, director of the summer school and extension departments at UWO, said UWO has no intention of withdrawing from any of the towns unless the minister of education approves the action.

"UWO, McMaster, Queen's, Toronto, Carlton College and Ottawa University met and formulated plans to split Ontario into zones, but the plans were never referred back to the senates of the unisities," Dr. Maine said.

"The university presidents were supposed to confer with the minister of education about the zoning of Ontario following the senate approval, but nothing further was done," he said.

SAYS PACT NON-EXISTENT

Dr. Maine said UWO judged that no agreement had been entered into and will continue with its classes despite protests.

UWO conducts regular extension classes in Brantford, Chatham, Clinton, Collingwood, Galt, Guelph, Ingersoll, Kitchener - Waterloo, London, Owen Sound, Peterborough, St. Catharines, St. Thomas, Sarnia, Sault Ste. Marie, Stratford, Sudbury, Timmins, Toronto, Welland, Windsor and Woodstock.

Man Becomes Flaming Mass

CLEVELAND (AP) — A 27-year-old housewife, hearing a blast in the cellar Friday night, ran to the door and saw a mass of flames speeding up the steps. It was her husband.

"All I could see was a ball of fire," said Mrs. Blanche Braden. "I couldn't tell what it was, but it came toward me and my husband's voice came out of it, shouting to me to get the kids out of the house."

The victim was Edwin Braden, 34, a county engineer, who firemen said apparently had been trying to start a fire in his furnace with kerosene or gasoline. He died today in Berea community hospital.

With a superhuman effort, Braden ran into the yard. A neighbor knocked him down and put out the fire. Firemen extinguished the blaze in the house. The Braden's three children were carried to safety.

YOU CAN TAKE A BIG STEP WHILE SITTING ON THE FLOOR

That sounds like an assignment for an acrobat doesn't it? The fact is though, that it is not hard to do.

We are referring to the old Canadian method of spreading the Classified Ad pages of the newspaper on the floor and reading every ad in search of a wanted item to fill an urgent need.

Uncounted millions of families have found the home of their desires in this manner. And buying a home is the biggest step most families ever take.

Other numberless millions have found the automobile of their choice in this manner. Buying an automobile is a big step too.

Still others have found building lots, jobs, appliances, furniture and hundreds of other needs by reading the Classified Ads.

What do you need? Have you read the Examiner Classified Pages to find it?

What have you to sell? Have you used the Examiner Classified pages to sell it?

You can place an Examiner Classified Ad by dialing 4641.

Hallowe'en Had Religious Beginning

BY NANCY CLEAVER

"Why do we have Hallowe'en?" Junior asks his mother and she pauses for a moment and tries to remember just what was the orgin of this day.

Like Christmas, it had a religious beginning, although with the passing of time most of the spiritual emphasis had been lost. The ancient Romans and the early Druids in Britain, centuries ago had an Autumn festival which was not unlike Hallowe'en. In the dark Middle ages, the people of Britain feared this day. They believed the spirits of the dead came back to the earth and visited their homes at this time.

The word "hallow" is not one we use often. But mother can point out that it is the same word, with the same meaning "holy," which is repeated in the phrase of the Lord's Prayer—"Hallowed be Thy Name." The holy or sacred night of this festival was called "All Hallowe'en." The boy or girl who is learning to spell knows that the apostrophe mark is inserted in place of the missing letter, which in this case is "v" in Even," which was used for evening.

FEAR A POOR WEAPON

Witches and spirits don't cut a very big figure in our land except on October 31st. We Canadians are too short of houses to have the luxury of haunted dwellings. It is the rare mother who makes the mistake of scaring her child by threatening him with witch stories or "The Boogie Man will get you." Strong fear has a bad effect on a child's nervous system and it is a poor weapon to use to control a little child's behaviour.

But it is fun to dress up like an old witch in black with a broomstick, or find old sheets and pillow slips for a white ghosts costume. Dressing up is such good fun. On Hallowe'en, if mother will take time to co-operate, long years afterwards children will remember with gratitude what a good time they had.

In many centres boys and girls dress up in amusing costumes and visit their friends. The guests are treated with candy or fruit. In larger centres, Hallowe'en is apt to become a bit of a racket. Bands of strange children ring as many door bells as possible and with scant ceremony, cry "Shell out!" when the door is opened. It is little wonder that many adults turn out their lights, lock their doors, and stay away from home for the evening! In lawless communities they may feel a bit nervous about the safety of their property in their absence, because boys on Hallowe'en night sometimes are destructive, in a mistaken idea of a good time.

WITCHES, GHOSTS AND GOBLINS walk tonight but they are tamer this year for many of them already walked this week at their school parties. But one thing ever present is the Hallowe'en pumpkin, carved out days beforehand, and all ready for the candle to be placed on the window sill.

MAKING DECORATIONS

In homes where there are little children or youngsters in the lower grades of public school, parents know how much pleasure can be obtained from making decoration for the table for Hallowe'en supper and cutting out a pumpkin. The clutter is small compared to the enjoyment it provides.

Children love to "dress up". At this Hallowe'en season, when mothers are looking for articles for a masquerade costume, they should consider a permanent "Costume Box". Into this box they can put discarded hats, gloves, scarves, shoes, and clothing which a child may use in dramatic play. Little girls especially, love to pretend that they are grown-up ladies and on a rainy or stormy day, they can rummage in the Costume Box and dress up in strange weird effects.

School age boys and girls may want to try their hand at making paper mache masks. If this process requires too much time and direction, faces painted on paper bags can be quite fearsome. An old stocking or skull cap can form a base for a wig of sheep's wool or yarn. Children love to make things and it is easy to relate handicraft projects in the home to these special days in the year.

Sherlock Holmes Arrives On Broadway

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK (AP)—The new play, "Sherlock Holmes," which arrived on Broadway Friday night at the Century Theatre, isn't new at all. It reaches into the past, grasps a few tender memories and emerges as a play which has some exciting and amusing moments, perhaps enough to succeed.

"Sherlock Holmes" begins as an ancient play (in content), a good play which makes a hero of a New York detective who gets mixed up in foreign intrigue.

This drama resulted when Ouida Rathbone, who had been writing scripts for the radio and television programs of her husband, Basil Rathbone, decide that submarine warfare in 1895 would make a good plot.

The story moves in its 19th-century setting to the village where the espionage agents hope to steal the submarine plans.

SHERLOCK TO THE RESCUE

The whole problem is brought to Sherlock Holmes, especially by the high navy official who is about to wind up in disgrace unless the stolen plans are recovered.

Holmes traces the devious routes of these stolen submarine plans, finally shows up in the Swiss Alps and the plans are retrived.

Jarmila Novotna, the Metropolitan Opera star, sings a couple of enthusiastic songs and Thomas Gomez gives an exciting dramatic performance. Basil Rathbone would be excellent as Sherlock Holmes if he could forget that he is Basil Rathbone.

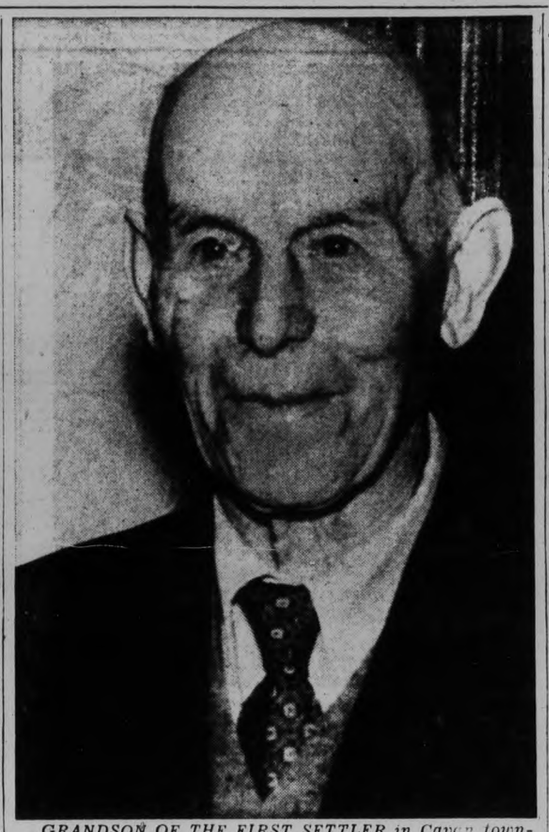
Wife's Happiness Deciding Issue

NEW YORK (AP)—Sgt. John H. Brown said in Korea today that his wife's happiness will decide what action he'll take concerning her romance with singer Julius La Rosa.

Brown's wife, Dorothy McGuire separated amicably from Brown, said that they would be married after resolving legal and religious obstacles. La Rosa is a Roman Catholic and Miss McGuire is not.

"I love my wife dearly," Brown said through army officers at his post at Taegu, "and I am most concerned for her happiness. At this time I haven't decided what action to take.

"However, I am hoping I will see Miss McGuire, talk to her and then decide what to do. Whatever I decide will be for my wife's happiness."



Miss McGuire said she has been living apart from Brown for the last several months.

Ask Sanctuary

CAIRO (AP)—The British Embassy said Friday night that two British soldiers held in the Suez canal zone on theft charges escaped from a guard room Tuesday. Cairo newspapers said two British soldiers from the canal zone reported to Egyptian authorities there asking for asylum and claiming mistreatment in British camps.

Grandson Of First Settler In Cavan 90 Years Old

MILLBROOK (ENS) — Joseph Lancashire, who is celebrating his 90th birthday today, comes from early North of Ireland pioneer stock on both sides of his family.

His grandfather, John Deyell, was the first settler in Cavan township, coming in the year 1816.

Mr. Lancashire has not yet broken the record for longevity in his family, since a Cavan township history tells that his grandfather, John Deyell, died in 1878 at the age of 103.

John Deyell had served at the Battle of Waterloo in 1815 under the Duke of Wellington. The next year he became Cavan township's first settler.

He settled on what is now Highway 28, less than a mile south of Centreville. He gave the land for the first schoolhouse and for Centreville Presbyterian church and cemetery. The first lodging house, the Centreville hotel, was also built by him. It had over its door the motto: "Live and Let Live." John Deyell established the grist mill in Millbrook now operated by Attwood and Sheppard, which gave Millbrook its name.

A stained glass window, at the west end of Centreville Presbyterian Church, facing the doors by which the worshippers enter, is a memorial to John Deyell and his wife, Margaret.

Mr. Lancashire's father, Robert Lancashire, also came from the North of Ireland. He was a carpenter and builder. With his wife, the former Mary Jane Deyell, he lived in the house immediately south of Centreville Presbyterian Church. It was in this house that Joseph Lancashire was born.

FARMED ON ZION LINE

Most of Mr. Lancashire's working life was spent as a farmer. For 34 years he farmed on the Zion line of Cavan township on the farm now owned by David Clarke. For a number of years before that he operated a cheese factory in Cavan.

His wife, formerly Margaret Elson, was a native of Welcome where she lived until their marriage in 1893. She predeceased her husband in 1945. There were four children, Marion (Mrs. Jack Allen) who died in 1949, Howard, who is now Millbrook's postmaster, Kathleen (Mrs. A. F. Gray) who lives in Sarnia, and Henry J., manager of the Bank of Toronto in Galt. There are three grandchildren, Howard Gray of Sarnia, and Robert and Margaret Lancashire of Galt.

Mr. Lancashire makes his home with his son Howard in Millbrook. His general health is good. He has never been actually ill in bed. He is a great optimist and likes the company of young people, which probably accounts for the fact that he has modern ideas.

All his life he has been an enthusiastic sportsman. In his early days he took a keen interest in boxing. Later, until Millbrook's curling rink closed in the late 1920s, he was an avid curler. Until five years ago he thoroughly enjoyed bowling in the local alleys. He had a keen eye and made excellent scores.

Builder Favors Basement Can See Many Advantages

Millions of words have been written arguing the advantages of basementless construction. Here we present the views of one builder who favors the use of a basement:

"Frankly, we have never found the proponents of the basementless house very convincing. Facts and figures always prove conclusively that the basement space costs only about 15% of the amount necessary to put the same space above grade. This is a bargain which no home planner can afford to overlook.

"Any house, even a small summer cottage, should be built on a firm foundation—and to be firm, the foundation must extend well below the deep frost line. This means that a certain amount of excavating must be done whether or not a basement is contemplated. A major portion of the cost of excavating is in merely getting the steam shovel to the site. Hence, the cost of a full basement is not very much more than that of a partial basement—just a few more scoops of the shovel—and may not be much greater than the cost of merely sinking footings under a basementless house.

"The basement is particularly important for the small house on a small lot. There the basement offers a golden opportunity for the householder to put many additional conveniences into his home and yet keep down the area his house covers. This permits greater lawn and garden space around the house, a factor that greatly increases enjoyment of his home.

ALWAYS NEED MORE STORAGE

"No matter how much storage space you think you will need, you probably will need more—for ash containers, screens, awnings, sleds, paint, the baby buggy, lawn furniture, lawn mower, tools, and all other occasionally used things in the household. If you plan to do any gardening you'll want space first to store your tools; secondly to put away vegetables in the root cellar or to store home canned products. Where better than in the cellar?

For added convenience the basement should be equipped with a direct basement door of ample width so that large equipment can be carried in or out without having to track through upper rooms. This also provides an important safety exit for rumpus room occupants in case of emergency.

"Simply because it is below ground, where temperature does not vary so much as outside air temperature, a basement is less trouble to heat in winter and to keep cool in summer than any other part of the house. Almost every type of furnace gives off a certain amount of heat entirely aside from that it sends through the pipes or ducts. When the heating plant is in the basement, this heat doesn't go to waste but heats the underside of the first floor.

"If you decide to put your laundry in the basement, a light, clean, attractive room can easily be built in any modern cellar. Ceilings and walls of sheet building board, a waterproof floor and provision for heating and ventilating the room will make it a pleasant place in which to work. A laundry chute from the upper floors can bring soiled clothes directly to the sorting table. If the household doesn't boast an automatic clothes dryer, the laundry should be located close to the exit to the back or drying yard.

"If anything more than ordinary cellar windows is desired, shallow areaways will permit windows that will let in plenty of light. Similar installations might well be considered too, for that part of the cellar which is to become the playroom. As a final touch in the basement, a telephone extension will eliminate a good many interruptions while the washing and ironing is underway.

PARTITION OFF HEATING

"With little or no trouble at all, the heating plant for the house can frequently be partitioned off in a room of its own, if it won't add to the decor of the basement playroom. This room can also contain the domestic water heater, the oil tank or the coal bin and all the furnace appurtenances. An occasional coat of paint can prevent even a purely utilitarian coal bin from becoming an eye-sore. And if the bin is solidly boarded up to the ceiling on all sides, and a sliding door installed, coal dust will be confined to the bin.

"When the basement becomes a place to live in as well as over, a lavatory or powder room may be indicated. This room, the laundry and the heating plant can be so grouped that piping costs can be kept to a minimum. Water outlets for the darkroom, if any, and for the refreshment bar in the rumpus room, will be additional conveniences. And there should be plenty of electric outlets, with circuits designed to bear the load they will carry, in the workshop, playroom and laundry."

Boys' Hallowe'en Party

Troop and Cub Pack No. 7 of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church met together Friday evening, with opening ceremonies as usual, under Scoutmaster Archie Ballantine and Akela James McLeod. The boys of each body were arranged in typical Hallowe'en garb, all of them original and humorous. A parade was formed, and as they marched three of each group were pulled aside, and voted by the judges as best in their class. Games were next on the program with apples and a traesure hunt and "dookin'" for apples, and a candy shower. Presentation of Sixer stripes was made to W. Turner, J. Hewitt, D. Minty; and to Seconders Peter Philp, T. Higgins, S. McBride; and a "surgical" skit was enacted by members of the Scout Troop, with hideous results and final recovery of the patient. This was followed by service of soft drinks and cookies and ice cream, and Mrs. W. R. Philp was thanked, with her committee, for their kindness.

Experts' Tricks "Baffle-Out" A Fading Tan

If a fading tan needs the lift of a brightening make-up, use an expert's trick of putting your skin in the pink for a season of blackest blacks, reddest reds, and hottest carnival colors for gaiety-loving gals.

The simple trick of baffling out yellow in a skin is to use clear pink cheek rouge. It must have no blue or orangy undertones. The expert believes in using two kinds of rouge. Cream rouge goes on first and blends in almost invisibly with the foundation. Dry rouge goes on last, even after face powder, to heighten the rosy glow on cheeks, chin, and forehead.

With pink rouge, he suggests using a make-up of neutral tone. Both make-up foundation and powder should be in color harmony with your skin, yet enlivening to a fading tan.

Before applying dry rouge—your final ritual after eyes are made up and powder is puffed on—stand back from your mirror about a foot or two. Now, at this better-to-judge distance, dust the pink magic on to cheeks, chin, and the high point of your forehead. That done, blend the four rosy spots into neighboring areas of the face with your powder puff.

Now, asks the famed expert, posing a surprise question: "In view of your knowledge of painting, what lipstick shade do you think will best help your skin to buck autumn's blue lights and make a brunette look more vibrant, a blonde more like a Dresden doll?"

The answer is—but, of course, you guessed it—a rich, ripe red: a red as blazing as a knight's standard, as brilliant as little Red Riding Hood's cloak.

Shotton-Sanderson Wedding Rites

HAVELOCK (ENS)—A wedding of interest was solemnized in St. Crispin's Anglican church, Scarborough, by the Rev. A. J. Lorte, when AW1 Donalda Maud Sanderson of Uplands, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Sanderson of Scarboro, became the bride of LAC John Nearns Shotton of Calgary, Alberta, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Shotton of Havelock.

The bride wore a gown of white taffeta with overskirts of white nylon with lace insertions in petal shape from the waist. The bodice was strapless with lace overset and she wore a taffeta and lace bolero. Her fingertip veil was of nylon net with lace and fell from a satin tiara trimmed with pearls. She carried white and pink 'mums.

Mrs. D. Harrison, cousin of the bride was matron of honor wearing green satin with overskirts in lighter shades of net. The bodice was strapless with a stole of the net and her feather headdress was in matching green. She carried gold 'mums. Bridesmaids were Mrs. P. O'Brien and Miss Barbara Jordan, wearing gowns of deep mauve and powder blue, both fashioned with double overskirts of net in lighter shades. Mrs. O'Brien carried pink and mauve 'mums and Miss Jordan yellow 'mums.

Mr. Bruce Cooke of the Royal Military College, Kingston and formerly of Havelock, was groomsman. Ushers were Donald Banks of Scarborough, cousin of the bride and Neil Shotton of Havelock, brother of the groom.

There were two receptions. The first was held in the church hall, where a wedding breakfast was served, the second at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride's mother received in a gown of turquoise crepe with matching hat and black gloves and purse. The groom's mother was in powder blue crepe with navy accessories. Both wore corsages of white 'mums and red roses.

The couple were piped out of the church by the groomsman, a former member of Havelock Pipe Band who played "The Road to the Isles."

For the wedding trip by air to New York city the bride donned a grey suit, with matching hat and wine purse and gloves. Her corsage was pink and white 'mums. They will live in Calgary.

Dropping Calories Will Drop Pounds

An authority on overweight says there is no quick and easy way to reduce safely.

You drop pounds by dropping calories, he says.

The physician says it is not surprising that skipping meals, following trick diets or eating high protein meals turn out to be failures at weight losing.

"The reducing diet should form the basis of dietary re-education so that proper eating habits will continue after the desired loss of weight has been attained," he said.

His rule to dieters—learn food values, count calories.

"The milestones on the reducing trail are fairly fart apart," he said. "As you proceed along on a subcalorie diet, and come to the point where you have achieved a deficit of 3,500 calories, you can mark up a loss of one pound of adipose tissue."

YW Nurses' Class Hallowe'en Party

The nurses' gymnasium class at the YWCA, directed by Miss Bea Pelsis, enjoyed a Hallowe'en party Tuesday afternoon. Games, supervised by Misses Barb Lewis, Shirley Frost and Marilyn Bentley, and singing with Mrs. Walton providing the accompaniments, comprised the entertainment, augmented by the judging of the costumes by Mrs. D. Loucks and Miss M. Edwards. Miss Archibald, science instructor at Peterborough Civic School of Nursing, presented prizes to the winners.

"The Dutch Girl" was Miss Barbara McMullen; "Twins," Misses Joan Kelly and Beverley Wickett; "Bugs Bunny," Miss Bethel Calvert; "Grandma," Miss Doris Clemenger; "Tramp," Miss Vera Ogilvie; "The Devil," Miss Dorothy Mark; "Pirate," Miss Shirley Hatch.

After a refreshing swim, the girls and their guests, Miss Archibald and Miss Cleland, also of the Nursing School staff, enjoyed a delicious lunch prepared by Misses Carole Lamb and Marie Nickerson. This was a pleasant diversion in the midst of preclinical studies and the nurses appreciated the effort of those who made the party a success.

Lotions Guard Against Winds

Autumn winds do more than play havoc with a girl's skirts. If, like most American women, you have dry skin, those winds roughen your legs, leaving them scaly and red—and a menace to nylons.

To keep legs smooth looking, rub a few drops of lotion on after your daily bath. Be sure to cover the area around the heel, which gets particularly roughened. Also, apply a liberal amount of lotion after shaving your legs.

Because the condition has such a bad effect on stocking wear, one hose manufacturer has brought out a special lotion that contains lanolin and olive oil. The company says that the new product is both non-greasy and non-staining.

To insure the wear of your stockings further, check your pedicure frequently. Keep your toenails cut straight across and be sure there are no jagged edges to catch the stocking threads. Callouse can be smoothed with pumice stone after you have bathed.

BREAKFAST PARTY

A business woman who repays all her social obligations by giving Sunday morning breakfast, likes to serve pancakes and sausage after the fruit juice, then toast, jam, marmalade and coffee. Good food, good talk and congenial guests make her parties successful.

JEANNE PENGELLY, who has had leading roles in various operas, including the Metropolitan, and has been guest soloist at Carnegie Hall and with several symphony and philharmonic orchestras, is to give a musical treat for the congregation and friends of St. Andrew's United Church at this Sunday's evening service.

Armour Heights Parents Organize H & S

A large group of parents and the teachers of Armour Heights School met Thursday evening at the school for the purpose of organizing this new school's first Home and School Association.

Principal Mr. W. L. McNeil introduced Mrs. C. V. Coons of Lakefield, district chairman and organizer for the Federation.

Mrs. Coons outlined the history of the organization and listed some accomplishments to date. She gave parents several good reasons why they should join and described some worthwhile programs that may be undertaken.

Mrs. V. Reynolds, president of Peterborough Home and School Council outlined the chief aims and objects of the organization.

Following are the officers who were elected and installed by Mrs. Coons:

President, Mrs. Fred Shaw; vice presidents, Mrs. Wm. Triggs and Mrs. Carlisle Ferguson; recording secretary, Mrs. D. J. Lillico; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Neil Gemmell; treasurer, Mrs. F. W. Tobey.

Elected members are Mrs. H. Humphries, Mrs. F. Hambly, Mrs. L. Corbett, Mrs. Stuart Lang, Mr. J. Reynard.

A film of a Home and School Association meeting was shown.

Meetings of this association are to be held on the second Thursday of each month.

TO CLEAN BLINDS

Venetian blinds may be dusted weekly with a lamb's wool duster or a vacuum attachment. Tilt slats down and wipe with cloth or sponge wrung almost dry out of warm soapsuds. Repeat with slats turned up. When badly soiled, put in deep washtub or bathtub filled with detergent suds. Scrub tapes with brush. Let blinds hang free while drying to prevent tapes from shrinking.

Fashion Note: Paris uses tweed lavishly, with a flair, this fall. Schaparelli designs a handsome three-quarter coat of speckled brown and beige tweed, lines it with fluffy marbelized fur. Fath shakes out white salt and pepper tweed into a moulded dress, shoulders hugged in a cape that's shirred at the front.

4 Lodges Participate In Masonic Dance

The Masonic Dance, always an outstanding event in Peterborough, this year enjoyed the patronage of 175 Brothers and their ladies. It was held Friday evening and was in the Brock Ballroom.

The quite recently formed William J. Dunlop Lodge took part this time in what has previously been a three-way arrangement by members of Corinthian, Peterborough and Royal Arthur Lodges. In the receiving line were the Worshipful Masters of the last named lodges and the Senior Warden of the new lodge, with their wives. A few guests were from out of town lodges.

It was the ladies' night, and they received all the compliments in the book in a welcoming speech by Worshipful Brother Leonard H. Bearne, master of Peterborough Lodge, which was reiterated by each of the following speakers, Worshipful Brother Milton N. Clysdale of Corinthian, Worshipful Brother Hugh M. Niven of Royal Arthur and Worshipful Brother Walter H. Mortlock of William J. Dunlop.

Each lady received a delightful gift at the door and there were draw prizes and spot dance prizes for them later.

A lovely table lamp was the door prize and it was won by Mrs. Wilf Lee. The consolation draws were won by Mrs. Jack Ainslie, Mrs. George Hodgson, Mrs. Tom Gaskell and Mrs. Whitty Thirnbeck.

An anniversary dance revealed that three couples attending were all married on October 28th and so each lady received a prize. Mrs. Blain Till won a permanent wave and Mrs. Lloyd Hardy and Mrs. Harry Burgiss each received two theatre tickets. Spot dance prizes went to Mrs. Walter Jones and Mrs. Herb Hewitt.

Guests who signed the dance register were:

Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Hendren, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Moncrieff, Mrs. and Mrs. G. E. Fair, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Last, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Gardiner, Mr. and Mrs. Dow MacDonald, Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Arch Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hamley, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Weir, Mr. and Mrs. W. Be Conscious Of Your Voice Give It Charm

"She's attractive, all right—until she opens her mouth." That remark is often made about some teen-agers. Are you certain it could not apply to you?

Teen-agers have made great strides away from the dirty saddle-shoe era, so that today you can challenge the older girls on good-grooming modes and they all have a flair for fashion.

But when it comes to voice control, far too many of you seem to be making no effort at all. Yet the charm that careful grooming lends is erased when a girl converses in loud, shrill tones.

Be conscious of your voice at all times. When a few of you get together for a gabfeast, watch to see whether your voice becomes pitched as conversation becomes more animated. You might take turns acting as voice modulator. By working together you can accomplish much more.

To get your voice to a pretty pitch, thing of it as coming from deep within your body. Practice speaking in low tones. Keep blowing your breath out when you speak.

Before starting your voice-improvement campaign, give yourself the actors' test. Cupping hands behind ears, push the ears forward slighting, keeping fingers curved toward palms. Then read aloud, listing for high pitch, bad inflection monotonous tones. Read both quickly and slowly.

As the campaign continues, repeat the test to check on your progress. And keep on until you recognize your voice as a real personality asset.

What To Do About Nylons

There isn't a woman today who at times hasn't frequently wished that she could meet the people responsible for making her nylons and give them a piece of her mind. Particularly if she has just put on a brand new pair only to have them pop a run for no reason at all. Few if any women believe that present day nylons can compare with the pre-war product.

GAUGE AND DENIER

Asked the meaning of the words gauge and denier, one expert explained that they signified the fineness of fabric and the thread-weight respectively. A fine gauge combined with a heavy thread produces a stocking with remarkable wear properties, but lacks the sheerness every woman wants. So a finer thread, or denier, of nylon is used today for the gossamer sheerness of fabric so much in demand. All of the major hoisery manufacturers, however, make a variety of different weights or constructions to suit all milady's needs, and the wise woman will find out which stocking is most satisfactory to wear with each item in her wardrobe.

FOOT SIZE

Another expert emphasized the importance of foot size and fit. Nylon stocking fabric will stretch to an amazing degree, but has an inherent faculty of returning to its normal size, he said. Good for that sleek clinging appearance but hard on the wearer if the stockings are too small. This is one of the reasons why some women find nylons hard on their feet.

Shine On Fabrics With Silk Added

"There's a shine on my face" couldn't be truer this season for an entire group of excitement-making silk-plus fabrics that plainly whisper "silk is added" to worsteds and tweeds made newly supple. The much-talked-about "wax polished" woollens also have silk as their secret.

Nylon and orlon take on glamour and a silky feel, new to synthetics, to make them a delight to touch, yet still quick drying and spot resistant—two qualities women shop for in lingerie or rainwear. This happy addition to man-made fibers gives firmness and body so that they're easier to cut and drape—a boon to designers.

Mottled flannels, velvety duvetyn, satiny or surface-sculptured broadcloths are highly polished with a silken gloss that's making fashion history in coats, suits, dresses and ensembles.

Chapter News

COL. AGNES NEILL CHAPTER

Details of the annual Stardust Ball, being held by Col. Agnes Neill Chapter, IODE, on November 6 at Brock Ballroom were discussed at the meeting this week by general convener Mr. Charles Boulter.

Regent Mrs. W. Durant expressed thanks to Mrs. G. Tanney and group for successfully convening a rummage sale. It was announced a work meeting will be held early in November at Mrs. G. Carruthers' home.

For the program portion, members were joined by Municipal Chapter and heard Miss Mary Medd's report of the semi-annual meeting at St. Catharines last week.

A request for volunteer drivers for the School for Retarded Children was heard from Mrs. A. W. Nelson, president of the Local Council of Women which is ponsoring this project.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Tanney and assistants.

Fashion Note: Brand new ways of treating alligator make it a fashion favorite, this season. New methods of tanning, softening and glazing the skins have given fresh leeway for design, even improved alligator's performance as a long wearing beauty. Watch for higher styling in alligator shoes and bags.

MOVING PASTRY SIMPLE

Moving pastry from pastry board to pie plate is simplified if you roll the dough around the rolling pin and then unroll on the plate.

PANTS CONTINUE TO PLAY an important fashion role this year. They are worn during the day and in the evening too. They're popular on the campus and equally well-liked as leisure wear. Corduroy slacks, tapered to the feminine figure, are worn (left) with tattersall vest and white shirt. Toreador pants (centre) have black leafy pattern printed on white corduroy, are worn with black velvet jacket enlivened by rhinestone buttons. Deep purple corduroy pants (right) outlined with black applique scrolls are part of at-home outfit. Blouse is black wool jersey.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Readers' Saturday Column

Question: First I would like to thank you for the help you have given me in the past. . . I have advanced from a lousy (if you will pardon the expression) cook to one who is no longer afraid to cook for company. . . my husband is another who suffers from ulcers. For the past year he has been on a strict diet. . . . with three small children ages 3, 2 and nine months I don't have much time to try and plan new ways to cook the same foods. . . I hope you can help me. . . . DORIS W.

I can and will help you Doris, but I cannot guess what diet your husband is on. I am aware that ulcer diets are very bland but would be most grateful if you would give me details of what dishes you would like variations for. Please write again if you do not mind. I am delighted to hear I was helpful in giving you courage with your cooking.

Question: Last summer you published a recipe called "Marmalade Cookies" containing a cup of orange marmalade. . . you said Pete liked them with candied ginger. . . .I made them and liked them very much but have lost my recipe. . . . E. L.

ANSWER: I think the following must be it; are you sure it was 1 cup of marmalade?

MARMALADE COOKIES

Beat 1 egg in bowl and beat in ½ cup marmalade. Add 2-3 cup sugar and then stir and beat in 1-3 cup soft shortening. Measure and sift together 2 cups sifted flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder and ½ teaspoon salt. (If the marmalade is very stiff you may have to add 2 tablespoons milk.) Drop from tip of spoon on greased cookie sheet. Bake 10 or 12 minutes at 375 deg. Fahr. Two tablespoons chopped candied ginger may be added if desired.

Question: Would you be kind enough to publish some recipes on curried dishes—especially chicken. Do you have one using toasted almonds? What would you suggest serving with the curry and rice for a buffet supper? . . . I read your column every day and find it very useful and clearly explained. . . . C. J. M.

ANSWER: This appeals to me immensely. To serve with the curry and rice buy a fresh cocoanut, crack and drain and peel off the brown skin. Grate the white meat only into the fluffiest downy pile into a serving bowl. Pass this when you serve your meal. Pass also Indian Chutney which you will buy bottled. Use the cocoanut milk in the following:

CURRY SAUCE

One -quarter cup butter, 2 tablespoons minced onion, 1½ to 3 tablespoons curry powder (and, if desired 2 teaspoons curry essence), ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon rice flour or arrowrooot or cornstarch, 2 cups milk or chicken stock, 1 cup cocoanut milk, and if desired 1 teaspoon each scraped green ginger root and currant jelly. Cook onion gently in butter for 3 minutes. Mix to a paste with a little of the milk or stock the curry powder, salt and rice flour and add to the onion, stirring, and cook gently 10 minutes. Stir in the milk or stock until it boils. Then add cocoanut milk and simmer 20 minutes. Add ginger and currant jelly at last if used.

Frying or roasting chicken is cut into serving pieces and browned in butter after it is dredged in salted flour, about 10 minutes. Pour sauce over and bake or simmer for 1 to 1½ hours or until chicken is tender. If you want to add almonds do so during last 2 minutes.

This curry sauce may be used for shrimp, or veal or eggs (hard-cooked.

Norwood W.A. Hold Meeting

NORWOOD (ENS)—The Women's Association of the United Church met at the home of Mrs. Arnold Stevenson with an attendance of 40.

The president opened the meeting with a short poem, a hymn and prayer, followed by the Lord's prayer in unison.

Mrs. M. Brown and her group took charge of the program. Mrs. Brown read a short poem, a hymn was sung and Mrs. M. Cornish gave the Bible reading. Mrs. H. K. Wright led in prayer. Mrs. W. Buck gave a reading. Mrs. R. Ferguson played on her auto-harp while all bowed in silent prayer. A chorus was sung by all.

Mrs. W. Barrie gave the topic "Stewardship of Time and Talent." Mrs. R. Beggs gave a reading, a hymn was sung and the meeting closed with the benediction.

Lunch was served by the hostess.

Church Celebrates 99th Anniversary

STIRLING (ENS). — St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church celebrated its 99th anniversary on Sunday.

The Rev. Wallace MacClean of Picton was guest minister and large congregations were present at both morning and evening services.

The anniversary music consisted of a selection by the junior choir, accompanied by Mrs. Clark Rodgers at the piano, a solo by Miss Marilyn Eggleton, and an anthem by the senior choir. Mrs. R. H. Williams presided at the organ for both services.

The church was decorated with baskets of flowers. The thankoffering for the day was approximately $1,200.

DOROTHY DIX

Husband Asks His Wife To Take Sister's Children

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been married for 23 years, have raised two daughters, now married, and am bringing up my granddaughter. Now, my husband wants me to take his sister's children so that she can have a good time. My health isn't too good, and her youngsters are difficult to handle. L. M. C.

✧ ✧ ✧

FIND OUT THE FACTS

ANSWER: Are you sure the only reason your sister-in-law wants somebody else to care for her children is that she wants a good time? It doesn't seem too logical to me. If, however, that's the case, certainly no one else should take on the task. If there are reasons of health or finances, and the care would be a temporary one, perhaps you could reconsider your decision. You already have one child in your house so you are tied down to some extent, and perhaps your sister-in-law's children would respond to the discipline with which you brought up your own daughters.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: We are four teen-age friends with a problem. One girl in our group frequently passes unkind remarks about the others. Also, she is too interested in personal affairs. When we have something new, she wants to know how much it cost, where it was bought, etc. We tell her she is rude, and too personal, but it makes no difference. Gladys

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: This is the time when your young friend should be acquiring all possible grace and poise to equip her for adult life. If she continues along present lines, she will be a very much disliked, and shunned, woman. Do make allowances, though, for a certain amount of human curiosity. Wouldn't you like often to know yourself how much somebody paid for an article that appeals to you? Of course, you wouldn't be rude enough to ask, but at least you can understand the interest behind you friend's questions. You girls will all be doing her a tremendous favor if you can show her, by example and explanation, how much harm she is doing herself.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm 16 and have been going with a boy of 21. For the past several weeks he hasn't called me, and tells my girl friend that I persistently asked if he were going with another girl. That's true, and when he denied going with another girl, I didn't believe him. What can I do? W. J.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: There are a few never-fail rules for losing boy friends, and you have used two. One is to nag the boy about seeing other girls, the other is to doubt his word when he gives it. You have a lot to learn about dating lore, and I suggest that you hie yourself to an understanding teacher and ask for recommended books for teensters. These will help you to avoid such flagrant errors in the future.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Why do people repeat unfounded gossip? A story never is passed as it was heard, with the result that many people are the victims of unpleasant stories. R. R.

6—In Memoriam

STOREY—In loving memory of Mildred Storey, who passed away, Oct. 31, 1951.
You are not forgotten sister,
Nor ever will you be,
As long as life and memory lasts,
We will remember thee.
—Lovingly remembered by Hilda and Lloyd, Cliff and Chris.

STOREY—In loving memory of Mildred, who passed away October 31, 1951.
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered. Since we lost you
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts, your memory lingers,
There is not a day, dear sister,
That we do not think of you.
—Remembered by mother and sister, Mae.

STOREY—In loving memory of Mildred Storey, who passed away, October 31st, 1951.
Loving and kind in all her ways,
Upright and just to the end of her days;
Sincere and true in her heart and mind,
Beautiful memories she left behind.
—Ever remembered by Elsie and Sidney.

STOREY—In loving memory of my sister, Mildred Storey, who passed away, October 31, 1951.
Her charming ways and smiling face
Are a pleasure to recall,
She had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
—Lovingly remembered by Barbara and Gerry.

7—Card of Thanks

I am very grateful and feel the heartfelt sympathy you have felt for me and mine in my deepest sorrow, by your lovely roses and chrysanthemums and other pieces of floral tribute, especially from neighbours around and other friends and relatives. Also, for the great help received from the pr sts of the Immaculate Conception church and for the many Mass cards received for Edward Carlin who has just deceased.—Mrs. Edward Carlin and brothers, Patrick and Francis Carlin.

Home and School Association News

COLDSPRINGS

Coldsprings (Otonabee) Home and School Association met Wednesday evening.

The president, Mrs. H. Rye, opened the meeting with the singing of O Canada and the Lord's Prayer and thanked those responsible for the success of the rummage sale.

Mrs. M. Sanders read a message from regional headquarters regarding their campaign for a new headquarters building in Toronto. A card party will be held at the school November 20 and the proceeds will be contributed towards the project.

The necessity of signs to protect the school children was discussed. A special meeting is to be held on Wednesday evening at the the school to plan the correct procedure to procure them.

Mrs. Raper, parent education convener of the local home and school council, spoke on "Shyness," and a film was shown on the subject.

Mrs. D. Deyell thanked Mrs. Raper.

Mr. McKnight's room won the attendance trophy.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. G. Lowes and her committee.

LANG SCHOOL

Monthly meeting of the Lang Home and School Association was held this week in the town hall.

Thanks were extended to Mrs. Richardson and Mrs. Gist and their committees for splendid work done in connection with the euchre and croquinole party. Speaker for the November meeting will be Mr. J. Barnard, principal of Grove School, who was a former teacher at Lang.

An informal discussion re school conditions followed.

Mrs. Keough introduced the first speaker of the evening, Mrs. C. V. Coons, district chairman, who gave an informative talk on the beginning and growth of the Home and School Association which was started in 1894 in Washington, D.C. by a few mothers and became known as Parents Club. It was introduced in Nova Scotia in 1895 and in Ontario in 1896 she said.

Mrs. Coons showed a film entitled "Mrs. Wright's Home and School," accompanied by comments and explanations. She stressed the point that the interest of both parents is needed, that all people should be interested in the good of all children and that every meeting should be helpful, interesting and educational and based on the seven point program.

Mrs. V. Reynolds, president of Peterborough Home and School Council, gave a short talk on the council and invited Lang association to affiliate.

Mrs. D. Fife extended a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Coons and Mrs. Reynolds. Lunch was served by Mrs. Gist assisted by Mrs. Fife, Mrs. Brant, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Berridge, Mrs. McCauley and Mrs. Crabbe.

Commission Agrees Reason Be Given

SUDBURY (CP)—The Sudbury police commission agreed with city taxi owners Friday that a reason should be given when a licence is revoked, although it is not required by law.

As one of the points in drawing up a revised city taxi by-law, the owners asked for the right to appear before the commission in cases where licences are revoked. They have $20,000 investment in their business and should have that right, said counsel for the owners.

FIVE WARRENS — The Chief Justice huddles with the family Supreme Court. Surrounding him in clockwise fashion, starting at lower left, are Virginia, Nina, Mrs. Warren and Dorothy.

3 Warren Girls Expected Take Washington By Storm

By PATTI SIMMONS
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — A trio of blonde, blue eyed sweethearts will soon be the toast of the nation's capital.

What's going to happen to Washington when those Warren gals hit town hasn't happened since the Hope Diamond days.

Then it was a chunk of jewerly that held down the party spotlight. From December on, when they will most likely arrive for the Christmas holidays, you can bet it will be the daughters of the Chief Justice and Mrs Earl Warren.

Virginia, Dorothy and Nina (Honeybear) look like the glamour queens, but are as unstuck on themselves as the girl next door. Naturalness is just part of this trio.

When Honeybear attended Perle Mesta's big Coronation party in London she did just what she would have done at the governor's mansion. After an event-packed day the tired-out 19-year-old had no intention of sitting out half the dances. Instead she quietly kicked ner shoes off to the cornor of the ballroom and continued dancing in her stocking feet.

This U.C.L.A. coed is sure to inject new life into the town's deb parties.

DATES EARLY

When the girls were 14 they were permitted to date. Virginia, who is 25, is the most poised of the group. She's done all right for herself whenever she's visited here. Virginia knows two of Margaret Truman's former dates, lawyers Marvin Coles and Marvin Braverman, and has dated the latter.

Dorothy, 22, Honeybear and two of their brothers are the underwater darerevils in the family. When Earl, Jr., went hunting octopus, equipped only with goggles, feet fins and a spear, he soon talked his two adventurous sisters into going down with him.

Besides being outdoor girls and good dates, the Warren girls are far from slouches in the broom and dust pan department. They have their mother to thank for this. When it comes to raising children, Mrs. Warren is as old-fashioned as the homemade cake she turns out.

Household chores were something to be shared. Just like the neighbors' kids, the Warrens' weekly allowance had certain stipulations attached—like cleaning their own rooms and picking up their clothes. The governor's daughters also learned to sew and mend.

DISCIPLINE

In their closely-knit, down-to-earth family life, Mrs. Warren had her own method of tackling the disciplining of a half-dozen youngsters. When one stepped out of line she didn't say much. Instead she tuned-out on the misbehavor.

But tuning out did not mean freezing. Each got his bedtime snack and a good night kiss. And somehow the one in question sensed their mother was displeased. Always before the rebel went to sleep there was the inevitable, "Mother, you're angry with me, aren't you?" After talking it over together, it was usually the child who came up with a suggestion for ironing out his or her difficulty.

Sometimes, the Warren youngsters took things into their own hands.

For instance, when they discovered that the governor's kids were supposed to be driven to school in an official limousine, they soon won parental permission to borrow a jalopy belonging to the hired man.

The Chief Justice and his wife have always encouraged individual personality bents in their children.

Jim is in the advertising business, is married and has childen of his own. Earl, Jr., 23, majored in animal husbandry in college and, like Bobby who is 18, wants to be a farmer. Jim earned part of his way at the University of California by digging ditches at $3 a day. Another summer Earl Jr., took on a ranch hand's job.

KEEN ON POLITICS

Unlike the boys, all of the girls have been interested in their father's political career. A few years ago, when Honeybear was stricken with polio on the eve of her father's election, one of the first things she worried about was her dad, who stayed anxiously at her bedside in the hospital.

"You know, it's a terrible thing when you think about having this polio but once you get it, it's not so bad," she told her parents. "Mother, take him home and make him rest."

Her father, who at that very moment was being re-elected governor of his state, walked out of the room then quietly broke down and wept.

It was prayers and Honeybear's pluck, the Warrens feel, that brought about her recovery. Currently she's working hard toward a degree at U.C.L.A., where Dorothy is a junior. Virginia's been doing a stint at business school. But now, her mother points out, she has a job.

"She has to help me pack," Mrs. Warren smiles.

PLANS SOON READY

The Hon. Major John Foote, Ontario minister of reform institutions, told the Durham county 500-bushel potato club that plans for the Millbrook reformatory would be ready in one or two weeks. The task of drawing them up had been a difficult one, he said.

Patricia Zufelt Wins 1st Prize For Oratory

COLDSPRINGS (ENS) — Patricia Zufelt was first prize winner in the Hamilton township public speaking contest in the township hall Thursday night. Her subject was "Be Glad You are a Canadian".

Patricia is a pupil of Ronald Cruse, S.S. 18, Harwood school, and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Zufelt. She will compete in the county speaking contest at Cobourg November 6.

Dr. F. G. Robertson, MP., presented the Fraser trophy to her.

Donald Sandercock won second place speaking on the same subject.

Reeve Charles Burrison presented the Hamilton township cup. Donald is a pupil of Miss Eva Dafoe at S.S. 10½, Camborne School.

Third prize was won by Ronald Perry, S.S. 1, and was presented with the township officials cup by the township clerk, William Kennedy.

Other contestants and their subjects were: Katharine Buttars, S.S. 4, "The Little Prince and Princess"; Catherine Lang, S.S. 4, "The World Plowing Match"; Margo Hornsby, S.S. 18, "The Work of the RCMP"; June Lander, S.S. 16, "The Story of Rubber"; Lois Harris, S.S. 16, "Cutlery"; Kathleen Staples, S.S. 3, "Good Foods Make the Dufference"; Lois Davey, S.S. 7, "Canada on the March"; Roger May S.S. 11, "Lumbering"; Stuart Linton, S.S. 13, "A Nickle Isn't What It Use to be"; Jack Berry, S.S. 2, "The Angler's Dream"; Winnifred Monteith, S.S. 14, "Skiing".

PRIZES AWARDED

Each contestant was presented with a book.

Clarence Willis, representative of thhe trustees and ratepayers association was chairman. Short speeches were given by the Rev. V. M. Gilbert, Dr. F. G. Robertson, M.P., Mr. Kemp of Castleton, county president of the trustees and ratepayers, and Charles Burrison, reeve of Hamilton township.

The judges were Alec Carruthers, Grant Sine, Lewis Roberts, W. J. R. Caldwell and D. E. Swerdferger.

Other members on the program were av ocal duet by Jean Herriott and Donna Brisbin, a piano solo by Patricia Zufelt and a vocal trio by Philip, John, and Wayne Carr. Miss Lorene Linton was pianist.

New-Style School

EDINBURGH (CP) — A school planned for a new housing area here at a cost of £100,000 will be built almost entirely of plastic materials. Officials said one advantage is that the walls will never need to be painted.

FOR THE FIRST TIME, glitter has been woven successfully into wool fabric, producing a combination that is nontarnishing, easily dry cleaned and soft to the skin. If you live in a community where very dressy clothes are out and small, informal gatherings are the rule, then this is your suit, too. Suit with dressmaker top (left) has short, wide collar and front fastening that's a series of neat bone buttons. There's a flat pocket on each hip. The second metallic-woven wool suit (right) is contour-belted to emphasize a tiny waistline. Glitter is confined to the jacket; straight skirt is cut from broadcloth.

Prices Mixed During Week On Toronto's Stock Exchange

By BOB JOHNSTONE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Prices closed mixed on the Toronto stock exchange this week as industrials and golds showed gains from the previous week, and base metals and western oils were lower. Uraniums and Bathurst-area issues were stronger.

Utilities were the mainstay of the industrials. Bell was the strongest in the utilities, with Bell "rights" an outstanding performer as the week's sessions ended.

The "rights" are not issues but merely the right to purchase new Bell issues. They were issued on the basis of the right to purchase one new issue for each four old issues held. Since it was expected that not everyone entitled to exercise this right would wish to do so, they were admitted to trading six weeks ago with an opening value of 70 cents.

RIGHTS IN DEMAND

The rights were removed from trading and expired Friday, not at the 50-cent level predicted by short traders, but at a prosperous $1.43.

The reasons are not hard to find. Foreign investors, European, American and British, have been buying heavily lately, creating demand for shares; more stockholders decided to exercise their rights, and the company announced (just as the rights were being offered) that the earnings outlook was brighter.

Golds were mostly unchanged from the previous week. There was a nominal rise in the index standing from the previous week, but the threat of a months-long labor-management deadlock appears as serious as ever, with neither side showing any sign of settling.

BASE METALS QUIET

Base metals were also quiet with a fractional drop on the exchange index standings. Eastern metals were strong early in the week as news of a debenture sale in England was released. Labrador gained more than 50 cents Friday and a few others made lesser gains. On the debit side, United Keno lost 70 cents late Thursday and several others made less spectacular drops. Smelters was higher as zinc prices rose slightly in the U.S. but lack of any general base metal price gains has kept the mining stocks from making any great advances.

In the uranium issues, Gunnar gained slightly. In New Brunswick base metals, New Larder U was up. Early in the week, lower-priced uraniums rose as New Delhi reported successful tests on its property.

WESTERN OILS DIP

Western oils were more than a point lower at the end of this week. The group was generally quiet as investors awaited the decision of the Alberta government on the question of natural gas export.

On the bond market, some observers feel the rising financing prices that have been climbed for six years are due for a levelling off.

In New York, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped 10 cents to $107.30 as industrials and railroads were each down 10 cents and utilities gained 10 cents.

On the Toronto exchange, industrials were up 2.74 at 311.48, golds up .33 at 70.04, base metals down .04 at 147.23, and western oils were down 1.04 at 91.04.

In Montreal, banks were up .91 at 34.68, utilities down .10 at 94.80, industrials up .60 at 182.8, combined up .40 at 153.50, papers up 12.40 at 734.35 and golds up 1.40 at 52.22.

Defence Dept. May Call Mayo

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States defence department may call in Dr. Charles W. Mayo, noted surgeon and United Nations delegate, to help analyze Communist techniques for wringing "confessions" from captured American fighting men.

This far-flung examination is directed at all aspects of one of the most involved and delicate problems to confront the department.

It is an exploration of the cases of 10 American ex-prisoners who repudiated "confessions" they said were made to fend off starvation and brutality, as well as of the cases of five airmen who defied Communist pressure.

The idea that leading medical experts, like Dr. Mayo, should be asked to help the army to analyze Red interrogation techniques has not been finally approved. It is still in the suggestion and study stage.

Packers Negligent

WINGHAM (CP) — A five-man coroner's jury brought in a finding of negligence by Canada Packers Ltd. in the death of an employee Oct. 26. Stewart Dove, 26, a former Owen Sound resident, was killed when his clothing became tangled with a line shaft while he was sweeping in the penthouse of the plant's feed mill. The jury found that a bolt protruding from the shaft should not have been there. It should have been replaced by a pin.

Fraser Sentenced

WOODSTOCK (CP)—Robert Fraser, of Embro, Friday was sentenced to a total of 19 months imprisonment, but will serve only five as the majority of sentences imposed will run concurrently. Fraser, who received two months jail term last Tuesday, was sentenced on seven charges of false pretences. All charges involved small sums of money and small purchases of gasoline.

BACK FROM MEXICO — Paul Martin (centre), minister of health and welfare, sports black sombrero on return from three-day visit to Mexico. With him are Charles Quick (left), newsreel cameraman, and Robert Taylor, Toronto Star parliamentary reporter, who were among the 40 passengers on TCA's pre-inaugural flight from Montreal and Toronto to Mexico City. Weekly flights are planned.

'Bonus' Sale Of Shares Brings Stormy Meeting

TORONTO (CP) — A "bonus" sale of shares to a company official, and a transaction by which majority control of the company passed to George Weston, Ltd., were attacked and defended Friday in a stormy annual meeting of Loblaw Groceterias Co. Ltd.

In the end, the annual report, which announced the two actions, was approved by a ballot vote of 346,451 shares for and 7,378 against. Eighty-two voting shareholders were present, representing 11,246 shares in person, and 358,362 by proxy. The shares are class B, which are the voting shares.

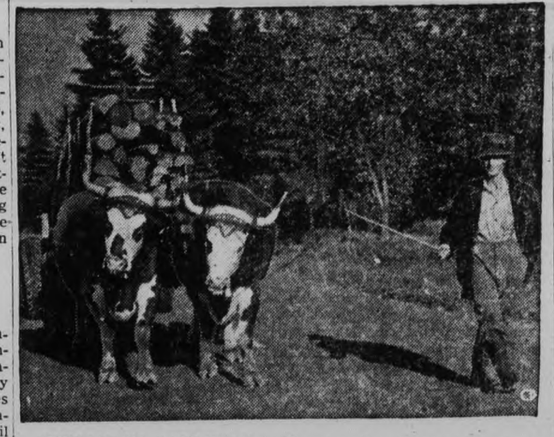
Opponents objected to the transactions on the ground that they had been made by the directors without reference to the shareholders.

The "bonus" sale consisted of 25,000 class B treasury shares at $25 a share to George C. Metcalf, vice-president and general manager, who is also a director of George Weston, Ltd., and who later sold the shares to that firm at $32 a share.

CONTROLS U.S. FIRM

George Weston, Ltd., a widespread industrial empire headed by W. Garfield Weston, also received 100,000 treasury shares at $39 a share in a transaction which gave Loblaw Groceterias control of Loblaw, Inc., an American grocery chain formerly controlled by the Weston firm.

The transactions were announced recently with issuance of the annual report. Friday's closing quotation on Loblaw B shares on the Toronto stock exchange was $42.50 a share.



The 125,000 shares, with shares already held, are understood to give the Weston firm majority of the 508,000 shares outstanding.

Atom Bomb Expert Resigns As Adviser

LONDON (AP) — Lord Cherwell, wartime science expert and backroom brain of Britain's atom bomb program, resigned today as scientific adviser to his friend Prime Minister Churchill. He is returning to an Oxford University professorship.

Churchill brought Cherwell into his cabinet after his Conservative party won the general elertion in 1951. Cherwell was granted two years leave from his university post.

In a latter accepting the resignation, Churchill said: "The services you have given us, without remuneration to yourself, have been to the great advantage of the state, no less in the present administration than in the years of war."

WHO'S IN A HURRY?—Jet speed and atomic power may be all right for some, but on a country road in a peaceful Maritime farming district a yoke of oxen still is a familiar sight. This team is on a Nova Scotia highway.

Trinidad Has Tighter Immigration Ban

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (CP) Trinidad has introduced a new immigration ruling restricting entry into the country of journalists and other persons connected with newspapers.

The ruling, announced Thursday night by Governor Sir Hubert Rance, also classes as "undesirable immigrants" members of some 147 other professions and trades. The move came two days after the Trinidad Supreme Court ordered the immigration department to investigate the status of a reporter employed by the Trinidad Guardian to determine whether he was a prohibited immigrant.

NOT SPECIFIC

A previous restrictive immigration order made no reference to journalists or any specific class of persons.

Included in the list of "banned" professions are: Linotype and teletype operators; wireless operators; radio announcers, machinists, electricians, laundry process workers, dental mechanics, musicians, deisel mechanics, refrigeration mechanics and bookbinders.

Crash Kills One

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Clifford Soullier, 32, died Friday several hours after his truck collided with a delivery truck near downtown Windsor. He suffered head and internal injuries but hospital officials said full extent of his injuries were not determined.

Boy Suffocated

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Johnny Berry, 6, died of suffocation Friday night when fire attributed to a gas explosion gutted his frame home. Five other Berry children and their mother, Mrs. Albert Berry, escaped. The father was at work at the time.

Founder Dies

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP)—James H. Tait, 73, of Waterloo, founder of the Tait Plate Glass Company and former Kitchener alderman, died Friday. Born in Toronto, Mr. Tait came to Kitchener 48 years ago. He sold the glass company when he retired eight years ago.

Witness Saw Pickup Truck Without Lights

CORNWALL (CP) — A Smiths Falls transport driver told an Ontario Supreme Court jury Friday that he saw a pickup truck without lights near the scene of a bus-truck crash that took 20 lives early July 31. A few minutes later he saw a bus plunge into the Williamsburg canal near Morrisburg.

Mervyn Burleigh was testifying at the manslaughter trial of trucker Max Roodman, 40, of Toronto and Ottawa.

The trial was adjourned until Monday. Three Toronto survivors—Anthony J. Bowen, Terrence Sumner and Mabel McCallum—testified they estimated the speed of the bus at the time of the crash as between 45 and 50 miles an hour.

Burleigh said he was travelling east and pulled into a highway camp 250 feet from the crash scene.

SWING SHARPLY

"I had to swing sharply as I pulled into the camp to avoid an unlighted red truck which was either stopped or moving very slowly eastward down the centre of the highway," he said.

"After I parked, I lay down on my seat to rest. I heard two trucks go by then I heard a bus. Seconds after the bus went by there was a crash. I raised up from the seat in time to see a bus going down the bank into the canal."

Five other transport drivers identified Roodman as the driver of a truck travelling east without lights before the accident.

Roodman is charged specifically in the death of Ordinary Seaman John Fanya of Hamilton and Churchill, Man., one of the bus passengers.

Subversives Punished

VIENNA (AP)—The Pilsen newspaper Pravda today reported that 10 persons have been sentenced to long prison terms in that Czechoslovak city for distributing "subversive leaflets." Seven men and three women received terms from life to six years. Observers here believe they may have been among the scores of persons arrested in June when anti-Communist rioters invaded the city hall, tore down pictures of Stalin and displayed an American flag.

Composer Conformed

BERLIN (Reuters)—Soviet composer Dmitri Shostakovich has completed his 10th symphony, and preparations are in hand for its first performance in the Soviet Union, the East German news agency ADN reported today. Shostakovich was one of Russia's "big four" composers who were subjected to severe criticism for "formalist" tendencies in their work in a decree of the Soviet Communist party in 1949. Since then he appears to have met with party approval.

Village Found

HOVE, England (Reuters)—Remains of a lost mediaeval village have been found under the fifth green of the local golf course, it was reported today. The village, called Hangleton, became derelict when the "black death" plague swept England.

Press Club Members

LONDON (Reuters) — The Duke of Edinburgh was made a life member Friday night of the London Press Club when he attended a special club dinner.

ONE IN 10,000,000—Blind since birth, George Lafleur, 40-year-old amateur radio operator and printer, of Ottawa, is able to see images on the television screen. His doctor says he is one in 10,000,000 sightless persons who can be helped to sight by television. An Ottawa oculist said Lefleur can see television images because of the sharp contrast between the black and white on the screen and because of the peculiar condition of his eyes.

Divers In Hold Of Sunken Ship

SARNIA (CP)—Divers from the McQueen Marine Salvage ships Friday climbed into the hold of the sunken German motorship Wallschiff to examine 300 tons of cargo which will be lifted out before she is refloated. The Wallschiff, about 50 feet down near the centre of the St. Clair River channel, sank Oct. 2 after a collision with the ore-carrier Pioneer.

A Real Mouthful

TORONTO (CP)—An explosion in a housewife's mouth shattered her confidence as a cook. An unnamed Toronto woman needed medical treatment for a badly cut mouth when a roasted chestnut exploded while she was biting it. She admitted she had always considered herself an expert cook—but she forgot to pierce the chestnut before heating it so the steam could escape.

Early Church Met In Homes

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

There seems little need today for churches in homes.

But when we look back on the origins of the Christian Church we are reminded that the churches, in various places where the missionary journeys of Paul and others led to their establishment, were in the homes of the disciples.

In Romans 16:3-5 Saint Paul, in greeting Priscilla and Aquila, says, "Likewise greet the church that is in the house." A reference to that church in the home is also in I Corinthians 16:19.

A church could not very well be maintained in a home without the family being a part of it, and family religion is strongly exemplified in the experiences of these early Christians. In Acts 18:8 is the reference to Crispus, who "believed on the Lord with all his house."

Paul tells also in I Corinthians 1:16 of his baptizing "the household of Stephanas." To rule well his own house (I Timothy 3:4) Paul set down as an essential qualification of a bishop.

These illustrations and references, which could be multiplied, indicate the great importance of the home and family in the beginnings of the Christian church. They suggest very clearly what ought to be the relationship between the church and the home, practice and family life, at all times and in all places.

One realizes, without any undue pessimism, that in most, if not in all, communities today the facts and conditions, regarding church and home, are very different from those that the New Testament records.

Here and there, there are undoubtedly still many homes, like that in which I myself grew up, in which religion is the dominant factor, and in which the home is closely allied to the church.

But in the great multitude of modern homes I am inclined to think that such strictly Christian homes are the exception, even where there is profession of Christian faith. For good or bad, the rule of parents in the home is no longer what it was in those early Christian homes.

Children early have a life and freedom of their own, and the "head" of the home no longer determines what shall be.

Present-day conditions create new difficulties, as families are not often together as they once were. My father always conducted family worship in the home, where we were together there until we grew up.

Though he was a busy and hard-working merchant, time for such family worship was available, as it would not have been had he been a workman, going early to work and returning late, or as a commuter catching an early train to work in a nearby city, also returning late. These changed conditions can hardly be exaggerated.

But the ideal implied in Christian faith and teaching, and in the close association of home and Christianity, still remains.

Jury Indicts Couple For Kidnapping

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Carl Austin Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, partners in the abduction of little Bobby Greenlease, were indicted Friday by a federal grand jury on kidnapping charges.

They are expected to be arraigned early next week, possibly Monday. Edward L. Scheufler, district attorney, has said he will press for an early trial.

Bobby, six-year-old son of a wealthy Kansas City automobile dealer, was taken from his private school Sept. 28. He was slain, and his body was found in a lime-filled grave in the yard of Mrs. Heady's home at St. Joseph, Mo.

Hall, 34, and Mrs. Heady, 41, a divorcee, were arrested in St. Louis Oct. 6. Hall admitted killing the child after Mrs. Heady took the boy from his school on a ruse.

The jury heard four days of testimony. The indictment pointed out that the kidnapped child was not returned unharmed, making the defendants liable to the death penalty. If the two should enter pleas of guilty, the judge could request a jury trial to determine whether the maximum penalty should be inflicted.

One witness was Sandra O'Day, held since her arrest here Oct. 7. Miss O'Day, Hall's companion at a St. Louis hotel before his arrest, was released Friday. She denied there was a party at the hotel the night she was with Hall. There has been speculation that the missing ransom money might have been taken from Hall during a wild party by St. Louis hoodlums.

JOHN W. WEVERS, Th.D., Professor of Semitics, University College, Toronto, who will conduct the services in St. Paul's Church on Sunday.

tion of our country since Confederation."

"I am glad my wife is with me to hear the too kind things Mayor Burnet has said about me, and I wish some of the people of Montreal could have heard them, too," was the Minister's quip in thanking His Worship for the welcome of Cobourg. "I am very happy to see such a large gathering from the town and district. I had no idea there would be so many or I might have prepared a speech.

"I congratulate the guard of honor from this unit. I noticed many veterans among them, some of whom are veterans of the war in Korea, and some I met there 18 months ago when I visited our forces. One of the men recalled the New Year's celebration and the fine parade of the Royal Canadian Regiment when some of our men received decorations they had splendidly earned.

"That brings us to one reason why you have this ordnance depot in Cobourg."

NEEDED MORE ROOM

Mr. Claxton recalled that in 1942, a general ordnance depot was established in Plouffe Park, Ottawa. Its 300,000 sq. ft. of floor space was considered adequate as the new home of No. 26 Central Ordnance Depot, and especially in the peace time after the war in Europe. Three years ago, however, the free nations of the world were faced with the fact of communist aggression in Korea, and also with the threat of communist aggression in Europe.

Canada tripled the size of its armed forces from 35,000 to 105,000 officers and men, as full time forces of the Army, the Navy and the Air Force. It then became essential to provide adequate supplies of clothing and general stores. As with civilians, the men of the forces need clothing, shoes, underwear, hats, but they also need a great many other articles, even such things as tables, cups, blankets, and so on. To supply all the men's needs and equipment is one of the largest operations of its kind in Canada.

There were current requirements wherever the forces might be, at home or abroad, but there also had to be a wholesale establishment where such stores were kept, reserves built up and supplies reconditioned.

Mr. Claxton said that altogether some 30,000 items were required for the men in the forces.

Three buildings have been completed, each of 200,000 sq. ft., two more are to be finished and also the administration building.

"We have not only the 105,000 men in the permanent force but also their wives and children, 120,000 approximately, making a total community of 225,000 altogether. That is about the population of the city of Hamilton which has a great many stores, both retail and wholesale."

The depot, Mr. Claxton said, had been designed for economy in operation as much as possible, mechanically and otherwise, for modern factilities in handling stores and equipment and their maintenance.

Cobourg was chosen for the site of No. 26 Central Ordnance Depot after surveys and investigations. "This town is located on the main lines of both railways, on No. 2 Highway, and it has access to the Lake Ontario front, and when the St. Lawrence Waterway is completed we will be able to make more shipments by water, in and out, and to all parts of the world, wherever they might be necessary. A number of shiploads of stores have already been brought in."

GOOD REPUTATION

"Cobourg is also a pleasant place. It has a good reputation as a community. It supplied 72 acres of land without charge to the Department, and we now have some 225 acres here. Eventually we will employ about 800 men, 600 civilians and 200 service personnel."

Quarters for 25 married men and their families have been built, the Minister said, and plans were under way for 125 more "married quarters here." The personnel of the depot entailed provision for the education of their children, and the Department contemplated a grant to capital cost at the high school and a continuing payment each year.

"This will be the first time such an arrangement has been made with any of hundreds of communities across Canada. We wish to make the burden on the people of Cobourg as light as possible, and not hurt the development of your town."

"In the defence forces today we have a large undertaking in Eurpoe and Korea and in the defence of our home country. We have met every commitment and requirement by the due date and will continue to do so."

Mr. Claxton said that the United Nations had stopped aggression in Korea, but the armistice was "no reason to slacken our efforts." Events of the last three years had demonstrated that only by the development of strength in the nation could there be hope of restoring and preserving peace. "All that has happened and has been done has shown the success of the policies adopted three years ago. And, nothing has happened yet that would lead us to alter those policies."

"To preserve peace and to build up security by working closely together remains the objective of the government of Canada and the other freedom-loving nations. There must also be a partnership with industry and with our civil communities. The armed forces are prepared to serve you full time, and with your aid, to preserve peace, maintain security and build up Canada."

GET ACQUAINTED

Mr. Claxton said it was essential that the Canadian people should strive to know each other in every part of the country, to work together for a still greater Canada.

"And while we are building up our country, it becomes more necessary to build up our defences, because of the increasing value of what we have to defend. I wish to express the hope that this ordnance depot will help to serve the needs of the Canadian Army, and also that good relations between Cobourg and the Army will continue so that you will form one community for the greater good of all."

Col. Denney, Commandant of the Depot, said it was the most modern ordnance installation in Canada, "wisely designed and developed under your guidance." He expressed his assurance of co-operation with the town and citizens of Cobourg, and said the depot would be a strong link in the chain of defence establishments.

Mrs. Claxton was presented with red roses by Councillor Lillian Richards.

Col. Denney had arranged for transport of guests around the premises in "dollies," small platforms with seats, and drawn by gasoline trucks of the same size. It was a convenience which most of the men and women accepted.
